A paper on the life and work of T. V. Munson, the nurseryman and grape-hybridist of Denison, who died last January, will be presented by J. S. Kerr, of the Texas Nursery Co., at Sherman. Other papers will be given by Sam H. Dixon, Houston; H. R. Wallace, Sherman; J. H. Arbenz, Sarita; Fritz Engelhardt, Eagle Lake; Chas. L. Edwards, Dallas, and W. A. Nabors. The meeting will be of especial interest to nurserymen and fruit growers.

STORAGE OF NURSERY STOCK.

I wish to build a cold storage shed in which to place shrubs, trees, etc., shipped to me late in the fall or early in the spring. Will you kindly inform me how such a shed should be constructed in this Ohio climate? The nursery stock received in the fall would have to be stored in the same way as at the nurseries where stock is handled in such a manner. Should the building be frost-proof, and would the stock keep better if heeled in rather than stacked up in such a building, in the way the large nurseries pack it? When the stock is piled up with roots exposed, are the latter filled in with sphagnum, damp straw or similar material? Kindly describe the whole process of handling the stock so as to insure its being in good condition till late in the spring. H. H. G.

The letter does not state what kind of trees and shrubs are to be stored or the uses to which they are to be put. If they are hardy trees which are to be stored during the winter and which will not be needed until spring, the best way will be to construct a single-wall house in which to trench the trees. In such a house they will freeze up when severe weather comes and will remain frozen until the arrival of warm weather in the spring. The principal objection to trenching the trees is that they start growth quite early in the spring. This can be delayed to some extent if the house is opened at night, so that it will cool down, and is kept closed during the day.

On the other hand, if the trees are to be used during the winter, a frost-proof house is desirable. Nurserymen find such a house quite helpful, as it enables them to put up their orders during the winter. In these houses it is possible to rick up the trees, with the roots outward, covered with sphagnum, excelsior packing, etc. If the air becomes too dry, care must be taken to wet down the roots. Aside from the drying out of the roots, the great trouble with such a house is the development of mold on the trees. This can be lessened by burning sulphur, and spraying with formalin, potassium sulphide, lime sulphur solution, etc., but the point that should have special attention is to cool the house down as near as possible to the freezing point, and keep it closed. T.

WOOLLY APHIS ON TREES.

Enclosed you will find a specimen of an infection that is covering maple trees and vines, such as ivy and grape vines, about town. If you will tell me exactly what this is and what will rid the trees of it, I shall greatly appreciate the information. A. G. B.

The shoot forwarded was covered with woolly aphis. To destroy this, you must spray with kerosene emulsion, whale oil soap, Aphine, fir tree oil or some similar remedy. It will be necessary to use a spraying outfit sufficiently powerful to cover every part of the tree. These pests cannot be poisoned; a contact spray alone will destroy them. Use a nozzle that will throw a fine, misty spray. Select a clear, calm day for spraying, and if the work is well done, few of the aphis should survive the operation. C. W.

The Market.

There has been a slight increase in trade during the last week, but business, both wholesale and retail, could be much better for the time of year. Indoor stock is plentiful, but outdoor stock is suffering greatly for lack of rain. A few days' heavy wind just about dried up the ground and much watering has to be done. Last Sunday's wind storm did quite a bit of damage both to flowers and fruit. Most of the growers are preparing for their fall work and are emptying their greenhouses of carnations and allowing them to blossom outdoors. The young plants are almost ready for indoors and have good, strong roots.

The carnations we receive now are not at all good. Their stems are short and crooked, their blossoms are small and they have the appearance of being faded. Prices, however, are low.

Some good asters and gladioli are on the market. Sweet peas are not up to the mark; only a few arrive in first-class condition. Valley is plentiful and good. Harrisii lilies are being shipped in from out of town. Roses of nearly all kinds are good when they arrive, but as soon as they are exposed they open up so rapidly that many are quite unsalable. Greens are all plentiful. Funeral work has come more evenly lately, and the up-town florists have been busy. Most of the stores are short-handed on account of the vacation season.

Farm Bureau Association Meeting.

A great number of farmers attended the meeting of the Farm Bureau Association held at the Chamber of Commerce July 18. The chief speakers were Calvin H. Huson, commissioner of agriculture, Bert Dahl, of the Chicago Council of Grain Exchanges, and L. A. Clinton, of the North Atlantic division of the Department of Agriculture at Washington. W. D. Auchter, of South Greece, presided. Before the meeting the members were taken on automobile rides through some of the farming and fruit growing sections and later to an excellent dinner.

Various Notes.

Clarke Vick is on a fishing trip at Canandaigua lake.

E. R. Fry purchased a new two-ton Little Giant automobile truck last week. It is enameled dark blue with gold lettering and presents an attractive appearance.

Charles W. Curtis, of Irondequoit, N. Y., brought in several dozen large white asters July 18, the first of the season.

LANCASTER, PA.

The Market.

There has been little change in this market since the last report. Business is at a standstill and quotations are about the same. The supply still is greater than the demand. Last week some good roses were to be had from young plants of the varieties, My Maryland, Killarney, White Killarney and Mrs. Aaron Ward. A large quantity of good asters, all colors, sold at $1, $1.50 and $2 per hundred for the best. In this city Friday is used for the weekly half-holiday, instead of Saturday. All the business houses close at noon and by 2 p. m. business is over for the day. On this account the florists' shops are following the example and closing Friday afternoons.

Florists' Club Outing.

The Florists' Club held its outing July 15 at Hershey's park and the members were escorted over the grounds by Mr. Haverstick. The attendance was large, as the florists from all the nearby towns were present. Among the visiting florists from other cities were Samuel S. Pennock, of Philadelphia and James Brown, of Coatesville, Pa. The day was perfect and everyone had an enjoyable time. Thanks are due to our club president, A. M. Herr.

Various Notes.

Miss Edith Diffenbaugh, bookkeeper for the Keystone Nurseries, is on her vacation.

Chas. M. and Elmer J. Weaver, of Ronks, Pa., are getting in shape for the coming season. They have about 15,000 carnation plants housed already and 125,000 aster plants in the field, from which they are cutting some fine asters of various colors. The above totals are for both ranges.

H. B. Weaver, of Bird-in-Hand, has 30,000 asters planted out, from which he is cutting some excellent flowers. He has also 20,000 strong-looking carnations in the field, which he will house in a week or so.

Ross Zander, of Soudersburg, Pa., is also cutting a quantity of good asters of all colors.

Recent visitors were: H. C. Milligan, of the Roseville Pottery Co., Zanesville, O.; Walter Taney, for the S. S. Garrett Paper Co., Philadelphia, and Max Firestine, for the Moore Seed Co., Philadelphia.

Just a Word

If you are growing Snapdragon from cuttings, plant a few Silver Pink seedlings alongside. Later you will wish they were all seedlings and thank us for bringing you into the light. Two blossoms to one on the same space will open your eyes and make you a fast friend to Silver Pink FROM SEED.

For proof see letters in recent ads, and the accompanying illustration of a bed at Memorial Day. Nothing in sight but blossoms and dollars. You could grasp in one hand a dozen blossoms anywhere on the bed. Silver Pink from seed is a bread and butter variety, and more; it will shove over some extra dollars for vacation time and keep the help happy while you are away by furnishing the necessary goods for any rush orders.

We have both seeds and plants. Sow seed now for a continuous supply of blossoms from February until July, with a full round-up at Easter and Memorial. If you want blossoms this fall, use plants. The price is $4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. Price of seed, over 500 to the packet, $1.00; 3 pkts., $2.50; 7 pkts., $5.00, by mail. Cultural directions free.

Quite a few are ordering the larger amount of seed, which will give them their supply and extra plants for neighbors, which is also highly profitable. Our plants are thinning out; better let your order come.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

The Market.

Business does not show much improvement over last week. Vacations are in full force, but those on the job are well able to take care of the little business that comes along. Most of the stores are closing at 6 p. m. and Sundays at noon.

Stock is scarce. Carnations are still to be had, but are extremely poor. Asters are hardly yet making an impression, most of them being of poor quality. Easter lilies are finding a ready demand and gladioli are moving well. Some first-class Beauties are to be seen.

Various Notes.

The city of Indianapolis took out a building permit last week for the new conservatories at Garfield park, to cost $28,000. This is a much needed improvement, as the old greenhouses at that place would be a disgrace to any florist, let alone the city of Indianapolis.

E. J. Brown, of Shelbyville, visited the different florists one day last week.

A. Wiegand's Sons Co. and Bauer & Steinkamp are doing quite a business in poinsettias.

Sidney Smith has just about wound things up at his place and is playing the part of a gentleman now.

Herman Junge and Carl Sonnenschmidt are touring northern Indiana in an automobile.

George Wiegand is contemplating an automobile trip to New York soon.

Adolph Baur and Oliver Steinkamp were the only Indianapolis florists who attended the state florists' meeting at Winona Lake last week.

L. F. Benson reports business good for this time of the year. He says that he has been getting considerable funeral work of late.

Alfred Brandt has added canary birds and goldfish to his line. H. L. W.

POINSETTIAS

We have reduced the propagation of this plant to a science. We root them as sure as you do a coleus cutting, and in large quantity. That makes it easy for us to give you plants that are right. We are now shipping as fine young plants as you ever laid eyes on. Sturdy, short stuff that will start right off and finish up with the highest quality.

Plant now for large bracts for cutting. Let us also book your order now for what you will need later on to plant in pans.

From 2½-inch pots, at $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000

The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia be sure to look us up.

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your own convenience, both going and coming. When you will see our palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place) and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

JOSEPH HEACOCK CO., Wyncote, Pa., Railway Station, Jenkintown.

ZANESVILLE, O.

Outside crops in this vicinity were seriously damaged by a cloudburst or deluge of rain on Sunday night, July 13. In the greater calamity by the floods of last March, of course, it was the property in the city itself and on the bottom lands of the Licking and Muskingum rivers that bore the greater part of the loss, but in this latest disaster it was the farmers and other growers on the hillsides and along the smaller streams that suffered most seriously, for the falling and rushing water battered down or even washed out some of the crops, carried away wheat that was standing in shock and destroyed bridges and roads.

The rain was accompanied by one of the worst electrical storms of recent years. C. L. Humphrey reports that a bolt of lightning struck one of the 42-foot smokestacks at his greenhouses and tore off ten feet of it. The bricks fell on one of the houses, breaking about three boxes of glass and smashing two benches, with the stock of 3-inch and 4-inch cyclamens. Mr. Humphrey states that the force of the rain was so great that it washed out gladioli and carnations by the roots in the field. His place is on sufficiently high ground so that it was not affected by the river, which rose fourteen feet in eight hours and covered a small part of the town that was inundated in March. He states that there were no trains running all day on Monday, the day after the storm, and only a few on Tuesday.

Troy, N. Y.—L. H. Wustefeld, formerly in the trade at 10 Fales court, is said to have left the city.

CARNATIONS.
FIELD-GROWN PLANTS
READY NOW.
We do a very large business each season on carnation cuttings and field-grown plants because we never ship out stock we would not be willing to plant on our own benches. The field-grown plants are ready now. This is not surplus stock, left after selecting the stock for our own use, but is stock grown especially for sale to the trade. If we did not know it was good stock, strong, stocky, well branched, and free from disease, we should not offer it for sale. Last year's customers will be back—and this is an invitation to those who have not yet bought here to order of us this year.

PEONIES.

"PEONIES FOR PLEASURE."

This book of "Peonies for Pleasure" gives information on peony history, soil and plants to use, how and when to plant, fertilizers and how to apply, and describes the most extensive planting of really valuable peonies ever gathered together under the sun; describes old and new as well as the plebeian and aristocrat of the peony family. If you want information on the plant that stands next to the rose in beauty, that is practically known to the amateur as simply a red, white and pink peony, then send for "Peonies for Pleasure."

We also issue a special wholesale price list of peonies for fall sales, 1913. Send for both of these booklets.

Our catalogue of everything you need mailed on application. Write for it today.

Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

A MASSACHUSETTS LEAN-TO.

Will you kindly advise me as to the size and best arrangement of pipes for the heating of a small house by hot water? The house is built against the southeast side of a barn. It is 9½x25 feet and about fifteen feet high to the ridge and contains a little less than 400 square feet of glass. I want to heat it to about 70 degrees, without forcing the fire. The boiler will be placed in the barn, close to the south end of the house. The bottom of the boiler will be about fourteen inches below the floor of the greenhouse. I contemplate running the piping from the boiler directly to the purlin and then to the north end of the house, returning under the bench at the front of the house and over the rear bench on the side of the barn. As this is my first experience in this line, I shall greatly appreciate your advice. H. S. E.

To heat a lean-to house such as is described will require nearly 200 square feet of radiation. The general plan suggested will be all right. While a 2-inch flow pipe will generally answer for the amount of radiation mentioned, the number of returns will be so large, owing to the high temperature required, as well as the comparatively short length, that it will be better to use at least a 2½-inch pipe for the flow. This could be run on the side of the barn, seven or eight feet above the floor of the greenhouse, and at the end of the house it should be dropped down into a coil of seven 2-inch returns, which should be carried around the other three sides of the house. One or two of the returns could be carried on the wall of the barn, but if the wall is tight and the flow pipe is on the wall, and if the returns are carried as suggested, there will be no occasion for having any of the returns on the wall of the barn. The loss of heat will be largely through the glass and the arrangement suggested will look after this, as well as the loss through the wall of the barn.

Carry the flow pipe immediately to what will be the highest point in the system and then give a slight fall to all of the pipes back to the heater. The expansion tank should be attached to the highest part of the flow pipe. With the arrangement suggested, there will be no reason for using air valves.

USE OF A GENERATOR.

My greenhouses are piped with 1¼-inch returns for hot water and the circulation is too slow. In The Review some time ago a generator was recommended for use when the pipe was too small. As I do not know what a generator is or how it works, kindly explain. A. O.

The name "generator" is perhaps a misnomer, as it does not assist in generating heat, but merely, by subjecting the water to pressure, makes it possible to heat it to above 212 degrees, at which point steam would be formed in an open system. The old forms consisted of a safety valve attached to the expansion pipe, combined with a relief valve so arranged as to allow the water to return to the system when cooled. In the modern generators the pressure is secured by means of mercury. Among the parties handling them are several of the manufacturers of greenhouse heating apparatus, whose advertisements will be found in The Review.

As already stated, by using a generator upon a hot water heating system, it is possible to warm the water even above the boiling point. This not only makes it possible to use smaller pipe, but the number of square feet of radiation can be considerably reduced, and when a poor circulation is obtained, either from using small pipe or other causes, the attachment of a generator will improve the circulation. On the other hand, it should be stated that when the water is heated to 200 degrees and more through the use of a generator, it will be at the expense of greater fuel consumption.

THE FUEL SITUATION EAST.

"Prices on practically every grade of soft coal entering the New York market have taken on additional strength during the last week or ten days," says an authority on the situation there. "In a measure this is accounted for by light receipts at tide-water following the holiday shutdown, but quotations for mine shipment have also advanced, indicating that the influences making for a firmer market are more permanent in their nature. As a matter of fact, demand seems to be steadily outstripping supply, thus reversing the usual midsummer condition and bringing about buoyancy in the price list at a time when depression usually prevails.

"New England is still buying Pennsylvania coals in larger volume than in previous years, for while a general strike in the New River field was averted, there is no question that there is a lot of unrest among the mine workers of southern West Virginia, which is limiting output to some extent. At any rate coal is scarce and high priced at Hampton Roads, the effect being a growing inquiry from New England.

Another feature of the present situation is an unusual demand from some parts of the middle west for low volatile Somerset county coals, as a substitute for West Virginia smokeless. In most cases this is entirely new business for Somerset county producers and is taking coal that would otherwise be available for the tide-water markets.

"There is little prospect of supply overtaking demand in the near future, since labor is no more plentiful than it has been and car shortage is sure to become more of a factor in the course of a few weeks."

PIPING IN WASHINGTON STATE.

Soft coal will be used. How should the piping be arranged to get the best results? W. E. C.

degrees, three 2½-inch flow pipes should be used. Run one of them on each wall plate and the other under the ridge in each house. For returns use two 2-inch pipes for each flow. This would make three 2½-inch flow pipes and six 2-inch return pipes in each house, which will answer if there is no glass in the side walls. that be practical? I should also like to know about how many square feet of radiation this boiler will supply, in this Ohio climate. H. B.

The boiler described will heat about 600 square feet of hot water radiation. The description given is rather indefinite, but it would not appear a difficult matter to enclose it in brickwork if necessary. There should be about three inches between the boiler and the bricks and arrangements should be made for cleaning the boiler tubes.

COAL AT CHICAGO.

"Almost every kind of soft coal is going up in price," says the Black Diamond. "On the first of August southern Illinois prices will advance all the way from 10 to 25 cents a ton. At the same time Hocking coal will advance about 15 cents a ton. Smokeless coal is already selling at a premium of 15 cents a ton over circular, and is going higher. Eastern Kentucky coal has gone up from 10 to 15 cents, with the market stiffening all along the line. The retail dealers are caught between a rising market and a labor shortage, and their situation certainly is uncomfortable."

TO THE MAN WHO NEEDS A BOILER

The customers' interest first—is the basis of the Kroeschell standard, and this principle makes the Kroeschell policy the most liberal of all in the greenhouse boiler business.

The great variety of boilers that we make places us in a commanding position. We make every type of boiler that is used, from the smallest house heater to the largest water tube steam boiler (600 horse power). For the above reason we can furnish the most efficient boiler unit in every case.

It is the Kroeschell principle to supply only that type of boiler which is best suited to the conditions, and under no circumstances do we take any other stand.

The Kroeschell

is making the most wonderful greenhouse heating record in the world. Florists who have used other makes are constantly giving the Kroeschell the highest praise.

10,788,000 sq. ft. of glass was equipped with the Kroeschell Boiler during the past five years.

The Kroeschell

has replaced hundreds of cast iron boilers. In every case higher temperatures are secured with the Kroeschell with the same piping and with less fuel.

The Kroeschell is sold direct from factory to users. This eliminates the unnecessary middleman's profit.

Every boiler made at our works is of the highest standard. Material—governed by Kroeschell specifications—the best that money and brains can produce. Workmanship—the kind that is an inspiration to all other boiler makers. Boiler efficiency—determined by actual tests under working conditions. Boiler ratings—honest and true blue—guaranteed actual working capacities.

Probably you have wondered why the Kroeschell Greenhouse Boiler is not sold by any of the greenhouse construction companies. In justice to all concerned we feel it is our duty to state that the Kroeschell Boiler is never sold by any one but—The KROESCHELL BROS. CO.—We have no agents, and as our prices are based on sales direct from factory to user, we do not quote anyone dealing in boilers special resale prices. Our stand in this matter has brought out a lot of competition; nevertheless, the great efficiency of the Kroeschell Greenhouse Boiler cannot be disputed, and in spite of the keen competition the Kroeschell Greenhouse Boiler is heating more glass than any other make—"DO NOT GET CHEATED OUT OF THE KROESCHELL BUT PLACE YOUR ORDER DIRECT AT ONCE."

Kroeschell Boiler—Half the Coal and Half the Work

Your No. 13 Boiler is carrying 25,000 sq. ft. of glass, and I can keep it at 60 degrees in the coldest weather without any trouble. I have three cast iron boilers also, heating a range of 25,000 sq. ft. of glass, but the No. 13 Kroeschell Boiler only takes half the coal and half the work to get the same results.

The Kroeschell is doing the same work as good, and as saving as ever. Me for Kroeschell Boilers.

Kroeschell Best of All

Our No. 6 Kroeschell Boiler is heating 15,000 sq. ft. of glass, and it would take care of more. We carry a temperature from 70 to 85 degrees, and have had no trouble in regard to this. The Kroeschell has given entire satisfaction.

Have had to contend with nearly every other make of boiler on the market, and in my estimation the Kroeschell surpasses, without exception, any type or make.

(Signed) OTTO PETERSON.

July 16, 1913, Pt. Blakely, Wash.

Get the Kroeschell First

Several years ago Mr. Ponting corresponded with us in regard to the Kroeschell Hot Water Boiler, but was persuaded to install two sectional cast iron boilers which were claimed to be superior to the Kroeschell.

In the meantime we placed a number of Kroeschell Boilers in the immediate vicinity of Mr. Ponting, and he could not help but notice their great efficiency, and last year, while at the convention, he placed his order for his first Kroeschell. The following letter speaks for itself:

"We like the Kroeschell Boiler very much. It gives entire satisfaction, and it is so easy to fire. I will trade you the two cast iron sectional boilers for another like the Kroeschell I have."

July 16, 1913, Cleveland, Ohio. (Signed) FRED PONTING.

Kroeschell Replaces Cast Iron

In 1912 our cast iron sectional boiler cracked in one section and we ordered a No. 3½ Kroeschell Boiler by telegraph. This boiler is heating 10,200 sq. ft. of glass, besides the office and potting shed, and you will note this is 1200 ft. more than its rating. We have no trouble to maintain proper temperatures at any time and the boiler has given perfect satisfaction.

With the Kroeschell we have added one more house, but have not used any more coal than with the cast iron boiler and 3000 ft. less to heat. One cast iron break-down was enough for us, for we have found it pays to get the best—the Kroeschell.

(Signed) MICHLER BROS. CO.

July 17, 1913, Lexington, Ky.

Kroeschell Replaces 3 Cast Iron Boilers

The No. 6 Kroeschell which we purchased some years ago is heating 18,000 sq. ft. of glass, and we should judge that it would take care of 5000 or 6000 ft. more easily.

Our houses require a temperature of 50 to 52 degrees at night, and we certainly do not have the least trouble to keep temperatures in the coldest weather. We do not have to fire our boiler as often as our brother florists who are using different makes. The Kroeschell has replaced three cast iron sectional boilers, and it certainly has given entire satisfaction.

It only takes a few words to express the good quality of your boilers and they are as follows: "Of all firms handling boilers and advertising them truthfully, the party buying a boiler would have to get the Kroeschell, as you are certainly advertising nothing but facts."

How Much of Your Good Money is Your Chimney Going to Grab This Winter?

TO put it another way—how much heat will be going up your chimney that ought to be going into your coils?

How many dollars' worth of coal will your chimney grab?

Of course a certain amount of heated gases going up the chimney is necessary to produce a good draft—but any heat that goes up, beyond that point, is a dead loss to you.

Burnham Boilers make cool chimneys and hot coils—you heat indoors, not out.

The Handy Hand Book explains just why Burnham boiler chimneys are cool chimneys. We'll tell you the main reason right here: The long fire travel. The longest in any cast iron boiler.

A long fire travel makes a short coal bill.

This time buy a Burnham.

The Market.

Market conditions, since the extremely hot weather of a few weeks ago, have improved. Roses are better and there are more of them. Cuts are now coming in from newly planted stock. Carnations are nearly through. Asters are getting better daily and Japanese lilies, giganteums and valley are as nice stock as one would want.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club's picnic at Punter Springs park, July 23, was the best one held as yet.

The various railroad passenger agents are working overtime here trying to get the Cleveland crowd lined up for their particular road to the Minneapolis convention. We wish we could go by all of them. Geo. W. Smith, H. P. Knoble and Frank A. Friedley constitute the transportation committee. They are to select the road to be used, announcing their decision within the next week.

J. E. Rowlands, greenhouse manager for Bell Miller, Springfield, Ill., visited friends here last week.

The J. M. Gasser Co. is cutting extra fine gladioli from the field, which is early for this section.

The Ohio Gladiolus Society announces an exhibition to be held in early August. F. A. F.

Phillipsburg, N. J.—Henry H. Schultz, recently at the Belvidere Farms, Belvidere, N. Y., and previously in business at Easton, Pa., has now started business on his own account at 195 Hudson street, in this city, as a florist and decorator.

The Market.

Business has been exceptionally quiet. This has helped the florists, as there is a great scarcity of flowers. Gladioli are coming in, though in no striking varieties, but they have been welcome and have sold well. There are some good Shasta daisies on the market, but no asters have come yet.

Various Notes.

The Cushman Gladiolus Co., Sylvania, O., is sending in some fine sweet peas and finds a ready market for all that can be cut.

Congratulations are being showered on our youngest and most enterprising florist, Frank Schramm. A nine-pound baby girl was welcomed to his home last week. Much of the success of the florists' picnic was due to the untiring zeal of Mr. Schramm.

Miss Swartz, of the Patten Flower Store, has returned from a freighter trip to Duluth and other northern points. Jacob Helmer, of the same firm, is on a fishing trip, and there will be big fish stories to tell, even though there be no fish.

John Barrow's charming daughter, Maybelle, has returned from her wedding trip. H. F. P.

BATAVIA, N. Y.

There is some activity in building among the local florists this summer. Walter W. Stroh, of L. C. Stroh & Sons, has purchased a lot on River street, of Everett Tomlinson, on which he contemplates building a home. Gustav Noack finds that he is compelled to remodel and enlarge his range of glass. He has had an excellent trade this summer, especially on porch boxes and vases. His geraniums were fine plants this year.

In the line of weather, we must say that we are having a really dry time. We had some light showers July 20, but the sun absorbed the rain about as fast as it descended. This dry weather makes much extra work for persons having much outdoor stock, if they wish to keep it well watered. A. A. K.

The Market.

Flowers of all kinds are plentiful. Business is a little brisker now, but funeral work forms the bulk of the trade. There are still a few weddings, but they are all small ones. Roses are small and when they are out of the refrigerator they flop wide open. Carnations and garden flowers are selling the best just now. Harrisii lilies are becoming more abundant. Centaureas are used for funeral work with good effect in clusters. Asters and gladioli are seen here and there. There are a few good sweet peas to be had. Outdoor stock is suffering because of the drought.

Various Notes.

M. Aitken is having a jardiniere sale. The Marsh funeral kept Aitken's force busy last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ayres, of Albany, N. Y., stopped in this city July 19, on their way home from an automobile trip.

John Morse has gone to Boston for a week at the seashore.

The employees of N. F. Higgins are having Saturday half-holidays during July and August.

Angus Croft has returned from Bridgeport, where he has been spending a few days.

John Donaldson has returned from Bay Shore, L. I.

Mrs. Emerson is on her vacation.

Miss Barker has just returned from Manchester, N. H., and New York beach, in Maine, where she had been rusticating.

Wm. Schlatter & Son had a great deal of work for the Marsh funeral last week.

W. L. Lynch has returned from Revere beach. He also visited Providence and New Haven, Conn.

The Flower Shop, on Worthington street, is being remodeled and about forty feet is added to the floor space. A large skylight makes the workroom light and sunny.

Carl Meacham is away on his vacation.

The seed season is over and Mandeville & King have collected their seed boxes throughout the city.

Len Morgan is sending in some good snapdragon from Agawam.

Meacham & Hassell will put in a new front, which will give them a fine large display window. They have been kept quite busy with funeral work.

Osterman & Steele are showing some good America gladioli and white asters, the first of the season. They are receiving good sweet peas from East Long Meadow.

W. W. Thompson, of West Hartford, is shipping some excellent sweet peas to this market.

T. F. Sheehan sent a 6-foot horseshoe of roses and carnations to Boston July 19, to be used as a gift for Maranville on Maranville day. Mr. Maranville is a former Springfield man.

FARMERS & FLORISTS TANKAGE FERTILIZER

¶ Is acknowledged by the majority of florists and farmers of the United States to be the best balanced commercial fertilizer manufactured. It carries in its composition a percentage of the ten Basic Salts constituting soil, and it would be an impossibility to use it on any farm, field, lawn or bench without enhancing fertility and productiveness. It carries a very high percentage of the principal plant foods, as certified in its guaranteed analysis of:—Nitrogen 2.90%, Ammonia 3½ to 4%, Phosphoric Acid 8 to 10% and Potash 3%.

¶ Our AETNA BRAND OF TANKAGE FERTILIZER is giving universal satisfaction wherever used, and as we believe in the law of live and let live, and that honesty is the best policy, we have placed this fertilizer within the reach of all growers at the low figure of $22 00 a ton, f. o. b. Legs and angle crosspieces are galvanized iron. Special combination fitting is cast iron. Sides and bottom are cypress.

BENCHES

There Are Four Kinds of Bench Men

No. 1 kind finds it a matter of economy to buy his lumber and make his own benches.

No. 2 kind figures that if No. 1 can do it, so can he. But he loses sight of the fact that he is already behind on the regular work and to attempt anything more will mean an actual neglect of his real business—that of grower. He may save a few dollars on actual cost of benches, but it comes out of his profits, so nothing is gained and things are upset generally.

No. 3 kind dopes it out that as a grower he has his hands full looking after the growing, and if his men do have any spare time that they can give to bench-building he makes sure that the material he buys is cut and fitted, all ready to put right together in the simplest, quickest way possible. He can't afford to have his men do by hand what our machines can do.

No. 4 kind. This kind won't have a thing to do with building. He leaves the entire thing to those who make it their business. It seemingly costs more at the start, but it's noticeable that such men are among the leading growers and from all indications have "bank rolls."

The point we want to emphasize is, that we can be of service to all four kinds. We are making a little drive on this bench business that will interest every one of you. We have four kinds of benches for the four kinds of Bench Men They are fully described in our Supply Book. The prices we are going to ask you to write for.

IT IS HARD TO "KICK AGAINST THE PRICKS"

Seems as if contractors in Greenhouse construction would learn better than to try to "stem the flood." Several have tried in late years to use a cheaper wood than Cypress—and some of them have come to grief. Others have not attained to the prosperity their energy and vigilance would seem to deserve. If they would but use the one specially created and certified long-life wood, Cypress, their experience might be different; but to "buck" Cypress in Greenhouse construction spells disaster to the contractor and ruin to the man who pays for the job.

To correct a common error it must be said, and now's a good time to say it, that these substitute woods are all cheaper to buy than is "Tank Grade" Cypress. Reliable greenhouse contractors and supply men use the very best product of the Cypress industry. They are not hunting for something "cheap." They buy the best grade of the best lumber for their business. And for such racking employment as "staying put" in a greenhouse, the best is none too good—and is the real cheapest in the long run.

And Cypress is IT.

Of course you want PECKY CYPRESS, however, for your benches. And that is cheap enough to suit anybody—and for such homely uses lasts longer than grades costing more.

ASK US TO "PASS THE GRAVY"

Those Cypress booklets are like gravy at a dinner—one can't do without them. Vol. 3 is the greenhouse book; Vol. 4 is the Barn Book, and Vol. 28 is the Trellis and Arbor Book—all free. Ask us to pass you one, or a dozen—there are 37 free books in the library.

CINERARIA SEED
S. & W. Co.'s Giant Prize Strain

This strain of Prize Cineraria is grown for us by a famous English seed specialist. The flowers seldom measure less than 3 inches in diameter, comprising the following colors: White, rose, flesh, crimson, blue, violet, etc. The plants are of a very robust dwarf habit, which, combined with the mass of giant blooms, makes this strain exceedingly valuable.

THE RETAIL FLORIST.....

DESIGNS OF IMMORTELLES.

A florist is occasionally called upon to execute work to be used under conditions which no ordinary materials will stand. It is then that he must exercise that ingenuity which shows him to be above the ordinary. H. R. Fisher, of Marysville, Kan., received an order for floral pieces for the reunion of Kansas and Nebraska soldiers, which lasted for four days of hot July weather in torrid Kansas. The two illustrations on this page show the pieces he furnished. They are both made of immortelles, with magnolia and cycas leaves for the background.

To the people at the reunion the designs were quite novel. The question on their lips was, "Why don't they wilt?" They had not seen immortelles used in this manner before. As Mr. Fisher has no shop uptown, he got permission to place the pieces in the show window of one of the large uptown stores. The designs proved to be an attractive display for the store and a splendid advertisement for Mr. Fisher.

THE LAW IN CHICAGO.

Prohibits Second Use of Wire Work.

There are constant complaints that funeral work is taken from the cemeteries and the wire work and perhaps the moss used again and again. In some cases the cemeteries are accused of selling the designs after the flowers have perished, and in others it is alleged the cemetery employees give the material to some favored florist. Of course no first-class florist would knowingly use a piece of wire that had already made a trip to the cemetery, but there are, unfortunately, those whose perceptions are not so keen and whose thought dwells more on the pennies thus picked up than on the greater loss which would ensue should the practice become known to their customers.

An Indestructible Design.

In Chicago the matter is covered by law. The ordinance was adopted by unanimous vote of the city council and no doubt a similar ordinance can be put through in any city where there is need for it. The ordinance is as follows:

An Ordinance

Relating to the disposition of floral designs in cemeteries.

Be it ordained by the city council of the city of Chicago:

Section 1. That it shall hereafter be unlawful for a superintendent, manager or person in charge of any cemetery located within the city of Chicago, to permit any wire floral design, moss or other substance used in the making and filling of the same, when such floral design has been once placed upon or adjacent to the grave of any person buried in such cemetery or in any vault in such cemetery in which any dead body has been placed, to be removed from such cemetery, except for the purpose of destroying such floral design, moss or other substance used in making and filling the same.

It shall be the duty of the superintendent, manager or person in charge of every cemetery located in the city of Chicago to destroy or cause to be destroyed by fire, so far as possible, all floral designs, together with the moss and other substance used in making and filling the same, within ten (10) days after such floral designs have been placed upon or adjacent to the grave of any person buried in said cemetery.

Sec. 2. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to sell, offer for sale or to purchase, receive or remove from any cemetery located in the city of Chicago, excepting for the purpose of destruction, any wire or floral design, moss or other substance used in filling the same, when such floral design, moss or other substance has been once placed on or adjacent to the grave of any person buried in such cemetery in which any dead body has been placed.

Sec. 3. Any person, firm or corporation who violates, neglects or refuses to comply with or who resists or opposes the enforcement of any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $200 for each offense, and every such person, firm or corporation shall be deemed guilty of a separate offense for every day such violation, neglect or refusal shall continue.

Sec. 4. All ordinances or parts of ordinances inconsistent with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Sec. 5. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and publication.

THOROUGHNESS.

Lack of thoroughness is an extremely common fault, among florists as among others.

Thoroughness practically measures the difference between the average and the highly successful man.

If you wish to pass the other workers think in this way: "The average person is not thorough, therefore even a little thoroughness will surpass him."

This thought should inspire any ambitious florist to be thorough.

Most of the people in the "average" class are content to let well enough alone and say, "That's good enough"; instead of saying, "I can do that better and I will do it better."

There comes a time when every florist's work is put to the test and it is then that the thorough man gets the credit.

Flag Made of Immortelles.

Whether it be an individual or a business, some day the credit will come for doing everything a little bit better than the other fellow and the reward will be immediate.

FATHERS' DAY AGAIN.

The following letter has been received from a widely known retail florist:

We are enclosing a leaf of Leslie's Weekly which gives an illustration of the originator of Fathers' day. If it can be worked up the same as Mothers' day, that would mean another big day for the florists. I am sure The Review deserves a great deal of credit for pushing Mothers' day the way it did, and I think Fathers' day could be made just as big a day with the proper advertising, for there are a good many customers who have asked, "When is Fathers' day?" and thought there should be one.

Leslie's Weekly for July 24 contained a page of pictures of "People Talked About." Under one of them it said:

THE ORIGINATOR OF FATHERS' DAY.

The following letter has been re ceived from a widely known retail florist:

We are enclosing a leaf of Leslie's Weekly which gives an illustration of the originator of Fathers' day. The "originator" of Fathers' day, and its promoters, although they will have nothing coming to them on the scope of originality, will be entitled to our thanks if they can put it over. Mothers' day was a bright idea; Fathers' day is nothing but a plagiarism. The sweet sentiment that made Mothers' day an instantaneous success is wholly lacking in Fathers' day; it is nearly, if not quite, a joke.

The Review, which has been given more or less credit for building up the business the trade does for Mothers' day, has many times been asked to get back of Fathers' day and push it. But The Review believes that the less said about Fathers' day, the better it will be for the trade. Fathers' day makes no broad appeal; the chances are that an attempt to boost Fathers' day to a place on the same plane as Mothers' day will only result in pulling Mothers' day down. Be content. Forget Fathers' day.

SYSTEM IN ADVERTISING.

To keep up with the game the retailer today must follow a systematic plan in his advertising and work with definite ends in view. Haphazard signs and semi-occasional announcements do not bring sufficient return and are far from economical. The advertiser must bear in mind the people whom he wishes to reach and the various kinds of stock he desires to bring especially to their attention. With these in view he can then find out what are the best means of doing that kind of advertising and clearly map out a campaign that will bring in the profits. A great many firms set aside a certain percentage of the annual sales to be applied to advertising. When a definite course is so planned and good copy is supplied results are sure to follow.

A concern that has given much study and care to its advertising is that of Jacob Schulz, Louisville, Ky. This concern allows about five per cent of its gross sales for advertising. After experimenting with the various sorts of advertising, including electric signs and billboards, it was decided that the best way to reach the general public is through the newspapers, with a private mailing list to follow up by means of post cards noting some special feature. For week-end sales, too, the newspapers have been found to be the best means of reaching the people.

The usual campaign method has been to insert several advertisements in the local papers for some special occasion, such as Mothers' day, Memorial day, or graduation time, and then to mail post cards, 5x7 inches, to the names which the store has gradually gathered on its mailing list. The cards are printed in colors and usually bear the prices of the flowers of the season. Those items which are particularly appropriate to the occasion always are given emphasis. By means of the mailing list, the suggestion is directly put to the store's patrons, and to others as well, and put the more strongly because this mode of advertising is one little used by florists.

The illustration shows the style of advertisement that is run ordinarily. It is not large, three and one-half inches, single column, but attracts attention by its neat appearance, if by nothing else. In it notice is called to those things which are likely to attract new customers; the features for special occasions are the ones particularly important to old patrons.

Advertising with a system is advertising with a punch—it gets home. G. E. Schulz, manager of the concern, has a profound belief in its results. For example, this is what he says of the Memorial day trade: "The business in our section for Memorial day has not amounted to a red penny, but I believe by getting after the business we will in time be able to make it pay."

A CHARLESTON RETAILER.

South Carolina is not often heard from in the florists' business, but the illustrations on page 9, of the Arcade Floral Shop, the store of F. W. Kummer, at Charleston, S. C., shows that trade is flourishing there. Mr. Kummer has been in that city for fifteen years and has built up a business that he thinks is second to none in the vicinity. He has a good-sized window, in which he is able to arrange fine displays, which bring in the business. Inside there are all the up-to-date features that enable the retailer of this size to keep abreast of the times.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

The lady of the house was dead.
The casket lay in the drawing room.
It was the morning of the funeral.
The flowers began to arrive.
But where was the pall?

It had been ordered from a retailer who makes much of the high-toned character of his store, his stock and his service.

Presently the florist arrived—with the cover.

It was made on one of those wire frames, in sections. And the sections were not joined together.

The florist and his men brought in their numerous boxes, carried them to a corner of the room in which the corpse lay, unpacked, and the three of them spent two whole hours there, finishing their job.

In the meantime nearly 200 designs were delivered, unpacked in a rear room and carried into the parlor.

And didn't those florists marvel to see the other fellow fashioning his blanket there!

But the question is, what did the family think? What did the friends think?

It wasn't in a country town; it was in a big city, where the people know flowers, and where florists usually can be counted on to know what they are doing.

Was it good business, bringing the florist and his work so into the foreground? Or was it just a case where things didn't "break" right and the work consumed much more time than was planned?

BAKER AT GETTYSBURG.

A number of florists were among those who attended the reunion of the Civil war veterans at Gettysburg during the first week of July. They are all veteran florists as well as veteran soldiers and their names are well known to those in the trade. One of these old-timers, William J. Baker, of Philadelphia, is shown in the accompanying illustration; he is on his way from the mess tent, where he has been getting his meal in the same way, though perhaps not of the same kinds of food, that he got it fifty years ago. Mr. Baker served during the war in the Twenty-third Pennsylvania Volunteers.

MR. EISELE TALKS.

J. D. Eisele, vice-president of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., one of the ablest and best informed plantsmen in this country, was in cheerful mood after the close of the planting season. Mr. Eisele was in his office at Riverton, N. J., with a clean lot of greenhouses around him and the orders all in good shape. He drew two chairs, lighted a meerschaum and talked about matters of interest late one afternoon this week.

W. J. Baker at Gettysburg.

"The season has been a hard one," he said; "it seems to me we feel them more than formerly, but it is quite a serious matter to keep the office up to time, with all the other things besides. The young man who had charge of the orders had 5,000 of them in the safe and 2,000 more floating around here at one time. He was obliged to work every night and Sundays through the spring. I tried to cheer him every now and then by saying that we were one day closer to the Fourth of July, and when, on the last Sunday in May, there was no work he assured me he felt quite lost with nothing to do. This will show you how it was this spring. All our cleaning up is nicely done and the three places, Riverton, Riverview and Locust Farm, are all in excellent condition.

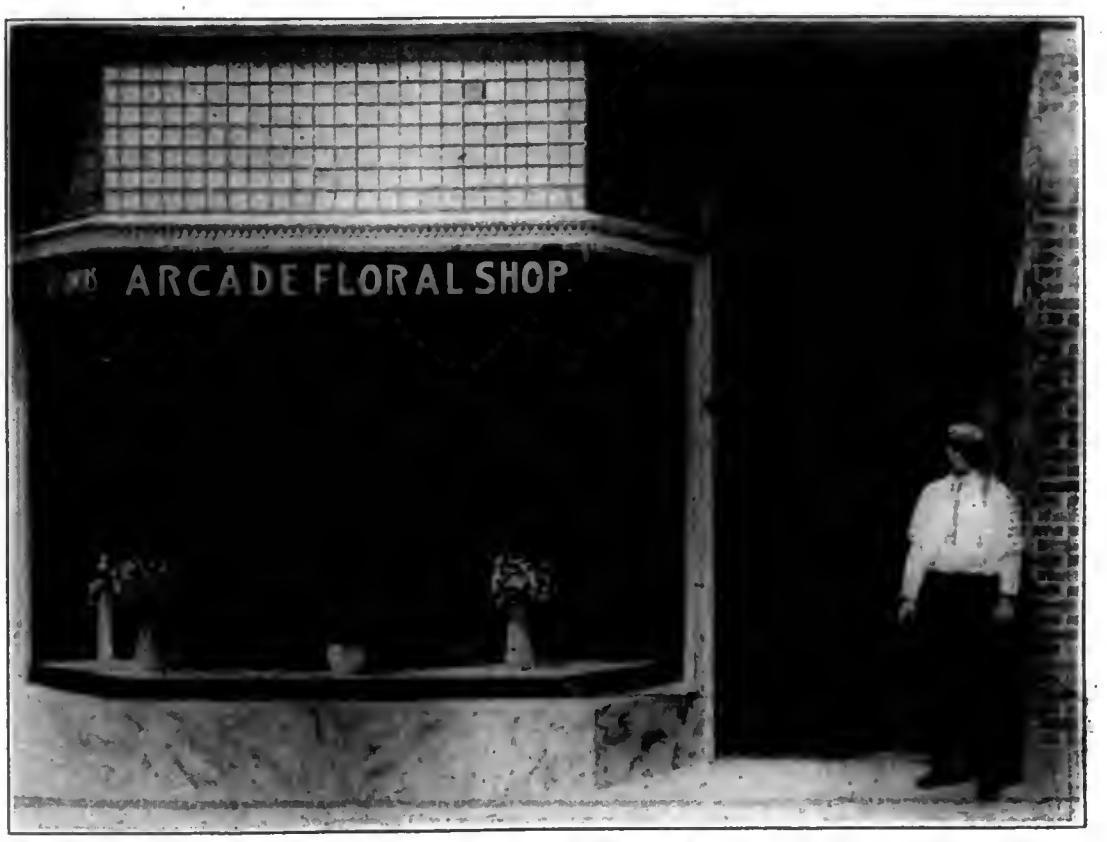
"Palm sales have been larger this month than in July of last year, while the stock of ferns has never been in livelier demand. I am pleased with Adiantum Glory of Mordrecht. We grew 5,000 plants in 2½-inch pots for Christmas baskets and our customers were so pleased with them that they ordered more like them for Easter. You see, it is a durable Farleyense.

"The demand for hybrid tea roses is still increasing, not so much for the standard varieties as for the novelties. I often found it difficult to remember the less marked varieties of hybrid perpetuals without consulting the labels, but with hybrid teas there is such wide range of color and form that every amateur distinguishes them at a glance. The yellows and orange-shaded varieties have had a wonderful run of popularity. Harry Kirk and several others are included in most of the collections. Then there are the high-priced novelties; it is a good sign that we actually ran short of these. We had 300 at $2.50 each, a pretty good price for a rose in a pot. Our range of Cocos Weddelliana has given me some anxiety, because it was necessary to make a change in that department. I went through the houses this morning with pleasure, for the cocos are, if anything, even better than usual. You know, summer is the critical time with cocos.



"Do I want to see the National Flower Show come to Philadelphia? Yes, in October, but, considering it in the interest of Henry A. Dreer, not in March or April. You see, for nine months of the year we prepare for the spring rush. It is impossible for us to undertake extra work at that time. To give an instance of what I mean, people have criticised us for not taking space in the National Flower Show in New York last April, saying that it was because of the high rates charged. They overlooked the fact that we had contributed $200 to the prize fund and $200 more to the guarantee fund. The Minneapolis show next month, which I believe will be smaller than the New York show in April, has our support to the extent of $180 for floor space and $447 for outdoor space, or $627 in all. The smaller show receives support because we are able to give it without neglecting our work.

"Speaking of the National Flower Show reminds me that this is a National Flower Show pipe I am smoking. James J. Karins telephoned me from the show last April that he was bringing over about twenty western men to Riverton. After they had been over the place Herbert G. Tull arranged a little dinner for them at Green's hotel in Philadelphia. They sent a district messenger boy down here just before they returned to New York with a letter to me that they had all signed. Next day came the pipe." Phil.

SMALL-LEAVED CYCLAMEN.

Will you kindly give me some information about cyclamen? I obtained what was supposed to be the best giganteum seed, but though the plants, which are now in 3-inch pots, look healthy and show good root action, their leaves are only about one-third the size of those on plants belonging to a friend of mine, that are also in 3-inch pots. Do the smaller leaves necessarily mean an inferior strain? I used for compost one part rotten manure, one part leaf-mold and one part ordinary loam. Was that about right? C. G. J.

The giganteum strains of cyclamen usually produce leaves fully as large as those of the ordinary C. Persicum, in some cases larger. I have, however, seen strains which carried small foliage and large flowers. Your soil mixture is good, and with the addition of some sharp sand and a little powdered charcoal should be ideal. If your plants have active roots and are healthy, and the seeds have been procured from a thoroughly reliable source, it seems needless to worry about the strain. After the next shift, when the plants are established in their flowering pots, try feeding them with light top-dressings of Clay's fertilizer once in ten to fourteen days. A teaspoonful suffices for a 6-inch pot. Probably, being a large cyclamen grower, you do not need this advice, but if you have not yet tried it, do so. If you know of any superior "tonic" for these useful winter-flowering plants, I should be glad to know what it is. C. W.

WHAT IS AT MINNEAPOLIS.

The Greatness of the Convention City.

The city of Minneapolis, where the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists holds its convention August 19 to 23, forms with St. Paul the Twin Cities. These two cities occupy both banks of the Mississippi river and practically form one large community of 600,000 inhabitants, as the line of demarcation is indistinguishable. In all things save government the two are as one.

Situated in the heart of the greatest wheat country of the world, which covers an area equal to that of Great Britain, France and Germany, the two cities handle a tremendous trade. Minneapolis, having the advantage of its location on the Falls of St. Anthony, has outstripped its neighbor, although founded twenty years later. Its name of the "Flour City" indicates the source of its greatest wealth; grain elevators and flour mills towering against the skyline will be a constant reminder of the fact to convention visitors. Among these structures are both the largest elevator and the largest mill in the world. The combined capacity of the mills reaches 84,000 barrels of flour per day.

Ranks Fourteenth in Manufactures.

Not far from the milling district are the Chamber of Commerce and the Flour and Corn Exchange buildings. In the former are bought and sold the enormous quantities of grain which the mills convert into flour, and more cash wheat is sold there than in any other place in the world. The transaction of this gigantic business has made the city the financial as well as trading capital of the northwest. The clearings of the twenty-four banks reach $1,250,000,000 annually.

Attracted by the tremendous power of the falls, other industries have added to the wealth of Minneapolis, making it fourteenth in rank in the industrial centers of the country. The lumber mills are not so large as they once were, but the manufacturing of machinery, textiles, linseed products and other wares is growing at a rapid rate. The agricultural and mineral wealth of its territory tend to add to the wealth and greatness of the city as they are developed.

The Park System.

As famous as the flour mills of the city is the park system of Minneapolis, of which Theodore Wirth is superintendent. The total acreage is 3,710, of which one-third is made up of the canals, lagoons and twenty distinct lakes within the city limits. About one acre in every ten in the city is given over to recreation purposes. The whole system represents an investment of about $6,000,000 for the land and improvements, and the donations are estimated at approximately $800,000.

The principal parks are connected by a boulevard thirty-five miles in length, which may be covered in an automobile ride of two hours. Lake Calhoun has one of the finest inland bathing beaches in the country and the bath house there is famous. Minnehaha parkway follows the creek of that name and leads to Minnehaha park, in which are the falls named for the bride of Longfellow's Indian hero. Joining the park are the grounds of Fort Snelling, which has played such a great part in the history of the city, state and nation. It is not far to the grounds of the University of Minnesota. At Glenwood park are the nurseries which supply the material for the plantings in the parks and at Lyndale park is the rose garden.

Between Minneapolis and St. Paul are the grounds of the Minnesota State Fair, and in the capital city are the famous Como park and the Mounds, which takes its name from the numerous mounds in it and is supposed to have been once an Indian burial ground.

TWIN CITY FLORISTS' CLUBS.

What They Have Accomplished.

Florists' organizations in the Twin Cities began an existence twenty-five years ago in St. Paul, when the Ramsey County Florists' and Gardeners' Association held a flower show, a profitable one. For some unknown reason, however, this organization dissolved with $800 in the treasury. Several years afterward there was organized the Association of Minnesota Florists, of which E. Nagel was the president. The association had members in both cities and progressed successfully for several years, but finally dissolved for lack of interest.

The Twin City Florists' Club came into existence in 1907, when Theodore Wirth, superintendent of the parks of Minneapolis, invited the florists of the two cities to inspect the newly completed greenhouse, the first built by the park board of that city. The members of the trade thus got acquainted and in the following December the club was organized under the following officers: President, Theodore Wirth; vice-president, O. J. Olson, St. Paul; secretary, S. D. Dysinger, St. Paul, and treasurer, R. A. Latham, Minneapolis.

Work of the Association.

Mr. Wirth continued as president until he resigned in 1911 and was succeeded by Hugh Will, of Minneapolis. The other officers remain the same with the exception of treasurer; E. P. Holm, St. Paul, holds this office. There are at present fifty-three members. The meetings alternate between the two cities each month and a winter dance and a summer picnic draw large numbers and add to the close friendship of the members. In June, 1908, articles of incorporation were adopted and the organization assumed the name of Minnesota State Florists' Association.

The association was instrumental in obtaining an increase of $500 in premiums at the Minnesota State Fair, which is one of the largest in the country and last year gave $1,853 in premiums for floriculture. Under the auspices of the association Minneapolis held its first flower show in 1910, which, although not a financial success, ranked high as an exhibition, especially in landscape effects. The second flower show, held in St. Paul in November, 1912, made a better showing in a financial way.

The Florists' Club.

The other vigorous organization of the Twin Cities, the Minneapolis Florists' Club, came into being in October, 1911. W. Desmond has held the office of president from the beginning. The other officers are: Vice-president, R. A. Latham; secretary, C. F. Rice; treasurer, A. E. Rice. The present membership is fifty-two.

Some of the most effective work is done by the publicity committee of the club. Articles of information about plants and flowers have been published in the daily newspapers, written in untechnical language that any one might understand. A general advertisement for florists was prepared for Mothers' day in 1912. For St. Valentine's day the committee collected and spent about $130 for advertising and thereby greatly increased the sale of flowers for that occasion. Other active divisions of the club are its bowling and baseball teams.

Arrangements for the Convention.

The two organizations unite their efforts in behalf of those undertakings which interest the whole trade and have produced substantial benefits to the florists of the two cities. For the coming convention both bodies combined in a special convention association, which has been declared to be the most efficient body of its kind ever organized in Minneapolis. The details of the convention arrangements have been placed in the hands of fourteen committees, which have made great efforts to provide for a complete success. The chairmen of these committees form the executive committee, of which Theodore Wirth is chairman and C. F. Rice secretary. The chairmen of the other committees are as follows: Finance, J. S. Mitchell; entertainment, Hugh Will; reception, W. H. Bofferding; information, Gust Malmquist; souvenir album, J. A. Ridgway; press, J. F. Rice; sports, C. N. Ruedlinger; transportation, J. G. Taylor; hotel and depot, W. S. Desmond; badges and tickets, H. Rosacker; decoration, R. A. Latham; ladies' reception, Mrs. Theodore Wirth; St. Paul reception, O. J. Olson, and university, Prof. L. R. Cady.

IOWA TO MINNEAPOLIS.

J. S. Wilson, of Des Moines, Iowa vice-president of the S. A. F., is sending the following letter to all florists in Iowa and contiguous states in the hope of getting up a party large enough for a special train:

Of course you are going to attend the annual convention of the Society of American Florists at Minneapolis, August 19 to 22.

I feel sure you cannot afford to miss this opportunity, on account of the convention city being so near the Iowa line.

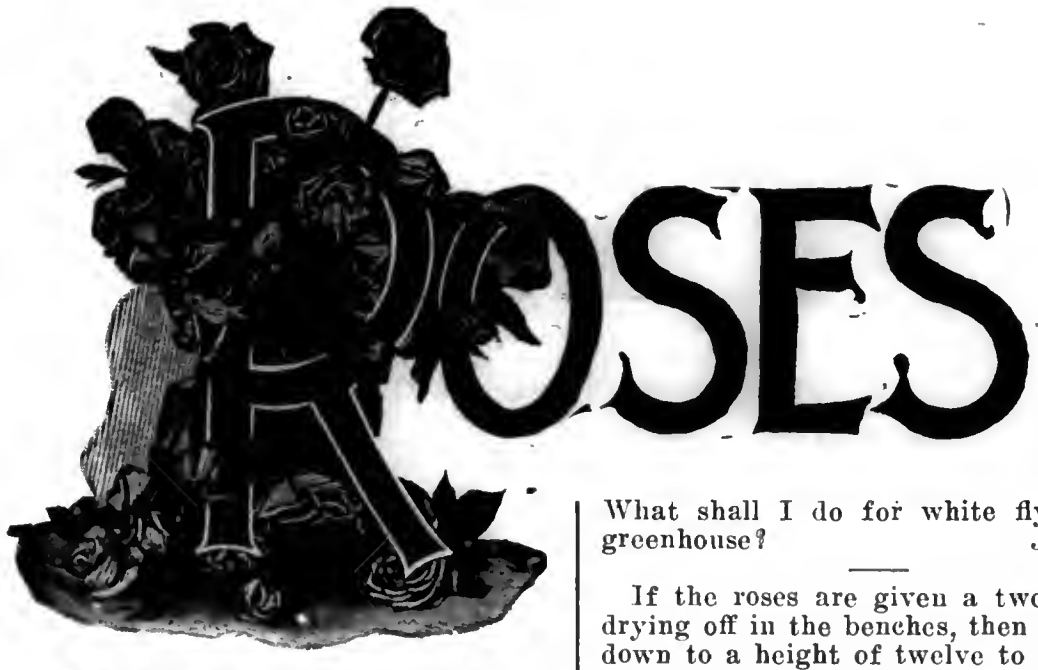
As vice-president for the state of Iowa I would like to see this great state of ours well represented, and in anticipation of this I have engaged a specisl Pullman car to be attsched to the regular Chicago Great Western train, leaving Des Moines at 9:30 p. m. Monday August 18, arriving in Minneapolis at 8 a. m. Tuesday.



I would like very much to have you go with us in our special car. The fare from Des Moines to Minneapolis is $6.35; lower berth, $2; upper berth, $1.60.

Kindly drop me a card stating you are going, and what reservation to make for you regarding berth.

If you are not already a member of the S. A. F. you will find enclosed application blank which kindly fill out and return to me with your check for $5.

THE TRAILING COLEUS.

In The Review for July 24 I saw the query of R. F. S., regarding a coleus he had which was of a trailing, or creeping, nature. I also noted the answer. I wish to say that while working in Pennsylvania I came across a coleus of this character, called Trailing Queen, also Trailing Gem, and it was a fine one. It is of a running or trailing nature, excellent for hanging baskets, vases, porch boxes or window boxes. It is also a good plant for borders, on account of its tendency to branch, especially when kept pinched back. I have seen some fine effects produced with it in borders and porch boxes. It is easy of propagation, if anything more so than other varieties of coleus, and, as I have said, a great producer on account of its branching tendency. I can not recollect the exact coloring of this coleus, but the leaves are smaller than on other varieties and when they become thick they make a splendid show. This variety is certainly worthy of cultivation for the above stated purposes, and should be better known. C. E. C.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

The American Rose Society will hold its summer meeting during the coming convention of the Society of American Florists at Minneapolis. At this gathering the new president assumes control and direction of the society's interests.

The certificates of merit awarded at the Hartford test garden examination have been sent out. This Hartford rose garden show seems to have aroused considerable quiet interest in its results. Superintendent Parker, of Hartford, ascribes high praise to Theodore Wirth, now superintendent of parks at Minneapolis, for the work in planning the garden at Hartford. At Minneapolis the American Rose Society asks for a large attendance of its members, and would be glad to receive many new members.

The new president is Wallace R. Pierson, of Cromwell, Conn.; the new vice-president is Robert Pyle, of West Grove, Pa. The new members of the executive committee are J. H. Dunlop, Toronto, Ont., and S. S. Pennock, Philadelphia. Benj. Hammond, Sec'y.

ROSE PLANTS TO BE MOVED.

Will you please tell me what is the best way to treat my roses, preparatory to moving them? They are in the benches now and I wish to move them about October 1 to a rose house. They are where the carnations are to be planted. Would it be well to dry them up next month and put them in a cold cellar till the house is ready in October? What shall I do for white fly in the greenhouse? J. E. S.

If the roses are given a two weeks' drying off in the benches, then trimmed down to a height of twelve to eighteen inches, taken up carefully and heeled in outdoors, preferably on the north side of a building, close together, and if they are then given a good, heavy watering to settle the ground thoroughly around the roots, they should keep in good condition for planting in the house by October, with a spraying occasionally to keep the wood from shriveling. Do not put them in a cellar during the summer, as they would then be liable either to rot or to make a soft growth, which would weaken the plants.

The best exterminator found so far for white fly in greenhouses is hydrocyanic acid gas, the formula for which has been given frequently in The Review. W. J. K.

LEAF-ROLLERS ON ROSES.

In reply to the inquiry from B. S., on page 12 of The Review of July 24, as to the surest and most economical way to kill the leaf-roller on roses, I want to recommend the use of Paris green and brown sugar. In fact, this mixture, according to my experience, is the only perfectly sure way of killing the rollers. During the last three years I have been troubled to a great extent by this terrible pest and have tried all the different insecticides on the market, but with little or no effect. Finally the spraying with Paris green and brown sugar was recommended to me by another florist; I tried it, and with excellent results.

In preparing the mixture use a great deal of brown sugar and only a little Paris green. I use from three to three and one-half pounds of sugar and one-half of a 2-inch pot of Paris green to five gallons of water. It is important to have the solution quite sweet, so it will stick to the foliage like syrup; otherwise the rollers do not like it so well. Five gallons of the liquid will be sufficient for from two to three 150-foot benches, according to the size of the plants. This solution will not burn the foliage and should be left on the plants for at least four days, in order to kill most of the rollers on the plants. Naturally all the worms will not be killed by the first application; therefore it should be repeated about every three or four weeks.

To kill the leaf-roller moth, which lays the eggs from which the rollers hatch, fumigating with a nicotine extract is a fairly successful way. Use it whenever you see a considerable number of moths flying around, by pouring it on the hot steam pipe.

These two methods, if used in rotation, will in time rid your place of the worst attack of leaf-rollers. This is the surest way to kill the pest and, while not exactly cheap, is the most economical in the end. Wm. O. Schnizer.

BEAUTIES LOSING FOLIAGE.

I am sending you some leaves of Beauty roses. The plants are 2 years old. They have been in soil which has had no feed for several months and the original manure is all used up. They have sun from 7 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., with good ventilation and plenty of water. The leaves turn brown; then some of them turn black and pink. A few of the plants are now dying. I keep sulphur dusted on the roses, but it does not seem to help any. What is the trouble and how can I cure it?

A. F.

As you say your plants have had no feeding for several months, it is probably starvation at the roots which is causing the loss of foliage. If you are planning to carry the plants over, the summer rest will account for some leaves dropping. Give the plants a mulch of cow manure and keep them well syringed. Perhaps an attack of red spider is accountable for the brown leaves. The best way to fight this is with a strong, well directed pressure of water. Black leaves are usually caused by black spot. This is common in winter, being generally caused by too late syringing and allowing the plants to remain wet over night. In summer, however, this should not trouble them. For mildew dust them with sulphur or syringe with Fungine or Sulphocide. When steam is on, a little sulphur painted or dropped on the pipes is the best cure. C. W.

HARDY ROSES.

During the warmest months of the year greenhouse roses are at their poorest, as the foliage of a large proportion of them is badly mildewed. It is just at this time that a good planting of outdoor roses becomes useful. The tendency is more and more toward planting less of the hybrid perpetuals and more of the hybrid teas. These latter are persistent bloomers, which few of the hybrid perpetuals are. A few varieties, such as Frau Karl Druschki, Mrs. John Laing, Mrs. R. G. Sharman-Crawford and Mme. Gabriel Luizet, will flower more or less all summer, but the major portion will give practically nothing when the June crop has passed. The hybrid teas, on the other hand, are never out of flower from June until October, and in favorable seasons will flower even later than that. This quality makes them valuable to the country florist, who often needs some nice, fresh flowers on short notice.

In order to keep the outdoor roses flowering well right along, they should have a little attention from time to time. In dry weather a soaking of water will wonderfully improve them. Then, again, the value of a mulch of well decayed manure is not half appreciated. Even a good hosing over on warm nights proves remarkably refreshing. Pick off all decayed flowers, remove seed pods and keep a sharp lookout for sprouts of Manetti or seedling briars, which will soon sap the plants' vitality. In removing these, do not simply cut them off level with the ground. Pull or cut them out clean, so as to avoid future trouble.

The advance in popularity of hybrid teas in the last few years has been astonishing. At the great English shows a decade ago comparatively few were seen. Now they vastly outnumber the hybrid perpetuals, and are growing in favor each year. During the present season the following among other well known sorts have proved fine: Antoine Rivoire, or Mrs. Taft; Mme. A. Chatenay, The Lyon, Prince de Bulgarie, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Dark Pink Killarney, Caroline Testout, probably the finest of all outdoors; Gruss an Teplitz, a splendid bedding sort; Sunburst, Dorothy Page Roberts, Konigin Carola, Kaiserin Augusta Victoria and Radiance.

SHORT GROWTH OF SMILAX.

Some months ago we bought a quantity of smilax plants which were said in the advertisement to be from 3-inch pots and cut back three times. They were slow in taking hold and really did nothing until I put lime between the rows and worked it in. They have made unusually full growth; I mean they have thrown any amount of new shoots, but have made no growth in length. They are up scarcely more than one-half the strings and the ground is just matted with shoots a few inches long.

Now we are growing some smilax from seed, in pots, and we have been told by a grower at the state hospital here that it is not necessary to cut smilax back—that the growth is full enough for commercial purposes without such cutting. Is he right? He says not to have the soil more than five inches deep and to lay boards in the solid beds at that depth, to prevent the roots from going too far down. What do you advise? P. G.

It is not essential to cut back the young plants of smilax. The short growth that the purchased plants have made is probably due to two causes, namely, that they were much starved when you received them, and that the soil in which they were planted did not contain sufficient nourishment.

Five inches of good soil is enough for smilax, but I would not advise laying a floor of boards in a solid bed, on account of the probability of fungus.

NEW SAN DIEGO GREENHOUSES.

Boyle & Darnaud, of San Diego, Cal., have finished the erection and planting of their two new Garland construction greenhouses. One of the houses will be planted to carnations and the other, which is shown in the accompanying illustrations, will be used for roses. The older houses will be devoted to ferns and pot plants, and, as the occasion demands, a small collection of orchids will be added.

In the outdoor view of the rose house is to be seen Mrs. Boyle in her working outfit, standing in the chrysanthemum bed. The increase in the business of the firm has made the addition to their present plant necessary, and at the store they have been kept busy with work for graduations, funerals and weddings.

EXCESSIVE ROOT GROWTH.

Everything we grow seems to go to roots more than other people's plants do. Can you tell us why? Is the trouble due to lack of water or to wrong temperatures? P. G.

Excessive root growth is more likely to be due to poverty of the soil than to the conditions you mention, and the best way to overcome the difficulty would be to give the ground you expect to use for compost next season a good dressing of lime, work it in well with a harrow, then seed down with clover or alfalfa, and plow the crop under, thus adding nitrogen at small cost.

STEM ROT ON ASTERS.

Two Queries About the Disease.

I enclose some aster leaves which I think have the rust or blight and I should like to get your opinion on the trouble and the best remedy for it. The asters are planted in the full sunlight, 2x3 feet apart, and have had thorough cultivation. I have about 200 plants of Henderson's Invincible asters and there are three or four of them affected now. H. F. C.

I am after some information, which I hope you will be able to furnish me. Blight has gotten into my aster beds and is taking one plant after another. It does not affect them until they begin to throw out flowering shoots, when the plant dies. A plant will look perfectly healthy today, and tomorrow will begin to wilt and gradually die off. In pulling up the plants I notice that the stems at the roots seem to be entirely rotten. Kindly advise me as soon as possible as to what I ought to do. F. J. A.

The disease referred to in both the foregoing inquiries is probably what is commonly known as wilt or stem-rot, one of the most destructive diseases of asters. Professor Galloway; as long ago as 1896, stated that this was caused by a fungus which enters the plant near the surface of the ground and fills up the water vessels of the stems, causing the plants to wilt and finally die. This disease shows itself most from the middle of July to the middle of August. On cutting open the stems of affected plants near the surface of the ground, a dark discoloration is found in the outer edge of the harder woody portion of the stem, where it joins the soft bark portion which covers it. This discoloration spreads and runs up the stem. Finally the soft outer part is attacked and rots away, leaving the hard inner part intact, but by this time the plant is dead.

Investigations go to show that this stem-rot is developed in the seed bed as a result of conditions favoring damping off. Some seedlings show it soon after being planted out, the majority not until they are well advanced. Plants raised outdoors are usually immune from the trouble; greenhouse seedlings are often badly affected.

Each plant developing stem-rot has undoubtedly taken it either in the seed bed or when transplanted into flats. Outdoor culture and soil, no matter how ideal, will in no wise check the disease. It is not believed that perfectly healthy plants will take the stem-rot, even though affected plants may be all around them. Each individual plant carries health or disease with it. No course of treatment after planting will in any way mitigate the trouble, but if the seedlings are raised either outdoors or in coldframes they are not likely to be affected with this disease. C. Jasmine Field and Packing Crew at Alvin, Texas.

THEIR FIRST JASMINE CROP.

Now that the cape jasmine season is past and the firms engaged in the growing of this flower have had time to balance their accounts and take a leisurely view of the situation, the reports seem to indicate that a satisfactory volume of business has been handled. For instance, the Alvin Cape Jessamine & Floral Co., of Alvin, Tex., says that "it is a pleasure to turn the pages of the books and realize the large amount of business that has been done."

The members of this company are Heller & Lomanitz, and W. L. Heller is manager. Mr. Heller states further, in his report, that though this year's jasmine crop was the first one gathered by him, and though his firm was unknown to the trade until his advertisements in The Review served as an introduction, yet he succeeded in marketing the entire crop and at times was hard pressed to fill orders. "Notwithstanding the fact that this was our first season," he says, "we were among the heaviest shippers of cape jasmine buds." He says he is pleased to admit that though the quality of the stock was such as to cause the duplication of many orders, The Review deserves the credit for all the first orders, which "came in bundles." He finds that good stock and good advertising make an almost irresistible combination.

A part of the jasmine fields owned by the Alvin Cape Jessamine & Floral Co. are shown in the accompanying illustration, with a part of the picking and packing force. In spite of the unusually cool weather in the first part of the season, which retarded the growth of the buds, the total results have been so encouraging that the firm is now making arrangements which will more than double the output of stock next year.

GERBERAS FOR WINTER BLOOMS.

I have about 200 plants of Gerbera Jamesoni hybrida in 3-inch pots. They are well developed plants, which I intend to grow for cut flowers in the greenhouse in winter. I should like to know whether these plants are strong enough or old enough to bloom next winter if benched in August or September, or whether it would be better to keep them in a coldframe for this winter and plant in the greenhouse next year. Will they do well in the same temperature with snapdragons, mignonette, etc.? How far apart should they stand on the benches? When will they bloom if benched in September?

B. W.

I am afraid your Barberton daisies are a little weak for winter flowering. Stronger plants from 4½ to 5-inch pots would be preferable. If, however, your 3-inch plants are strong, I would give them a trial on a raised bench. Plant them nine inches apart each way. The temperature for snapdragons, 45 to 50 degrees at night, will suit them. Mignonette likes 40 to 42 degrees, which is rather low for gerberas. These gerberas are beautiful, but are not prolific bloomers in winter.

MORE ST. LOUIS WORKERS.

The illustration on this page shows the working force of H. G. Berning, St. Louis, as they were about to leave for a half holiday, Saturday noon, July 26. The photograph was taken by Oscar Kuehn. They are, reading from left to right: H. G. Berning, John Berning, Arthur Kring, Miss Emma Bruenig, Otto Bruenig, Wm. Keller, John Kinzel and Herman Hiehaus. J. J. B.

MORE WELLS NOTES.

W. Wells, the English novelty specialist who made a tour of America following the National Flower Show, has concluded the notes of his journey with the following:

"Mr. Totty is a partner in the Wells-Pockett-Totty combine for the handling of new chrysanthemums. The agreement of the combine is to test out novelties, send out the good varieties in the different countries and discard the bad ones, therefore giving the public the full value and benefit of the tests, which are rather expensive. These tests are certainly profitable to us, and it is surprising that others in the trade have not taken the matter up, for there is plenty of scope. I was much surprised to find an open field to work on with the new carnations during my recent trip. All carnation growers on this side know the difficulty in importing the plants of their specialty, and for those that have not had this experience, I might mention that of 500 plants of one variety bought from the States this season, only a dozen were saved. Consequently these trade arrangements must be a big saving to the trade collectively, and other specialists in horticulture would do well to give the matter consideration.

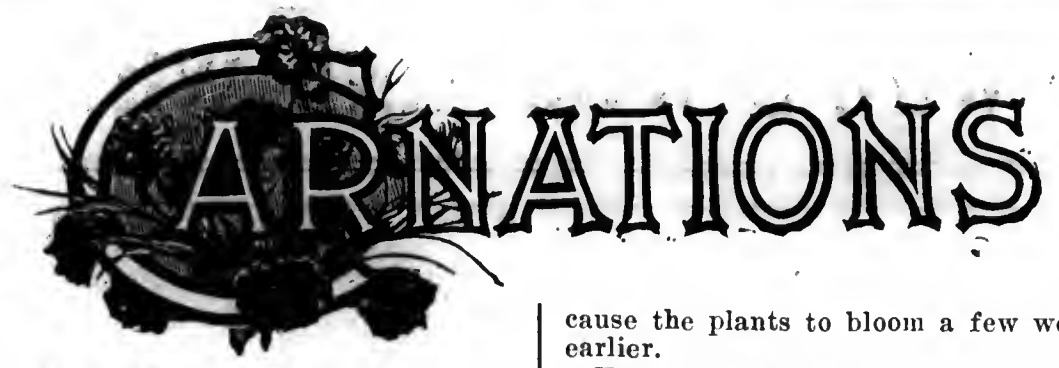
"Mr. Totty's specialties are chrysanthemums, roses and carnations. The chief part of the chrysanthemum business is explained above, but I must mention that he distributed Rose Sunburst, in conjunction with E. G. Hill, for Pernet-Ducher. This was a fine business for those concerned, and Mr. Pernet-Ducher was no doubt pleased with the results that Mr. Hill was able to report. Also, we bought quite an insignificant number of Rose Lady Hillingdon when in the novelty stage for Mr. Totty, and two years since we bought in the variety, Mrs. Geo. Shawyer. Mr. Totty worked these hard and practically had the monopoly of both varieties in the States, and could have handed the distributor here a good round sum had he been working with an agreement on the W. P. T. lines. His thirst for novelties can not be satisfied, but they must be tip-top things, or he can not do much with them. To prove this, Mr. Totty grew our new chrysanthemum, Queen Mary, in large quantities last season. The records of this variety are still in the memory of all in Britain, but the thing was a failure in the States, so Mr. Totty offered stock to anybody on his side that cared to try so famous a variety, but few indeed took the trouble to write for it. It seems remarkable that the variety every enthusiast here was talking about should be worthless there, yet it is satisfying to know that he prevented our sending out an unsuitable variety which would disappoint our customers.

"In all departments of the horticultural trade there is a necessity to purchase new things from other climes. When these novelties are once on the market in the country of origin, they are promptly purchased by the up-to-date man here, but it is a speculation. They are worked up to the hitch, and if good placed on the market here twelve months or so later, usually at a reduced price. This method doesn't bring any one trader in a lot of money, and but little advertisement or credit. It means he has to be quick in flowering the plant, and spend much money to let people know he has the new thing, or the failures will be added to. In mentioning these facts, I am not including carnations or roses only by any means; almost every branch of the trade is concerned. Climatic conditions on plants are so varied that it would be of great benefit personally and to the trade generally if these working arrangements of testing out new plants were carried out by specialists in departments other than my own, and it would create more trade and be an international benefit to horticulture.

"Not long ago Mr. Totty began growing chrysanthemums in a small way, and had quite a small establishment. Shortly after the Twombly place was offered him, which was merely across a paddock from his houses. This estate was a model building built by a private gentleman, who thought it rather too large for him to keep up. The packing sheds are built in the shape of a right angle, which is really a covered avenue about twenty feet wide. The houses are entered from this avenue, which is 200 feet each way, and which is used as packing and potting sheds, offices, flower stores, box rooms, etc. A double sliding door is at each end and a two-horse van can go the whole way through to pick up or deliver goods. The gentleman who built the plant used to drive a four-in-hand through, and from that view the plants and flowers in the shed and houses. In the angle are the boilers and the steam pipes go along the roof and floor of the sheds, so that every part can be reached in the winter without putting any pipes outdoors.

"Mr. Totty has a very extensive retail trade besides a large wholesale business. Chrysanthemums, carnations and roses are perhaps the chief items, but anything that will sell is not objected to. Since taking over the Twombly houses, the business has increased to such an extent that he has taken over still more houses, also adjoining. Three of our lads were there working among the chrysanthemums, and while I was pleased to learn they were getting on so well, I was a bit grieved to be told they didn't want to come home again, except for a holiday and to see the old people. They appreciate the almighty dollar better than the English shilling, and they didn't mind telling me they possessed more of the former now than they did of the latter while at home. It seems to be a great loss to the old country that these young men should leave it, but to anybody that will work, whether they make headway here or not, there are plenty of chances in the States or in Canada. Money can be made and saved much quicker there, but for one that is comfortably situated here, it may be pleasing to know that I saw no place to surpass home."



"WHO'S WHO—AND WHY"

C. W. McKELLAR.

WITH rings on her fingers and bells on her toes, she makes music wherever she goes." That's the way the old nursery jingle had it, and it's almost the same with Charlie McKellar—the only difference is that with a smile on his face and a pleasant word on his lips he makes friends wherever he goes. "Mack" once was known as one of "those Chicago Indians," but in later years he has become one of the most quiet and conservative of business men, without losing in the least the quality of making a life's friend of everyone he meets, even in the most casual way. Hardly ever does a florist visit Chicago without calling on McKellar, just to pass a cheery time-of-day.

Petoskey, Mich.—Frank Winans is the successor to W. H. Moses as proprietor of the West Side Greenhouse.

RENEWING CARNATION SOIL.

Is it necessary to remove the soil from my carnation benches each year, or will it suffice if I simply renew the old soil, the surface of which is two inches below the top of the bench?

S. A. W.

If the soil is in good condition and free from insects and other pests, it will answer if the surface is removed and replaced with fresh soil. T.

CARNATIONS ON SOLID BEDS.

Please let me know whether carnations will do as well on solid beds as on raised benches. If they will do as well on solid beds, I can save a considerable sum of money by growing them in that way. In the part of Washington state where I am building, there is rock at a depth of two feet and I think it would afford ample drainage. W. H.

Whether your carnations will do as well on solid beds as on raised benches will depend altogether on the drainage afforded. If the drainage is good the results will be just as good on solid beds. I would hesitate to put solid beds over either rock or hardpan, where they are so close to the surface, but if all surface water drains away readily there should be no danger from that source.

HARDY VIENNA CARNATIONS.

The Review of July 24, page 34, contained an inquiry from M. J. H., under the title of "Hardy Vienna Carnations," with a request that some reader of The Review supply the desired information. The inquiry was as follows: "We have planted, in the open ground, about 1,000 hardy Vienna carnations and are anxious to know what results they will give in this country. We also wish to know what protection would be required in winter, in this Nebraska climate. We have planted a few hundreds of these plants in 4-inch pots, and intend to winter them over either in a coldframe or in a cool greenhouse. By taking them up and bringing them into the greenhouse, could we get a crop for Memorial day?"

In reply to this inquiry, I am pleased to offer such information as I possess. The hardy Vienna carnation belongs to that splendid class of Dianthus Caryophyllus flore pleno known as the border carnation, under which heading we also find the Dwarf Prague and that prolific sort, Grenadine, so largely grown in Europe.

Any of these carnations are supposed to be grown from seed sown in early spring, either indoors or in frames, then transplanted to the field and carried over winter outdoors, where the plants will be a mass of bloom in the following summer. Many growers make use of sashes, which, when placed over them, cause the plants to bloom a few weeks earlier.

For Nebraska, where the inquirer is located, I would suggest wintering the stock in coldframes and planting out in early spring. The plants can be had in flower by Memorial day if grown on for about two months in a carnation house temperature, but I doubt whether this would pay unless there is a demand for blooming pot plants, as the flowers of the Viennas do not come up to the sorts we make use of nowadays for cut flower purposes. Fritz Bahr.

AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

Members of the American Carnation Society will please make the following corrections in the annual report recently mailed out:

Add Chas. E. Critchell to the list of contributors toward the Fred Dorner memorial fund.

In the list of registrations of new varieties H. W. Field's address should be Northampton, Mass.

The name of the variety Pacific, registered by R. Diener & Co., has been changed to Debutante.

The address of J. A. E. Haugh should be Anderson, Ind., instead of Indianapolis, Ind.

The address of M. L. Graves should be Northampton, Mass., instead of Holyoke, Mass.

The name of the variety Magnificence, registered in last year's report, has been changed to Philadelphia Pink.

Kindly make the foregoing corrections, in order that you may have an accurate record when referring to the report in the future.

The following two registrations were received since the publication of the report:

By A. Roper, Tewksbury, Mass. — Alice Coombs; parentage, two unknown seedlings; color, pink, shade between Winona and Gloriosa; size, three and one-half to four inches; long, stiff stem, with upright growth; a free bloomer.

By L. C. Midgley, Westboro, Mass.—Eureka; parentage, Beacon x scarlet seedling from Robert Craig; color, scarlet; size two and one-half to three inches; growth like Beacon, but very free, and does not split more than two per cent; the freest bloomer in commerce.

A. F. J. Baur, Sec'y.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

Extreme heat, no overabundant supply, most of the roses and carnations arriving of mediocre quality and little demand from retailers sums up the situation for the last week. There is no good reason nor any necessity for opening Sundays. The majority hope to win over the few who still delay, at least for the month of August. Almost all of the wholesalers close their stores at 4 p. m. daily.

Now as to roses, a few selected American Beauties bring 20 cents and the hundred or so daily of Mrs. Shawyer sell at 12 to 15 cents each. A few of the novelties bring 5 or 6 cents, but of the bulk of the arrivals there is no reasonable quotation possible. There are few carnations that sell at $1 to $1.50 per hundred. Most of them are small and sleepy and sell as low as 25 cents per hundred.

Valley holds fairly well. Lilies, in small lots, sold at 4 cents, and in hundred lots and over, at 3 cents. There is still an oversupply and many of the iceboxes are full of them. Orchids developed a better appreciation as the week closed. The supply is likely to be shortened from now on. A year ago at this date they were nearly double present quotations.

Gladioli and asters are now in every window. Only the best of each bring any price worth mentioning. Few of the asters are of any size or value. The flood of gladioli cannot be much longer delayed; in fact, it is a rushing river already. Some fine auratum lilies are seen. Sweet peas are enjoying a resting spell. Nothing is likely to add much life to the market before September.

Various Notes.

The Greater New York Fair and Exposition at Empire City park near Yonkers, opens August 2 and continues thirty days and nights. Over $12,000 is listed as premiums. The cottage garden exhibits take place August 16 to 18 and commercial florists and private gardeners will compete for the premiums offered. Cut flowers will be exhibited August 2 to 5, orchids and ferns August 6 to 8, stove and greenhouse plants August 9 to 15, fruits and vegetables August 21 to 27, and again cut flowers August 28 to 30.

Walter Mott, with Benj. Hammond, of Fishkill, N. Y., was in New York July 26 on his way home from a successful trip through New England.

The outings of the gardeners' societies have begun. The first to celebrate will be the Tarrytown society; the date, Tuesday, August 5, and the place, Rye Beach, N. Y., as usual. Many valuable prizes for the athletic contests have been donated.

J. K. Allen visited his growers and friends last week at Providence and other Rhode Island horticultural centers.

Foreman Bradshaw, of Wm. Kessler's force, is enjoying a week's vacation at Ossining.

Frank Hicks, of the Pennock-Meehan Co., is spending his holidays on Long Island.

Patrick Denning, with M. C. Ford, will spend his two weeks' vacation at Lake George and in the Adirondacks.

Robert Monroe, with Walter Sheridan, will have two weeks' recuperation at Lakewood, O.

Mr. Russin, of Russin & Hanfling, will be at Sharon Springs with his family during August.

J. C. Silbert, of the H. M. Robinson Co., has returned from his vacation in New England. The company expects to be well established in its new store by August 15.

The new store of the Growers' Cut Flower Co., at 129 West Twenty-eighth street, will be elegantly fitted up. It will have a cold storage floor and an ice-plant, 10x12x30, an office, 12x25, and a floor space, 25x100, on the ground level, with a room of equal size above. The company has secured a long lease of the premises. Manager Coan is much delighted with the change of location.

James Coyle and wife are at Keansburg, N. J., near Sandy Hook, for the summer.

Samuel Berkowitz, with Max Schling, will be married September 7 at New Henington hall, 214 East Second street, to Miss Lena Mallonsky.

W. M. Bishop, bookkeeper for Badgley, Riedel & Meyer, will spend his two weeks' vacation with his family in northern New Jersey. Louis Enne, of Flushing, one of this firm's growers, spent several days last week fishing with Mr. Riedel in Long Island sound, near Port Washington.

The representative of The Review called at the new establishment of Wertheimer Bros. and was really astonished at some of the innovations shown. He was particularly impressed with the beautiful show rooms and the original show-case arrangement for displaying complete lines of merchandise without the slightest handling. The lighting arrangements are unsurpassed, natural light being had on all four sides of the building. After going through the establishment, he made a trip to the roof, which is fitted up with shower baths for both ladies and gentlemen. From there a view of the surrounding country stretches out for many miles, with the wooded section of Long Island in the dim distance. Sydney Wertheimer has just returned from Europe.

Miss Broder, bookkeeper for Lion & Co., enjoyed her two weeks' vacation in the Catskills.

Louis Goodfriend and Elbert O. Stein, of San Francisco, were in the city last week visiting the retailers, Messrs. Schling and Stumpp. Mr. Goodfriend is the western agent of Wertheimer Bros.

Henry Van Gelder, president of P. Jones, Inc., Chicago, was a recent visitor and spent the week end at Atlantic City.

John J. Foley has moved to the corner store at 230 Bowery, at Prince street. His residence and greenhouses are at Madison, N. J.

Convention days are near. H. A. Bunyard and his transportation committee have made every arrangement for the comfort of the travelers, including a special car. There should be no delay in securing berths. A goodly number have already decided to attend.

M. J. Galvin's new building, at Forty-sixth street and Fifth avenue, is rapidly nearing completion. It will be a handsome store and a notable addition to the florists in this aristocratic section.

E. W. Newbrand, of the F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, has returned from a visit to his parents at Webster, N. Y.

Oscar Lion, of Lion & Co., has returned from his European trip and says he will have some of the latest novelties in ribbons, and several surprises for the trade at Minneapolis.

J. Austin Shaw.

OBITUARY.

Jacob Cramer.

Jacob Cramer, for many years a well-known figure in the trade at Rochester, N. Y., died July 25. He had been in ill-health for some time; recently he was taken to Dr. Lee's hospital and it was there that he died from typhoid-pneumonia. He was 42 years old, and is survived by his wife, his mother and three brothers. Mr. Cramer had an almost life-long connection with the florists' business. For nearly twenty-five years he worked for J. B. Keller Sons and for another five years he was with Salter Bros.

Waterbury, Conn.—A. S. Nodine, who was operated on for a tumor at Mt. Sinai hospital, New York, July 12, is in quite a favorable condition.

.....BUSINESS AND OTHER NOTES.....

Superior, Neb. — Binding's Greenhouses, at Hardy, Neb., have been torn down and a new range, under the same name, is being built here.

Scranton, Pa.—The florists of this city are closing Thursday afternoons during July and August, to give their employees a half-holiday during the hot season.

Columbus, O.—The Graff Bros. Co., of this city, has been incorporated to do business in flowers, seeds, trees, etc., with a capital of $2,500. The incorporators are Theresa Flynn, Ben Flynn, Charles H. Wheeler, Edward L. Taylor, Jr., and Nathan Gumble.

Bluffton, Ind.—Dillon Myers has leased the interest of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Myers in the business of Myers & Co., for one year. Mr. and Mrs. Myers will leave for the west August 15, to spend the year at Portland, Vancouver and other Pacific coast points.

Evansville, Ind. — The Evansville Floral Co., which was recently declared insolvent, has closed up affairs by a settlement with its creditors and has been reorganized with a capitalization of $500. The incorporators are Adolph Winter, Paul H. Schmidt and E. V. Hitch.

Birmingham, Ala.—John A. Lambert has sold his interest in the McVay Seed Co. and resigned his position as manager of the company's flower department. He is now conducting an up-to-date store of his own two doors below the McVay Seed Co., at 2014 First avenue.

Muncie, Ind.—The greenhouses at 1124 South Jefferson street froze up on last winter's tenant and there was practically nothing doing in the way of business until Joseph L. McKinley took it in hand. Mr. McKinley is making extensive improvements and everything is beginning to look fine. He will do business as the Southside Floral Co. G. I. Wunderlin, former grower for the Muncie Floral Co., has taken charge of the growing end.

Pierre, S. D.—Fire, flood and drought in the last eighteen months have been the lot of Herbert D. Enoe, proprietor of the Capitol Greenhouse. The city has provided neither protection against floods nor an ample water supply, and what outside stock was left after last season's disastrous flood has been killed by the driest June weather the region has known. Mr. Enoe, however, is still courageously keeping up business, hoping for better times.

Glen Ridge, N. J.—Axel N. G. Stanley, whose florists' shop was one of those in the Glen Ridge stores building, which was damaged by fire July 11, has been arrested and charged with setting fire to the building. The fire was discovered in the basement under his store at 2 o'clock in the morning by Mr. Stanley himself, who had been unable to sleep and went out for a walk. The damage to the building was about $4,000. Mr. Stanley's store was insured for $1,500.

Springfield, Ill.—David Allchin, 125 North Columbia avenue, who has been in the florists' trade for over twenty years, has leased the establishment of E. Bennett.

Millville, N. J.—Mrs. Ralph Parent has purchased from Mrs. Willis Henderson the lease of her greenhouse plant for three months. Mrs. Henderson will continue her business at 507 East Oak street.

Charles City, Ia.—The Perry Florists' Association of southern Minnesota and eastern Iowa met here July 22 to 24. Several of the delegates were entertained at the home of Mark H. Wetherbee.

West Boylston, Mass.—Charles Potter is to build an addition to his greenhouses, to replace a smaller one that is now being razed. The addition will be 30x90 feet and is to be planted with carnations.

Sedalia, Mo. — Work is progressing well on the new greenhouses of the Archias Floral Co. The company's carnations and asters in the field were considerably damaged by the hot weather, but the recent rains are helping them now.

Wooster, O.—F. H. De Witt & Co. are building a range of greenhouses on Wayne street and will remove the houses on College avenue to the new location. The new house will enable them to considerably extend their wholesale business in geraniums and pelargoniums.

Toledo, O.—Bids have been asked for the property of the Perennial Gardens Co., consisting of five greenhouses, machinery and five acres of land. The perennial plants, of which the company made a specialty, have been disposed of by the receiver, L. M. Friedman, who was appointed about three months ago, and only the plant remains to be sold.

Cleveland, O. — David Charlesworth, of the firm of D. Charlesworth & Son, has announced his retirement and will turn over the business to his son, Lloyd F. Charlesworth. At the same time the greenhouses which he first established at Euclid avenue and East One-hundred-fifth street twenty-five years ago are being torn down, as the land is now too valuable to be occupied by them. The company's houses in South Euclid will furnish its supply.

Hamilton, O.—Theo. Bock, for twenty-seven years engaged in the florists' business in this city, sold his greenhouses, with stock, tools and accessories, at auction and will quit active business on account of his health. Three of the five houses and most of the stock were bought by Karl W. Heiser. The plants have been moved to a fine downtown store where Mr. Heiser is now conducting a retail flower and plant business. It is the same room in which he, as a boy, clerked in his grandfather's grocery. The greenhouses are being removed from Mr. Bock's ground to Mr. Heiser's place south of the city.

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

THIS is the busy season for the Want Ad and For Sale Department. It's worth watching.

A NOT bad way to get rid of sow bugs is to turn the hens loose in the greenhouses in summer. The hens will enjoy it and the florist can go on vacation.

IT has become fairly well recognized that cash and credit are absolutely and wholly matters of habit. You can shape the habits of your customers if you try.

NOT a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

NICOTINE insecticides are a little less scarce than they were; the manufacturers are getting into better shape, although the supply of raw material still is on the short side.

THERE are vehement objections to the changes in the parcel post regulations ordered by the postmaster general. They appear, however, to promise an improvement in the service given florists.

THE Mrs. Russell rose already has made a reputation as a keeper. The wholesalers who cater to the shipping trade think it will prove a decided acquisition on this account.

IT will be interesting to note if a 5-day trade convention can hold the attendance from start to finish. The American Carnation Society, a body that has a reputation for activity, tried a three days' convention and found it one day too long.

Now that the flower is enjoying such an advance in popularity there is demand for another name for the plant: Snapdragon is too plebeian; antirrhinum, too difficult; snap, too slangy. According to some of those who believe snapdragons would sell better with a more euphonious cognomen, it can not be true that "a rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

THERE is nothing to indicate that the florists' business is otherwise than in the same prosperous condition as in the last ten years, the rate of growth being more rapid than ever. While there have been a number of failures since Easter, they appear to be due to well recognized causes individual to the business involved and in no way affecting the trade as a whole. The wonder is, really, that the business failures in the trade are so few.

THE SPRING FLOWER SHOW.

The management of the International Flower Show, which is to be held next March in the New Grand Central Palace, at New York, is in hands which assure a display of more than ordinary quality and lead the trade to set high expectations on the show next spring. Names familiar to the trade in connection with previous shows appear on the list of the committee.

The officers of the committee are: Chairman, F. R. Pierson; secretary, John Young, and treasurer, Frederic R. Newbold. The other members are Patrick O'Mara, Joseph A. Manda, James Stuart, George V. Nash, Dr. N. L. Britton, Theodore A. Havemeyer, Charles H. Totty, W. A. Manda, William Duckham, Harry A. Bunyard, Frank H. Traendly, Wallace R. Pierson and Julius Roehrs, Jr.

"THERE'S A REASON."

That is what Mr. Post says. We can be more definite and say here's the reason why advertisements in The Review pay advertisers and pay them extremely well. The paper whose readers are buyers, and constant buyers, will always bring results to those who have something to sell:

I think your paper one of the best, and the classified advertisements are worth the price of the paper to me.—W. E. Fryer, Mantorville, Minn., July 21, 1913.

Enclosed find another dollar for Review. We need it. It is good.—Mrs. C. C. Arnold, North Judson, Ind., July 22, 1913.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

Prices have been firm for the last week, due mostly to the lack of stock and some increase in the demand. In the matter of supply, the market is little better off than at the time of last report. Roses have experienced quite a run for the last ten days and in these the prices obtained have stiffened considerably. This was the case July 25 and 26, when the wholesalers found it difficult to supply much of anything and the local retailers were willing to pay for good flowers of either long or short stem. It nevertheless is true, and frequently commented on, that the prices are not up to those of other years when good roses were scarce in summer. In other flowers, conditions were hardly any better. While asters are on the increase, there are few first-class ones to be had. Each day, however, finds some little improvement and increase in the aster shipments, and the wholesalers are encouraged to believe there will be plenty in a few days. Gladioli are coming along more freely, but even of these there are hardly enough to meet the demands, as the crops have suffered from the unfavorable weather.

Young Beauties have been cut in increasing numbers for the last few days. While most of them are no longer than the ordinary Killarney, the wholesalers have demanded and received prices that look good by comparison with those of the first part of the month. Nevertheless, it is not possible to clean up at the prices that usually have ruled in summer. Killarneys have been short in length and the better grades are hard to find. Bulgarie, Sunburst and Richmond are in evidence, but, like the other varieties, there are not enough of the longer stems to please either the buyers or the wholesalers. Russell and Milady are beginning to attract attention. Carnations are out of the question and the few that are on the market are quickly taken if they show any quality at all. They scarcely merit mention at the present time. Sweet peas are not at-

DON'T FORGET WE HAVE THE BEAUTIES

You Order of Headquarters When You Order of Amling

WE have the cut this season of over 170,000 Beauty plants. It is, we believe, a larger supply than any other wholesaler, anywhere, ever had. And our growers are famous for the size and quality of their cuts. We are able to maintain a supply of Beauties in the Chicago market at practically all times, but why not order direct, and let your other needs go forward in the same box?

FANCY DAISIES

Here is a crop of Daisies of unusual quality for this date. It is a seedling variety, raised by one of our growers, closely resembling Shasta. A big crop will be cut between now and August 20, which we offer at $1.00 per 100.

GLADIOLI

Year after year we lead the market on Gladioli—the largest supply of high grade stock. This is stock that it is a pleasure to handle. Plenty of America, Augusta and Mrs. F. King, the three best in their colors.

Asters are just starting to come in. We have a fair supply, and it soon will be large. LET YOUR ORDERS COME.

FANCY ROSES

Good roses have become so scarce that medium and long stems carrying quality flowers sell on sight, but we aim never to be without some good roses in the ice-box to go out on late shipping orders. Let us know your needs as early in the day as possible, but call on us at short notice if you must. You will find us rose headquarters, now and all summer. Can offer a few Milady that will make a hit, also a fine crop of Radiance.

FANCY CATTLEYAS

Good Orchids are not abundant in this market just now—mostly shipped in from the east—but WE have a good crop locally grown that we recommend you to try. These are not only well grown but they are fresh cut and reach you in condition to give the best of satisfaction. If you have been disappointed elsewhere it's all the more reason for ordering of Amling next time.

FANCY VALLEY

You can depend upon us at all times for valley. If you run short, a wire to Amling will bring the valley you need.

EASTER LILIES

We can supply fine Easter Lilies in large quantity every day in the year. A specially good crop now on.

tracting any unusual attention and they do not bring even good returns. Valley is selling as well as could be expected and the demand is heavy enough to take care of the present supply.

Various Notes.

A. Lange is vacationing a fortnight at Montague, Mich., on White lake, one of the favorite spots for good bass fishing.

July 26 a stone sill fell from one of the third story windows of the Atlas block, crashed through the sidewalk in front of Winterson's Seed Store and sank into the floor of the basement in a spot that E. F. Winterson passes over hundreds of times a day. It would have been sudden death to have stood in its path. D. E. Freres had just passed on the sidewalk.

A. C. Kohlbrand, of the E. C. Amling Co., says he thinks Milady is without a rival as a red rose for summer. Wendland & Keimel are growing it in considerable quantity and are just beginning to cut a crop.

The three Poehlmann brothers, John, August and Adolph, each have Winton touring cars and will make the trip in them to Minneapolis, with their families. C. W. McKellar runs the same make of car and also will tour to the convention. If they go together the four cars will make quite a cavalcade.

Clifford Pruner returned July 27 from a trip southwest. He says the prospects for fall trade in that section never were better.

George Asmus went to Minneapolis July 27 to spend a few days with John Young on S. A. F. convention business.

A new wood ceiling is being put on the brick ceiling in the store of Kennicott Bros. Co.

A. F. Longren is able to be out after a three weeks' struggle with carbuncles. Nineteen cores were removed from his neck.

A. T. Pyfer and H. E. Philpott have returned from a boat trip to Mackinac. Mr. Philpott has gone on his way to Peterboro, Ont., to attend the meeting of the Canadian Horticultural Association, August 5 to 7.

Otto Larson, who has a retail establishment at 1604 West Sixty-third street, received a new Buchbinder refrigerator this week that adds considerably to the attractiveness of the store.

Fred Kraus, of the E. F. Winterson Co., is in New York city this week.

Frank McCabe, of the A. L. Randall Co., returned July 27 from a successful trip to the Pacific coast, going south from Seattle to San Diego. The Randall concern is putting in another big ice-box this week. T. T. Clarke, formerly secretary of and receiver for E. H. Hunt, has been added to the office staff. A. L. Randall came over from Michigan on the boat Friday night and spent July 26 at the store.

T. E. Waters has moved the office of the supply department of Poehlmann Bros. Co. to the fourth floor display and stock room at 72 East Randolph street, leaving the second floor office to Otto W. Frese and the cut flower department. Both are nicely situated, with much more room than before. The company cut its first mums, Smith's Advance, July 21, followed a few days later by Golden Glow.

Tim Matchen says Mrs. Russell roses are bringing more money, length for length, than can be had for Beauty. Mr. Matchen and wife leave August 3 for a boat trip down the Mississippi and on the way home will call on the trade in several southern cities.

Miss Marie Olmert, of C. W. McKellar's staff, left July 27 for a fortnight's outing at Saugatuck.

Martin H. Radke says he has cleaned up on all surplus stock and now has a little time to devote to the 11-pound son who recently arrived at his home in Maywood.

N. J. Wietor says the coal sheds of Wietor Bros. are full to the roof with the best grade of Pocahontas coal,

The Chicago Florists' Club is scheduled to meet next week, August 7, at San Souci park, on invitation of O. J. Friedman, one of the owners.

Mayor Harrison has announced that he will reappoint Peter Reinberg, whose term as president of the school board is about to expire. Mr. Reinberg some time ago indicated that he would like to retire, so that he could devote his time to the greenhouses and his other interests, but the Mayor says he can not spare him. The office pays no salary.

Charles Handel, who was operating the Amelia Schaefer greenhouses under lease at the time they were destroyed by the big wind in September, 1911, is looking for another chance to start in business. The storm wiped out every dollar he owned. Since then he has worked as a grower, being employed at present by Hoerber Bros., and has saved up enough for another start. He is negotiating for a lease of the Thomas Allen place.

In March the Hoskins Floral Co., Chicago, was organized with $25,000 capital stock and purchased the greenhouse property of Reid & Chambers, at Elmhurst, Ill., the plan being to add to the glass and grow cut flowers for the Chicago market. The incorporators were David J. Hoskins, John W. Harris and Frank Amberg. The company has now made a slight change in its capital through reducing the par value per share from $100 to $25 and increasing the number of shares from 250 to 1000.

William Wienhoeber and wife have returned from a visit of five weeks with friends on a ranch in Colorado, which permits E. Wienhoeber to take things a little easier, although he still comes to the store almost every day from his home at Highland Park.

The John C. Moninger Co., which has been adding to its line until now it includes everything needed for the erection of a greenhouse establishment, has taken hold of the Taylor syphon circulator, an electrical apparatus for accelerating the movement of water in the coils.

cations. Amy Schultz, the bookkeeper and cashier, returned from Bass Lake, Ind., and Burt Phillips came back from Michigan.

John Sinner, of Sinner Bros., placed an order this week with the John C. Moninger Co. for a new house, 28x165 feet, to replace one of the houses now in use. The Sinner plant will soon be of modern construction, as a new house is being put up every year. This one is to be built with concrete walls and will be ready by fall.

H. H. Wilkerson, with H. Wittbold, is a tennis player and is ready to take on anyone for the trade championship. On the Washington park courts, across from his residence, he enjoys a good deal of respect among the followers of the game. Just before breakfast is his favorite hour for taking on all comers.

Fred Klingel, of Erne & Klingel, says there is so much work on hand that the chances of a vacation before the August convention look rather slim. And the fishing at Indian Lake, Mich., was never better, according to the letters he has received from his son.

A. L. Vaughan says July 26 was the best July day his firm has experienced.

Both Guy Reburn and A. Miller, of A. Henderson & Co., have taken the road again, but will be back in time for the S. A. F. convention.

J. F. Kidwell reports that the young Beauties at Wellworth Farm are coming along nicely. Beauty growing is a new undertaking at Downers Grove.

In spite of the delay caused by the building strike, the new store being erected by H. N. Bruns is progressing rapidly. Business is being carried on in temporary quarters in one of the greenhouses.

Max Trachman, of the American Importing Co., was called to Joliet, July 24, by the sudden death of his mother.

Chas. F. Kitzerow, of Milwaukee, was in Chicago July 28, completing the purchase of fittings for his new house, 27x100, which has just been finished. Mr. Kitzerow makes a specialty of carnations for the Milwaukee wholesale market and reports a good, steady business.

Weddings and a large number of funerals have kept the florists busy since last report. Flowers are searce and hard to get at any priee. Roses and carnations are in demand, but only a few are to be had. No new roses are being cut. A few days ago we had the heaviest rainfall for over two months, but we need more; all outdoor stock is suffering for want of water.

Various Notes.

At Niednagel & Sons' the roses are getting a fine start. Part of the carnations have been planted and are looking well. The mums also are doing finely. Business is excellent and stock must be purehased so as to fill the orders.

Mr. and Mrs. Elspermann have returned from their trip to Chicago and report a fine time. When they got home they had to pitch in at once and help the home folks, as funeral work was keeping the boys busy. Dave Elspermann and his sister leave August 2 for a visit to Chicago.

Enjoy Your Trip to Minneapolis, Minn., When You Attend the Convention of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists, to be held August 19-22.

Members of the Society of American Florists and their friends who contemplate attending the above Convention should be sure to take advantage of the splendid features of comfort and convenience provided by the Chicago and Northwestern Line between Chicago and St. Paul-Minneapolis.

Your train leaves from the new Passenger Terminal, located on Madison Street between Canal and Clinton Streets, where every modern appointment and travel convenience is afforded to you, and the route of your train lies through the beautiful suburban district adjacent to Chicago and through the rich agricultural and dairying region of Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin, and on through some of the most picturesque and beautiful scenery to be found in the West for the balance of the distance to Minneapolis. It is the picturesque route by day and the comfortable route by night. The smooth, heavy, double-tracked roadbed insures restful sleep and your safety is guarded by automatic electric signals covering the entire distance.

The Florists' and Horticulturists' Special Convention Train will leave Chicago from the new Passenger Terminal at 6:45 P. M., Monday, August 18th, arriving at Minneapolis early the following morning. This train will consist of the very highest class of modern train equipment. All members and their friends should not fail to take advantage of the special appointments provided for them on this train and the splendid opportunity offered them to enjoy congenial companionship en route.

Other modernly equipped regular trains leave the new Passenger Terminal daily at 2:50 A. M., 8:45 A. M., 10:15 A. M., 10:00 P. M. and 10:10 P. M.

Special care should be given to making sleeping car reservations early, applying to H. A. GROSS, General Agent, Passenger Department, C. & N. W. Ry., 148 S. Clark St. (Telephone Randolph 4221, Automatic 53-251), Chicago.

The Market.

The florists in general report that the month of July was the best they have had for many years. The demand and supply with the wholesalers were at most times equal. A noticeable fact was that the quality of roses and carnations held up longer and better than heretofore. There is a scarcity of good white asters at the present time.

Various Notes.

Everyone in the trade is looking forward to a good time at the Florists' Club's picnic, a boat excursion up the Monongahela river. It will be a real basket picnic. The committee in charge announced that the strongest beverage that will be served will be hot coffee. An elaborate athletic program has been arranged and there will be dancing on the boat and at the grove. The steamer Morning Star will leave the foot of Market street at 9 a. m. Tuesday, August 5. Tickets to all members in good standing have been mailed by the secretary, H. P. Joslin. Extra ones may be purchased of any of the wholesale florists, or of the committee.

The wholesale houses have decided to close their places of business at noon the day of the florists' picnic, to permit their employees to take the train at the Union station leaving at 1:05 p. m. for Coal Valley station.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Eastern Market.

The market is not in as good condition as it has been during the last fortnight, although it is fully equal to the end of July, 1912. Business has fallen off a little. There are no more good flowers, but a good many more poor ones that tend to depress prices. Gladioli are the feature of the market. So plentiful are they that even America can be bought at the price formerly asked for ordinary sorts. The ordinary sorts sometimes fare badly. Asters have been a great disappointment. They are practically all outdoor grown and they have suffered terribly from want of rain. We are promised fine stock of midseason varieties with the beginning of August. Easter lilies continue an important summer crop. Valley has been in oversupply. There are far too many poor roses, but the better grades are in fair demand. The first dahlias have come.

Home Again.

H. Bayersdorfer is hard at work in his warehouse, receiving and checking off incoming supplies, with his partners and their entire force. Mr. Bayersdorfer is well and in splendid spirits, despite the terrific heat, which must be a pull after the ocean breezes. A friendly greeting and a word on the immortelle situation came in between-time: "Immortelles are scarce; a poor crop. Those who want them should say so soon. We have half the crop." And he was off, with a nod and a smile.

The Market.

The hot, dry weather which we had all through July is with us still and all vegetation is in need of rain. "Rain!" is the cry from florist and farmer alike. The growers who have watering systems are fortunate these days, but some of them have not enough water to keep things wet and therefore some of the stock is poor, especially asters and sweet peas. Carnations are holding up well under the hot weather. The demand for roses is extremely light. Killarneys are small, but White Killarneys are much better. Milady is a good summer rose and lasts well. Wards and Tafts are rarely seen nowadays. There are no flowering plants of any kind at present. Boston ferns are scarce.

The Market.

Supplies have fallen off in several staples and there is a rather better demand for flowers to ship to shore and mountain resorts. This has not led to any rise in values, but clearances are rather better. Roses are now overplentiful for funeral and other needs and are selling at $1 to $4 per hundred. Kaiserin, White Killarney, Carnot, Christie Miller and Dark Pink Killarney are good sellers, in addition to Beauties. The best of the Beauties make $2 to $3 per dozen. Carnations are small; the average price is $1. Asters are a little more plentiful and the price still holds up well. They will soon be abundant enough to effectually fill the carnation gap.

Few really good sweet peas are seen; the best make 50 cents per hundred. Lilies are selling tolerably well; so is valley. Gypsophila is in oversupply. Quite a few miscellaneous hardy annuals and perennials find an uncertain sale. Of cattleyas there is a diminished supply, but the demand for these and for gardenias is not robust.

Club Picnic.

Perfect weather was once more enjoyed by the 500 or more members, their wives, families and friends, who attended the annual picnic of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club at Cunningham park, East Milton, July 23. The members of the committee in charge of the arrangements had worked hard, and to them great credit is due for the most enjoyable and successful picnic the club has yet held.

The various athletic events, twenty-four in number, excited great interest, as usual, and contests were keen, as many as four heats being needed in some classes. The Private Gardeners easily disposed of the Commercials in the quoits match, but were outclassed in the tug of war; in the baseball game they looked like winning until the last innings. F. E. Palmer played a great game for the losers.

The married and single ladies' baseball game was a thrilling one for the spectators. It soon became evident that hobble skirts, such as the married ladies appeared in, were not quite ideal when it came to fast sprinting. The married ladies, however, are planning to don special regimentals next year and recover their lost laurels.

As a token of esteem to J. M. Gleason, a respected member of the club, whose death was reported in the obituary column of last week's Review, all festivities were suspended and all present uncovered and stood with bowed

Various Notes.

The garden committee of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, July 22, visited the estate of David R. Craig, of Wellesley. July 24, with some other invited guests to the total number of seventeen, they visited the Roslindale nurseries of R. & J. Farquhar & Co. to see a magnificent plantation of Lilium Sargentii in bloom. Many of the stems were seven feet and over in height and carried up to twenty flowers each. All stood without support of any kind. The visitors were entertained by the chairman, J. K. M. L. Farquhar, at the Parker House before going to Roslindale.

Hundred-yard walk—H. Schumaker, first; R. Gable, second; E. Koellich, third.

Ball game—Wholesalers 6, Retailers 3.

The prizes were cash, and donated by the various stores and greenhouse establishments.

Various Notes.

F. C. Bartels, of North Olmsted, is taking Frank Friedley's place at the greenhouses of the J. M. Gasser Co., at Rocky River, while Mr. Brown, of Anderson's, Buffalo, and previously of Dunlop's, Toronto, takes Frank Schoen's position at the retail store of the Gasser company. Messrs. Schoen and Friedley are taking over the business of the Jas. Eadie Co., August 1, and launching out for themselves.

Harry Balsley, of the Detroit Flower Pot Co., visited Cleveland last week on business, and he seemed to be getting it.

Robert George are soon to start for a two weeks' trip up the lakes.

"A new wholesale firm to open here this fall, with a good bunch of glass back of them," is the latest rumor going the rounds. Come on in; the water's fine.

C. Merkel & Son, Mentor, are rapidly completing their new range of glass.

Carl Hagenburger intends to call at Kansas City en route to the convention.

F. A. F.

The James Eadie Co., capital $10,000, has been incorporated to do a general florists' business, by M. C. Maher, V. J. Free, H. B. Wright and R. L. Toben.

KANSAS CITY.

The Market.

Business is as good as could be expected for this time of the year, though funeral work is about all that is being done. Gladioli are practically the only flowers on the market and they are sold for all purposes except for corsage bouquets. Roses have been of better quality lately, being cut from the young stock. Carnations are at an end. Asters are late in coming into bloom, on account of the hot, dry spell. Outdoor sweet peas are not fit to cut.

Various Notes.

M. F. Parker, president of the Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co., was in the city last week. He said that work on the new buildings was progressing finely. He stated that rain was greatly needed, but that most of the firm's carnation plants were benched and were looking well. Mrs. Edith Roberts, saleslady for this firm, is spending her vacation at Minneapolis, Minn.

Henry Kusik & Co. report that stock is extremely scarce and they could handle a good deal more if they had it.

James A. Biggam decorated the hall last week for the photographers' convention. He reports business better than expected.

Mr. Kane is back from his vacation, which he spent fishing on the Grand river. He reports that fishing was better than business.

Mr. Bridgeland, of R. S. Brown &

Son, left July 30 to go back east for his vacation of six weeks. He reported that cut flowers were scarce, but that the firm was cutting some exceptionally fine lilies.

E. D. Humfeld has left for Hollister, Mo., on the White river, for an extensive vacation. He will spend most of his time fishing.

Mrs. T. A. Moseley is spending most of her time at Forest lake during the hot weather. Miss Jennie was quite busy last week with funeral work.

E. H. Frandsen & Co., on the Spring Branch road, have started to rebuild the houses that were burned down several weeks ago.

Samuel Murray sent a great deal of funeral work out of town last week.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. is cutting some exceptionally fine roses for this time of the year. The firm also has a nice lot of gladioli. W. J. B.

TOLEDO, O.

Trade continues slow, and outside of funeral work there is little being done.

C. W. Counter is bringing in some fine gladioli.

The celebration of the centennial of Perry's victory brought many thousands of visitors to the city. The city was beautifully decorated in honor of the event. In honor of the officers of the visiting boats, a dinner was given at the Yacht Club, covers being laid for 150. A unique table decoration of miniature battleships, using the Bulgarian colors, was carried out by the Patten Flower Shop.

Mrs. J. B. Freeman had an unusually attractive window, with a reproduction of Perry's boat, Niagara.

Frank Farney, of the M. Rice Co., was a visitor here last week.

George Schramm, of Schramm Bros., is away on a fishing trip at Lake Ann, Mich.

The Market.

Midsummer dullness continues to reign in cut flower circles. Good roses and carnations are scarce, but there is plenty of outdoor stock in the market.

Various Notes.

The Gross Floral Co. has retired from business. Carl Gross is now with the Alpha Floral Co.

E. P. Neiman, of the Park Floral Co., is spending his vacation fishing.

H. R. Neff is back at the Boldt-Lundy Flower Shop, after a three weeks' siege of illness. Ben Boldt, Jr., is up. in Platte Cañon for a few days' rest.

Miss M. Jennings, bookkeeper for the Denver Wholesale Florists' Co., has resigned her position and gone to Florida. Miss Hopkins has taken her place.

Z. G. Neff, of Geo. H. Cooper's staff, is spending his vacation at Weldona, Colo.

Recent visitors: A. Zirkman, representing the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia; Frank McCabe, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago. S. R. L.

Rock Island, Ill.—Sixty members of the Tri-City Florists' Association attended the annual summer outing at the Knees camp on the Rock river July 17.

Vassar, Mich.—The residence of C. A. Hawley was almost destroyed by fire July 16, when a defective chimney set fire to the roof. The greenhouse connected to the residence was also consierably damaged. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

EIGHT PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists — those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists — has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

The Market.

Business last week, I must say, was out of sight, for you could not see it. The only thing in progress around the shops at the present writing is repairing, house-cleaning and taking inventory. Roses are overplentiful and the supply of outdoor stock is still with us. Asters, gladioli and Silver Pink snapdragons hold the prominent space in our market.

Various Notes.

Geo. Goldbach is cutting some good Lilium rubrum or roseum. It is a beautiful pink spotted crimson, of the Japanese type.

Francis E. Bachler, one of our prominent florists, is reported seriously ill and has been bedfast for four weeks. No one is permitted to see him.

The Keystone Nurseries are cutting some good asters and gladioli. They also have a few blooming plants in pots, such as hydrangeas, tuberous begonias of the crispa type and gloxinias.

Rudolf Nagel made his first cut of asters July 25, about 500 blooms.

Katharine E. Seibert, saleslady for B. F. Barr & Co., is on a three weeks' vacation trip to Philadelphia, Norfolk and Washington.

summer window, which catches the eyes of the passers-by and holds the crowds. It is a duck pond six feet long, three feet wide and seven inches deep, with a large rock mossed in the center as an island. From the island a rustic bridge leads to the old oaken bucket in the background. There are about a dozen small white Pekin ducks about ten days old, and they certainly do some funny stunts in the pond. There also is a small sailboat afloat, with "Barr's Flowers, Lancaster, Pa.," on the sails, which is a good ad.

The Southwestern Market.

The market, as usual at this time of the year, is in anything but a good condition. The demand, so the wholesalers say, was light last week, so the retailers must have had a dull week. During the first two weeks in the month a large number of funeral designs were made up.

The stock at the different wholesale markets showed that quality is lacking in all that is coming in except gladioli, and these are arriving in great quantities at all the five markets. The consignments were so heavy that many of the common varieties had to be dumped. The fancy sorts, such as America, Merz, Augusta and Mrs. Francis King, always have ready sale. This seems to be the main flower now at the retail stores for window displays and work of all kinds.

Roses are poor in quality and will be for some time. There seems to be plenty of short-stemmed stock to be had, but really fancy grades are out of the question. The same may be said of carnations. Good valley and Easter lilies sell well at any time. Asters are, as yet, not overplentiful. There is a great quantity of outdoor stock being sent in, but there are few calls for it. Asparagus and fancy ferns have had a good demand.

Various Notes.

Visitors last week included J. Hembreiker, foreman for Gullett & Sons, Lincoln, Ill., and Fred Stuppy, of the Stuppy Floral Co., St. Joseph, Mo.

John Himmer, head gardener of the Mosgiel Gardens, at Crescent, Mo., called last week and reported that they are building two new houses, 40x100 and 20x100. When these are completed, they will have 50,000 feet of glass. The place is owned by John T. Milliken and comprises 1,000 acres of land.

David Geddes, Geo. Angermueller, Will Ossick, A. J. Bentzen and Andy Meyer, Jr., took a day off Friday, July 25, for a day's fishing at Spanish lake. They spent a most enjoyable day.

Andrew Hoffmann has resumed his antics at Waldbart's after a week's vacation. The boss has his vacation every day at his farm in St. Louis county, where a large quantity of good outdoor stock is grown for summer use at the Grand avenue establishment.

The Kirkwood growers and their employees are putting in busy weeks building new houses and repairing the old ones. Planting of young stock has already begun. The recent rains have done a great deal of good to violets and carnations in the fields. W. A. Rowe has obtained a permit to erect two greenhouses, 34x125 and 14x65 feet.

The wholesalers held a meeting at Smith's July 22. There were present W. C. Smith, C. A. Kuehn, H. G. Berning, Geo. H. Angermueller and Frank Windler. It was agreed upon to do all in their power to help make a success of the fall flower show and contribute to the florists' funds.

the S. A. F., says that he hopes that all who are going to the S. A. F. meeting at Minneapolis will make it known to him not later than next week at the Florists' Club meeting. The party so far numbers nearly thirty-five.

Frank Robinson, who will manage our fall flower show, says that one night of the week will be society night and that the admission will be $5 and by invitation only. The Japanese ambassador will hold a reception on that night in the tea garden. Geo. E. Kessler is at work on the plans for the floor space.

The members of the Florists' Club should not forget to attend the most important meeting of the year, which takes place next Thursday, August 7, at 2 o'clock. The election of officers will take place and S. A. F. convention matters will be thoroughly discussed.

The St. Louis County Growers' Club's regular monthly meeting will take place next Wednesday night, August 6, at the Eleven Mile house. President Vennemann says the club will take up flower

Henry Emunds, of Belleville, has a good stock of his new yellow King Humbert canna. A vase of the blooms was shown at the last club meeting. All the florists in Belleville are now busy getting their houses in order for the planting of their young stock.

Dr. Geo. T. Moore, general director of the Missouri Botanic Garden, has returned from Wood's Hole, Mass., where he has been directing a summer course of botany at the Marine Biological Laboratory.

City Forester Jules Koenig says that the department has entirely eliminated the bagworm, that has been such a pest the last few years to the city shade trees.

Ostertag Bros. have a great display of bay trees of all sizes and shapes in front of their Washington avenue store. Henry Ostertag says their summer business so far has been a good one.

Henry Berning has been receiving shipments of asters from western New York. They are not yet as good in quality as they will be later.

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, C. C. Massie, Minneapolis; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

W. W. BARNARD, Chicago, left July 25 for Eagle River, Wis., on a fishing trip.

THE first consignment of Dutch bulbs reached New York July 22 and consisted of forty cases, consigned to R. F. Lang.

N. J. OLSEN, of the N. J. Olsen Seed Co., at Moorhead, Minn., is one of the incorporators of the Red River Valley Seed House, of the same place, which is capitalized for $100,000, to do a wholesale and retail seed and produce business. The other incorporators are F. O. Olsen, of Fargo; N. R. Olsen, of Minneapolis, and D. D. Simonds, of Fargo.

REPRESENTATIVES of eleven seed houses, including the managers in several cases, took the short course in seed testing at University Farm, at St. Paul, last week, under the direction of Prof. W. L. Oswald. They were learning how to comply with the Minnesota pure seed law, as well as getting instruction in the general principles underlying purity and germination tests.

ARTICLES of incorporation have been filed by the J. Charles McCullough Seed Co., of Cincinnati, O., capitalized at $500,000. It is stated that the step is for the purpose of rewarding the employees who have built up the business. Mr. McCullough and the employees will hold the entire issue of stock, and the working force and the officials remain the same as before. The incorporators named are J. Charles McCullough, H. D. Brown, Robert O. Strong, Richard T. McComas and B. W. Delaney.

CORN IN NEBRASKA.

Wm. Emerson, manager of the Western Seed & Irrigation Co., Fremont, Neb., has just finished tabulating crop reports on corn contracts received between July 15 and 26, representing sixty-eight crops and 2,435 acres of both field and sweet corn. The reports show an average condition of better than ninety-one per cent. These crops cover the following counties, viz.: Dodge, Saunders, Colfax, Platte, Butler, Merrick, Boone, Greeley, Pierce, Holt and Lincoln, but only cover the locality adjacent to North Platte in Lincoln county, where the company has about 100 acres of corn.

"We understand the condition of the corn crops in the counties adjacent to the above, with the exception of Lincoln county, are in practically as good condition," said Mr. Emerson. "Most of the reports state that the corn is in good condition but needs rain, and we are glad to advise we have had good showers covering a large part of the above territory during the last week and we had a heavy shower in this vicinity last night, July 27. We note by the papers that the showers July 26 and 27 covered nearly the entire state of Nebraska, ranging from one-half inch to one inch or more in some localities, which will carry the crops through the tasseling and pollenizing period.

"The vine seed crop reports are also showing fairly well, although some acreage was lost on account of dry weather and damage from bugs and grasshoppers."

GOOD PEOPLE HAVE BAD VETCH.

Under date of July 19 the Secretary of Agriculture published Circular No. 45, on "The Adulteration and Misbranding of the Seed of Hairy Vetch," in which he said:

"During the calendar year 1912, seed of hairy vetch was secured in the open market in accordance with the following paragraph in the act of Congress making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture:

Where such samples (seeds of grasses, clover, or alfalfa secured in the open market) are found to be adulterated or misbranded, the results of the tests shall be published, together with the names of the persons by whom the seeds were offered for sale.

"In carrying on this work under the direction of E. Brown, botanist in charge of the seed laboratory, 391 samples of seed sold or offered for sale as hairy vetch were secured, of which 207 were found to be either adulterated or misbranded, and publication is here made of the analyses of these samples, together with the names of the seedsmen by whom they were sold or offered for sale.

"Hairy vetch seed was collected for the second time in 1912, when fifty-three per cent of the samples were found to be adulterated or misbranded, as compared with sixty-two per cent in the year 1911. Of these samples, seventeen contained no seed of hairy vetch, but were composed of cultivated forms of spring vetch, while 190 samples consisted of mixtures of hairy vetch, spring vetch, and other vetches."

The list of 113 firms from whom "adulterated or misbranded" hairy vetch was obtained is a notable one in that it is made up largely of well known concerns of good repute in the seed trade. In some of the previous lists of the department, published under the same law, the names have been almost wholly unknown, not the names of the seed trade at all, but people who handle seeds as a side line. This time, however, the seed trade is caught. A few of the names in the list are those of hardware and trading concerns, but the majority are seed houses of recognized standing. The list is sure to result in a revolution in the methods of merchandising hairy vetch.

SEED GROWN IN IDAHO.

A. J. Brown, of the A. J. Brown Seed Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., has returned from a ten days' trip to the Snake river valley, Idaho, where he has been looking into pea crop prospects. "Michigan used to be the great producing state for seed peas," Mr. Brown told a Grand Rapids reporter, "but in recent years climatic conditions have been unfavorable and seed dealers have been forced to seek a new source of supply. They tried Oregon, California and Montana without satisfactory results and now they have found what they want in the irrigated belt in southern Idaho, with Twin Falls and St. Anthony's as the centers. In the last six years these districts have become the great producing centers for seed peas, wheat, potatoes and alfalfa, and growers are realizing $50 and more an acre from their farms. At St. Anthony's the soil is volcanic and subirrigation is used. The soil is different at Twin Falls and surface irrigation is practiced. Both methods are successful and with the rich soil and intensive seeds are all grown by myself and are offered in the following mixtures and separate colors:

KENILWORTH STRAIN—The flowers are of perfect form and substance: many of the immense flowers are from 3½ to 4 inches; it is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings, rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures.

KENILWORTH SHOW—An extra fine strain of large flowers; the immense flowers are of circular form and great substance; a beautiful collection of colors and markings.

KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE—Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower or for exhibition purposes, for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 7 or 8 inches long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well.

MASTERPIECE—A remarkable type; the curled, wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance, its large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stem.

ORCHID FLOWERED, Mixed—A dwarf free bloomer with a range of delicate colors that do not exist in any other pansies, a remarkable combination of light rose, shell pink, blush mauve, fawn, light brown, orange and chamois.

NEW SEED NOW READY

All sorts and mixtures, except the new Pansy Princess, 1000 seeds, 25c; 5000 seeds, $1.00; ¼-oz., $1.25; 1 oz., $5.00

PRINCESS

The New Upright Pansy

This strain is entirely distinct from all others. It is absolutely compact, upright growing, and extremely weather-proof, enduring many storms without damage to its flower. The flowers are mostly blotched and frilled like the Masterpiece, of good form and heavy, velvety texture, on heavy stems carried well above the foliage. Attractive by the brilliancy of its colors.

Packet of 1000 seeds, 75 cents; 300 seeds, 25 cents.

DRY IN THE EAST.

This appears to be another year when seed growers in all the important seed producing sections of the United States are suffering from the effects of prolonged drought. It is the one cry at this season that rain is lacking, and the trade has grown more or less to expect and ignore the pessimistic utterances of seed growers. However, it has become generally recognized that the lack of rainfall in California this season has affected seed crops to a degree never before known. In the middle west conditions are more favorable; the vine seed crops have thus far given no occasion for special alarm. In Michigan and Wisconsin the peas have suffered seriously because of the

August is the time of sowing for the biggest results from SILVER PINK SNAPDRAGON from seed. Seed for the accompanying picture was sown August 18. By sowing at once a full crop can be had at Easter, which will continue until July, being heaviest at Memorial Day, when this picture was taken. We have said that there was nothing in sight but blossoms and dollars, and it is a fact. Silver Pink from seed is easy to grow and anyone can do as well by following directions. Whether you grow Snapdragons from seed or cuttings, they should be timed to flower with as little pinching as possible. Plants produced ahead of time and held back by pinching lose vitality and often throw blind shoots. By sowing seed now and pinching once you will have fine, stocky plants, ready for the bench in November. Our free cultural directions cover all of the necessary points for success with Silver Pink from seed.

You will note how successful many of our patrons have been. Gude Bros., Washington, D. C., with their six acres of glass and the highest class trade in the country, say it is the best they have seen. C. L. Howe, Dover, N. H., with his acres of glass and chain of stores, says it is fine and that he never had so many snapdragon blossoms. Mr. J. Geo. Jurgens, for Arthur Cockcroft, Northport, N. Y., who does an immense wholesale business, says it is the only one to grow, and that Silver Pink will GO IT ALONE with them this year. Many more strong letters could be given but further proof is not necessary. These are wide-awake florists who do business for profit. What is profitable and good for the big growers is as good or better for the smaller grower with retail trade, where a steady supply of blossoms is required. You can cut and cut from a bed of seedling Silver Pink and each cut will make more blossoms. But sow seed at once for best results.

Price of seed, $1.00 per pkt.; 3 pkts., $2.50; 7 pkts., $5.00, by mail. Cash, please. Plants sold out until October.

Quite a few shrewd florists are buying the larger amount of seed and will market their surplus plants.

high heat at the end of June and beginning of July. Now comes the report that drought is beginning to tell on most of the seed crops in the east. W. H. Woodruff, secretary and treasurer of F. H. Woodruff & Sons, Milford, Conn., said July 23 that crops not yet harvested had begun to show the effects of the long stretch of dry weather.

DUTCH BULBS.

In consequence of too much wet weather this summer the growers in the bulb district in Holland find tulip-lifting has been progressing slowly and the cleaning of bulbs is much delayed by the excessive moisture and the mud adhering to the bulbs. In addition to this, the crop is far from satisfactory, and in many quarters is a poor one. Hyacinths died down fully a week too early, and the crop could not be a good one under such circumstances. The salable bulbs could hardly be in the warehouses before the end of July, so no definite report of the crop has been possible. Crocuses promise a good crop, but the demand is so strong that prices will be maintained. Narcissi promise a fair crop, notwithstanding that they died down ten days earlier than usual.

FIELD IS TRAVELING.

The following appeared in the local paper at Carthage, Mo., July 24: "Mr. and Mrs. Henry Field and seven children, of Shenandoah, Ia., tarried in Carthage awhile yesterday evening on an automobile trip into the Ozark mountains of Arkansas. They carried a 'trailer' coupled to the automobile, on which they packed all their camp outfit. They left their home a week ago today and expect to be gone a month. For the last two years they have taken similar trips, but both the other times they went into the mountains of Colorado. Mr. Field is president of the Henry Field Seed Co."

BODDINGTON'S GIGANTIC PANSIES

can be produced only from the giant strains. Our CHALLENGE PANSY seed contains only the giant self-colors, the giant striped and variegated and the giant blotched, etc., all carefully mixed in proportion. You could not buy better seed if you paid $100.00 per ounce. Our Challenge Pansy seed during the past season gave unprecedented satisfaction, and every order booked last year was duplicated and increased this year. All the testimonials received mentioned specially the high grade of flowers—color, form and size of the individual blossoms. This year, by adding improved types, intending customers can absolutely rely on a duplication of this season's success with increased satisfaction. Our "mark" for this strain is "Challenge," and it is all the word denotes.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

San Diego, Cal.—Lanier Bros. have taken out a $1,000 permit for the erection of a modern conservatory next door to the Empress theater.

San Bernardino, Cal.—Fire destroyed the fern houses and damaged three other greenhouses of Mrs. Anna L. Hurtt July 9. It is supposed the fire started from a gasoline engine set between the houses. The loss, about $1,000, is covered by insurance.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Business is quiet, but up to the standard of other years. The excessively warm weather has driven the people to resorts, so that the occasional funeral or entertainment are the only things retailers can depend upon.

Carnations still come in limited quantities with impaired quality. Roses are scarce; Kaiserins are badly injured by mildew. Sweet peas are a glut on the market. The effects of the hot weather are readily seen on these. Gladioli, America and Mrs. Francis King, are coming in nicely as a novelty and are good sellers. Dahlias are plentiful, but are hard to move at any price.

Various Notes.

W. C. Hoffmann, of Sylvian, Ore., is making an addition of one house, 27x 120, to his range, which will be used in planting calla lilies and for propagating bedding plants.

Herbert & Fleishauer, McMinnville, are shipping some choice asters to the market, the first of the season.

Hans Niklas returned home after a trip of several weeks to Chicago and other cities.

Martin Winch is erecting several houses at his place near Hogan's station.

Berger Tonseth finds recreation in plying his launch on the Willamette. Recently a sunken rock, so dreaded by mariners, caused his downfall. The boys at the store were wondering why he wore his best clothes, until the matter leaked out.

F. A. Van Kirk and Ben Van Kirk were bit by a cat at their home. On account of the recent mad dog scares, they were anxious until assured by a specialist that the animal was not affected with rabies. E. R. C.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Stock has shortened up considerably, and if the demand were anything like a normal one there would be a serious shortage. This is the more remarkable in view of the fact that the weather has been cool and not unusually bright. There have been some elegant outdoor roses in the market, especially Mrs. J. Laing, which is probably the best hot weather rose we have. Indoor stock from young plants is coming in fine shape and there are about enough short flowers to go around for funeral work. Inside carnations are small and scarce, and the outdoor flowers are poor. There is a better supply of asters and centaureas, and the supply of gladioli keeps up well. A few nice Lilium rubrum and L. auratum have appeared, but no great quantity as yet. Other flowers are about as reported last week.

Funeral work has kept up well and there has been a fair business in box trade. Many more women are seen wearing natural flowers in the street now and the craze for artificial corsages is apparently on the wane. Gloxinias, begonias and other small plants are shown in the windows, but they are not particularly good. Greens are plentiful.

Various Notes.

G. Rossi & Co. are evidently looking for big business in greens during the coming year. They have leased a big tract in Alameda county and will ship largely of all kinds of wild greens to their wholesale store in this city.

J. B. Menasco is shipping in some fine flowers of Mrs. J. Laing, one of the finest of hot weather roses in this section, from his Covina place.

The tarnished bug is giving considerable trouble to the mum growers this season.

Chas. W. Hibbard is starting out for himself, growing bulbous stock for cut flowers for the market here. He has purchased some land at Pomona which he thinks especially well suited for the purpose.

Aurele Vermuelen, who hung out his shingle in the Byrne building some time ago, as a landscape architect, is picking up quite a little business and is proving himself a capable and efficient draughtsman, as well as an enthusiastic horticulturist. He certainly deserves his success.

C. Winsel is showing some pretty varieties of aquatics and other plants, the produce of his Montebello nurseries, at the Main street store.

Howard & Smith report business keeping up finely at their store at Ninth and Olive streets.

The Standard Pottery has kept all hands going busily this season and Mr. Anderson says he is well satisfied with the year's trade.

Mrs. H. N. Gage is on a vacation, leaving Mr. Gage to look after the business. Mrs. Gage sticks closely to her post at the store and surely deserves a rest. Business here is away ahead of that of last year at this time.

George Newman, of Murata & Co., left with his wife and a friend July 21 for an auto trip to San Francisco. He intends to stop at various points en route, and at the time of writing he was at Santa Barbara.

The centaureas and asters coming to the Los Angeles Flower Market from the north have been extra fine and they clean up regularly, being picked up almost before they are on the counters.

A delegation from the Los Angeles Horticultural Society visited the Pasadena brethren on the occasion of their meeting, July 18. President Winsel, J. M. Grant, Duncan Murdoch and H. R. Richards made the trip and all were accorded a hearty welcome. The question of the picnic at Redondo, August 3, was taken up and arrangements were made for the two societies to meet at this popular resort. The Pasadena society voted $100 for the expenses of the picnic.

W. Wern, manager of Wright's Flower Shop, left recently on an automobile trip and was last heard of near the Mexican border. Robert Garland, of this store, gave a stag party July 22, to which all the store force was invited. All report the best of times and Fred Westrom said that for once he had enough chicken—the kind with wings.

The new red rose, already mentioned as seen at Mr. Bridgeford's place at Eagle Rock, is proving a fine thing, the flowers being elegant in color and quite double, while the growth is all that could be desired—clean and strong. This should prove a money-maker for our friend Bridgeford, who richly deserves all success coming his way, for his motto is always "Quality first."

Dr. Houghton and his bride have arrived in Los Angeles and are at present at the Hershey Arms.

H. R. Richards.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

Last week the Potlatch stimulated trade a little, but now it is back to its usual quietness. The stores are keeping their doors open, but the customers are few. Carnations are scarce, but sufficient for the demand, and the same may be said of roses. Sweet peas are hardly worth handling. Gladioli are on sale, but not selling fast. This is a good time for the retailers to get around and see what the growers are doing.

Various Notes.

The Rosery was successful in securing prizes in the Potlatch automobile parade. Out of four entries they had two first and two second prizes. For the automobile confined to florists, in which most of the leading stores competed, they got first prize for a handsomely decorated car. They also got a first for automobile float and seconds for closed car and open touring car. H. B. Burdett and E. Mattria were also successful in the prize list.

John Croll, who lately retired from the firm of Det & Croll, seedsmen, nurserymen and florists, of Dundee, Scotland, with his wife, has been taking a well earned vacation after forty years of business. They are making a tour of the United States and Canada and last week were Seattle visitors. Needless to say, they were impressed with our wonderful city and delighted with the climate and surroundings.

The warm weather has come as a pleasant change after the long season of dull and rainy weather we have had. It makes it slightly sultry under glass, but there is usually a pleasant breeze. Growers are busy getting their carnations inside and most of them are well on to finishing this work.

E. J. Steele, of the Mastodon Pansy Gardens, Portland, Ore., was a Seattle visitor during the Potlatch. T. W.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The Market.

The warm weather has been replaced by much cooler conditions. A few showers during the last few days is rather unprecedented in the history of San Francisco, but this is what we have been treated to. The roses still show the effects of the recent hot spell. There are but few of them at best, and those that are shown are poor in color, size and stiffness of stem. Beauties are no larger than Maids, and to get any fancy stock is out of the question. The carnation growers are at present in the midst of shifting their benches and consequently the stock is neither up to form nor color. Asters have saved the day, however, and, although they are not yet at their best, they are of good quality throughout. The growers are getting good prices for them, but they are bound to be cheaper within a few days.

Japanese lilies are good and move well. Both the pink and the white varieties cost the stores from $1.50 to $2.50 per dozen. Dahlias are not as good as they were last season, nor do they sell as well. Gladioli and sweet peas are past their prime. Valley and Lilium longiflorum move slowly. Everyone is waiting patiently for the city dwellers to return to town and the schools to open, when it is expected that business will begin again.

Various Notes.

W. W. Saunders, of Cloverdale, is in town after a season spent in that locality in quest of florists' moss.

Mrs. Adolph Fleck, widow of the proprietor of the Oakland Plant & Seed Co., is making efforts to dispose of the stock and good will of the concern.

The Pacific Coast Horticultural Society and the Retail Florists' Association will give a joint picnic at Giant park, Contra Costa county, August 3. All the retailers will close on that day, so that all employees may attend the outing. A special train will carry the excursionists, and a jolly time is anticipated by everyone. Frank Pelicano is chairman of the committee on arrangements. The stores in Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda will also close for the day. G.

ROOTING GLORY OF CINCINNATI.

Will you kindly explain how leaf cuttings of Begonia Glory of Cincinnati may be successfully rooted? What temperature do they need, and how should they be treated as to watering, etc.? I tried a batch of healthy leaf cuttings, but did not succeed in getting any to root; they simply damped off. W. V. L.

Leaf cuttings of Begonia Glory of Cincinnati require a steady bottom heat of 75 to 85 degrees. The sand should be sharp and water should pass readily through it. They must not be heavily shaded, but merely shielded from direct sunshine. In heavy shade the leaves are almost sure to rot off. Select well ripened leaves and it is a great advantage to retain not only the whole leaf stalk, but also a little slice of the flowering stem. The leaves can just touch the sand. Watering should be done as soon as the sand shows the least sign of dryness. No direct sunshine or draught must be allowed to strike the cuttings. I hope you will have better success in rooting this finest of all winter-flowering begonias another season. C. W.

BORDEAUX MIXTURE.

Please give full directions as to the preparation of a good Bordeaux mixture. What proportion of each article is used in the making of it?

W. V. L.

Copper sulphate, four pounds; unslaked lime, four pounds; water, twenty-five gallons. Dissolve the copper sulphate in any wood or earthen vessel. Slake the lime in a tub, adding the water a little at a time to insure thorough slaking. After the lime is properly slaked, add enough water to make it the consistency of cream. When both sulphate and lime are quite cold, dilute each to the required strength, pour both into another receptacle together and mix thoroughly. Strain through a fine mesh sieve or cloth before using.

Lump lime should always be used in preference to such as has been air-slaked. If the amount of lime in the Bordeaux is insufficient, there is danger of burning tender leaves. To obviate this, test the mixture with ferro-cyanide of potassium, one ounce to six ounces of water. If there is a deficiency of lime, a deep, brownish red color will be imparted when ferro-cyanide of potassium is added. Add more lime to correct this. A little excess of lime is usually desirable.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

B. E. Gage, of Peterson Nursery, Chicago, having returned from a vacation in New England, has been at Duluth this week on a business trip.

Leaders in the discussions at the July meeting of the Douglas County Horticultural Society, which was held at the residence of the president, B. F. Smith, Lawrence, Kan., were A. H. Griesa, A. Whitcomb and C. W. Murphy.

Clarence M. Stark, president of the Stark Bros. Nurseries & Orchards Co., at Louisiana, Mo., who was adjudged insane by the Probate Court of Pike county recently, has asked for a trial by jury, so that he can be restored to his property rights under the law. Mr. Stark's wealth is estimated at $300,000.

The state entomologist of Indiana is investigating a complaint against a man and a woman who are alleged to have defrauded people of Boonville, Ind., out of several hundred dollars by selling them nursery stock other than as represented. Stock represented as Japanese hydrangeas turned out, it is said, to be common maple trees dug out of the woods near the town, and fancy rose stock was found to be wild rose bushes. The same agents are said to have worked this scheme in Owensboro, Ky.

The Jewell nursery, at Lake City, Minn., was established in 1868, by Dr. P. A. Jewell and J. M. Underwood. The Jewell Nursery Co., which now operates 1,500 acres, was incorporated in 1884. The management now is as follows: President, J. M. Underwood; vice-president, E. A. Smith; treasurer, A. B. Underwood; secretary, R. D. Underwood; superintendent of propagation, John Nordine; superintendent of employment, H. U. Beebe; manager of greenhouses, C. G. Nordine; sales auditor, A. H. Wagner; accountant, E. G. Fladwed; wholesale, F. A. Hagen; printer, Albert Roberson.

PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

Officers of the American Nurserymen's Protective Association elected for this year are as follows:

President—Henry B. Chase, Huntsville, Ala.

Vice-president—Irving Rouse, Rochester, N. Y.

Secretary—Thomas B. Meehan, Dresher, Pa.

Treasurer—Peter Youngers, Geneva, Neb.

THE RANERE RED RASPBERRY.

"A new and distinct variety" is the description given by Hugo Kind, of the Shady Lawn Nursery, Hammonton, N. J., of the Ranere ever-bearing raspberry, in a leaflet recently issued by him. It is, says Mr. Kind, of true American origin and, after being grown in New Jersey for the last five or six years, is superseding the other varieties. The hardiness of the plants, their ability to bear a large first crop on any kind of soil and the good quality of the fruit are all features of recommendation. A sworn statement of George W. Swank, of Atlantic county, N. J., shows net receipts of $526.69 on a crop of which 15,502 pints of berries were sold in 1912, from one and one-quarter acres of plants set in 1909 and 1910.

ILLINOIS SOCIETY MEETS.

The Illinois State Horticultural Society held its summer meeting at Anna, Ill., July 30 and 31. Important discussions occupied the mornings and afternoons, and the evenings were given over to entertainment, provided by the Commercial Club of Anna. W. S. Perrine, Centralia; J. W. Lloyd, Champaign; J. C. B. Heaton, New Burnside, and R. A. Simpson, Vincennes, Ind., were leaders of discussions on important subjects.

The officers of the society are: President, J. Mack Tanner, Springfield; vice-president, E. J. Baxter, Nauvoo; secretary, A. M. Augustine, Normal, and treasurer, J. W. Staunton, Richview.

IDAHO NURSERYMEN MEET.

The annual convention of the Idaho State Nursery Association was held at Payette, July 22, convening at 10 a. m. The program for the meeting included the discussion of some important matters and was as follows:

Annual Report of the President, Charles T. Hawkes, Caldwell.

Report of the Convention of the National Association of Nurserymen, E. F. Stevens, Nampa.

"Survey of the Nursery Conditions of the Northwest," Albert Brownell, Portland, Ore.

"Nursery Inspection," J. U. McPherson, state horticultural inspector, Boise.

"Orchard Planting not Overdone, or Good Quality Orchards vs. Poor Orchards," J. F. Littooy, Boise.

"Need of a National and State Law to Regulate Quality and Grading of Nursery Stock," J. A. Waters, Twin Falls.

"Problems in the Nursery Business," H. G. Monce, Nampa.

"Causes for Loss in the Nursery Business in 1912," George Fenton, Emmett.

"Efficiency Methods in the Nursery Business," Carl E. Wright, Kimberly.

"Growing Ornamental Nursery Stock in Idaho," Anton Diedrichsen, Payette.

"Nursery Stock Should Not be Replaced to the Planter," George W. Fonner, Payette.

THESE ARE EXCLUDED.

C. L. Marlatt, chairman of the Federal Horticultural Board, has issued a circular in which "you are respectfully advised that the following list enumerates the five-leaved pines included in Notice of Quarantine No. 7, effective May 21, 1913. None of the species listed nor any horticultural varieties of the same may be imported." Pinus:

albicaulis	lambertiana
aristata	mandschurica
ayacahuite	monticola
balfouriana	parviflora
bonapartea	pentaphylla
cembra	pence
excelsa	pygmaea
flexilis	strobiformis
koraiensis	strobus

ALABAMA INSPECTION BEGUN.

Prof. James C. C. Price, of Auburn, who has recently been appointed acting state horticulturist, with G. V. Stelzenmuller and B. E. Evans, deputy nursery inspectors, is beginning the annual tour of the state for the inspection of nurseries.

Prof. Price and his assistants will go first to Huntsville for the inspection of eight nurseries in that vicinity, two of which include more than 1,000 acres in nursery stock each. The Birmingham district will be covered, and from there they will work Fayette, Cullman, Steretts, Vandiver and other points in the northern part of the state where there are nursery plants.

SHRUB CUTTINGS.

In answer to B. T. W. about propagating shrubs you do not say whether the leaves should be removed from the cuttings or not. Please tell us.

V. R. F.

In propagating such deciduous shrubs as lilacs, viburnums, hydrangeas and others with large leaves, a large part of, but not all the leaf, should be cut away. In the case of deutzias, spiræas, loniceras, philadelphus and other small-foliaged sorts this is not necessary.

C. W.

PROPAGATION OF SHRUBBERY.

Will you please tell me what hardy shrubs are considered easy to root from soft or partly ripened cuttings? We are growing a number at present that we have never propagated in this manner and we wish to root all the varieties at once that can be readily handled.

F. B.

Use partly ripened wood; soft wood will usually rot. A close frame with a gentle bottom heat is suitable for propagating purposes. The sashes must be shaded and the cuttings sprayed lightly but frequently for some weeks. Some of the lilacs are more difficult to root than others.

The following deciduous shrubs will root from partly ripened wood: Viburnum molle, V. Opulus, V. dentatum, V. plicatum, V. tomentosum, V. Lentago, V. cassinoides; weigelas, all varieties; Symphoricarpos racemosus; privets, all varieties; Lonicera Morrowi, L. Ruprechtiana, L. Tatarica; sambucus, all varieties; Spiræa Thunbergii, S. arguta, S. Van Houttei, S. prunifolia, S.

Rothomagensis, S. pubescens, S. villosa (these lilacs are easily rooted; the named forms of vulgaris are rather more difficult; shorten the leaves well back when putting in these cuttings); forsythias, all varieties; Euonymus alatus, also the evergreen variety radicans; deutzias, all varieties; Daphne Cneorum; Cornus alba, C. Mas, C. paniculata; buddleias; Kerria Japonica; Elæagnus longipes; Exochorda grandiflora. Such evergreens as retinosporas, taxus and thuyas can also be rooted in summer. C. W.

SPOKANE TO FIGHT PESTS.

The city commissioners of Spokane will in all likelihood make a provision in the coming budget to combat various kinds of scale which infect the shade trees of the city and which, if not prevented, says F. B. Wright, head of the Wild Rose Nursery Co., will attack the nurseries and orchards of the vicinity.

Mr. Wright has been urging the commissioners to take steps against the spread of the San Jose scale and the black scale, which particularly are breeding in the trees of this city. The pests have already done much damage to the trees in the parks and are spreading rapidly. "If the scale is allowed to go on unmolested," says Mr. Wright, "the nurserymen of the community will have to move out. This scale will not only infect the nursery stock, but will kill the orchards."

The Market.

The last two weeks were typical of the summer season, with most of the flower buyers away on vacation and little doing except in funeral designs. Carnations are a thing of the past till the new crop comes in. The growers mostly benched their stock early or did not set it in the field at all, and as a result the plants are well advanced and a crop could be secured on short notice if desired. There is a growing tendency here to put the plants in early and develop as strong a plant as possible before allowing any blooms to mature. The results claimed are longer stems and larger flowers. About all of the mums are planted; they are doing well and the prospects are good for a crop of the early varieties. The roses have been all cut back except a few Killarneys and Kaiserins that are reserved for summer flowers. Richmonds are also good sellers in the summer and there is a pretty good supply of them at present. Beauties are scarce, but there is so little demand that no one feels the shortage seriously. Valley is in pretty good supply and sells well. Lilies are plentiful enough, but there is little surplus. Prices are keeping up well on nearly all stock, partly on account of the fact that outdoor flowers were almost a failure this summer. Peas, especially, were all but a failure; they are a thing of the past, except as they are shipped in.

Those who grow vegetables and are prepared to irrigate their crops are reaping a good harvest this season, as there has been little competition from the growers who have no water.

Various Notes.

Haury & Sons say that they are doing a normal amount of business for the season. They have some excellent gloxinias, which sell well. It is reported that they are planning to enlarge their plant soon.

At the Hillcrest School Farm the crops are likely to be seriously injured if rain does not come. Rain within a week would, however, save most things from serious damage. Their new house will be finished this week, if all goes well. Their cannas are looking well, especially the King Humberts, of which they have about an acre. The dahlias are not doing so well, as the drought and heat affect them more. Some are already dead.

Joe Brown did not go to Colorado, as reported. He is improving slowly and will remain here for the present.

Geny Bros. say that stock of all kinds is scarce and that they have had an unusual run of business during the last few days, so that they have found it hard to keep up. They are growing the new rose, Mrs. Russell, this season and like its behavior thus far. Their help have been taking their vacations of late and the unexpected run of trade has been hard on those who remained at work. F. B.

Alliance, O.—H. T. Miller is erecting a new greenhouse and office at 522 South Freedom avenue, which he expects to have ready for stock for the winter trade.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Good, brisk business is entirely out of the question just now. This certainly is about the slackest part of the season yet experienced. There is a little improvement in the shipments of roses received here daily, but the warm weather opens them quickly and renders them unfit for sale. Killarney, White Killarney and Melody seem to suffer more than the rest. Milady roses arrive in good condition and sell quite well. There is a steady demand for a good red rose and Milady seems to be taken in preference to the rest.

Gladioli are getting plentiful, but there is a scarcity of good sweet peas, owing probably to the dry season. There are some good white asters, which are found useful now that carnations are poor and scarce. The stores are showing some pretty gloxinias. Hardy hydrangeas are plentiful and, with a few bulbous begonias, are about all the flowering plants in blossom just now. Maidenhair, Sprengeri and Asparagus plumosus are plentiful, as well as other green stock.

Various Notes.

The children's playground committee has asked through the city newspapers for contributions of flowers each Friday for distribution among the children of the poor families who are unable to buy them. It is said that the children hang on to the flowers until the last petal drops, and it not only stimulates the love of flowers, but in many cases helps cheer those who are sick. It is hoped that our Rochester florists will contribute as often as possible. Usually there is a large quantity of flowers which can be picked over and disposed of in this way.

Miss Keuter, of H. P. Neun, has been spending the greater part of her vacation at Hilton, N. Y.

Horace J. Head, of H. E. Wilson, has been taking a few days' rest at White City, Irondequoit, N. Y.

Hugo Teute is bringing some fine America gladioli into the market, which sell rapidly.

George T. Boucher has just placed a new ice-box in his store. The flowers are visible from all four sides. There are mirrors at the back, plate glass shelves and compartments at top and bottom for ferns and for other uses. It is of local make. Mr. Boucher commences his vacation July 28. With his wife and family he will spend most of the time at Conesus lake.

Jacob Thomann & Sons are shipping some extra fine Rochester White gladioli.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia be sure to look us up.

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your own convenience, both going and coming. When you will see our palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place) and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

DETROIT.

Outing at Thomas Browne's.

A few days ago each member of the Detroit Florists' Club received a copy of the following notice:

FALL GAME, LUNCH, OPEN AIR MEETING.

Sounds interesting, does it not?

Thomas Browne, of Greenfield, Mich., cheerfully invites you to be his guest for the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, July 22.

The feature of the afternoon will be a baseball game between the Growers and Retailers. Browne's greenhouses will also be open for your inspection, that you may see Philadelphia growing, and for those wishing to visit Albert Stahelin's movable houses, autos will be available.

After a light lunch a regular meeting of the Detroit Florists' Club will be held in the early evening.

Just tack this where it will not be forgotten, and remember "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy;" so come along and have a good time.

There were eighty in the party. The retailers won a closely contested game, by a score of 9 to 8. Umpire M. Bloy's decisions created much excitement in the grandstand and several empty ginger ale bottles were seen cutting capers in the air pretty close to the umpire's head. E. A. Scribner, J. F. Sullivan, Philip Breitmeyer, Harry Smith and others participated in a game of quoits.

Thomas Browne's field of 120,000 carnation plants was said by many to be the finest field of carnations ever seen. Thousands of plants of Philadelphia were seen in the pink of condition. Mr. Browne's mums are also looking fine.

During the hour of twilight and while waiting for the call to lunch, some of the younger members put on boxing gloves and the bout between John Berlin and Herman Klagge, Jr., created much amusement.

One long table was set to accommodate the whole party and I doubt whether any of us ever had a more enjoyable meal. The sun had just hid behind the fields; there was just enough wind to cool the air and there were plenty of good things to eat. President Stock called upon J. F. Sullivan to act as chairman, and among those called upon for a few remarks were Philip Breitmeyer, Michael Bloy, Frank Danzer, Albert Pochelon, Robert Rahaley, Thomas Browne, E. A. Scribner, Norman Sullivan, J. A. Bissinger, of Lansing, President Stock, Walter Taepke and Hugo Schroeter. Much amusement was caused by Mr. Sullivan's witty introductions of the various speakers.

Robert Rahaley informed those contemplating going to the convention as to the routes and the expenses of the trip. It was learned that about fifteen would be in the Detroit party, going by way of Chicago.

Albert Stahelin's place was visited by many club members on the day of the outing at Thomas Browne's and the ship-shape manner in which his whole place is always kept was commented upon.

J. A. Bissinger and family motored from Lansing to this city July 22 and spent several days in and about town.

PEONIES.

"PEONIES FOR PLEASURE."
This book of "Peonies for Pleasure" gives information on peony history, soil and plants to use, how and when to plant, fertilizers and how to apply, and describes the most extensive planting of really valuable peonies ever gathered together under the sun; describes old and new as well as the plebeian and aristocrat of the peony family. If you want information on the plant that stands next to the rose in beauty, that is practically known to the amateur as simply a red, white and pink peony, then send for "Peonies for Pleasure."
We also issue a special wholesale price list of peonies for fall sales, 1913. Send for both of these booklets.
Our catalogue of everything you need mailed on application. Write for it today.

Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

SMOKELESS COAL AT CHICAGO.

"Undoubtedly, the center of interest at the minute is smokeless coal," says the Black Diamond's Chicago letter. "That situation has been tight all summer, and promises now to grow tighter. At least the coal men are showing a decided interest in its future. Summed up, the situation is about as follows: The amount of contracting in Chicago is not up to what it was last year, and shipments to the spot market have been considerably less. As a consequence, Chicago has not the same amount of smokeless on hand it had last year, but, on the contrary, it has less. The flat-building trade, which is growing all the time, has been buying more and has been taking in its coal early. That makes in Chicago and the west a bigger market for coal than ever before. It can be said truly that the supply is less than the demand. This is dictating a circular price of $1.40 on the mine-run coal, with premiums on some spot stuff running $1.50 or even up to $1.60 in rare instances. Lake shipments in tonnage are about what they were last year, but as compared with the buying they are behind. This indicates a good, steady market for the next two or three months, at least, or until the car shortage scare is over. What the situation will be after that remains a baffling mystery. The best guessers on the market express the belief that the weather alone will determine both supply and price."

BOILERS GOING TO ENGLAND.

Since American methods of greenhouse construction have been adopted in Europe a great deal of American greenhouse equipment has been exported, especially ventilating apparatus. At Chicago two boilers are under construction at the works of the Kroeschell Bros. Co., to go to England to be used in the new central hot water heating system of forced circulation for Lowe & Shawyer, Uxbridge, Middlesex. Each boiler measures sixty inches in width, fifty inches in height, and sixteen feet in length. The boilers will be built complete at the Kroeschell factory and will be loaded on freight cars which can be placed alongside the ocean steamer. The shipping weight of these No. 14 boilers is in the neighborhood of 14,000 pounds each and it will be interesting to note that the freight from Chicago to London is less than the freight from Chicago to the Pacific coast. The capacity is 12,000 lineal feet of 4-inch pipe, in addition to the mains, or five and one-quarter miles of 1¼-inch pipe for hot water heating.

GREENHOUSE AND HOTBED.

I have built a greenhouse 20x55 and about eleven feet to the ridge, and have run a 3-inch main up to the ridge, branching off with two 2-inch returns down from the ridge to return coils of seven 1½-inch pipes on the south side, which also run across the west end and back to the boiler. Besides these, there are seven 1¼-inch returns on the north side, running back to the boiler.

You would have the same control over the temperature of your houses as is afforded by an installation of the—— by installing The Martin Rocking Grate. Costs a little more than ordinary grates, but the coal burns—it doesn't go into the ashpit.

We refer to Peter Reinberg, Emil Buettner, Bassett & Washburn, Wietor Bros., Adam Zender, Sinner Bros., Albert Dickinson Seed Co., and many others. They will tell you to order the Martin Rocking Grate for the new boilers to be put in this season. Write for catalogue and prices.

Send order now—we will make up the grates and hold until you say ship.

Only twenty-seven feet of the north side is exposed to the weather, the rest of that side being protected by another greenhouse and a coal shed. Will this be sufficient piping for carnations and lettuce, in this Indiana climate?

I also wish to heat an outside hotbed, 4x55 feet, at the south side of the greenhouse. Would it be better to tap the lower end of the coil, at the east end, or to place a saddle just back of the 3-inch valve at the boiler and run a separate 1½-inch line across, with a valve near the boiler, and connect with the hotbed? Will five 1-inch returns in the hotbed be sufficient? Can I tap the lower 1½-inch return of the south coil for a return from the beds, or would it be better to run a pipe across the building to the 2-inch return at the boiler? I wish to grow lettuce in the hotbed in the coming winter and sweet potato plants in the spring. B. A. A.

It is a mistake to use 1¼-inch and 1-inch pipe for returns in hot water heating. In the house described it would have been better to use five 1½-inch pipes on each side, instead of the seven 1½-inch and seven 1¼-inch pipes which have been used. If well above the boiler the present arrangement should give good results, but if it fails to do so a mercury generator should be put in.

The simplest way to heat the hotbed will be to take off a 1½-inch flow pipe from the end of the 3-inch main and with this supply two 1½-inch returns. The main return from the houses should have been 3-inch, the same as the flow, and if a 2-inch was used it will be better to connect the return from the hotbed at the boiler or as near it as possible.

STEAM FOR ONE ROSE HOUSE.

I should like to know how many feet of 1¼-inch pipe will be required to heat a rose house, 20x100, with steam. The house is eleven and one-half feet high to the ridge and has two glass gables. The side walls are five and one-half feet high and the south wall contains two and one-half feet of glass. I intend to feed half of the coils at each end, to keep an even temperature. What size of flow will be required? Will it be better to have the pipes under the benches, for roses, or on the walls? The lowest outside temperature in this part of Minnesota is 35 to 40 degrees below zero. C. B.

With outside temperatures but little if any below zero, a rose house can be heated by one square foot of steam radiation for six square feet of glass, but under the severe conditions mentioned it will be safer to use one square foot of radiating surface to four square feet of glass. If a 2½-inch feed pipe is carried about three feet below the ridge to the farther end of the house, it will be possible to secure an even temperature without going to the trouble of connecting one-half of the pipes at one end of the house and the other half at the other end.

In addition to the main, about fourteen 1¼-inch pipes will be required to maintain a temperature of 60 degrees when the outside temperature is 35 to 40 degrees below zero. About three of the returns should be on each of the walls and the others can be distributed under the benches.

SPRINGFIELD, O.

A Dissolution of Partnership.

As the plant of the Ferncliff Floral Co., opposite the lower entrance to Ferncliff cemetery, has been taken over by the city for park purposes under condemnation proceedings, the two members of this partnership, Messrs. Bethard and Finfrock, will engage in business separately for the future.

C. Pearl Bethard will conduct a general florists' business in the houses on West Mulberry street which he purchased from Charles W. Unglaub some time ago. Mr. Bethard conducts a regular stand in the city market house.

A. S. Finfrock has wisely secured four city lots, each approximately 40x240, on McCreight avenue, immediately adjoining the northeast corner of Ferncliff cemetery—land which might well have been secured by the cemetery to square out its area to Plum street, which it reaches along its lower portion. Two greenhouses, each 26x100, are in course of construction, together with a conservatory 15x17, attached to a shed of two stories and basement, which will serve on its several floors as boiler cel-

FLORISTS WHO KNOW ALL THE GOOD POINTS OF THE KROESCHELL BOILER NEVER FOR A MOMENT CONSIDER ANY OTHER KIND

The Kroeschell is making the most wonderful greenhouse heating record in the world. Florists who have used other makes are constantly giving the Kroeschell the highest praise.

10,788,000 sq. ft. of glass was equipped with the Kroeschell Boiler during the past five years.

The Kroeschell has replaced hundreds of cast iron boilers. In every case higher temperatures are secured with the Kroeschell with the same piping and with less fuel.

The Kroeschell is sold direct from factory to users. This eliminates the unnecessary middleman's profit.

The KROESCHELL Is of the Highest Standard

MATERIAL—Governed by Kroeschell specifications—the best that money and brains can produce.
WORKMANSHIP—The kind that is an inspiration to all other boiler makers.
BOILER EFFICIENCY—Determined by actual tests under working conditions.
BOILER RATINGS—Honest and true blue—guaranteed actual working capacities.

You will never be disappointed with a KROESCHELL Boiler. Read what others say who have used different kinds:

Kroeschell Replaces 4 Cast Iron Boilers

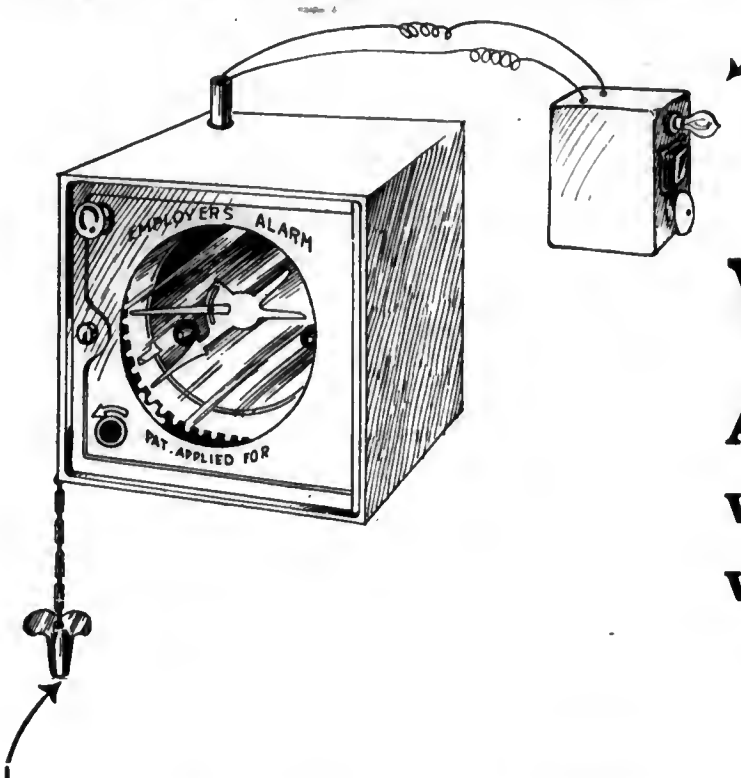
Previous to 1909, Mr. Schultz, of Menominee, Mich., heated his entire plant with cast iron boilers. It had been claimed that cast iron boilers are superior to the Kroeschell. Mr. Schultz is now heating 18,000 sq. ft. of glass with the Kroeschell which was installed in 1909, and they are required to fire same only twice a night. The following letter speaks for itself:

"We do not have the least trouble to maintain about 60 degrees in the coldest weather. Your Kroeschell Boiler is the best I ever had. Before I heard about your boiler I had four cast iron boilers, and I would not part with the Kroeschell for a hundred cast iron boilers now." (Signed) CHARLES SCHULTZ.
July 21, 1913, Menominee, Mich.

Kroeschell Replaces 2 Cast Iron Boilers

The Marysville Floral Co., of Marysville, O., installed a No. 4 Kroeschell Boiler in 1905. Previous to this time they used cast iron boilers. The following letter speaks for itself:

"Has the Kroeschell given entire satisfaction? YES! We had two cast iron boilers, but yours proved by far the best. Your boiler has already outlasted the two cast iron boilers by five years, and all the expense that we have been put to was a smoke dome." (Signed) MARYSVILLE FLORAL CO.
July 21, 1913, Marysville, O.



Kroeschell Replaces Cast Iron

The range of C. Peterson & Son, at Escanaba, Mich., was formerly heated by cast iron boilers. Last season this firm installed their first Kroeschell, a No. 6, which is now heating 13,000 to 14,000 sq. ft. of glass. They state that they fire these boilers three to four times during the night in zero weather. Under date of June 28, 1913, they write as follows:

"The Kroeschell Boiler has given better satisfaction than any other boiler we have ever had. For years we have fired many different boilers, and really never could get one that we might say was entirely satisfactory—there was always something wrong—but now since we have tried the Kroeschell, we have solved our boiler proposition. We have a (—— ——) cast iron sectional boiler here, only used two years, and we wish we could get rid of it and put in another Kroeschell in its place."
Escanaba, Mich., June 28, 1913. (Signed) C. PETERSON & SON.

lar, salesroom and workroom. McCreight avenue affords the only means of reaching the cemetery gate by car line and also by automobiles, which are not permitted to pass in or out at the lower entrance, the latter being reserved for funeral uses only. It will be apparent, therefore, that this location will naturally catch the bulk of the transient trade of cemetery visitors. Mr. Finfrock will be sole proprietor, and as soon as the affairs of the Ferncliff Floral Co. are fully wound up he will probably do business as Finfrock, the Ferncliff Florist.

Various Notes.

The combination pipe, tile and concrete idea adopted by the Leedle Floral Co. for gutter posts and ridge posts has proved so satisfactory that the same method has been followed in the construction of the bench legs, for which lighter pipe and only 3-inch tile are necessary. The common red drain tile is found to "knit" to the concrete filling admirably, and after a brush coat on the surface it has become a component part of each post and leg. Reinforced concrete is being used for the front boards and rear boards of the benches, the material tapering from an inch and an eighth at the top to an inch and a half at the ledge, on which the bottom boards of pecky cypress will rest crosswise of the bench, while the stringer which forms the ledge is approximately 2x3 inches. The forms are set up in 154-foot lengths and an entire length is poured at once, the concrete filling around the top of pipe and within the top of tile, thus making all practically monolithic as well as thoroughly rot-proof, rust-proof and sag-proof.

From various causes, the Springfield Florists' Club lacked a quorum for its regular July meeting, the vacation season seeming to affect the attendance, but the appointment of the usual committee for the nomination of officers should inject some animation into the August meeting. Ge Dale.

Davenport, Ia.—Ewoldt Bros. have closed a contract with the John C. Moninger Co. for the material for another greenhouse at Floral Hill.

Glimpse of Greenhouse on Private Grounds of H. D. Wheat, Gaffney, S. C. Greenhouse Given to Gaffney Park by Mr. H. D. Wheat.

Word from the Sunny South

Mr. H. D. Wheat, of Gaffney, S. C., gave this house to the Gaffney Park. He has a charming little Lord & Burnham Curved-Eave house on his private grounds. Here is what his gardener, Mr. G. Janes, has to say about the park house:

"I have worked in the Lord & Burnham greenhouses for the past three and one-half years, growing fruit, flowers and vegetables, and we have always had the finest results—which, I believe, is partly due to the amount of light and proper ventilation.

"Here, where I have raised a good number of bedding plants besides the usual cut flowers and pot plants, I fix up shelves which I can stand a surprising lot of plants on, besides hanging heavy fern baskets in every little bit of spare room—which, of course, is possible with the iron frame construction.

"The neat way in which they are built, too, gives a pleasing effect to any park."

Superior in Fact

The SUPERIOR STANDARD is designed specially for greenhouse work after a close study of what was needed. It is easily cleaned, although it has more flues than any other boiler, but—more flues give more heat; more flues require less fuel; the water heats quicker and hotter, because the volume of water heated by each flue is smaller.

Trade was extremely quiet last week. Stock is still scarce and gladioli are about the only flowers that are arriving in large quantities. Carnations are about gone; so, also, are Shasta daisies. Short Beauties sell fairly well. Lilies find a ready sale. Some album and rubrum lilies are to be seen.

Various Notes.

The next regular meeting of the State Florists' Association will be held at the establishment of the Smith & Young Co., 227 East Ohio street, August 5, at 8 p. m. There is considerable business of importance to be transacted at this meeting and a good attendance is expected.

Henry Rieman is contemplating the purchase of another automobile for his delivery service. He is highly pleased with the service that he is getting out of the Flanders.

Harry Jones, of the Jones-Russell Co., Cleveland, is coming here to spend next week with George Wiegand.

Baur & Steinkamp state that they will grow more carnation cuttings for the market this winter than heretofore.

The Market.

Trade is quiet, with a meager supply of stock. Carnations are about over and what few are on the market are of such poor quality that scarcely half of the stock can be used. Roses are still holding their own, but it is a hard matter to keep them from one day to the next, as the warm weather makes them open quickly and Killarneys are of little account when full-blown. There are a few calls for Beauties, but the supply is extremely limited. Lilies are really the most satisfactory flower at present; there has been a good supply of them on the market and they are always used up clean. Sweet peas are suffering from the extreme changes in the weather and they have been poor for the last week, with little prospect of their getting any better, as the weather is hot again. There has been considerable valley on the market and it has been used up clean. Gladioli have made their appearance and are much in demand, as they make a good showing. Only a few asters are to be seen and it will be several days before there will be any great quantity, but they will certainly be welcomed, as there is seldom so little stock on the market.

Florists' Outing.

The florists' outing at Buckeye lake, July 23, was a success and a good crowd attended. The majority went on the early cars, but, as the tickets were good on any car, some went out rather late in the day, and they all report a good time. There were no games of any kind, but they all took to the water, some fishing, others boating or bathing, and later in the day there was a good crowd on the dance floor. J. M.

Hutchinson, Kan.—Kline Bros. have rented a part of the front lobby of the new Rorabaugh-Wiley building, where they will install a florists' shop.

FLOWER POTS

We are trying to save you money through this advertisement. Our plan is to furnish you the best of ware at a very low price. It costs money to call on you personally. Let's get together on the mail order proposition and you save the difference. There are other reasons why you will want our pots. We are very fortunate in the quality of our clay, and you will be delighted with the ware. Our large output and advantages of cheap fuel, with our clay at our back door and the railroads at our front door, with little cost for selling, enables us to quote you very low prices. A sample order will convince you. Samples and prices on application. Whether you use car lots or smaller quantities, it is to your advantage to write us.

The Gateway to the South.

The market is again well supplied with seasonable flowers and, as a result, prices have declined considerably. The demand has kept up steadily, but has not kept pace with the increased supply. Some excellent stock is coming into the wholesale houses. The larger part of the offerings in gladioli are of good quality and meet with a fair sale. The rose cut, too, continues to increase. The larger part of the receipts are short-stemmed, but the stock is generally nice and clean. Besides the general line of roses, there are limited quantities of Maman Cochet. The Easter lily supply is larger than it was, but it still is on the short side. The receipts have been cleaning up on sight. Some fine auratums are proving good property. The number of rubrum, speciosum, and the like, is limited. Pond lilies meet with a fair request. The aster supply still is limited and is made up mostly of Queen of the Market. The few really choice blooms that arrive find a good market.

Various Notes.

E. A. Forter has been spending the last fortnight in Chicago. He was expected to return the first part of this week. Miss Louise Forter leaves about the first week in August for a house party in Freeport, Ill., then for a camping party at a cottage on a near-by lake. Miss Forter will take a month for her vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Critchell and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Peterson and daughter will attend the S. A. F. convention at Minneapolis.

Chas. Pommert, of Amelia, has been sending in excellent May gladioli.

Cards from L. H. Kyrk, in the northern part of the state, indicate that he and Mrs. Kyrk are having a good time there.

J. M. McCullough's Son's Co. has been receiving some excellent asters, which sell on sight.

Advices from L. D. Singer state that he has purchased the Harbison greenhouses at Harrodsburg.

C. L. Baum, of Knoxville, has advised the Cincinnati florists that he will join them on the way to the convention.

A. C. Heckman, Jr., of the Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange, is spending the first few days of this week fishing on the east fork of the Little Miami.

Visitors: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Molck, Jeffersonville, Ind.; Mrs. Gerlach, Piqua, O.; L. F. Benson, Indianapolis; A. Rasmussen, New Albany, Ind.; Henry Ehrhardt, Sidney, O.; J. P. Keller, Lexington, Ky., and J. T. Herdegen, Aurora, Ind.

FARMERS & FLORISTS TANKAGE FERTILIZER

¶ Is acknowledged by the majority of florists and farmers of the United States to be the best balanced commercial fertilizer manufactured. It carries in its composition a percentage of the ten Basic Salts constituting soil, and it would be an impossibility to use it on any farm, field, lawn or bench without enhancing fertility and productiveness. It carries a very high percentage of the principal plant foods, as certified in its guaranteed analysis of:—Nitrogen 2.90%, Ammonia 3½ to 4%, Phosphoric Acid 8 to 10% and Potash 3%.

¶ Our AETNA BRAND OF TANKAGE FERTILIZER is giving universal satisfaction wherever used, and as we believe in the law of live and let live, and that honesty is the best policy, we have placed this fertilizer within the reach of all growers at the low figure of $22.00 a ton, f. o. b. TANKS AND TOWERS

Again it is Cypress, without so much as the suggestions of a substitute. Who ever heard of a really good tank made of other wood than Cypress? Every SOUND OLD tank is of Cypress; if it had been made of other wood than Cypress, it would probably be a ROTTEN OLD tank by now.

Notice the catalogues of the leading tank builders. We do not know of an exception to the rule made long ago by the best of them—"Cypress makes the best and most enduring of tanks."

And for TANK TOWERS—they don't need to be of steel. Cypress towers carry their loads after your children's children are gray of hair and whisker. Certainly the Cypress tower looks better than the steel—and it does the business. Don't let anybody fool you about the Cypress tower—it is a "tower of strength" and a tower of endurance.

LAY IN SOME BOOKS

You can't improve on the CYPRESS Pocket Library. The 37 volumes are interesting and authoritative. Vol. 4 is the Barn Book; Vol. 20 is the Farm Needs Book; Vols. 6, 8, 18 and 32 are Bungalow Books, with full plans and specifications for building; Vol. 28 is Trellis and Arbor Book, handsomely illustrated; Vol. 35 is about Sun Parlors and Sleeping Porches, and Vol. 3 is the Greenhouse Book. Don't wait for us to "pass things;" just help yourself. They're Free.

CINERARIA SEED
S. & W. Co.'s Giant Prize Strain

This strain of Prize Cineraria is grown for us by a famous English seed specialist. The flowers seldom measure less than 3 inches in diameter, comprising the following colors: White, rose, flesh, crimson, blue, violet, etc. The plants are of a very robust dwarf habit, which, combined with the mass of giant blooms, makes this strain exceedingly valuable.

YOU CAN MAKE MONEY

ON YOUR SUMMER BUSINESS

Many dealers think it is not possible to make money in the summer—too much loss of stock. But this is not necessary. A lot of stores ARE making money this summer and YOU CAN too.

It all lies in the way of getting the stock—in the manner it is received and the quality.

Roses direct from a big grower—fresh—absolutely fresh—and handled but once—not two or three times, and that, often carelessly.

Cut in tight bud twice a day by expert growers, assorted by careful girls and thoroughly cooled in a large room at a temperature of 45 degrees. Most careful packing by experienced girls, and everything shipped out the same day they are cut.

That way of handling, and American Beauties are the secret of Summer success in the flower business.

You can keep Beauties longer after you receive them than any other variety. They ship better than any other roses, and at the prices you get them here you can sell them at one, two and three dollars a dozen, and make a good profit. We have all the other kinds, too, and as good as possible to have them in such hot weather.

DOG DAY DOINGS OF THE SHOW WINDOW ARTISTS

How the enterprising Decorators are halting the crowds by using the suggestions in The Review's article of July 3

HAVE you noticed the frequent items in the newsletters the last two or three weeks about how the enterprising decorators are flagging the perspiring pedestrians by putting in special summer windows?

It all came about because of the article, "Cool Windows for Hot Weather," in The Review for July 3. It set the quick wits and nimble fingers working. The article showed pictures of some cool windows, and told how others might be devised, but the special value of such matter in a trade paper is not so much in what the writer says as in his capacity for setting his readers to thinking — and acting on their thoughts. That the window article was one of the most successful ever published in The Review, almost as successful as the Mother's day and St. Valentine's day articles, is shown by the fact that special water and mechanical-toy displays have been holding big crowds in front of flower store windows all over the country the last few weeks. It set the decorators thinking — and with the average florist to think is to act.

Value Proven Now.

If there ever was any doubt about the value of special seasonable window decorations, especially in the off season, all doubt has been dispelled by the crowds that have stood in front of these windows the last few weeks. It has been demonstrated that at this time of year the retailer's window may exert a drawing power as great as in any other season. A display that gives the idea of coolness is sure to attract a crowd. People are searching for a cool spot, and if they can not find one to get into themselves, they will stop and watch one in a display window. This is the thing to be borne in mind when one is decorating a window at this season.

Of course water is the greatest help in producing a cool effect. Ice does not last long enough to be worth while, and reproductions of icy scenery are rarely successful. A scheme well worth while, however, is to make the mountain, so often used in summer displays, with a small ice-cap, under the edge of which issues a small stream of water. If this is well designed and the representation of ice is a good one, it will often keep the spectators wondering if it is really a piece of melting ice that is the source of the stream.

Uses of Running Water.

On the brooks and rivulets, then, we must depend a great deal. These can be run through the miniature landscapes in small gutters, which are well hidden by moss, soil or gravel. The mill wheel often is used in connection with the stream, but it never fails to attract attention and interest. Better still, and not so difficult as it appears, is a miniature cascade or waterfall. If the water is contrived so as to fall over a ledge of glass, splendid effects can be made at night by the use of colored lights back of the glass and shining through the falling water. A great deal of the effect at night of the window shown in the illustration on page 11, which was the outcome of a Kansas City florist's reading the article of July 3, is in the electric lighting of the miniature buildings and of the signs.

Small fountains are always a source of delight and are easy to set up. Naturally, a small pond is used to catch the falling spray and this small body of water may be made the basis of more novelties. Toy ships, either in distress or stanchly braving the rollers, may rock on the waves caused by the water falling into the lake from a fountain or a waterfall. The pond may also serve as the home of a dozen or so ducklings, which never fail to draw their full share of attention.

Living Creatures Always Draw.

The drawing qualities of the ducklings, which rank high on account of their acrobatic performances in the water, suggest another feature that is often used in summer displays and seldom without success. This is life in its various forms. Turtles, crabs and the like draw crowds when they are simply gathered in a tank in a butcher's window. How much more attractive should they be when used in a flower store window where there is the additional aid of a scenic display? A sandy beach with a baby alligator basking thereon suggests the seashore, and in northern states the rareness of the animal makes it the greater novelty.

Goldfish, or tiny fish of any kind serve the purpose, although the former are so common nowadays that they have lost greatly in drawing power. Frogs and toads are rarely seen in windows, but small ones could be used to a quite decided advantage; the larger ones might prove disastrous to some of the scenic arrangements, if they started to travel strenuously. Occasionally the baby animals of wild species of small size are seen in window displays, but they are the exception and hard to get.

Guess which window has the running water, the ducklings and the mechanical toys, and which window has the commonplace vase of asters among the ferns.

Toys Are of Advantage.

The value of mechanical toys in decorations of this kind is becoming more generally recognized. For instance, the window in the illustration on page 11 shows several in one display. These include an automobile, camels, goats and a fisherman. The effigy fishing in the lake in the foreground is easily distinguishable by his pole. Says an admirer of this window, "The cleverest feature in this display is the little old man who sits on the bank of the lake from morning till night, only to amuse the passing crowd with jerking his pole and throwing it high in the air, for he fishes

These include an automobile, camels, goats and a fisherman. The effigy fishing in the lake in the foreground is easily distinguishable by his pole. Says an admirer of this window, "The cleverest feature in this display is the little old man who sits on the bank of the lake from morning till night, only to amuse the passing crowd with jerking his pole and throwing it high in the air, for he fishes in vain. He then resumes his old position and again patiently awaits another bite. It has been stated by several spectators that this is a true representation of their luck during their summer outings.''

Whatever the appeal to human experience that this particular fisherman toy exerts, which makes it doubly attractive, other mechanical toys add greatly to a window decoration. Whirring motorboats and automobiles, even though they never reach a destination, catch the eye, for the eye of the ordinary individual is as sensitive to a moving object as the eye of a bull to a bit of red, although the effect may not be the same.

Puzzles Are Good Advertising.

There is a ruling principle which should be carried in mind and may as well be mentioned here. This is to the effect that a puzzle is about the greatest keeper of attention. If somewhere in the window there is a bit of action that cannot be accounted for by any mechanical contrivance within the scope of the spectator's fancy, the puzzle will be an eternal lodestar to him. If he can not find out how it works today he will come back tomorrow, and again and again. He will tell a friend that over in the window of So-and-So, the florists, there is a contrivance that has got him guessing, and the friend also will try to solve the puzzle. This is real advertising.

In the window of a Chicago business house there is a toy steamer that steers its way amid rocks and hidden dangers and never falters and never meets disaster. One's first guess is a wire under the water and search is made immediately for it. The water is clear and smooth as glass, but no means of control is revealed to the eyes of the searcher. So he comes again, always hunting for a solution. Such a device is difficult, but many simpler puzzles may be devised. A whirling spray inside a globe of glass and hidden by the water flowing down the sides of the globe often puzzles some people for a while. The puzzle need not be unsolvable; it need only puzzle for a time and, when solved, merit the commendation of cleverness.

Appeal to Other Interests.

It is a well-known rule in advertising to hitch up one's idea with something else in which people are strongly interested. Hence the great number of baseball ideas in advertisements, particularly of men's needs. This rule helps equally in window decoration and will lend a touch that makes the display worth twice the value it otherwise has. Appropriate designs for holidays and special occasions have long been the rule. Designs appropriate to locality and the interests of the season, and in some way linked up with those things in which the spectator is almost certain to be interested, are of as much, if not of more value.

This is, of course, meant to be carried out in a particular way, just as in a broad way the whole display is made to appeal to the interest the passer-by has in a cool spot. As the effort to arouse a feeling of coolness must be constantly present in the dog-days window decoration, so the idea of hitching up the window advertisement to the interests of those who will see it ought to be ever in mind.

CONVENTION HALL ALL RIGHT.

This note is for the purpose of setting at rest disquieting rumors as to the condition of the armory at Minneapolis that is to be used as the convention hall.

A story has been going from mouth to mouth and growing with each telling, until it might appear that the building is unsafe. The facts appear to be quite tame. It is stated by George Asmus, who has just returned to Chicago after spending several days at Minneapolis, that a section of the west wall possibly 10x10 feet has been taken down and boarded up pending the permanent rebuilding with brick after the convention. The roof is carried on steel girders on concrete pilasters and is entirely independent of the walls. If all the walls were removed it would not affect the stability of the building. One small section between girders some time ago parted a few inches from the steel and repairs were ordered by the state. For the convenience of the S. A. F. the permanent work was postponed until after the convention. Of course various conferences have been necessary, but the matter is of no real consequence and should not be exaggerated.

CONVENTION PREPARATIONS.

The Outdoor Exhibits.

Vice-president Theodore Wirth, who is in charge of the outdoor exhibits that are to be a feature of the S. A. F. convention at Minneapolis, is disappointed with the showing; the response by the trade has not come up to his expectations. According to the list published in The Review July 31, eighteen firms from a distance have taken space, as have thirteen in Minneapolis and St. Paul, a total of thirty-one exhibitors. It also was stated in the same issue that at least one exhibitor is paying $447 for his outdoor space. That will seem to those who attend the convention as being a distinctly creditable showing, although Mr. Wirth writes:

''Are all the many advantages of our conventions and trade exhibits understood and recognized, and are we all doing our share to advance those advantages for the common good of the trade in general?

''I believe that the speaker at a recent meeting of the Philadelphia Florists' Club was entirely right in saying that 'we do not always give each other the square deal,' and his remarks, which were dealing in the main with existing relations between growers and retailers, can well be applied and are equally true in a still broader sense when we consider the relations between the craft as a whole and our endeavors to advance and explore to the fullest extent our large and ever promising field of work.

''The truth of this is well demonstrated through the comparatively small interest shown by the growers and dealers of this country in the undertaking of an outdoor exhibit in connection with the coming convention. No better opportunity has ever been offered to any grower or dealer to display his plants adapted for outdoor culture than the garden now planted, which from a cultural point of view is now in a promising condition. The expense for space was low and the assurance given for the proper care, cultivation and protection of the exhibits could not have been made more satisfactory.

''The answers to our appeal for exhibits received from some of the leading firms, and the marked indifference shown by the great majority of growers and dealers, are, to say the least, discouraging and not creditable to the craft as a whole. The only reasonable excuse for the lack of better support for this undertaking is that it is a new venture in connection with our convention. Good weather prevailing, the success of this exhibition garden is assured, and it is hoped same will result in similar displays at future conventions, to which the trade will surely give better support.''

Secretary Young's View.

On the other hand, Secretary John Young thinks the prospect for the convention among the best in years. Writing August 1, he said in part:

''A state of preparedness may be said to exist at this time. All the local committees have been and are working in harmony, and all details are so arranged that no one expects the slightest hitch to occur during convention week.

''The main hall of the Armory, where the trade exhibits are to be located, is ideal for exhibition purposes. The plantings in the outdoor exhibition have progressed well, and should be just right when the convention opens. All will be ready when the delegates arrive.

''Intending visitors should avoid the possibility of disappointment in obtaining hotel accommodation to their liking by making room reservations at once. Minneapolis has many good hotels, but at this time of the year they are generally well patronized by tourists; hence the wisdom of booking accommodations early.

''Great preparation has been made to care for the comfort and pleasure of the visiting ladies. The Minnikahda Club, where the luncheon will be given

A Hot Weather Cool Window That Has Been Attracting Much Attention for a Kansas City Florist.

Wednesday afternoon, is one of the attractions of Minneapolis. The ladies' trip to St. Paul, Friday, starting at 9:15 a. m. instead of 10 a. m., as mentioned in the program, will be made by trolley instead of automobiles. On arrival in St. Paul the visitors will be taken in automobiles on a trip through the city and its surroundings, returning to Hotel Radisson, Minneapolis, at 5 p. m. The St. Paul boys are making every endeavor to ensure that this day shall be a red letter one.

"Tonka Bay, where the outing will be held, is a lovely place, and nothing will be left undone which will in any way contribute to the pleasure and comfort of the guests.

"The bowlers have been well provided for; fourteen of the best alleys in the country, centrally located.

"The local committees, headed by Vice-president Wirth, have worked hard on the preparations for the convention, and deserve every success. It will not be their fault if the 1913 convention does not pass as one of the most enjoyable and instructive in the history of the society."

LADIES' S. A. F.

Members of the Ladies' Society of American Florists will find the secretary at Committee Room D, Convention hall, office open all the week of August 19 to 23. Annual meeting Wednesday, August 20, at 10 a. m., in Committee Room D. Reception at Hotel Radisson, Thursday evening, August 21, 8:30. A meeting of officers and board of directors is called for Tuesday evening, Hotel Radisson. Members please wear your badge pins.

AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

The board of directors of the American Carnation Society will hold its summer meeting at Minneapolis, Minn., on Thursday morning, August 21, in Committee Room B of the S. A. F. convention hall. All members of the society who are in attendance at the convention are invited to this meeting. The meeting will be called at 9 a. m. Members are requested to assemble promptly at that time, as there are a number of meetings of different societies to be held during the morning and each must hold its meeting during the allotted time.

PARCEL POST FOUND WANTING.

A deficiency in the present parcel post system, which is quite a serious one to florists in some places, has been pointed out by John Tenbrook, of Glenwood Springs, Colo. The present regulations do not allow the mailing of packages at depots, or on trains. This often proves a hardship to those who are a long distance from the postoffice but near to a railway station. "It is extremely inconvenient," says Mr. Tenbrook, "for many people to go to the postoffice with perishable cut flowers, and many times it can not be done at all. They could, however, mail them on trains and get them off on time. We can see no reason why we can not mail packages at depot mail boxes or at trains just as well as to go twenty blocks to the postoffice."

Such a provision would certainly be a saver of time and labor to some florists, not to speak of its great convenience. By the time that the parcel post has been well tried out, perhaps this feature will have been added.

FUCHSIAS AND HIBISCUS.

I am sending you some leaves of fuchsias and hibiscus and should like to have you tell me what is the trouble with them. They are in the palm room and get no sun, but good light. The soil, I believe, is all right, and so is the watering. There is no heat in the house, and the thermometer drops to 48 or 50 degrees nearly every night. In the daytime the temperature is as high as 85 degrees. A. F.

A palm house is hardly a suitable place for the fuchsias and hibiscus. An ordinary greenhouse, with stronger light, would suit them much better. It is an advantage to the fuchsias to give them some shade, but they succeed best in a house with plenty of ventilation on all the time. They also need a copious water supply and plenty of feeding. In a palm house, constantly shaded, both these and the hibiscus will become drawn and weakly. C. W.

in vain. He then resumes his old position and again patiently awaits another bite. It has been stated by several spectators that this is a true representation of their luck during their summer outings."

Whatever the appeal to human experience that this particular fisherman toy exerts, which makes it doubly attractive, other mechanical toys add greatly to a window decoration. Whirring motorboats and automobiles, even though they never reach a destination, catch the eye, for the eye of the ordinary individual is as sensitive to a moving object as the eye of a bull to a bit of red, although the effect may not be the same.

Puzzles Are Good Advertising.

There is a ruling principle which should be carried in mind and may as well be mentioned here. This is to the effect that a puzzle is about the greatest keeper of attention. If somewhere in the window there is a bit of action that cannot be accounted for by any mechanical contrivance within the scope of the spectator's fancy, the puzzle will be an eternal lodestar to him. If he can not find out how it works today he will come back tomorrow, and again and again. He will tell a friend that over in the window of So-and-So, the florists, there is a contrivance that has got him guessing, and the friend also will try to solve the puzzle. This is real advertising.

In the window of a Chicago business house there is a toy steamer that steers its way amid rocks and hidden dangers and never falters and never meets disaster. One's first guess is a wire under the water and search is made immediately for it. The water is clear and smooth as glass, but no means of control is revealed to the eyes of the searcher. So he comes again, always hunting for a solution. Such a device is difficult, but many simpler puzzles may be devised. A whirling spray inside a globe of glass and hidden by the water flowing down the sides of the globe often puzzles some people for a while. The puzzle need not be unsolvable; it need only puzzle for a time and, when solved, merit the commendation of cleverness.

Appeal to Other Interests.

It is a well-known rule in advertising to hitch up one's idea with something else in which people are strongly interested. Hence the great number of baseball ideas in advertisements, particularly of men's needs. This rule helps equally in window decoration and will lend a touch that makes the display worth twice the value it otherwise has. Appropriate designs for holidays and special occasions have long been the rule. Designs appropriate to locality and the interests of the season, and in some way linked up with those things in which the spectator is almost certain to be interested, are of as much, if not of more value.

This is, of course, meant to be carried out in a particular way, just as in a broad way the whole display is made to appeal to the interest the passer-by has in a cool spot. As the effort to arouse a feeling of coolness must be constantly present in the dog-days window decoration, so the idea of hitching up the window advertisement to the interests of those who will see it ought to be ever in mind.

CONVENTION HALL ALL RIGHT.

This note is for the purpose of setting at rest disquieting rumors as to the condition of the armory at Minneapolis that is to be used as the convention hall.

A story has been going from mouth to mouth and growing with each telling, until it might appear that the building is unsafe. The facts appear to be quite tame. It is stated by George Asmus, who has just returned to Chicago after spending several days at Minneapolis, that a section of the west wall possibly 10x10 feet has been taken down and boarded up pending the permanent rebuilding with brick after the convention. The roof is carried on steel girders on concrete pilasters and is entirely independent of the walls. If all the walls were removed it would not affect the stability of the building. One small section between girders some time ago parted a few inches from the steel and repairs were ordered by the state. For the convenience of the S. A. F. the permanent work was postponed until after the convention. Of course various conferences have been necessary, but the matter is of no real consequence and should not be exaggerated.

CONVENTION PREPARATIONS.

The Outdoor Exhibits.

Vice-president Theodore Wirth, who is in charge of the outdoor exhibits that are to be a feature of the S. A. F. convention at Minneapolis, is disappointed with the showing; the response by the trade has not come up to his expectations. According to the list published in The Review July 31, eighteen firms from a distance have taken space, as have thirteen in Minneapolis and St. Paul, a total of thirty one exhibitors. It also was stated in the same issue that at least one exhibitor is paying $437 for his outdoor space. That will seem to those who attend the convention as being a distinctly creditable showing, although Mr. Wirth writes:

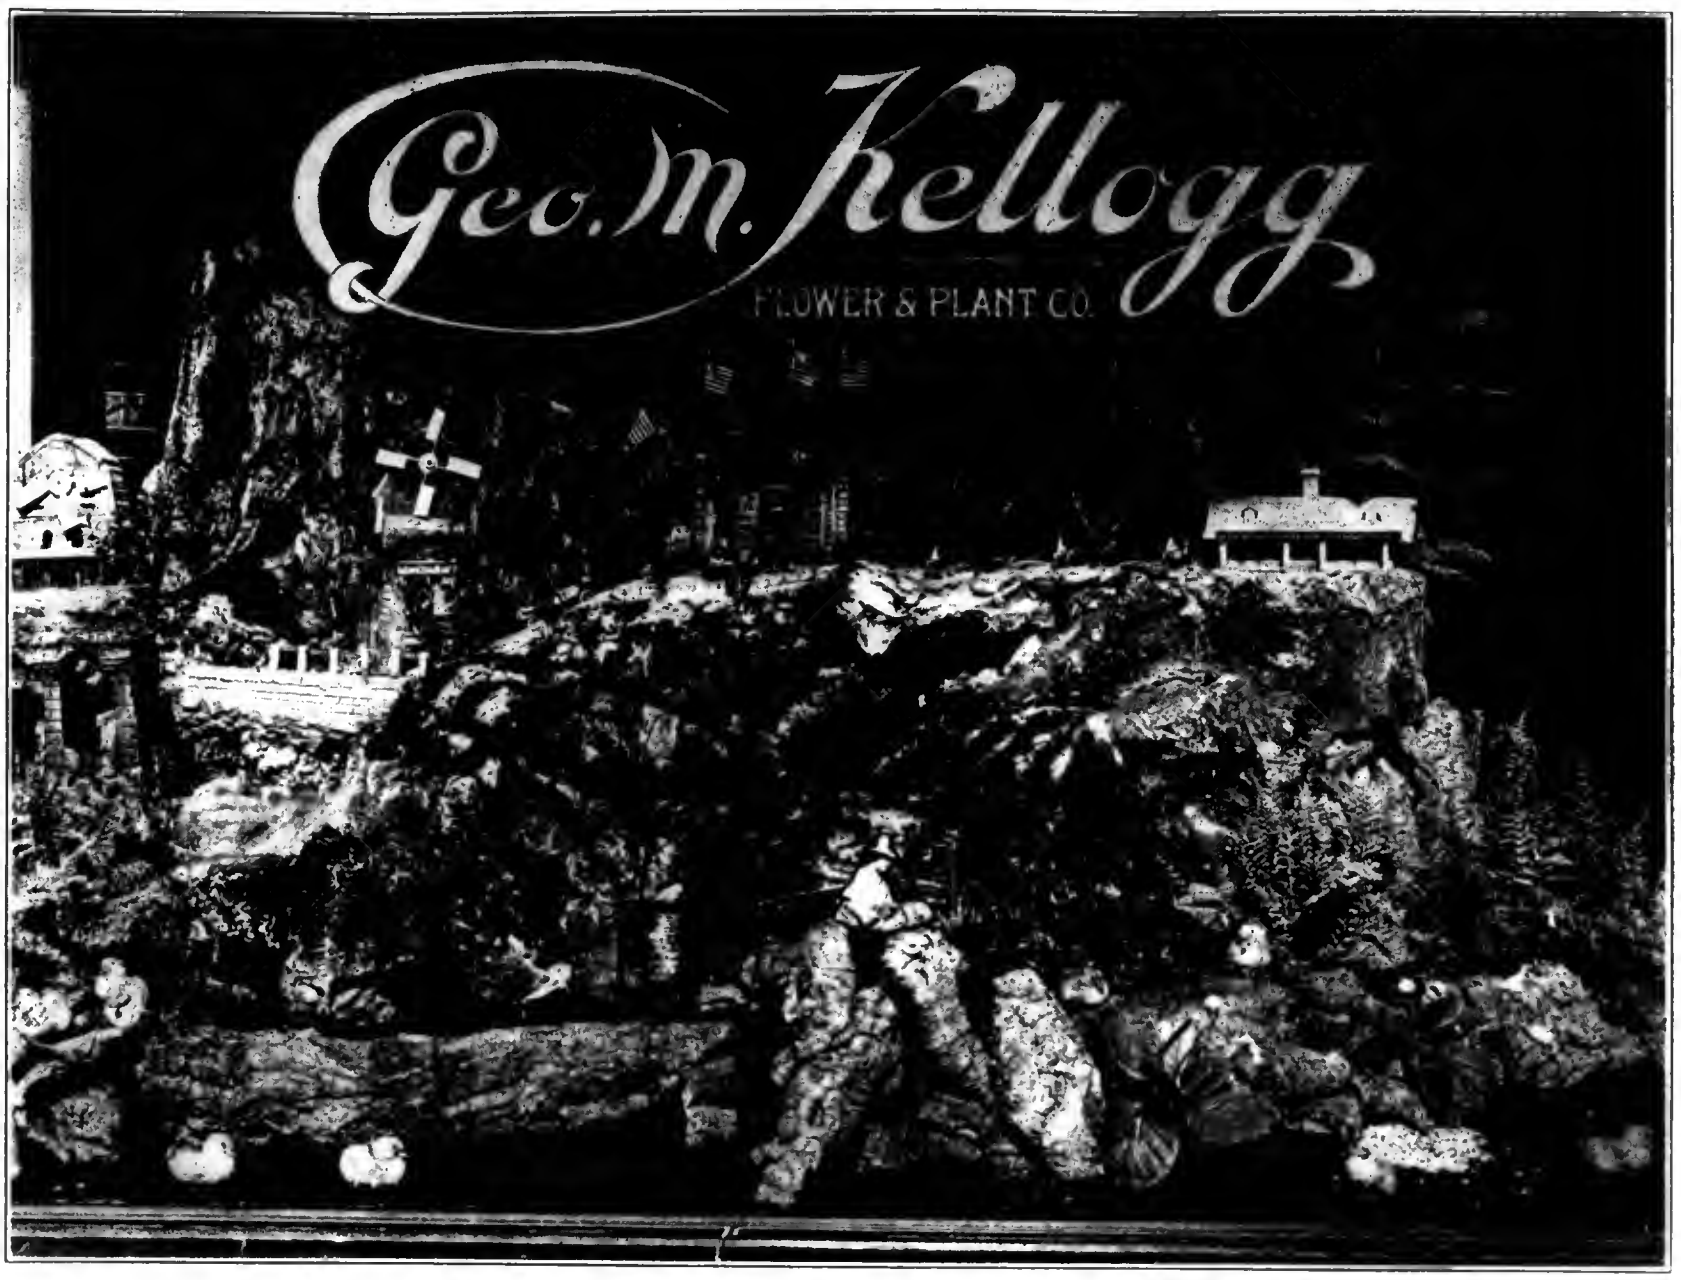
"Are all the many advantages of our conventions and trade exhibits understood and recognized, and are we all doing our share to advance those advantages for the common good of the trade in general?

"I believe that the speaker at a recent meeting of the Philadelphia Florists' Club was entirely right in saying that 'we do not always give each other the square deal,' and his remarks, which were dealing in the main with existing relations between growers and retailers, can well be applied and are equally true in a still broader sense when we consider the relations between the craft as a whole and our endeavors to advance and explore to the fullest extent our large and ever promising field of work.

"The truth of this is well demonstrated through the comparatively small interest shown by the growers and dealers of this country in the undertaking of an outdoor exhibit in connection with the coming convention. No better opportunity has ever been offered to any grower or dealer to display his plants adapted for outdoor culture than the garden now planted, which from a cultural point of view is now in a promising condition. The expense for space was low and the assurance given for the proper care, cultivation and protection of the exhibits could not have been made more satisfactory.

"The answers to our appeal for exhibits received from some of the leading firms, and the marked indifference shown by the great majority of growers and dealers, are, to say the least, discouraging and not creditable to the craft as a whole. The only reasonable excuse for the lack of better support for this undertaking is that it is a new venture in connection with our convention. Good weather prevailing, the success of this exhibition garden is assured, and it is hoped same will result in similar displays at future conventions, to which the trade will surely give better support."

Secretary Young's View.



On the other hand, Secretary John. Young thinks the prospect for the convention among the best in years. Writing August 1, he said in part:

"A state of preparedness may be said to exist at this time. All the local committees have been and are working in harmony, and all details are so arranged that no one expects the slightest hitch to occur during convention week.

"The main hall of the Armory, where the trade exhibits are to be located, is ideal for exhibition purposes. The plantings in the outdoor exhibition have progressed well, and should be just right when the convention opens. All will be ready when the delegates arrive.

"Intending visitors should avoid the possibility of disappointment in obtaining hotel accommodation to their liking by making room reservations at once. Minneapolis has many good hotels but at this time of the year they are generally well patronized by tourists; hence the wisdom of booking accommodations early.

"Great preparation has been made to care for the comfort and pleasure of the visiting ladies. The Minnikahda Club, where the luncheon will be given

A Hot Weather Cool Window That Has Been Attracting Much Attention for a Kansas City Florist.

Wednesday afternoon, is one of the attractions of Minneapolis. The ladies' trip to St. Paul, Friday, starting at 9:15 a. m. instead of 10 a. m., as mentioned in the program, will be made by trolley instead of automobiles. On arrival in St. Paul the visitors will be taken in automobiles on a trip through the city and its surroundings, returning to Hotel Radisson, Minneapolis, at 5 p. m. The St. Paul boys are making every endeavor to ensure that this day shall be a red letter one.

"Tonka Bay, where the outing will be held, is a lovely place, and nothing will be left undone which will in any way contribute to the pleasure and comfort of the guests.

"The bowlers have been well provided for; fourteen of the best alleys in the country, centrally located.

"The local committees, headed by Vice president Wirth, have worked hard on the preparations for the convention, and deserve every success. It will not be their fault if the 1913 convention does not pass as one of the most enjoyable and instructive in the history of the society."

LADIES' S. A. F.

Members of the Ladies' Society of American Florists will find the secretary at Committee Room D, Convention hall, office open all the week of August 19 to 23. Annual meeting Wednesday, August 20, at 10 a. m., in Committee Room D. Reception at Hotel Radisson, Thursday evening, August 21, 8:30. A meeting of officers and board of directors is called for Tuesday evening, Hotel Radisson. Members please wear your badge pins.

AMERICAN CARNATION SOCIETY.

The board of directors of the American Carnation Society will hold its summer meeting at Minneapolis, Minn., on Thursday morning, August 21, in Committee Room B of the S. A. F. convention hall. All members of the society who are in attendance at the convention are invited to this meeting. The meeting will be called at 9 a. m. Members are requested to assemble promptly at that time, as there are a number of meetings of different societies to be held during the morning and each must hold its meeting during the allotted time.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Paper White Narcissi.

Paper White narcissi are now coming to hand, and though they were often in oversupply in the wholesale flower markets, they are inexpensive, easy of culture, can be flowered over a long period, and are all in all among the most useful late fall and winter flowers for the average country florist. Any grower without stevias and Paper White narcissi lacks two sorts of flowers which are hard to get along without. Some there are who dislike the odor of the Paper Whites, and it is a general cry that "there is no money in them." Nevertheless, we find the demand for them shows no falling off, but rather the reverse.

It will not pay to place too large a batch of bulbs in flats at once. They are not much in demand while mums are in season, but sell well later. But if the flowers are all for home consumption it will be well to have a few flats started each week, allowing large batches, of course, for such occasions as Thanksgiving and Christmas. Paper Whites do not require to be kept in the dark or covered with ashes, as the bulk of bulbs do. They start to root and grow quickly and can, if necessary, be had in flower before November 1.

Roman Hyacinths.

It is doubtful whether as many Roman hyacinths will be grown commercially this year as usual, on account of the extremely high price of the bulbs. They are useful flowers in design work, and no other bulb will really take their place. Where there is any sale for flowering plants, a few pans of these will sell well, but it is in flats containing four to five inches of light, sandy and moderately rich soil that they succeed best. They take a little longer than the Paper Whites to come into flower, and do better if kept dark or covered with coal ashes, soil or some other material until they are sprouted a couple of inches, when they can go into warm houses. They should be placed in cooler quarters later, to retard them and give them more substance.

Lilium Harrisii.

Lilium Harrisii are now at hand. They are not grown in any great quantity, as they once were, on account of their susceptibility to disease, but for the last year or two they have been coming much cleaner, owing to more careful culture in Bermuda, and a much larger percentage may now be expected to be clean than a few years ago. Started now, the bulbs will easily flower for Christmas. Last year I saw quite a few for Thanksgiving, but the demand is best at Christmas. For home trade, also, a few spikes of lilies always come in useful, and L. Harrisii will be found to have much greater vigor and throw more flowers per stalk than cold storage longiflorums. As a rule, 5-inch pots suffice for Harrisii. Some prefer to place the bulb fairly deep in the pot, just cover with soil and later fill the balance of the pot. The best feeding roots from the bulb are then below, and not above the soil.

Cold Storage Speciosum Lilies.

Cold storage speciosum lilies are useful at both Thanksgiving and Christmas, being preferred by some of the best floral artists to the stiffer and heavier longiflorum or Harrisii. The cold storage bulbs potted early in July will now have made considerable growth, and, whether they are growing in pots or deep flats, will need some spacing apart from time to time. Green aphis is also liable to attack them. A spraying with nicotine, Aphine or some other good remedy will easily care for them. Be careful not to overwater; it will cause the roots to decay and afterward the stems will commence to die away. Stems on which the ends of leaves are brown from the start may as well be cut away. They have had too much cold, and, even if allowed to grow their full length, the flower buds will be found to be dead.

Lilium Candidum.

The bulbs of Lilium candidum arrive from the middle to the end of August. North-of-France bulbs only are worth growing. The big, handsome south-of-France bulbs are bought heavily year after year and people are disgusted with candidums, as well they may be. Insist on northern-grown bulbs, or leave candidums alone altogether. This lily must be unpacked at once on arrival, and potted just as soon as possible, for it will be found that many have made leafy growths and that nearly all are pushing out roots. Do not use small pots. Single bulbs in a pot are ungainly and do not grow nearly so well as when several are placed in larger pots. As a rule, 8-inch and 10-inch pots are the most serviceable sizes. These will contain three to six bulbs each, according to their size. Use a good fibrous loam, such as would grow good mums or roses. After potting, do not stand them in a cellar or under a greenhouse bench. Stand them outdoors, in a position where heavy rains can be kept off them. Do not water at all until growth starts freely; then soak well; after that let them dry out well again, and always avoid soakings from the skies in the early stages of growth.

Leave the pots outdoors until they have had several moderate freezings; then stand them in a coldframe until wanted for forcing. If candidums are wanted for outdoor planting and the ground is not yet in readiness, put them singly in 5-inch pots and keep in a coldframe until wanted. Candidums outdoors are more subject to disease than many other lilies, the trouble generally appearing just when the flowers are ready to expand. It helps considerably to lay the bulbs in flowers of sulphur a few days before planting. Set them four inches deep, with a bed of sand below and above them. Also lay the bulbs on their sides, instead of standing them erect, and it will be found that the percentage of disease will be appreciably reduced. Use no fresh manure near the bulbs of these or any other lilies.

WINTER SWEET PEAS.

Progress in Their Culture.

An increasing number of growers are now trying winter-flowering sweet peas. A much larger number are also planting them as a succession crop to chrysanthemums, but quite a few are growing crops of tomatoes and cucumbers and following with sweet peas. The importance of these flowers commercially is yearly increasing, as their wants are better known and better varieties are introduced. It is but a few years since Zvolanek gave us his first true winter sweet peas. At that time 6-inch to 8-inch stems were considered good. Now with big, roomy, up-to-date houses, 18-inch ones are often cut. Until now the grandiflora varieties alone have been grown. It was thought that Spencer varieties under glass would be of no value until late spring, but now a whole host of true winter Spencers have been evolved by Zvolanek and Burpee, and within a year or two only the waved type will be seen under glass.

Best in Solid Beds.

The finest sweet peas under glass are grown in solid beds, as in these they have a deeper root run and the roots are cooler and moister than is possible in raised benches. Any florist, however, who cares to plant sweet peas in benches can get good flowers for a long period if they are kept well fed and watered. It is, however, in solid beds that the really fine long-stemmed flowers are to be had. The soil must be thoroughly prepared. For best results trench the beds twelve to eighteen inches deep, working in plenty of well decayed cow manure. Be sure that the drainage is good. Sow the seed thinly; let individual plants stand four to six inches apart in the rows. Some people prefer to sow the seed in the rows, others to start in flats of sand or fine loam and transplant singly. The rows should run longitudinally and ought not to be nearer than four to five feet apart, and a distance of six feet will produce still better results. Some low-growing crop, like violets, etc., can be used between the rows until the peas have occupied considerable head room.

The Necessary Head Room.

As to the head room needed for the plants, do not gauge them by what you have seen outdoors. If they are supplied with plenty of plant food and other conditions are favorable, sweet peas will grow eight to twelve feet high. Even the rows nearest the sides of the house should have six feet clear. Some of the dwarfer sorts, like Earliest White, are suitable for the side positions. Sweet peas want plenty of fresh air, but draughts should be avoided or mildew will attack them. If the seed is sown about the middle of August, the plants will give a good crop in ten to twelve weeks. One or two sorts will flower quite a little earlier than this. The temperature for a cold winter should be 45 degrees at night before flowering and 50 to 52 degrees afterward, and should be raised to 65 degrees with sunlight or 60 degrees on dull days. Of course it will be some time before we can get down to these minimums.

Some Good Varieties.

A few really good varieties are: Christmas Pink; Mont Blanc and Florence Denzer, both fine whites and practically identical; Pink Beauty, a fine rose-pink; Earliest White, Snowbird and Watchung, early whites, will flower within six to eight weeks. For a lavender, Mrs. Alex Wallace and Wallacea are equally good. Mrs. William Sim is a good salmon pink, and if a scarlet is wanted Flamingo is good. As a rule, it does not pay to grow many varieties. A good pink, white and lavender usually suffice, these being the colors most in demand for all purposes.

ENGLISH SWEET PEA SHOW.

Eclipsed All Its Predecessors.

The thirteenth annual show of the National Sweet Pea Society of England was held in the Royal Horticultural hall, London, July 17. Among the visitors were Mr. and Mrs. W. Atlee Burpee and their two sons, David and W. A. Burpee. For all-round high quality the show eclipsed all its predecessors. Over 150 exhibitors took part in the competitive classes, staging 2,000 vases, averaging twenty sprays each, or a total of 40,000 sprays, and, it almost goes without saying, four blooms on each. In addition, there were twenty non-competitive exhibits from trade growers, and their combined exhibits would total another 40,000 sprays or more. Truly a great and a grand show!

Novelties.

The seeker after novelties did not find so many as in former years. That does not mean that there will be a dearth of novelties; no doubt at the end of the season there will be as many as usual. The floral committee has the new varieties on trial and under observation at the society's trial grounds and a report will probably be ready about August 1. At the show the prize for the three most distinct varieties not in commerce went to Robert Bolton, Carnforth, who exhibited Rosina, Steeton and Peggy Mackereth; second, W. Wright, Formby, with Nora Herron, Josephine and Royal Purple—the last named the most decided novelty at the show.

Medals for Trade Exhibits.

Gold medals for trade exhibits were awarded to Dobbie & Co., Edinburgh, and Robert Bolton, Carnforth. Silver gilt medals were received by Jarman & Co., Chard; J. Carter & Co., London; W. J. Unwin, Histon; E. W. King & Co., Coggeshall; S. Bide & Sons, Farnham, and R. H. Bath, Ltd., Wisbech. Silver medals went to G. Stark & Sons, Ryburgh; J. Box, Haywards Heath; Jones & Sons, Shrewsbury; J. Stevenson, Wimborne, and Robert Sydenham, Ltd., Birmingham.

Burpee Challenge Cup.

For the Burpee silver challenge cup, presented by W. Atlee Burpee, there were five competitors. The schedule called for a display of named sweet peas on a table 3x8 feet, not more than one bunch, vase, basket, etc., of one variety. F. A. Wellesley, Woking, was the fortunate winner, with grand examples of Mrs. Hugh Dickson, Decorator, Lilian, Loyalty, Hercules, W. P. Wright, Mrs. Cuthbertson, Edrom Beauty, Clara Curtis, etc.; second, W. E. Alsen, Denmead, with Charles Foster, Loyalty, Edrom Beauty, Brunette, Flora Norton Spencer, W. P. Wright, etc., in grand form; third, F. E. Smith, Belfast, whose leading vases were Mrs. Henry Bell, Wenvoe Castle, Senator Spencer, Elsie Herbert and R. F. Felton.

The show was well patronized by a large, interested crowd. In the evening the committee and friends dined together under the presidency of Herbert Smith. Among those who contributed to the enjoyment of the proceedings were C. H. Curtis, secretary; H. J. Wright, W. Cuthbertson, J. S. Brunton, Robert Sydenham, Alex. Malcolm, E. Cowdy and H. Shane.

MOLES IN CUCUMBER SOIL.

Moles are damaging my cucumber crop. There is not a bed in the houses which they have not undermined in every direction. In winter they brought destruction to the lettuce crop, and nothing that I could do would stop them. Traps did not do the work. Flooding the beds was without effect. Does anybody know how to make them leave the greenhouses? Your advice will be highly appreciated. H. J. P.

I have always found traps to be the best remedy, and it would seem as if traps or flooding should have driven away or killed the moles. Can any readers who have been similarly troubled help our correspondent? C. W.

Geraniums

ANTS ON GERANIUMS.

Will you kindly tell me what to do to get rid of the little white ants, or wood bugs? This is the first year I have been troubled by them. They get into the geranium pots and bore holes up the center. The plants then dry and rot. There are also some of them in my mums, and I am afraid I shall have the same trouble with them. They look just like white ants, and they bore holes in the legs of the benches and in wood of all kinds. They are in my clay soil outdoors. I am using as much lime as I dare, without running the risk of killing the plants.

F. J. P.

I have not had any experience with the white ants referred to, but would suggest that you either sterilize your compost pile with steam, or bore holes in it and pour carbon bisulphide into these. Three or four one-pound cans, costing 25 cents per pound at retail, will kill all living creatures in the soil. A second application may be necessary, to destroy additions from unhatched eggs. A good remedy for ants is Vermine. This is a liquid, recommended to be used at the rate of one gallon to 320 of water. It is perfectly harmless to plants in pots or benches. A small quantity of potassium cyanide, finely powdered, mixed with powdered sugar and laid about the haunts of the ants, will be greedily eaten and large numbers of them will be killed. Coal tar, stirred in hot water and sprinkled below the benches, will drive ants away. They can, of course, be caught by laying baits of various kinds, such as pieces of meat, partly decayed fruit, etc., dropping these into a pail of hot water. Perhaps some one of these suggestions may be of service to you.

C. W.

MAGGOTS ON GERANIUMS.

I am enclosing some geranium shoots and also some specimens of insects that are damaging the plants considerably. These white ants, or whatever they are, do not appear above the ground, but are exceedingly destructive to geraniums, chrysanthemums, asters, cyrtomiums, poinsettias, or almost anything they can reach. I am inclined to think, though I am not positive about it, that old lumber is a favorite lodging place for them. For the last two years, therefore, I have put in cement instead of lumber wherever I could. I have known these insects to follow the inside of a chrysanthemum to the height of six feet, but I have never seen one on top of the ground. If you can give me any help, I shall greatly appreciate it. J. C. L.

The maggots of which you sent specimens are certainly a bad pest—one whose acquaintance I had not previously made. The sample geranium shoots were so completely tunneled out that little more than a skin covering remained, and if this pest is equally destructive on poinsettias, chrysanthemums and the other plants you named, you will have an uphill fight to overcome it.

As it never shows itself above the ground, according to your experience, and as its appearance indicates that it would breed well in decaying lumber, you have done wisely in gradually displacing wood with concrete, but a thorough overhauling is necessary to exterminate the pest. If you could empty your house or houses, and have the benches and the spaces below them treated with live steam, you should be able to kill all pests of this nature. Probably you can not do that, however, if crops are planted. In that case I would get some carbon bisulphide, make holes in the soil with a pointed stick, about twelve to fifteen inches apart each way, pour into each a teaspoonful of the carbon and then cover the holes at once. Go over the benches in this way; the carbon will kill all grubs and larvæ in the soil and will not harm the plants. It can also be used for pot plants and a smaller quantity of the liquid will then suffice.

Even this method will not dispose of all the larvæ, as some of these will be up in the stems of the plants, but continue its use. Keep your houses free from debris, pour boiling water over any floor spaces likely to be hiding places for the pests and you should gradually overcome them. Also sterilize all soil before potting or planting in benches, using steam or carbon bisulphide. C. W.

LETTUCE TO FOLLOW MUMS.

I have a house planted to Nonin mums and wish to follow the mums with head lettuce. What variety should be used to produce nice, large heads? How far apart should they be planted? How much time is required to produce nice heads, ready for table use? H. J. H.

Good head lettuces are Hittinger's Belmont, Boston Forcing, Tennis Ball and Golden Queen. The last mentioned is paler in color than the other sorts. The best forcing varieties are practically all white-seeded forms of Tennis Ball. The temperature in severe weather may be allowed to drop to 40 degrees and should not exceed 70 degrees. Apply ventilation freely when the thermometers indicate above 60 degrees. It will take thirteen to fourteen weeks from time of sowing to mature head lettuce to follow late mums. Earlier and later in the season ten to fourteen days less will suffice. Use stable manure freely, digging it in well and to a depth of twelve inches. One watering after transplanting will usually carry the crop until it is heading. It is a common error to suppose that frequent waterings are either necessary or desirable for plants grown in solid beds. Aphis can be kept in check by light fumigations with tobacco dust. Be careful, however, only to use light doses, or the foliage is sure to be scorched. C. W.

Chrysanthemums

NONIN MUMS FOR CHRISTMAS.

What is the latest date to plant J. Nonin mums, single stems, to produce nice blooms by Christmas? H. J. H.

In order to have good heads on this fine, late white chrysanthemum, the planting should be done not later than July 1. Of course flowers may be had from even later planted stock, but they will not do justice to this variety.

C. W.

GRASSHOPPERS ON MUMS.

Will you please tell me what is a good means of getting rid of grasshoppers on chrysanthemum plants? My plants have been almost ruined by them. C. M.

The only effective remedy for grasshoppers is hand-picking early in the morning, before the sun has warmed them up. A weak solution of Paris green, only half as strong as would be used on potatoes outdoors, and sprayed lightly, will kill great numbers of the grasshoppers, but even then it will be necessary to hand-pick them. When the grass and weeds around the houses are cut down, so as to deprive the grasshoppers of a harboring place, they are less troublesome than they otherwise would be.

Chas. H. Totty.

CROPS TO FOLLOW LATE MUMS.

What crops can be profitably grown to follow late chrysanthemums?

L. C. S. & S.

A few good crops which are frequently used for this purpose are: Antirrhinums, plants of which should be ready in pots; sweet peas, using the new winter-flowering Spencers; lilies and other pot plants for the Easter trade, and bedding plants. If there is a good demand for tomatoes in your neighborhood, they can be grown instead of flowers, provided you can give them a temperature of 60 degrees at night. Sweet peas and snapdragons, on the other hand, will do well in a minimum of 45 to 50 degrees. C. W.

EXPRESS RATES ORDERED CUT

Interstate Commerce Commission takes another long step toward easing shippers' burdens; effect on florists

EXPRESS company officials are glum this week, for the long-delayed reduction and readjustment of rates is one step nearer—the Interstate Commerce Commission has set October 15 as the date for putting into effect the new schedule about as proposed July 14, 1912, and reported in The Review for July 18 last year. The order was entered at Washington August 4. It promises an average reduction of rates of about sixteen per cent.

The nature of the changes forced on the companies is fairly well understood, discussion having continued for over a year, since the proposition was first made. The companies were given opportunity to present their case in detail, but did not succeed in getting any material modification of the plan.

Divide Country Into Blocks.

The most radical departure from existing methods lies in that adopted for applying the new rates. In the United States there are 35,000 express stations. To name rates from each of these to every other one requires the statement of more than 600,000,000 different rates. The rates themselves are so involved it requires expert authority to determine the lawful rate.

Commissioner Lane evolved a method whereby the rates from any point to all other points may be printed on a single sheet or card about the size of a single page of The Review.

The first step was the division of the United States into blocks, each approximately fifty miles square, something after the fashion of the zone system as applied to the parcel post. Rates are proposed between each of these blocks, treating all cities and towns within each block as common points. Each of these blocks is one degree of longitude in length and one degree of latitude in width. To every express station within each of these blocks the rate is the same from any other given block.

The present system requires the statement of 200 times as many rates as the system proposed by the commission. As each agent, under the new system, will be obliged to know only the rates that apply between his station and each of the other blocks, he will have to consult only 830 rates to find the proper charge from his station to every other station within the United States.

Effect on Florists.

The first question raised is, "What will be the effect on florists?"

The reductions will be important to florists who look to one of the big city markets for cut flower supplies, as their shipments average of comparatively light weight. While there will be an almost uniform reduction in charges upon parcels weighing fifty pounds or less, the rates on packages weighing more than fifty pounds will not be so materially reduced. In some instances the commission's proposed rate basis shows a slight increase of the charges on heavy packages. This indicates the belief of the commission that the rates of the express companies per 100 pounds are not, on the whole, seriously excessive. This is particularly manifest from an analysis of the rates for distances of 200 miles or less, which are scarcely disturbed on the heavy weight traffic.

The cut flower shipments out of Chicago at this season are under rather than over fifty pounds, but of course in the winter the orders average larger and the weight runs up; still it usually takes a two-attached shipment to get up to 100 pounds. Many of the buyers are getting daily shipments that run from twenty to fifty pounds per box. On the lighter shipments they will make material savings, especially where the distance exceeds 200 miles.

Effect on Plant Shipments.

The shippers of live plants who pack properly already enjoy rates from twenty to thirty per cent below the rates charged on cut flowers, florists' supplies and other articles that take the merchandise rate. The new order continues these "general special" rates practically unchanged.

When the express companies first granted a special rate on plant shipments it was a flat reduction of twenty per cent from the merchandise rate. Now plants packed in certain ways are listed as "general specials" in the express classification—and the rates on all general specials are prescribed in Scale N, shown on page 16 by photographic reproduction from page 29 of Official Classification No. 21. A study of the table will show that in some instances the special rate is twenty per cent, twenty-five per cent, thirty per cent, thirty-five per cent, or even more, off the merchandise rate.

For instance: Where the merchandise rate is $5.50 per 100 pounds the general special rate is $3.50, a reduction of thirty-six and one-third per cent.

Take the case of shipments from Chicago to Topeka, Kan.: The present merchandise rate is $2.75 and the special plant rate is $2.10, a reduction of 65 cents. Under the new order the merchandise rate, applicable to cut flowers, will be $2.25 per 100 pounds and the special plant rate, as shown in Scale N, will be $1.75, a reduction of 50 cents, not 65 cents as before. Where the merchandise rate is reduced 50 cents it has effected a reduction of only 35 cents in the plant rate.

The illustration of present and proposed rates are those between Chicago and cities that look to Chicago for a large part of their needs in cut flowers, etc., but corresponding changes have been ordered between all other points—mostly reductions but some few advances, as between Chicago and Duluth, where the rate appears to have been out of line on the shippers' side.

Still More Than Parcel Post.

The new parcel post rates on shipments up to twenty pounds for a distance of 150 miles, which are to go into effect August 15, are from thirty to fifty per cent lower than the new express rates. For example, the parcel post rate on a twenty-pound package from Chicago to Indianapolis will be 24 cents, while the express rate will be 36 cents.

The new rates are to be experimental for two years. Should it be demonstrated that the reductions are reasonable the new rates will be made permanent. It is estimated the changes in rates will reduce the incomes of the express companies $26,000,000 a year, or approximately sixteen per cent of their gross revenue.

Expect Companies to Sue.

The impression is that the express companies will attempt to test by legal means the constitutionality of the commission's order. The express companies had filed statements indicating the losses of revenue under the proposed rates would be intolerable, and argued strenuously that the establishment of the parcel post had deprived them of thirty per cent of the revenue they formerly received from parcels of eleven pounds or less. They contended that the express business could not survive the losses from both sources. Their recourse will be a petition to the Commerce court with an application for a temporary order restraining the commission from enforcing the new rates. It is said the court is without funds necessary to the hearing of the case, on account of the action of Congress in failing to appropriate for the running expenses of the tribunal since July 1. If a temporary injunction should be granted, however, the delay in hearing the case would be entirely acceptable to the express companies.

LIME WITH MANURE.

We are not removing all the soil from some solid beds, where we grow smilax, callas and sweet peas. The soil has already been manured rather heavily and prepared for planting, but I know there is need for lime, as the soil is heavy and wormy and full of sorrel—the rankest kind of growth. However, I have read in The Review an injunction not to use lime and manure at the same time. Please tell me what to do.

P. G.

It is not generally good practice to use lime and stable manure at the same time, from the fact that the lime liberates more or less of the ammonia from the manure. Nevertheless, if the soil shows such signs of acidity as you mention, it may pay to apply the lime, even though some of the manure be lost.

POTS FILLED TO THE BRIM.

The new supply of ferns is again arriving at our retail stores. We needed them badly enough, but they come with the same old trouble—the flower pots too full, actually filled to the brim. It is generous of the potter, but, alas, there is no room for water. As a natural consequence, the ferns going into our customers' homes will be suffering for lack of water a good share of the time. I find that most of our people understand that ferns must not stand in water—you know how long we have preached that. In trying to observe that principle, how much water can be poured into these fern pots without its running over, most likely onto a polished table? Scarcely a cupful; not enough either for hot summer or for steam-heated winter.

Yes, we suggest the biweekly soaking in a pail of water, but that takes too much time for the Chicago woman. Undoubtedly our people are having miserable success with their ferns—bad business for us! I'll wager that every one of us would have many more people in our stores from day to day if they could only make their indoor plants flourish. Why, they would have a nice plant in every room in the flat and would choose plants as gifts twice as often, if the plants would only grow nicely for a year. As it is, recall the gloomy procession of your customers, returning within three months with a dried-up, starved, invalid fern for you to doctor. Physician, how do you like the case? Diagnose it and you will be persuaded that the plant was sent out overcrowded—in the early part of the season, too full of soil; in the latter part, too full of roots.

Potters, right about face! Give us more room in our fern pots—back to the "old standards," if necessary.

What do the rest of you think about it? Anna Grace Sawyer.

THE FREIGHT ON SPHAGNUM.

The W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, dealers in seeds, plants and florists' supplies, has filed a complaint with the Interstate Commerce Commission against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., alleging unreasonable rates on baled moss from Mather, Wis., to Chicago. The company says that from June, 1911, to February, 1913, it received nine cars of baled moss from Mather, Wis., on which charges were assessed at 13 cents per 100 pounds on the basis of 34,000 and 36,000 pounds minimum weight, a total of $400.40 charges. It is charged that the rate was unreasonable because there is in effect a commodity rate applicable to this class of traffic in car lots which was based 3 cents higher than the lumber rate, which was 9 cents per 100 pounds. It is pointed out that moss is a natural product of the forest swamps, gathered, dried and usually pressed into bales at the point of shipment. None of the cars was in excess of 18,000 pounds per car. The complainant says a rate of 12 cents per 100 pounds instead of 13 cents would be a lawful rate. The western classification provides a rate for moss in the fifth class, minimum 20,000 pounds, and fifth class from Mather to Chicago was 16 cents per 100. The complaint further avers that a 12-cent commodity rate was unreasonable when compared with the class rate. It is also said that a rate of 22 cents per 100 pounds based on 15,000 pound minimum would be fair and reasonable. The company alleges overcharges of $89.32, which it asks to be refunded and desires the commission to lower the rates.

CANADIANS IN SESSION.

The Canadian Horticultural Association, the trade organization in the Dominion, is holding its annual convention this week at Peterboro, Ont. Although some well known faces are missing, the attendance is as large as ever, both Toronto and Montreal having sent good delegations. The trades display, while not large, is interesting. A special feature is being made of entertainment.

The program for the three days was as follows:

TUESDAY, AUGUST 5, 2:30 P. M.
Sessions in Drill Hall, Opposite Central Park.
Address of welcome, Mayor W. H. Bradburn.
Reply by E. E. Mepsted.
President's address, by Walter Muston, Davisville, Ont.
Secretary-treasurer's report, by Julius Luck, Montreal, Que.
Report of tariff committee, by John Connon, Hamilton, chairman.
Address by Park Commissioner C. E. Chambers, Toronto, on "Parka and Boulevards."
Appointment of judges for trade exhibit.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 5, 8 P. M.
Paper, "Retail Store Management," by Cecil Hopton, Montreal, Que.
Paper, "Greenhouse Construction," by R. W. King, president King Construction Co., Toronto, Ont.
Lecture, "Greenhouse Construction," by W. R. Cobb, of Lord & Burnham Co., New York.
Discussion, led by G. A. Robinson, Montreal, Que.
Report of committee on parcel post, by H. B. Cowan, Peterboro, Ont.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 6, 9:30 A. M.
Discussion of president's address.
Report of judges on trade exhibit.
Report of nomenclature committee, by Wm. Hunt, Guelph.
Paper, "Christmas Plants," by Chas. Craig, Ottawa, Ont.
Paper, "What Ten Perennials Have Proved the Most Useful for the Hardy Border?" by Geo. Trussel, Montreal, Que.
Selection of place for next meeting.
Special feature, Peterboro chimes.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 6, 12:20 P. M.
Leave by G. T. R. for Lakefield and embark for a tour of the Kawartha lakes.

WEDNESDAY, 8 P. M.
Banquet at South Beach, on Clear Lake.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 7, 9:30 A. M.
Unfinished business.
Election of officers.
Final resolutions.
Paper, "What New Plants Have Proved Most Useful for Conservatory Purposes?" by T. McHugh, Dorval, Que.
Special feature, demonstration by Peterboro Fire Brigade.

THURSDAY, 2:30 P. M.
Automobile tour of city, visiting principal industries, winding up at Nicholls Oval for water sports.

THURSDAY, 8 P. M.
Moonlight excursion over Peterboro's famous lift lock and down the Otonabee river. Music.

Grand Island, Neb.—C. H. Green, of Fremont, was a guest of Edward Williams here recently.

BAILEY MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT.

In The Review for July 24 it was reported as a matter of news that Prof. E. A. White was leaving the Massachusetts Agricultural College to become professor of floriculture at Cornell. Director L. H. Bailey, of the latter institution, now makes the following formal announcement:

"Prof. E. A. White, at present in charge of the department of floriculture of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, has been elected to the professorship of floriculture in the New York State College of Agriculture and the headship of the department. Prof. White will take up his work here in September. We are expecting to develop a very strong department of floriculture and to that end we have now separated the old department of horticulture into its three main divisions, namely, pomology, floriculture and vegetable gardening, each one of these subjects being represented in an independent departmental organization.

"Prof. Alvin C. Beal remains with the college and has been promoted to full professor of floriculture, and will have particular charge of the experimental and investigational side of the subject. He will devote himself to the field tests with gladioli, sweet peas, peonies, roses and other leading crops, and to the investigation of other subjects that are important to the florists' interests."

BOSTON.

The Market.

There is a tired feeling in the market this week. Outdoor flowers, which now rule supreme, are in heavy oversupply and clearances are hard to make, even at low prices. Asters are now the most important flowers coming in, and there has been a tremendous increase in their arrivals, which has caused values to be more than cut in two. Most of those arriving are Queen of the Market, and white is much the best selling color. Gladioli are abundant and prices on these run unusually low, three dozen for $1 being as much as good spikes, even of America, have been bringing; some lower, and only a small number higher. Sweet peas of good quality are easy to sell. Most of those arriving have short stems. White and pink are the favorite colors.

Roses are not at all plentiful, but are ample for the small demands. Beauty, Carnot, Kaiserin and the Killarneys are most in evidence. Carnations are small, poor, and many of them spidery. Lilies are in good supply. Longiflorums sell better than auratums or speciosums. Gypsophila has shortened up considerably. Much of that now coming in is of the annual variety. Other outdoor flowers have an uncertain sale. Cattleyas are getting scarce and sell well. Most of those seen are Dowiana and Harrisoniæ. Spikes of Oncidium Rogersii already are seen. A few Chrysanthemum Golden Glow have appeared. Green stock is quiet.

Various Notes.

A. H. Hews & Co., of North Cambridge, have just completed and stocked a fine new four-story building to replace the three-story one burned a short time ago. A brisk demand for pots and pans is reported.

Mann Bros., of Randolph, at their stand in the Boston Flower Exchange, have extra fine assortments of asters and gladioli and a big cut of auratum, longiflorum, album and rubrum lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wax sailed on the S. S. Franconia, August 5, for an extended trip to England, France and Germany. They expect to return about the end of September. A number of friends went to the dock to wish them bon voyage, and a wealth of flowers in their stateroom attested their popularity in the trade.

The Flower Growers' Sales Co. is receiving large shipments of extra fine America and other gladioli from William Sim, who is growing them for the first time. Flower receipts are reported as rather light and no trouble is experienced in disposing of them.

Frank Wheeler, son of James Wheeler, of Natick, took unto himself a wife a few days ago and the happy couple are enjoying their honeymoon at Old Orchard Beach, Me.

A. N. Eaton, of Sudbury, and A. G. Lake, of Wellesley, are now heavy aster shippers to the Boston Coöperative Market.

Julius H. Zinn, on Park street, displayed a fine bunch of Chrysanthemum Golden Glow in his window August 2, the opening of the local mum season.

George P. Barr, son of and salesman for John Barr, of South Natick, leaves for a trip to Panama August 15. Mr. Barr has the bulk of his large lot of carnations planted and they look extra well.

Perry E. Green, of Quincy, is now a heavy shipper of asters, bachelor's buttons and sweet peas. He had a large

"WHO'S WHO—AND WHY"

PROF. E. A. WHITE.

The newly appointed professor of floriculture at Cornell University was born in West Townsend, Mass., in 1872, educated in the public schools of Rindge, N. H., and the high school at Littleton, Mass., graduated from the Massachusetts Agricultural College in 1895, and was for two years assistant horticulturist in charge of the greenhouses of this college. He left there in 1897 to take charge of the greenhouses on the estate of the late Clement A. Griscom, at Haverford, Pa. For two years following that he was engaged in commercial work in Arlington, Mass. In 1889 he was appointed instructor in horticulture at the Baron de Hirsch School, Woodbine, N. J., where he remained for one year. For two years following this he was assistant professor of horticulture at the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College. In 1900 he was appointed professor of botany, forestry and landscape architecture at the Connecticut Agricultural College, where he remained until June, 1907, when he was appointed professor of floriculture at the Massachusetts Agricultural College.

decoration for the dreadnaught battle ship Rivadavia, built for the Argentine Republic by the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., of Quincy, and which passed through the draw August 3.

Samuel Wax, of Wax Bros., has returned from his successful fishing trip to Newfoundland. He sent home nearly two barrels of salted salmon, the largest being twenty-eight pounds. He also has a box of beautiful pearls secured from fresh water clams.

Peirce Bros., of Waltham, are large aster shippers now, to the Flower Growers' Sales Co. E. A. Peirce will attend the Minneapolis convention.

Donald Carmichael, of Wellesley, has work well advanced on a new King pipe frame house, 38x225, to take the place of the two old houses, and will start planting the same the coming week.

F. J. Dolansky, of Lynn, still is cutting some good Cattleya Dowiana and Gaskelliana. He will have labiata about the middle of August.

Harry Quint finds summer business not at all bad at 164 Tremont street. He has booked quite a few landscape orders, to be carried out in the fall.

Ellis Girney, of Wax Bros., returned from his vacation August 4. Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Girney, of the same firm, have gone to Belgrade Lakes, Me., for a month's vacation. Miss T. V. Lazarus, bookkeeper, has returned from three weeks spent at the Thousand Islands. Harry Cedar and Frank Altman have also come back well tanned from a month's rustication in the country. Harry Matthews and George Watkins left August 4 for a Massachusetts trip, while Millard Ricker went the same day for a vacation in Vermont and at Fitchburg, Mass.

The Boston Cut Flower Co. always seems to be busy with funeral work. Mr. Rosenthal says he is well pleased with summer business to date, and fears he cannot neglect business long enough to take a needed vacation.

Henry Penn left August 1 for a vacation at York Cliffs, Me. William Penn returned from his trip July 29.

Anderson Bros., of Woburn, are leading shippers of asters, sweet peas and gladioli to the Boston Coöperative Market.

At this time it looks like a delegation of thirty or thereabouts from Boston and vicinity to the Minneapolis convention. A spokesman will go along to boost Boston's claims to the 1914 convention. The last convention held here was in 1890.

Gustave Olson, of Woburn, is still cutting fine white marguerites in addition to good sweet peas and gladioli.

Wm. Diehl, decorator at Penn's, leaves August 9 for a fishing trip at Sebago Lake, Me. Harry Stone also leaves the same day. Julius Fagan returned August 4 from a pleasant trip. N. H. Canan, the head shipper, also leaves August 9, and A. Daniels will take his vacation in New Hampshire and New York. Miss Lyons, bookkeeper, left August 4 for a vacation at Maranacook, Me.

Ernest H. Borowski, of Roslindale, has several thousand each of beautifully grown cyclamens and Cincinnati begonias. I doubt if any better are to be found in Massachusetts. Mr. Borowski is a first-class grower.

Louis Cohen, Nyman Leibson and Joseph Sloan, the two former employees of H. M. Robinson & Co. for five years, will, about August 15, open business at 276 to 278 Devonshire street under the name of the New England Flower Co. They will deal principally in greens and general supplies at the outset, but will probably add cut flowers later. The young men are all well known and should do well. Miss Lipson, formerly bookkeeper in the supply department of H. M. Robinson & Co., will be bookkeeper for the new firm.

A. E. Walsh, head salesman for the Flower Growers' Sales Co., left August 1 for a vacation at Belgrade Lakes, Me.

At this season, when good carnations are scarce, it is worthy of note that George W. Ayer, of Reading, has them almost equal to winter quality.

Penn's, on Bromfield street, has some large funeral orders for E. A. Taft and A. Hansen, widely popular railroad men, and they are kept moving all the time. The "dutch farm" continues to draw the crowds.

Galvin's, on Tremont street, had one window arranged with liliums rising out of a tank of nymphæas. Another window was prettily arranged with Gladiolus America, white sweet peas and white asters. The sweet peas they receive from the Mount Desert Nurseries, Bar Harbor, Me., are much the finest coming into Boston.

W. W. Edgar Co. is erecting new coldframes of an aggregate length of 600 feet, and installing new boilers. The plants for fall and winter trade never looked better.

Frank J. McDonald, salesman for F. J. Dolansky, who has been on the sick list, is again on active service.

John McFarland, of North Easton, continues to cut fine gardenias. His crop came in late, but he states that it has paid him remarkably well, gardenias now being scarce.

A large exhibition of children's garden products will be held at Horticultural hall August 30 and 31. The annual dahlia and fruit show is scheduled for September 12 to 14, and the vegetable exhibition, October 4 and 5.

W. J. Cain, of Newtonville, is not one of the big growers, but he is now producing sweet peas and bachelor's buttons of fine quality.

Andrew Christensen, of Stoneham, one of our largest carnation growers, will not start throwing out his plants until next week, when he will rush the work. He is particularly taken with Benora and Rosette among the newer ones, and will include Matchless on his next season's list.

Recent thunder showers have wonderfully improved vegetation locally, and, in spite of the severely dry summer, crops are looking well. Growers with irrigating facilities have made money this season. W. N. Craig.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

Pittsburgh has been in the grip of the torrid wave for almost a week. This had some effect on trade in general and also on the quality of stock, but enough good stock is still received so that a satisfactory selection can be made of roses and carnations. With these and good Beauties, gladioli and lilies, one is able to fill orders. Those who are fortunate enough to have carnations of quality to cut at this time are receiving returns that compare well with winter prices. As asters are scarce and poor, a good demand for carnations continues. Relief in the aster situation is promised, as the northern shippers report that, though the early crop was unprofitable, the later flowers are now ready and will be of good quality and quite plentiful. Some fine gladioli are shown by all the wholesale houses and are offered at $4 to $6 per hundred.

Various Notes.

Charles Koenig, one of the large growers of lilies, is cutting fine lilies and valley.

P. S. Randolph & Sons are in the midst of a crop of gladioli. Their Americas are among the best seen here for some time.

James Higgins, of Mrs. E. A. Williams' force, is in Johnstown, Pa., superintending a large wedding decoration.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. is cutting a nice lot of cattleyas and white orchids, as well as good roses and carnations in quantities.

William Lauch, of New Galilee, is shipping in daily some fine Enchantress and white carnations.

The A. W. Smith Co. is busy on several large landscape jobs. This branch of the firm's business has developed into a large department and Mr. Smith reports that lack of efficient workmen is the only hindrance to its success.

The E. C. Ludwig Floral Co. is making good progress on the new plant at Mars, Pa.

Mrs. Page, wife of Ray T. Page, auditor of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., was one of the injured in the P. R. R. wreck at Tyrone last week. Mrs. Page is still confined to her room.

B. L. Elliott, proprietor of the John Bader Co., and Fred Kocher, Jr., will join the Pittsburgh delegation to Minneapolis.

Henry Meuschke, of the Ludwig Floral Co., who is touring in Europe, writes from Leipsic that he will visit Holland, Switzerland and France before returning home.

Harry Balsley, of the Detroit Flower Pot Co., was a caller. He reports good business and an increase in fall deliveries over 1912. J. D. Christiansen, representing the Hummel & Downing Co., the Milwaukee box firm, was here visiting the trade. I. Rosnosky, representing the H. F. Michell Co., of Philadelphia, reports good business. P.

The Market.

Trade has been quiet for the last week; a little funeral work was all that was doing. Stock is plentiful enough to go around. Gladioli are still arriving in large quantities. There are few asters to be had this year, most of them having dried up during the dry, hot weather.

Various Notes.

The premium list for the floral exhibits at the state fair, which will be held September 8 to 12 this year, has been mailed. Anyone not receiving a copy may secure one from the state board of agriculture, or from Secretary Oliver Steinkamp. The entries close August 23. There should be a good exhibition this year, as the premium list is extremely liberal.

C. R. Greene, with A. Wiegands' Sons Co., is back on the job after a three weeks' vacation in Brown county.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Nelson are spending a couple of weeks fishing at Webster lake.

A Group of Omaha Florists on the Annual Outing at Krug's Park, July 30.

Ernest H. Rieman, of the Roepke-Rieman Co., has dissolved partnership with Mr. Roepke and will continue the business in his own name.

Raymond Kester, manager of the Hill-Heller store for the last year, has severed his connection with that concern and intends to embark in business for himself in Williamsport, Pa. Mr. Kester has made many friends during his stay here, and all wish him success in his new venture.

Herman Junge has returned from that celebrated fishing trip. Mr. Junge said that he had excellent luck this year; he caught no end of small ones, but the large ones all got away. H. L. W.

PICNIC AT OMAHA.

The Omaha Florists' Club held its sixteenth annual picnic July 30, spending the afternoon and evening at Krug's park. The attendance was large and the picnic proved to be one of the most enjoyable in the history of the club.

Among the old-time florists present was Mrs. Erfling, who may be seen sitting, with a cane in her hand, in the middle of the group which was photographed for The Review. Although she is 86 years of age, she enjoyed the picnic as much as anyone. Mr. and Mrs. Erfling were among the pioneer florists of Omaha and had greenhouses about fifty years ago on the site where the Union depot now stands.

The afternoon was spent in the enjoyment of various entertainments and races. The prize winners were as follows:

Ladies' foot race—Mrs. Smith, first; Mrs. C. Faulkner, second.
Men's race—F. Shaw, first; A. Royce second.
Girls' race—Miss Hess, first; Miss Henderson, second.
Boys' race—Jim Walton, first; Lee Harmon, second.
Lee Harmon won the champion high-jump race and C. Faulkner was the champion rope jumper.

After the amusements a fine supper was served on a large table set under the trees. The evening was spent in dancing and various other amusements, such as boat rides, etc. L. H.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Gutermuth & Klein, who leased the plant of William Edlefsen over a year ago, are now succeeded by the firm of F. Gutermuth & Co.

OBITUARY

Mrs. R. P. Barnette.

Mrs. Mary Roper Barnette, wife of R. P. Barnette, of Greenville, Miss., died July 27 at the King's Daughters' hospital, after a long illness. The funeral services were held from the late residence on North Hinds street, July 29. The interment took place at the Greenville cemetery. In the death of Mrs. Barnette the city has lost one of its best and most prominent women. She was a devout Christian, a member of St. James Episcopal church, and an untiring worker for charity and suffering mankind. She had been prominently connected with the King's Daughters, Circle No. 2, since its organization and filled many of the important offices with credit to herself and the organization. She was also instrumental in civic improvement and other movements for the welfare of the community. To the sister, Mrs. J. C. Greenley, to the husband and to the two sons, Colemand and Edwin Wright, are extended the sincere sympathy of all who knew her.

Robert Sydenham.

Horticulturists in various parts of the world will join the horticultural community of Great Britain in mourning the loss of Robert Sydenham, head of the seed firm of Robert Sydenham, Ltd., Birmingham. Popularly known as Uncle Robert, he was a persona grata in horticultural circles. By his generous and genial disposition and his integrity he endeared himself to all ranks and classes. A few of his early business days were spent in the United States, but he returned to England to engage in the hardware trade. Later he entered the jewelry business, but ultimately seeds and bulbs claimed the bulk of his time and talents, and in a remarkably short term of years he built up one of the largest retail mail businesses in England.

He was a shrewd business man, frequently alert when his contemporaries were napping; yet, withal, he was a kind-hearted gentleman, who would see no one wronged. His fund of knowledge pertaining to varieties of bulbs and seeds, and supply and demand, was remarkable. He traveled and worked prodigiously, making journeys annually on the European continent. A few years ago he toured South Africa. Early in the present year he planned a visit to the United States, and especially to California, but unforeseen business affairs intervened and compelled him to abandon the trip.

He attended the annual show of the National Sweet Pea Society, July 17, and took copious notes. Two days later, at his place of business, he died from nicotine poisoning and the jury at the inquest returned a verdict of "Suicide during temporary insanity." Bee.

H. O. Thornton.

H. O. Thornton, for many years a prominent florist at Ionia, Mich., died July 28 after a long illness. He is survived by his wife.

Mrs. Fannie Starke.

Mrs. Fannie Starke died at her home, 139 Walnut street, Troy, Ala., July 26, after two weeks' illness. She was 71 years of age and was active in her business up to the day when sickness overcame her. She was a typical southern lady, of a remarkably strong personality, and had built up an extensive florists' business solely through her own efforts. The business will be continued under the name of Starke's Greenhouses. Miss Emma Barnd, formerly of Barnd Sisters & Co., Findlay, O., who has been with Mrs. Starke for some time, will have charge.

A. De Lanney.

The friends of A. De Lanney, a pioneer florist of South Omaha, Neb., were greatly shocked last week on hearing of his sudden death. He died of heart failure, while in his garden. The funeral was held on Thursday, July 31, and was attended by a large number of florists and others.

Bangor, Me.—J. Martin, Jr., has a crew of men at work on his greenhouse plant, building and making extensive improvements, preparatory for the fall trade.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

H. A. BARNARD, of Stuart Low & Co., Enfield, England, is preparing for another of his trips to America. He expects to spend September and a part of October here.

NOT a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

MORE pompon mums have been planted this season than ever before, in spite of the fact that the supply last season was so greatly increased that prices on the market were below those previously realized.

THERE has been an extremely large business in young chrysanthemum stock this season. If all the cuttings sold by advertisers in The Review are grown to average even two flowers to the plant, the queen of autumn certainly will reign for a space this fall.

THE Californians are closing every avenue by which uninspected plants can come into the state. A California congressman has introduced a bill to provide for the inspection of shipments entering the state by mail. The bill is printed in full in the Nursery Department. See page 46.

PACKING AND POSTAGE.

In The Review of July 24, page 14, I note an article which is entitled "Carnations for Europe," and which has reference to the packing of plants for shipment across the ocean. Now, I am not specially interested in the packing of plants for Europe, but I am interested in developing the best methods of packing plants for shipment in this country. After a somewhat extended trial of different modes of packing, and after some close observation of conditions on arrival from other growers, I find that the plants packed in moss with only a trace of moisture are the ones that reach their destination in the best condition.

The rates of postage on seeds and plants under the present regulations of the parcel post make the cost to the consumer rather burdensome. I do not think that any one of the 10,000 or more small dealers and growers would have any cause for complaint on the subject if they could get regular merchandise rates of postage, but it looks at present as if Uncle Sam were favoring just a few dealers who do a world-wide mail business, to the detriment of the many small ones who do a local mail business.

The town of Cantril, Ia., where I am in business, has three rural routes, but the post office department rules that the carriers are not allowed to carry small packages which can go by parcel post. Our merchants can and do send out many small parcels of goods to people along the routes, at a small cost; the rate of postage they pay is certainly reasonable. But let us suppose that one of my customers wants, say, 300 sweet potato plants. Of course I can put them up so the customer will get them by parcel post. What is the postage on the 300 plants? The 300 plants, well packed, will weigh four pounds and the postage is 32 cents for a distance of five miles into the country. Any merchant can send three pounds of even more valuable goods for 10 cents. I am at extra expense in packing the plants and must also pay three times the postage and charge the extra cost to the consumer. If the post office department would make the postage rates on seeds and plants the same as on other goods, I am sure the mail business in that line would be increased fourfold. Albert Troth.

"ONE ISSUE CLEANED US OUT."

Five days after the date of publication, Ullrich's Greenhouses were so swamped with orders that a telegram was sent to stop the advertisement:

Discontinue mum ad. One issue cleaned us out. Thanks.—Ullrich's Greenhouses, Tiffin, O., July 8, 1913.

Please discontinue fern ad. More orders than I can fill.—Benj. B. Pohlmann, Rockford, Ill., July 9, 1913.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

Business has continued to hold up in good shape since the last report, although at the present writing the market shows a tendency to weaken. Short roses have become more plentiful and are fully equal to the demand, but roses that can be classed as long-stemmed continue scarce. There are hardly any carnations, but of the other stock there is more of the poor grades than can be disposed of by the wholesalers. Asters have come in more freely than heretofore and only good stock is bringing returns worthy of mention. The same is true of gladioli. They are being cut in large numbers, but the inferior stock is a drag on the market. While the good stock is selling at a fair figure, there is scarcely any outlet for the less desirable grades. Of course, America leads, but Augusta and King are not far behind.

Beauties are in fair supply, but the wholesalers have no trouble in moving them at good figures in the absence of larger cuts of the Killarneys. Killarney is in much better supply than White Killarney, but the special call for white roses has subsided somewhat. Maryland, Sunburst, Bulgaric and other roses are only in fair supply and almost anything in the way of medium stems with good quality flower finds a quick sale at good figures. Radiance does not sell at all well, but Mrs. Russell and Milady are picked up on sight. The cool weather evidently has improved the quality of roses to some extent, for the stock being shipped to the market is of good color. The market was not so strong at the opening of business this week as it was the first two days of the month, when there was a heavy out-of-town demand for roses.

Lilies are not overabundant and prices are holding firm. Sweet peas are still being picked, but they are short in stem and, with no demand, they bring small returns. The outdoor peas have

REMEMBER WE ALWAYS HAVE THE

BEAUTIES

You Order of Headquarters When You Order of Amling

WE have the cut this season of over 170,000 Beauty plants. It is, we believe, a larger supply than any other wholesaler, anywhere, ever had. And our growers are famous for the size and quality of their cuts. We are able to maintain a supply of Beauties in the Chicago market at practically all times, but why not order direct, and let your other needs go forward in the same box?

FANCY DAISIES

Here is a crop of Daisies of unusual quality for this date. It is a seedling variety, raised by one of our growers, closely resembling Shasta. A big crop will be cut between now and August 20, which we offer at $1.00 per 100.

ASTERS

Asters have come in heavily in the last few days, and the market now is overloaded with low-grade stock. We have our share of the cheaper qualities, but we also have a fair supply of strictly good, fancy Asters. Let us know your needs—fancy stock or cheap stock for work—we can furnish just what you want.

GLADIOLI

Year after year we lead the market on Gladioli—the largest supply of high grade stock. This is stock that it is a pleasure to handle. Plenty of America, Augusta and Mrs. F. King, the three best in their colors.

FANCY ROSES

Good roses have become so scarce that medium and long stems carrying quality flowers sell on sight, but we aim never to be without some good roses in the ice-box to go out on late shipping orders. Let us know your needs as early in the day as possible, but call on us at short notice if you must. You will find us rose headquarters, now and all summer. Can offer a few Milady that will make a hit, also a fine crop of Radiance.

FANCY VALLEY

You can depend upon us at all times for valley. If you run short, a wire to Amling will bring the valley you need.

EASTER LILIES

We can supply fine Easter Lilies in large quantity every day in the year. A specially good crop now on.

been practically a failure this season. Valley sells well enough to move what little is being cut and the prices hold firm. Cattleyas have become a negligible factor; small supply and small demand. A dozen or two early mums are seen here and there. The green goods market is quiet.

At Poehlmannville.

Well pleased with the first year's results from the plant department, Poehlmann Bros. Co., Morton Grove, will add considerably to the glass now given over to growing the popular specialties in the decorative plant line. The department was inaugurated a little over twelve months ago, when C. G. Anderson, previously with the George Wittbold Co., was placed in charge of the 70,000 square feet of glass that was given over to plants. In some lines it has been found hard to keep up with the demand and from time to time the plant department has been given an adjacent carnation house, so that almost all of the first section of plant A now is given over to Mr. Anderson and his corps of plant growers. When the entire space now intended for plants is in operation there will be close to 200,000 square feet of modern glass for the exclusive use of the potted stock. In addition to the glass, a new packing shed, together with a cold house and lath structure for storage has been erected in the space just north of the first house in plant A. The plant department will make an exhibit at the Minneapolis convention of the S. A. F.

Machinery has been ordered for a box factory, for the manufacture of shipping cases for cut flowers, supplies and plants.

At the city store the H. A. Born Co. has installed a mechanical refrigeration plant to operate the ice-boxes. Many of the growers have them, but this is the first in the wholesale market.

Edward Toepel, secretary of the Chicago Florists' Club, has resigned his position at Morton Grove, where he has been in charge of the office force of Poehlmann Bros. Co. for a number of years. He leaves for western Washington about September 1, to take up farming with his brother, who has been on the Pacific coast for some time. His departure is regretted by his many friends. His term of office as secretary of the Florists' Club has been marked by the efficient way in which the records have been maintained and the rapidity with which the tangles were cleared up after he took charge.

Richard Salm is spending two weeks in Upper Michigan, where he is taking in the various points of interest via automobile. A. W. Larson, also of Morton Grove, left August 2 for Minneapolis with his family, where he will spend a week with his sister, who recently moved to the Twin Cities.

August Poehlmann drove his six-cylinder motor to Delevan, Wis., August 2, where he and his family spent the week end.

July Weather.

It was hot in July, but not so dry as many imagine. The mean temperature was 75 degrees, while the normal is 72.4 degrees. On seven days the maximum exceeded 90 degrees. The rainfall was 3.30 inches, or only one-third of an inch less than the normal. The sun, however, was bright. It shone eleven hours and twelve minutes each day, on the average, or seventy-five per cent of the possible; seven days had the full 100 per cent of sun. The normal for July is seventy-one per cent.

Various Notes.

A card over the signature of Philip J. Foley, of the Foley Mfg. Co., says: "The elevation of the C., B. & Q. railroad tracks around our new plant, built only six years ago, has handicapped us to such an extent that we are compelled to abandon our location, hence have sold the property and expect in the near future to have a new location in which to do business, where I hope to be able to serve my many friends in as good a manner as heretofore. However, until this change is completed, I must reluctantly refuse to take any more business. I desire to take this opportunity of thanking my host of friends for the stalwart support always extended me, and hope in the near future to be able to serve them better than ever."

N. J. Wietor is anxiously awaiting the delivery of a new six-cylinder Locomobile. This will be the third motor Mr. Wietor has owned and this time he thinks he will be in possession of everything that an automobile affords. Wietor Bros. finished the season's planting with the last day of July, roses, chrysanthemums and carnations all being set for the new season. Gus Alles, of the city store staff, is vacationing in Wisconsin.

Frank Farney, representing the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, has been at the Palmer House several days with a large line of samples.

When C. W. McKellar and wife start for the convention in their automobile they will have as guests George Asmus and Mrs. Asmus.

Lewis H. Winterson, of Winterson's Seed Store, is taking his fortnight off before the convention.

Frank Johnson, sales manager for the A. L. Randall Co., spent two days last week in the Wisconsin woods, looking over the operations of his company in the moss districts. W. W. Randall has returned from a month's trip south and says it has been excessively hot.

E. E. Pieser and wife left August 2 for Winnipeg.

The E. C. Amling Co. reports the arrival of the first pick of indoor carnations August 4, while one or two growers still were shipping small quantities from last season's plants.

The Batavia Greenhouse Co. reports having begun to cut from the Killarneys recently planted in place of the carnations. The Beauties are being pinched back.

Enjoy Your Trip to Minneapolis, Minn., When You Attend the Convention of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists, to be held August 19-22.

Members of the Society of American Florists and their friends who contemplate attending the above Convention should be sure to take advantage of the splendid features of comfort and convenience provided by the Chicago and Northwestern Line between Chicago and St. Paul-Minneapolis.

Your train leaves from the new Passenger Terminal, located on Madison Street between Canal and Clinton Streets, where every modern appointment and travel convenience is afforded to you, and the route of your train lies through the beautiful suburban district adjacent to Chicago and through the rich agricultural and dairying region of Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin, and on through some of the most picturesque and beautiful scenery to be found in the West for the balance of the distance to Minneapolis. It is the picturesque route by day and the comfortable route by night. The smooth, heavy, double-tracked roadbed insures restful sleep and your safety is guarded by automatic electric signals covering the entire distance.

The Florists' and Horticulturists' Special Convention Train will leave Chicago from the new Passenger Terminal at 6:45 P. M., Monday, August 18th, arriving at Minneapolis early the following morning. This train will consist of the very highest class of modern train equipment. All members and their friends should not fail to take advantage of the special appointments provided for them on this train and the splendid opportunity offered them to enjoy congenial companionship en route.

Other modernly equipped regular trains leave the new Passenger Terminal daily at 2:50 A. M., 8:45 A. M., 10:15 A. M., 10:00 P. M. and 10:10 P. M.

Special care should be given to making sleeping car reservations early, applying to H. A. Gross, General Agent, Passenger Department, C. & N. W. Ry., 148 S. Clark St. (Telephone Randolph 4221, Automatic 53-251), Chicago.

this evening, August 7, at 8 o'clock, as the guests of O. J. Friedman. Members will be provided with tickets at the gate.

The Cook County Florists' Association meets August 14 at The Tavern. Secretary Pyfer says he then expects to make some interesting announcements regarding the trip to Minneapolis August 18. The association's picnic is scheduled for September 7.

Erne & Klingel, who have stocked up on miscellaneous florists' supplies, report receiving a good-sized shipment of To-bak-ine, which has been scarce around this section for some time.

C. L. Washburn has arrived in Chicago after a month's travel through the Pacific coast country, including visits to the principal cities in California, Oregon, Washington and parts of western Canada. He studied the methods employed by the western growers and was much impressed by the many modern structures. E. B. Washburn and family reached Chicago the same day, August 4, from their home at Pasadena. They expect to remain in Chicago until October.

As forecast in last week's issue of The Review, Peter Reinberg was reappointed as president of the school board, Mayor Harrison not being willing to part with his services.

Charles A. Samuelson had a large decoration for July 31, at Lake Forest, Ill. The event was a reception on the lawn of Melody Farm, the summer residence of J. Ogden Armour. Mostly boxwood and bay trees were used.

Philip J. Foley returned July 31 from a trip through the west. He visited in several states, but most of his time was spent in the Snowy mountains, of Montana, whipping the trout streams. An interesting story is told by Mr. Foley of a visit to the establishment of L. L. Warden, at Lewistown, Mont., where a house of the finest carnations he had ever seen were in bloom July 24, the quality being made possible by the cool nights which prevail at that elevation.

Miss Paradise has returned to her duties in the office of A. L. Vaughan & Co., after a fortnight spent vacationing at Fennville, Mich. Mr. Vaughan says there is no kick coming on the way business has held up for the last two weeks and that returns on asters were much better than a year ago for the latter part of July.

The Eastern Market.

The first week in August finds the market dependent for its strength on a limited supply of good flowers. Where these flowers abound, reports are fairly satisfactory; where there is a preponderance of poor flowers, reports are depressing. Nearly all the wholesale houses have too many poor flowers, usually asters, gladioli and roses. Eastern Beauties, a few new crop local Beauties, Mrs. Taft roses, Easter lilies and some asters make up the bulk of higher grade stock. For these there has been an excellent demand. The supply of Maryland has fallen off. Kaiserin and valley are about equal to the demand. Killarney roses and carnations are as nearly out of the market as they can be while so largely grown. Gladioli are arriving in less satisfactory condition than a week ago; there are more low grade and fewer high grade flowers. The out-of-town demand is good for the season.

"Arterete."

Wonderful progress has been made during the last few years in the use of concrete. While it is true that concrete is not new, as evidenced by the pyramids of Egypt, the uses to which it is being put are keeping pace with the times. Concrete buildings of great size and height are seen everywhere, but concrete vases, urns, window-boxes, fountains, columns, statues, shafts and tables are new in their wide variety of form and design. The Hall Concrete Products Co. has a large establishment at Grasslands, in Delaware county, of unusual interest. The company owns eight acres of ground on which are situated buildings with almost 50,000 square feet of floor space. There are handsome offices, factory, workshop, and a show room filled with the finished product. This show room takes the form of a long, narrow building traversed from end to end by a tramway for bringing the heavy concrete pieces from the molding room to the shipping room. A stroll through this 300-foot show room reveals the progress that has been made in concrete work. Here are fountains in white concrete, marble-like in its purity, with a finish that exhibits a life in pleasing contrast to the heavy deadness so often seen. Beside the fountain is a granite urn with ornamentation showing surprising fidelity to nature. Beyond are more vases finished in antique, the glue molds imparting a softness not otherwise obtainable. Window-boxes in great variety are seen, both in the show room and in the offices, where those intended for inside use are in position. These concrete boxes will not absorb water. I think Mr. Hall said that was the reason for their retaining their color despite the ravages of sun, air and water. At any rate, these concrete products become harder with age, ringing with metallic sound when tapped after they have once become thoroughly hardened. Colors are sometimes used; several special orders in pink were waiting the packers. Our leading florists have just begun to take an interest in these concrete products. They seem destined to fill an important place among the utilities of the future.

this to the high price of immortelles, due to the short crops, and the combination of the European growers. He says that from present indications immortelles will cost more than ever before.

The annual meeting of the Conard & Jones Co. was held at the offices of the company at West Grove, July 21. The year has been the best in the company's history. The present officers were reelected: President, Robert Pyle; vice-president, Antoine Wintzer; secretary, Roland T. Satterthwait; treasurer, Robert L. Pyle. The directors are the officers with Mark Hughes added. Both Mr. Pyle and Mr. Wintzer will go to Minneapolis.

The Philadelphia Florists' Club will leave Broad Street station Sunday morning, August 17, at 10:25 for Minneapolis. Those desiring to join the party are requested to at once notify John Westcott, Ridge and Lehigh avenues, Philadelphia, in order that arrangements can be made for accommodations. At the club meeting August 4 the club discussed the convention. Action on the National Flower Show was postponed.

Samuel F. Lilley, the well known wholesale florist of this city, has purchased a farm at Churchville, near Doylestown, Pa. Mr. Lilley has long desired to be a farmer and may even grow a few flowers under glass, just to show the growers what he can do. Of course the farm is only the hobby that every hard worker needs as relaxation from the cares of business

Franklin Ely, of Henry F. Michell Co., is enjoying a week's vacation.

Alfred M. Campbell has completed a deal with the Robert Craig Co., by which he will handle one-half of the company's large stock of chrysanthemum blooms.

Edward Reid has had days during the last week in which the volume of business has shown gratifying increase.

John Berger and R. B. Bragg, of Berger Bros., are home again.

George S. Faulkner has filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy.

Raymond Kester will go into business in Williamsport, Pa.

Harry Bayersdorfer says that the story that his firm operates a basket factory in Europe is absurd. "There are no basket factories there," he said. "Nearly all the baskets are made at home, a few in shops. Most of the basketmakers help harvest the crops in the field, making it difficult to obtain baskets at that time."

Warren S Engard has discontinued business.

Ferns of the Boston type in 6-inch pots are scarce.

Most of the cut flowers coming into town afford little opportunity for salesmanship.

THE FLORISTS' SUPPLY HOUSE OF AMERICA

To our Western Friends:

You are a splendid body of progressive business men and women. You are rapidly advancing the name of florists in the respect of the people of your communities. We know this. We are going to pay you the compliment of taking to the S. A. F. and O. H. Convention in Minneapolis the most wonderful collection of florists' supplies ever seen anywhere in the whole world. It has cost us a lot to gather this collection together. It will cost us a lot to exhibit them in Minneapolis. We will feel well repaid for the outlay if you make it a point to meet us there and carefully study our display. You will feel amply repaid. Hoping to see you in the Exhibition Hall at Minneapolis, Minn., August 19, 1913, we remain, cordially yours,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

As is usual at this time of the year, business is practically at a standstill. There is plenty of stock to be had at regular summer prices and less. Asters are now in full supply, although a large percentage are of an inferior quality and sell at from $1 to $3 per hundred. Some extra fine asters, with 2-foot stems, are moving well up to $6 per hundred. A few hundred carnations are coming in daily. Orchids are scaree in this market, but the call for them is correspondingly light.

Damage Done by Cyclone.

Florists were among the heaviest losers in the cyclone which struck this city July 30. The Botanical Gardens suffered some loss, and a large percentage of the downtown firms were hit to a greater or less extent. Among the heaviest losers is George Field. About 100 boxes of glass will be required to replace that broken by the hail and the terrific wind and air pressure. Mr. Field was lucky not to have lost a large part of his orchid crop. The plants were chilled, but the wrapping of them in cotton prevented heavy loss. One of the largest rose houses, in full bloom, was totally destroyed. This will not be replaced, at least at present. Everywhere can be heard expressions of sympathy for Mr. Field and the others who were caught by the storm.

The large plate glass window on the H street side of the store of Z. D. Blackistone was first split horizontally. A second wind dropped the upper section of the glass back of the lower. A smaller window at the corner was splintered and all the window frames were more or less strained. S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., on H street, also had its glass front demolished and the rain blowing in threatened to do damage to some of the material which was on display in a near-by case.

Gude Bros. Co. reports that its loss will amount to less than $200 at both the Washington and Anacostia houses, but William F. Gude's residence at 1800 New Hampshire avenue, N. W., was within the section where things were exceedingly lively for a time. The rose arbor, illustrations of which have appeared in The Review, and the Japanese pagoda were destroyed.

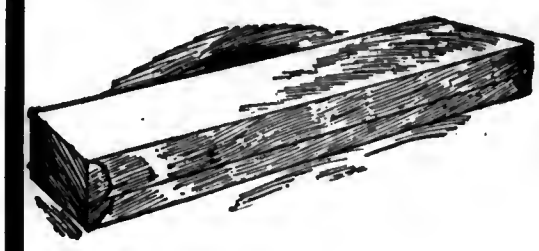
street, N. W., a skylight was broken, the glass falling in the store. A large balustrade ornamenting the roof of the building on G street occupied by O. A. C. Oehmler was blown into the street within a few feet of where Mr. Oehmler was standing. This was quickly followed by the tin roof from an adjoining building.



In Anacostia considerable glass was broken and outdoor crops ruined by the terrific wind, rain and hail, and in Alexandria, Va., J. Louis Loose and David J. Grillbortzer were among the victims of the storm's fury, losing glass and stock. The disastrous part of the storm covered a period of but about half an hour, during which time it was as dark as midnight, although at 4 o'clock the rain had ceased to fall. The temperature dropped from 102 to 72 degrees and the wind assumed a velocity of seventy miles an hour. The entire damage will amount to nearly half a million dollars. Two lives were lost and nearly fifty people injured.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The last week was one of excessive heat, devastating storms and unbearable humidity. The wholesale district was funereal. After the brief call of the retailers in the morning the Sunday closing movement might well have been applied to every day in the week. The whole trade is just marking time and patiently waiting for the turning of the tide. Even Saturdays have lost their potency.

Few roses of any variety now arriving are salable at any price. The few first-class American Beauties, Shawyer and Killarney are spoken for. Of the rest, it is always the buyers' option. There is much steamer travel and any flowers worth while seem to seek this outlet. Better quality soon is anticipated, and that means better prices. Few salable carnations are seen and prices remain at low ebb, $1 seeming to be the upper limit. Valley holds its summer range of $1 to $2.50 for the selected. Few weddings seem to be left over.

The lily supply does not diminish and it is hard to hold prices at respectable quotations. The top seems to be $3, the small buyers occasionally paying a little more for selects. The department store bargains are no longer aggressively advertised. The street display is everywhere abandoned. For the bulk of the mediocre shipments there is no outlet. There are already tremendous arrivals of asters and gladioli. There seems to be no call for any of these, except the few selects and novelties, which are speedily absorbed.

The lack of quality this summer is pronounced. There must be improvement shortly. The abnormal weather may have had much to do with present shipments. Sweet peas share in the general deficit. Orchids are hardening in values, and the supply is naturally lessening. The best cattleyas reached 50 cents last week. The general belief in the wholesale district is that little relief from present conditions can be hoped for until September.

Various Notes.

Convention matters are now of absorbing interest. The prospects for a full special are bright. New York will be well represented in the trade exhibition. The bowlers should win the honors and trophies this year, if ever. With Chadwick, Donaldson, Miesem, Siebrecht and Irwin as a team, and Manda and Bunyard in reserve, the aggregation looks unbeatable.

The big fair at Yonkers opened Saturday, August 2, and will continue thirty days. Florists, gardeners and nurserymen will find many interesting exhibits in their departments. It is the intention of the managers to establish this as an annual exhibition.

Horticultural Society took place at East Norwich, L. I., Wednesday, August 6. The Tarrytown society celebrated August 5 at Rye Beach, N. Y., having a most successful and enjoyable reunion.

M. C. Ebel lectured Wednesday, August 6, before the Tuxedo Horticultural Society on "The Gardeners' Opportunity."

Mrs. Roman J. Irwin will enjoy her six weeks' vacation in the Catskills. Mr. Irwin leaves for a moose-hunting trip in New Brunswick, fifty miles in the forest, September 12. F. A. Danker, of Albany, Wallace Pierson, of Cromwell, and a florist friend from Georgia will complete the quartette of hunters. Mr. Irwin reports an exceptionally good year in his business. He will be at the Minneapolis convention.

The Kervan Co. is making some changes in the show room and adding a new office in oak and plate glass to the other conveniences.

Russin & Hanfling's new building is being rapidly completed. The immense stairway, reaching to the top of the five-story building, can be seen from the open door. There will be over 10,000 square feet of floor room. A roof garden at the back of the third story is planned, where, Mr. Russin says, the opening will be properly celebrated September 1.

Burnett Bros. are pushing the completion of their new building on Chambers street and have already commenced the transfer of their supplies, hoping to be well settled before the end of August.

The immense building of the Stumpp & Walter Co., on Barclay street, is nearing completion. A peep inside already demonstrates the enormous floor space to be occupied, even exceeding that of Peter Henderson & Co.

Miss Marie Winklehaus, with W. Elliott & Sons, is vacationing at Sea Cliff, L. I.; Miss Jahnke, cashier, at Atlantic City; Manager E. A. Roth and family in the Catskills, and C. E. Moles, traveling representative of the firm, at Overbrook, Pa.

Thomas Martin, with Traendly & Schenck, is away for his usual two weeks' holiday at the seaside resorts of New England.

Robert MacNiff is still in the Catskills with his family.

EIGHT PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists — those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists — has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

ST. LOUIS.

The Southwestern Market.

August started in with the usual summer dullness and found the local flower market in anything but a healthy condition. There seems to be plenty of stock at all of the markets, but the quality is poor. Funeral work is about all the business that is going on, and the demand for the white flowers is quite brisk some days.

The wholesalers put in their spare time refreshing their places with paint and other improvements, which will take a good part of this month. The market, as it looked last week, was loaded with gladioli in all varieties. America seems to be the best seller, with Augusta next, the average price running about $4 per hundred.

As to roses, there are plenty of them, but the majority are short-stemmed, with fairly good blooms all cut in tight bud. The extremely hot weather caused shipped stock to arrive in poor condition. American Beauties are among the best in roses, and the demand for them is quite heavy. Some good carnations are coming in. These, too, have short stems, and hardly command more than $1.50 per hundred. Asters are better of late. There are many of them, but the bulk is poor stock. A large number of hydrangeas are now coming in and sell well. Tuberose stalks of the everblooming variety, usually plentiful at this time, are as yet scarce. The hot, dry weather, it is said, has kept them back. Smilax is scarce, but all other greens are in plenty.

Various Notes.

Geo. H. Angermueller got a case of ivy poisoning on a recent fishing trip at Spanish lake, which is causing him some trouble, but Mr. Angermueller has good lieutenants in Fred Alves, William Hotz and Harry Schleehter, to look after his business.

Frank Windler, of the Windler Wholesale Floral Co., with his brother, J. J. Windler, will make the trip this year to attend the S. A. F. convention at Minneapolis.

David Geddes visited the establishments of A. Jablonsky and John Steidle, at Olivette, and found both places in fine shape, with most of the planting done and the young stock looking its best.

Sanders' Nursery is installing some new fixtures and decorating the interior with new fresco work. At their Clara avenue store a good run of summer trade is reported.

Otto Sander had moving day last week and is now snugly settled in his new store on Kingshighway, around the corner from Delmar and adjoining the new King's theater.

roses from his big fields. A fine lot of Boston ferns in all sizes are also seen there.

William C. Young, who has charge of the west end store of the C. Young & Sons Co., says they will install new fixtures this fall. Wm. C. Young, Jr., is sporting a new Ford car for his own pleasure. Mr. Young will take in the convention, going by rail in company with A. Jablonsky.

The drawing cards at the Missouri Botanic Garden last week were the red sunflower, which is in full bloom, and the water lilies. The water lilies are the pets of James Gurney, who takes great pride in showing the visitors at both the garden and Tower Grove park the new varieties that he has named. Among the fine ones are David R. Francis, Frank Trelease, Stella Gurney, James Gurney, Rufus J. Lackland and Pink O'Marana. These are in full bloom and are great attractions.

Edwin Denker, state vice-president of the S. A. F., says that he will have a large delegation of florists and their wives on his boat going up the river, which leaves here in the morning of August 14. The southern Illinois delegation will also take the same boat, picking up delegates as it passes up the river. J. F. Ammann, the state vice-

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

The advent of August brings an abundance of asters of good quality and also the advance guard of the gladioli. Carnations are unsatisfactory, but roses are in full supply for the demand. While retail business is a trifle on the increase over preceding years, it can hardly be said to be more than normal.

Various Notes.

Burke & Burns have completely renovated their range of rose houses and have painted them inside and out. They are looking for some big returns the coming winter.

Abe Kroll, of Joseph Koppelman's wholesale department, has returned from a vacation passed at Block Island. Morris Torgen, chauffeur for Mr. Koppelman, has returned from a week's tour of duty with the Rhode Island National Guard at the forts in the vicinity of Newport.

Edgar W. Bailey has accepted a position with S. J. Reuter & Son, Inc., at Westerly, as manager of their rose section. He was formerly in charge of the Ellenwood Greenhouses, at Hatboro, Pa.

Arthur C. Harrington has severed his connection with the Riverside Greenhouses, at Westerly, after several years. He will engage in another line of work.

Mrs. William Butcher left last week for several weeks' visit at Digby, N. S.

William H. Tarbox, of East Greenwich, announces that he has accepted invitations to exhibit dahlias and asters at the New England Dahlia Show, at Boston, in September, and at the Danbury Fair, at Danbury, Conn., in October.

Thomas Lonergan, of T. O'Connor's, has been spending his vacation at New York, Philadelphia and Washington, D. C.

Harold F. Thayer, of North Smithfield, has gone to New York to accept a position with the Davey Tree Expert Co., of Kent, O.

Willis S. Pino received his first consignment of Harrisii lilies last week, and they looked especially fine.

Maurice Miller has closed his store for a vacation, which he will spend in New York and the Catskill mountains.

J. H. Cushing, of the Quidnick Greenhouses, is making a general renovation of his range. A new boiler has been installed and the piping of the house has been entirely overhauled. New houses are to be added in the fall.

Walter Mott, representing Benjamin Hammond, of Fishkill-on-Hudson, N. Y., was a recent visitor in this city, renewing old acquaintances.

Walter S. Sword and family, of Valley Falls, are spending the month of August at a summer cottage at Bay Spring, on the eastern shores of Narragansett bay.

The employees of M. Macnair enjoyed the hospitalities of Mr. Macnair last week, when a half day's outing was held at Warwick Downs. This is following a custom of more than a dozen years on Mr. Macnair's part.

James B. Canning and family are spending the summer at their cottage at Highland Beach.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

E. H. Rust, one of the leading nurserymen of Pasadena, Cal., was a San Francisco visitor last week.

David Nicol, formerly of Livermore, Cal., has removed to Walnut Creek, where he has embarked in the general retail nursery trade.

The drought has had a bad effect on the spring-planted stock, according to Henry Daut, of Decatur, Ill., although it has not seriously affected the established trees.

Fire at the nursery of Yager & Martin, near Fremont, Neb., destroyed a large barn and several hundred bushels of grain. The plant is too far from the city to be accessible for the fire department.

At the state nurserymen's convention at Payette, Idaho, the following officers were elected: President, Anton Diedrichsen, of Payette; vice-president, George Fenton, of Emmett; secretary, J. F. Littooy, of Boise.

The Indiana Horticultural Society will meet August 21 and 22 at Centerville in honor of E. Y. Teas, of that place, who is the only living charter member and who recently retired from the nursery business.

Mrs. Margaret Meherin, widow of the late Thomas Meherin, one of San Francisco's pioneer seedsmen, died at Fruitvale, Cal., July 24. She was buried beside her husband in the family plot at Holy Cross cemetery on the following Monday.

The firm known as the Old Colony Nurseries, of Plymouth, Mass., established in 1840, has been reorganized and incorporated with Thomas R. Watson, president, and John W. Leonard, Jr., treasurer and manager, continuing in the same hands.

In his address before the Idaho State Nurserymen's Association, Horticultural Inspector John U. McPherson declared himself in favor of free inspection for home-grown stock, which the local nurserymen have been working for. The rate they pay now is $5 per day.

In the case of Clarence M. Stark, referred to in the issue of July 31, when the matter came up for hearing before the probate judge, a motion was filed by the attorney for the guardian of Mr. Stark asking that security for costs be furnished, which was sustained by the probate judge. Failing to furnish this bond, the judge dismissed the suit. It is stated over the signature of T. W. Stark, secretary of Stark Bros. Nurseries and Orchards Co., that Mr. Stark, once president of the company, having been adjudged of unsound mind in the autumn of 1912, by the probate judge and afterwards by a jury, the present hearing was not asked for by Mr. Stark, but by a party representing interests said to be antagonistic to the company.

TEXAS NURSERYMEN MEET.

At the same time that the meetings of the Texas State Horticultural Society and the Texas Farmers' Congress were being held, the state nurserymen held their meeting on the morning of July 30 at College Station in the assembly hall of the Agricultural and Mechanics College. After remarks by the president, O. K. Phillips, of Rockdale, the following papers were presented:

"The Tree Doctor; His Operations, His Worth," by I. M. Johnson, of Houston Heights.

"The Home Culture of Roses," by S. R. McKee, of Jacksonville.

"How Nurserymen May Aid Fruit Growers," by J. R. Mayhew, of Waxahachie.

"Federal Marketing Bureau," by J. S. Kerr, of Sherman.

"Express and Freight Rates on Balled Nursery Stock," by W. A. Stockwell, of Alvin.

MORE INSPECTION PROBABLE.

Representative Raker, of California, has introduced in Congress a bill for the inspection in any state having an inspection system, of any fruit, seed, or plant, which the state requires to be inspected. The measure reads:

All packages addressed to any postoffice in a state having an inspecting system and containing any fruit, seed, or plant which the laws of the said state require to be inspected shall be conspicuously marked so as to be easily recognizable by postmasters, such marking to indicate the contents, the place where grown, and the name of the shipper, and that no such package shall be delivered until inspected, and is mailed subject to the provisions of this Act and any regulations made pursuant thereto. All packages so marked shall be forwarded to one of the designated central postoffices of the state for inspection. The inspector at the said central station shall declare the sample aforesaid free from insect or fungous attack, or shall treat or destroy, as conditions indicate. If the contents are not destroyed, they shall be carefully repacked and sent to point of destination and delivered to the addressees.

It shall be the duty of the inspector to keep a record of the condition of the contents of the parcel, and in case of treatment or destruction to give details and to explain what insect or fungous disease is present, and in case of treatment the method employed.

It shall be incumbent on each state that avails itself of the provisions of this law to provide inspectors and to arrange, in conjunction with the United States Department of Agriculture, for one or more central stations, where all inspection shall be carried on.

Representative Raker also has introduced a bill to provide for the inspection of any parcel sent by mail which contains field-grown florists' stock, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, grafts, scions, buds, fruit, fruit pits, and other seeds of fruits, and ornamental trees or shrubs, or cotton seed and other plants, and plants produced for propagation, except field, vegetable, and flower seeds, and bulbs and roots, at point of delivery in any postoffice of the United States that requests such inspection and where the requisite inspectors are provided by the states to perform such service. It reads:

That it shall be unlawful for any postmaster or postal clerk to receive any parcel containing field-grown florists' stock, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, grafts, scions, buds, fruit, fruit pits, and other seeds of fruits, and ornamental trees or shrubs, or cotton seed and other plants, and plants produced for propagation, except field, vegetable, and flower seeds, and bulbs and roots, to be sent by mail except that the same be plainly labeled, which label shall not only give the character of the parcel but also the name of the person who produced it and place where grown, if possible; also the name of the sender. It shall also be unlawful for any postmaster or postal clerk to deliver at any postoffice in any state any parcel containing field-grown florists' stock, trees, shrubs, vines, cuttings, grafts, scions, buds, fruit, fruit pits, and other seeds of fruits, and ornamental trees or shrubs, or cotton seed and other plants, and plants produced for propagation, except field, vegetable, and flower seeds, and bulbs and roots, until the same has been inspected by a regularly appointed fruit inspector provided by the state; and it shall be the duty of the postal officers to apprise said fruit inspectors of the presence of such parcels. It shall also be unlawful for any postmaster or postal clerk to deliver such parcel until it is released by such regularly appointed fruit inspector, who certifies that it is free from injurious insects and injurious fungi. In case any state desires inspection at destination it shall be divided into a reasonable number of inspection districts, to be determined by the joint action of the Department of Agriculture and the state authorities, and that in each of such inspection districts there shall be designated a point of inspection, and that all nursery stock coming through the mails shall be routed through such inspection point and there subject to inspection prior to reshipment to destination; and in this case, immediately after inspection, the parcel shall be carefully rewrapped and remailed to the consignee in case it is free from pests, and otherwise treated and destroyed as the state officials shall direct.

CAVITIES IN TREE TRUNKS.

Can you tell me what to do with orange trees that have decayed and hollow trunks? I have taken out of some of them a bushel of decayed wood like the enclosed sample, containing ants and other insects. The damage was caused by freezing in 1894 and 1895. I am digging out dead and decayed wood and painting with carbolinium. Would it do any good to fill the cavities with cement? A. B.

Scrape and chisel out all the decayed wood, brushing it out as clean as possible It would do a great deal of good to fill all the cavities with cement. Do not let the cement come up too high; it should not come quite flush with the trunk. Leave a little margin, so that the tree can tongue over the repaired cavity, as it will do in most cases if the tree is not too far gone and if the work is properly done. In extra large cavities stones can be used to reduce the amount of cement needed.

We are in a Position to quote prices on specimen Evergreens that will be decidedly attractive to anyone who is BUYING TO SELL AGAIN. If you are in the market for anything from Norway Spruce to the finer varieties of Evergreens, send in your lists and we will give you a figure that will make you money.

Where large apertures occur at the bases of the trees, drive some stout, long nails here and there in the cavities after cleansing. This is necessary, as it prevents the cement from sagging, as it would otherwise do. After the cementing is done, give the outside a coat of ordinary coal tar, to throw off water. This is also the best material with which to dress all cuts. C. W.

PROSPERITY AND THE LAW.

"Oregon has a strong horticultural law," said W. K. Newell, president of the Oregon board of horticulture, in his address before the A. A. N., at Portland, "and the meat of the whole thing lies in the section defining diseased and infested fruits, plants, etc., as a public nuisance, and giving the board power to abate the same in a summary manner. We realize that this is a drastic provision, as is also the power to declare and enforce a quarantine against any district, and they are to be used only in emergencies. The enforcement of all such laws calls for common sense and discretion.

"While our laws may seem rigorous to a nurseryman coming from a state that does not have careful inspection, or restrictive legislation, investigation will show that they are of about the same general tenor as those of the other Pacific coast or inter-mountain states. Further examination will show that where the fruit industry is growing most rapidly the laws are becoming most drastic, and, on the other hand, where the laws and inspection are most rigorous the fruit industry is thriving the best."

Big Houses for Big Business

ONE of the remarkable things about this wonderful country of ours is the rapidity with which a man can build up a big business—provided he has the ability to see the little things in a big way.

There is an unmistakable something about the big men in business that you and I at once feel, whether they have on their overalls or their gladdest kind of glad rags.

Such men seem to need no introduction. Their bigness introduces itself.

Suppose, for instance, we had never met or never seen the photographs of Robt. Simpson, William Sim, Fred Burki, J. W. Davis, Joseph Heacock, Thos. Roland, John Stephenson and men of such stamp; we wouldn't have to talk with them long before unconsciously feeling their bigness.

But back of them all you would know that these men had the ability to look far ahead and have long ago sensed the fact that in this age of big things you have to consistently spend money to make money.

Such men, when the turn in the grower business came, on seeing their profits being cut down, didn't go around grumbling about it, but promptly figured it out that cost of production must be lessened or they must greatly increase their output, so they planned and built and rebuilt accordingly. With their big houses came surprising reductions in cost of producing the crops as well as a very noticeable advance in quality.

The big houses demanded a permanent construction and so these men saw that to figure the building of such houses as an expense was wrong. They were an investment —a permanent paying investment— just as much as putting their money in a big city office building would be.

Knowing this important fact of permanency, it was and is possible to plan their plan years ahead and always look forward to building and never have to think of rebuilding.

It has been a most enjoyable privilege on our part to go hand in hand with many such men in their developments.

Such progressiveness as theirs has compelled us to erect a large factory at Des Plaines, Ill., and after three years double its size.

And now we are busy as bees tripling the size of our Irvington factory.

We had to do it. You growers made us.

If you are at present one of the smaller men, but have the Big Business Bump, you will find Lord & Burnham of great value to you in the way of counsel.

That their houses are houses of permanency no one disputes. You can make no mistake in buying them.

For the Big Man who is going to grow bigger (and every Big Man does, he can't help it), he will find Lord & Burnham apace with his big ideas.

In short, there isn't a man in the growing business, no matter how little or how big, that we can't be of great service to.

We should keenly enjoy talking your purposes and plans over with you.

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, C. C. Massie, Minneapolis; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THE Harrisii crop has turned out decidedly short on the larger sizes.

ARTHUR T. BODDINGTON, New York, with his family, is summering in New Hampshire.

THE seed trade is working off its accumulation of parcel post stamps on the first-class mail.

THE L. L. Patterson Co. has opened a seed store at 304 to 306 West Water street, Syracuse, N. Y.

R. H. JAMES, St. Georges, Bermuda, widely known as a grower of Harrisii bulbs, is reported critically ill.

IF you are interested in canary seed it may have come to your notice that the war in the Balkans has played hob with the supply.

E. F. SPEARS & SONS, whose warehouse was destroyed by fire July 3, are planning the erection of a concrete building, which will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000.

DUTCH bulbs are as yet coming slowly. In addition to the forty cases reported last week, there arrived on the boat reaching New York July 30 eighteen cases, consigned to Maltus & Ware.

JOHN F. SUMMERS, of Malvern, Ia., has sold the Summers Seed House business to A. R. Hamlin, of Red Oak, who has been engaged in this line for several years and will continue the business as it is now run.

HARRY A. BUNYARD, of New York, secretary of the American Sweet Pea Society and a director of the S. A. F., has been appointed on the advisory committee of the department of horticulture of the Panama-Pacific exposition.

T. E. BRIDGES has purchased a half interest in the Ocala Seed Store, at Ocala, Fla., from W. D. Carn and his brother, Robert Bridges, is looking after his interests. W. D. Carn, accompanied by his sons, recently made an automobile tour of western Florida.

THE modifications of the parcel post regulations apply to seeds, but the rate remains 1 cent for each two ounces, regardless of distance. To those whose business largely is within a 150-mile radius the new regulations make it more desirable than ever that seeds, plants and bulbs be included with other merchandise at the zone rates.

MEMBERS of the horticultural trades in America and elsewhere will greatly regret to hear of the death of Robert Sydenham, the widely known English sweet pea specialist, head of the seed firm of Robert Sydenham, Ltd., and popularly known as Uncle Robert. He died of nicotine poisoning July 19. Further particulars will be found in this week's obituary column.

The KENILWORTH Giant Pansy

PRINCESS

The New Upright Pansy

This strain is entirely distinct from all others. It is absolutely compact, upright growing, and extremely weather-proof, enduring many storms without damage to its flower. The flowers are mostly blotched and frilled like the Masterpiece, of good form and heavy, velvety texture, on heavy stems carried well above the foliage. Attractive by the brilliancy of its colors.

Packet of 1000 seeds, 75 cents; 300 seeds, 25 cents.

seeds are all grown by myself and are offered in the following mixtures and separate colors:

KENILWORTH STRAIN—The flowers are of perfect form and substance: many of the immense flowers are from 3½ to 4 inches: it is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings, rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures.

KENILWORTH SHOW—An extra fine strain of large flowers; the immense flowers are of circular form and great substance; a beautiful collection of colors and markings.

KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE—Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower or for exhibition purposes, for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 7 or 8 inches long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well.

MASTERPIECE—A remarkable type; the curled, wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance, its large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stem.

ORCHID FLOWERED, Mixed—A dwarf free bloomer with a range of delicate colors that do not exist in any other pansies, a remarkable combination of light rose, shell pink, blush mauve, fawn, light brown, orange and chamois.

vines are thrifty and healthy and in excellent condition. Picking on the earliest sorts will soon commence and the height of the season will not be reached until about October 1, when late varieties will be in full bearing. Early fall rains or an extra early frost may cut into the crops, but present indications are that full deliveries will be made.''

DUTCH BULBS.

The situation with regard to the bulb crops in Holland is such that the Dutch Bulb Exporters' Association, with headquarters at Haarlem, has issued a circular to inform the trade that the crop is not expected to be up to the usual standard.

''Winter was exceptionally mild in Holland,'' it is explained, ''and consequently growth was premature, fields showing fine green foliage in January. In the month of February the bulbs were exposed to sharp frosts and hail storms, which damaged the foliage to a great extent; however, they recovered themselves well and in April flowered to entire satisfaction. The month of May, though, was exceptionally unfavorable, on account of a period of intense heat. The foliage turned yellow much too soon and the growth was checked, especially of the hyacinths and tulips. Consequently bulbs are smaller than usual this season and the quantity of salable bulbs much less than at first was anticipated.

''Buyers of Dutch bulbs should bear these facts in mind in order to guide them in judging the size of bulbs, which they will shortly receive.

''As to the forcing quality, it is re-

August is the time of sowing for the biggest results from SILVER PINK SNAPDRAGON from seed. Seed for the accompanying picture was sown August 18. By sowing at once a full crop can be had at Easter, which will continue until July, being heaviest at Memorial Day, when this picture was taken. We have said that there was nothing in sight but blossoms and dollars, and it is a fact. Silver Pink from seed is easy to grow and anyone can do as well by following directions. Whether you grow Snapdragons from seed or cuttings, they should be timed to flower with as little pinching as possible. Plants produced ahead of time and held back by pinching lose vitality and often throw blind shoots. By sowing seed now and pinching once you will have fine, stocky plants, ready for the bench in November. Our free cultural directions cover all of the necessary points for success with Silver Pink from seed.

You will note how successful many of our patrons have been. Gude Bros., Washington, D. C., with their six acres of glass and the higbest class trade in the country, say it is the best they have seen. C. L. Howe, Dover, N. H., with his acres of glass and chain of stores, says it is fine and that he never had so many snapdragon blossoms. Mr. J. Geo. Jurgens, for Arthur Cockcroft, Northport, N. Y., who does an immense wholesale business, says it is the only one to grow, and that Silver Pink will GO IT ALONE with them this year. Many more strong letters could be given but further proof is not necessary. These are wide-awake florists who do business for profit. What is profitable and good for the big growers is as good or better for the smaller grower with retail trade, where a steady supply of blossoms is required. You can cut and cut from a bed of seedling Silver Pink and each cut will make more blossoms. But sow seed at once for best results.

Price of seed, $1.00 per pkt.; 3 pkts., $2.50; 7 pkts., $5.00, by mail. Cash, please. Plants sold out until October.

Quite a few shrewd florists are buying the larger amount of seed and will market their surplus plants.

marked, and proved by experience, that this has very little to do with the size of the bulbs, provided they are of proper age.''

SEED WHEAT.

The illustration was prepared from a photograph taken recently of a field of wheat growing in New Jersey. Walter P. Stokes, who took the photograph, says the seed was sown at the rate of one-half bushel to the acre instead of the usual two bushels to the acre. When questioned as to the variety of wheat, Mr. Stokes' eyes twinkled as he replied ''Dollar-Mark.'' Phil.

BODDINGTON'S "QUALITY" CHRISTMAS-FLOWERING

Sweet Peas

WE ARE SUPER-HEADQUARTERS

All true stocks of Winter-flowering Sweet Peas will be scarce this season. Some varieties are a total failure owing to the exceptional season in California this Spring. Our advice to intending planters is to order at once.

Mr. Wm. Sim, Cliftondale, Mass., the great Winter Sweet Pea Specialist, sows our seed almost exclusively.

Our stocks of Christmas-flowering Sweet Peas have stood the test for years, and we can refer you to the largest growers of this increasingly popular flower, as to the trueness and quality of our seed, earliness of blooming period and strength and habit of plants.

The following varieties are the "best by test" and include Zvolanek's and our own introductions, grown for seed, from selected stocks by the leading California grower and specialist in Sweet Peas.

Our output last year was nearly 3000 lbs. No kicks and plenty of testimonials as to quality, germination and trueness to type.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Pendleton, Ore.—Samuel H. Forshaw has gone to Baltimore as a delegate to the national convention of the Eagles.

Columbia, B. C.—A. O. Frache, of Frache Bros., acted as judge at the first rose show of the city of Nelson, B. C., July 15, at which many fine displays were shown.

THE Californians are closing every avenue by which uninspected plants can come into the state. A California congressman has introduced a bill to provide for the inspection of shipments entering the state by mail. The bill is printed in full in the Nursery Department. See page 46.

EXPRESS RATES CUT.

The state railroad commission of California has ordered reductions in the rates of the Wells-Fargo Express Co., amounting to a cut of $750,000 from the present annual revenues.

Every rate of the company in California is abolished by the order, which is effective October 1, and over 3,000,000 new rates devised by the commission on a ten-mile zone basis are ordered effective at that time. The express company is ordered to operate six months on the commission's rates, which are on the average fifteen per cent below those heretofore exacted, and then submit a statement of its earnings, if it feels the rates not justified.

The commission finds the company makes a net yearly profit of $842,097 on a property valuation estimated at $613,233, or 136 per cent on its investment. The decision follows two and a half years of investigation, during which over 2,300,000 waybills were scrutinized.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Business for the last week shows little deviation from previous reports. There is a scarcity of choice stock. Asters are becoming more plentiful, and of a size almost equal to mums. They readily retail at $1.50 per dozen. Rubrums and auratums are plentiful, with little call. Carnations are about out of the market, as the benches are rapidly being replanted. Sweet peas are plentiful, but have shortened considerably during the warm weather. Gladioli are becoming more plentiful and move well. Gypsophila is plentiful. It is used with pleasing effects and is a saving in greens.

Various Notes.

Joseph Koida, of Milwaukee, Ore., is sending in some fine gladioli to the market.

So far as is known, there will be no representatives from the Florists' Club at the convention at Minneapolis. The distance prevents many who would like to attend.

A committee from the Florists' Club was named last week to judge the garden contest. Prizes were offered by the club for the best kept lawns and gardens. Considerable interest was manifested in the work, and well arranged gardens were the result. This is one of the many ways that the trade has of interesting the general public in beautifying the homes. E. R. C.

MENLO PARK, CAL.

Reorganization of Society.

At a meeting recently called for the purpose, the Menlo Park Horticultural Society was reorganized. Nearly all the members of the former society were present, and during the meeting thirty-five new members were initiated.

The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, Henry L. Goertzhain; vice-president, Charles Ehrlich; treasurer, George Nunn; secretary, James T. Lynch.

The society has decided to hold a fall show, similar to the ones held several years ago, and already there is every indication of its being a great success. J. T. L.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The Market.

The weather is even cooler than that of last week. This has a good effect on stock of all kinds. Roses and carnations are better than they have been for several weeks. Most of the growers, however, are in the midst of their replanting. Sweet peas seem to have disappeared from the markets altogether. Dahlias are now at their best. The cool weather favors them, and they are fully up to the record of last season. Gladioli are not so plentiful as they were. America has proven to be the best seller this season, as well as last. The prices have been low, and it is questionable if there will be as many grown next year. Amaryllis of the early variety is coming into town in large lots. These early ones do not sell as well as the later. Japanese lilies are plentiful and good, and move well. They bring about the same prices they did last year. Coreopsis, gaillardias, stock and other cheap garden flowers are handled principally by the hucksters. Business is quiet. We are patiently waiting for the schools to open and the townspeople to return from the country and the seashore.

Various Notes.

The Art Floral Co. has taken charge of the cut flower department in the new Kahn's department store, in Oakland.

A well attended meeting of the California Retail Florists' Association was held at Native Sons' hall on the evening of July 28.

All the retailers closed their places of business Sunday, August 3, to allow the employees to attend the florists' picnic at Richmond. G.

now in full supply from outdoors. The flowers are good this season and the comparative absence of bright, hot sunshine has kept the foliage in much better condition than usual. Asters are improving right along, the color and stems being better. Gladioli are still good and centaureas are fine in color and substance. Goldenrod is a popular flower here for large decorations and just now is extra fine in color. Carnations, as a rule, are small and not attractive to particular buyers. Gaillardias are showy, but there is not much demand for them. Sweet peas are getting past their best; the flowers are smaller and poor in color.

Various Notes.

Business keeps up well at the Los Angeles Flower Market and the counters are cleaned up daily. C. E. Morton has had a painful siege with a refractory tooth, but kept at his post and the worst seems to be over.

Thomas Windram, of Cold Springs, Ky., has been here investigating the Asparagus plumosus seed industry, especially at the Meserve ranch, at Signal Hill, the output of which is handled by the Los Angeles Flower Market. Wm. Murphy, of Cincinnati, accompanied Mr. Windram.

T. W. Chisholm, of the Braslan Seed Co., was a visitor this week. He reports business good.

J. R. Fotheringham has been making his usual calls on the trade here. He is unusually late, but he says he will still be back in plenty of time for the convention.

Fred Westrom, of Wright's Flower Shop, and Howard Turner, son of H. Turner, of Montebello, leave here the first part of August for a trip to Balboa.

Mrs. Tomlinson, widow of the late park superintendent of the city, died of heart failure July 30, after an illness of a couple of weeks. The sympathy of everyone is with the bereaved family, especially the Misses Tomlinson, who were both quite devoted to their mother and who did all in their power to alleviate her suffering at the last.

The subject of a florists' club for this city has again been raised. Almost everyone in the business is desirous of starting, the leader only being lacking. There is an unfortunate condition of things existing here. When the florists have attended the meetings of the Horticultural Society, they have felt out of place, while at the recent meeting to which they were specially invited, the reception given them was anything but cordial, although the fault was not that of the members of the society. While, personally, I should have preferred a union of the two societies, working for the general good of the business, if the factions cannot be joined, then there is surely need for a live, up-to-date florists' club.

Howard & Smith are keeping up a fine show at their store at Ninth and Olive streets. Some good tritomas, in all the most brilliant colors, from the Montebello nurseries are extra good. Business keeps up well here and an additional delivery car is to be put on this season.

Henri Nonin, of the Etablissement d'Horticulture, Chatillon-Sous-Bagneux, France, and H. Legendre, Orleans, have been touring the country in search of information as to the condition of horticulture on this side. Both are well posted men and show keen interest in the trade. A good deal of their time Karl S. Hawthorne, representing Patterson & Co., seedsmen, of Kearney, Neb., has been in the city on a visit. Mr. Hawthorne has been making a trip to regain his strength after an operation.

Tom Wright leaves here August 10 for the Minneapolis convention and Chicago, where he will demonstrate the new alarm he is turning out. He expects to stay long enough in Chicago to get a good rating from the underwriters in insurance.

The H. N. Gage Co. intends to force about 200,000 Dutch and other bulbs this year. Clarence Aldrich, lately with the El Reah Nursery, at Hollywood, is now with this company.

COQUITLAM, B. C.

Annual Flower Show.

The annual flower show here was held July 24 and was a great success. The people of the vicinity are making this affair a regular holiday and everybody turned out. The new Agricultural hall is a splendid place for showing flowers, but one can safely predict that the building will be too small if the interest keeps up as at present. A band was in attendance. The boy scouts had the time of their lives in the tug of war, etc. There was a splendid suffragette football game, which caused plenty of amusement. Last, but not least, there was the baseball game between representatives of the south and the north part of town—a splendid affair, in which some 200-to-290-pounders showed their ability in slugging and running.

Coming to the show itself, it is surprising what people can do when everybody helps. Sweet peas, of course, were the main feature, but the fancy baskets of roses, wild flowers, etc., were also centers of interest. The main contribution to the show, however, was the exhibit of cut flowers from the Provincial Nurseries, where Chr. Van Aken is manager. A big table and also some space at the end of the hall, against the wall, were reserved for this exhibit. A large Merry Widow hat, also from the nurseries, was a credit to its maker and took the fancy of the ladies. It was made of Spencer sweet peas and the colors were splendidly blended. The hat was finally raffled by the Agricultural Society and the proceeds went to the Ladies' Institute.

The city of Coquitlam is giving this year $500 for the best kept gardens, the sum to be divided into several prizes, from $150 down—a sign that the extreme west can keep up its end about as well as the more thickly populated parts of the east.

The Market.

With hardly any stock arriving and with scarcely anybody to buy, the market is not in a flourishing condition. The florists' own greenhouses produce really more than their stores can consume and little or no business is carried on at the wholesale house except with those who have no greenhouses and who rely wholly on the commission house for their stock. A personal canvass of the stores finds everything quiet except for the occasional rush in funeral work.

Rain holds off and the aster plants, etc., are suffering much for lack of it. The outdoor sweet peas are extremely poor and will soon be through blooming for this season. Asters are coming, but are scarce; they, too, seem to be exceedingly late this year. Most varieties of roses are inferior and many are unsalable. Valley is plentiful, but does not keep at all well during this hot weather. Gladioli, too, are plentiful, but the prices are low; first-class stock makes $1.50 to $2 per dozen. White and lavender candytuft is good, and it is noticed that a good many florists use this along with roses, arranged prettily in small baskets, which retail for $1 and up. Japanese and auratum lilies are on the market and are used profusely for design work. There is an abundance of greens of all kinds.

Various Notes.

It is a noticeable fact that the Rochester undertakers are using magnolia wreaths during this hot weather, in preference to galax wreaths, which quickly curl and become untidy looking.

Among the visitors last week were Julius Berg, of Lion & Co., New York city, and Edwin C. Armbrust, of Thos. Aitken, Springfield, Mass., and formerly of J. B. Keller Sons, in this city. Mr. Berg says business was never better.

Miss Duklo is away on vacation at Highland Cottage.

H. E. Bates, of the Lord & Burnham Co., has been on a business trip, extending over two weeks, to Pittsburgh, Pa. He reports among his sales a house for the E. C. Ludwig Floral Co., at the store, where the firm intends to have an up-to-date palm garden, and another house, 25x200, at Ludwig Station. He also received an order from Dickson & Bailey, Martins Ferry, O., for a greenhouse 20x100, in which they intend to grow vegetables; from Mrs. Henry Strong, of this city, for a conservatory 12x34, and from W. N. Hayes, of The Willows, on East avenue, for a conservatory 10x20.

Geo. B. Hart will soon commence to erect a $25,000 building at the corner of Ely and Stone streets, to be used as a commission house, and two stores with lofts above. Mr. Hart has bought a new five-passenger Stevens-Duryea. He is now spending a few days at Manitou Beach. H. J. H.

MARYLAND

Ever since we have been in the Geranium business we have endeavored to find a novelty on which we could stake our reputation. In this endeavor we have raised hundreds of seedlings ourselves and discarded innumerable very promising seedlings offered by others as not possessing the quality we desired should be in our first novelty. Several years ago we placed in the hands of an expert hybridizer certain stock from which we believed the desired results could be obtained, with instructions that he was to spare neither time nor expense to produce a variety that would embrace as far as possible all that was required in a Geranium—color, healthfulness, habit of growth and freedom of bloom; and we have no hesitation in claiming that these qualities are all found in our novelty of 1914, the "Maryland."

The "Maryland" is the result of a cross between Alph. Ricard and LaPilote. In habit of growth it resembles the LaPilote, only much stronger, being more robust, vigorous and branching. The foliage is handsomely marked with a chocolate zone. The individual flowers are magnificent, semi-double, perfectly formed and of grand texture, being profusely produced in enormous trusses. The color is of the most intense, dazzling fiery red, of such marvelous beauty that words are inadequate to accurately describe its wonderful coloring and the exquisite finish of the plant.

"Maryland" is a variety that we introduce to the florist and the great mass of flower lovers with every confidence that it will, with its most pleasing habit and strong constitution, prove satisfactory in every way, and meet every requirement of a first-class Geranium.

Ready Jan. 1, 1914, 50 cts. each; $5.00 per doz.

SCARLET BEDDER

In "Scarlet Bedder," introduced by Elmer D. Smith, of Adrian, Mich., in 1913, we have an ideal Scarlet Geranium in every sense of the word. It is an intermediate color between S. A. Nutt and Alph. Ricard but being brighter or approaching nearer to Scarlet than either of these. It is a short, stocky, sturdy grower, making flower stalks at almost every joint; it is necessary to pinch out the buds to get a good growth in pots; the trusses are medium size, not quite as large as Nutt, but any deficiency in size is more than made up in the number produced, as the bed will become literally covered with the bright scarlet flowers. In comparison with S. A. Nutt it is superior in every way, more free in bloom, more brilliant in color, and the habit of plant is more compact. During the past summer it has been tried out in all parts of the country as a bedder and has done remarkably, giving universal satisfaction, and the general verdict is that it is the coming scarlet bedding Geranium.

Ready Jan. 1, 1914, $1.00 per doz.; $6.00 per 100.

CHICAGO NEWS NOTES.

tion baseball team defeated the Wendland & Keimel nine at Elmhurst August 3, by a score of 19 to 8. Catcher Allie Zech, of the Cook County squad, received a pitched ball on the end of one of his fingers, with the result that the digit was split almost to the bone and the nail torn off. He does not expect to be able to play again this season. The Amling team at Maywood is on the schedule for August 9.

W. French, of Sharp, Partridge & Co., is on a two weeks' vacation at Eagle River, Wis.

A. Miller is back from a business trip through Minnesota and says that things are going along in fine shape at Minneapolis, where the convention preparations are in full sway. He expects to remain in Chicago until convention time, when he will make the trip to the Twin Cities in the interests of A. Henderson & Co.

In connection with recent changes to make room for a new garage, the Geo. Wittbold Co. has built a concrete oil house, which speaks well for the workmen who did the job. Employees of this concern have become quite proficient in building with reinforced concrete. Miss Frances Nagle is on her vacation at Booth Lake, Wis.

John Sinner got the fishing bee August 3 and, together with several friends, put in a half day angling for perch, with more or less success.

Miss Nelda Wolf, of Zech & Mann's office force, is on her vacation. John Zech, the champion checker player, is out with a challenge to all comers. He hopes to secure a match with Phil Schupp.

Joseph Foerster, of Kyle & Foerster, says business is about as good as his firm has known during any previous summer.

Arthur Pasternick, of Bassett & Washburn's shipping department, is another who appeared for work this week after a vacation period. He was at Valparaiso, Ind.

D. E. Freres is outing in Wisconsin with his family, while his brother, M. S. Freres, is taking care of the business at the store.

R. H. Murdaugh, of Croswell, Mich., was a visitor last week.

J. W. Davis, Davenport, Ia., was in town this week.

Mrs. Kaber, of the Kaber Co., La-Porte, Ind., was a visitor August 4.

A. C. Rott, of Joliet, was in town August 5.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia be sure to look us up.

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your own convenience, both going and coming. When you will see our palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place) and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

DETROIT.

Club Meeting.

Sydney Tinkler, of Mount Clemens, was elected a member of the Detroit Florists' Club at the meeting August 4.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Frank Danzer; vice-president, Albert Pochelon; secretary, Raleigh Wells; treasurer, Robert Rahaley, reëlected.

J. F. Sullivan firmly declined the president's chair, after being duly elected.

Hugo Schroeter positively refused to accept the office of secretary, owing to the press of other duties.

Various Notes.

Norman and Ernest Sullivan spent the last week of July in Cleveland, making the journey there and back in Mr. Sullivan's touring car.

Albert Havrane, of Walkerville, Ont., is enjoying a few weeks' well-earned rest, traveling through Milwaukee and thereabouts.

B. Schroeter celebrated his seventy-second birthday, July 27, by being on the job at 7 a. m. in the morning and remaining there until the store closed.

Christ Winterich and family motored from Defiance, O., to Detroit last week and spent several days here seeing the sights.

Samuel Seligman, of Sprinkleproof fame, is with us again, handing out some of his good smokes and jokes, both of which all the members of the club enjoyed immensely.

J. A. Muller, representing the Julius Roehrs Co., was an interested visitor at the meeting of the Detroit Florists' Club. He was called upon for a few remarks and gave a few pointers on the matter of publicity, which, if followed out, will prove valuable.

J. K. Stock displayed a beautiful specimen of Gladiolus Europa at the club meeting and it was much admired.

The terrific wind storm which visited this city and vicinity July 27 caused great loss to growers. George Browne, of Greenfield, was perhaps the worst sufferer; his large iron house was leveled to the ground. H. S.

BRAMPTON, ONT.

The Market.

It is astonishing to what a slight degree the so-called financial stringency of the present time affects the flower market. June was a record month and July has written up figures that three years ago would not have been dreamed of for the warmest month of the year. All the young stock is coming along well, and outdoor sweet peas and carnations are being favored by the right kind of weather conditions. Asters, unfortunately, are suffering more or less from the bug, which up to the present has defied all efforts to exterminate it. A few Golden Glow mums came in early in July.

Various Notes.

American Beauties at the Dale Estate were never such a failure as last season. Growers and methods have been changed this summer, and results will be awaited with the greatest interest by every man and boy on the establishment. Superintendent Edward Dale was last heard of from Belfast, Ireland, where he and his daughter watched the procession of Orangemen, on the celebrated July 12, take two hours and forty-five minutes to pass a given point.

This week the Canadian Horticultural Association's annual convention is to be held at Peterborough, Ont., but it is feared that the arduous tasks of the last twelve months, necessitating longer vacations, will prevent many Bramptonians from attending.

The daily papers report a serious accident to W. W. Gammage, the wholesale florist of London, Ont. Mr. Gammage was motoring with two friends in the neighborhood of Ailsa Craig, when the car was upset. The two friends were thrown clear of the machine, but Mr. Gammage was pinned under the steering wheel. He was seriously crushed before being released, and was removed to a house near by, where physicians were speedily in attendance. The trade will wish him a speedy recovery. W. G. P.

LILIUM HARRISII

For Immediate Delivery

We offer a selected stock of the original true Harrisii for early forcing. The stock was grown from the original true type and will be found splendid stock for early forcing, for which purpose Harrisii is so valuable. The crop this season is much shorter than usual, but we are still in position to supply a nice lot of selected stock and can now make delivery from first shipment.

6 to 7-inch bulbs, 350 to the case, $5.50 per 100; $45.00 per 1000
7 to 9-inch bulbs, 200 to the case, 9.00 per 100; 82.50 per 1000
Full case lots at 1000 rates.

READY NOW.
We do a very large business each season on carnation cuttings and field-grown plants because we never ship out stock we would not be willing to plant on our own benches. The field-grown plants are ready. This is not surplus stock, left after selecting the stock for our own use, but is stock grown especially for sale to the trade. If we did not know it was good stock, strong, stocky, well branched, and free from disease, we should not offer it for sale. Last year's customers will be back—and this is an invitation to those who have not yet bought here to order of us this year. Immediate shipment.

PEONIES.

"PEONIES FOR PLEASURE."
This book of "Peonies for Pleasure" gives information on peony history, soil and plants to use, how and when to plant, fertilizers and how to apply, and describes the most extensive planting of really valuable peonies ever gathered together under the sun; describes old and new as well as the plebeian and aristocrat of the peony family. If you want information on the plant that stands next to the rose in beauty, that is practically known to the amateur as simply a red, white and pink peony, then send for "Peonies for Pleasure."
We also issue a special wholesale price list of peonies for fall sales, 1913. Send for both of these booklets.
Our catalogue of everything you need mailed on application. Write for it today.

...THE...
Chrysanthemum

By Arthur Herrington

Formerly president Chrysanthemum Society of America.

The most complete and comprehensive work on the cultivation of the chrysanthemum that has yet been published in America. Its scope and character may be gleaned from the list of contents, which comprises chapters on composts; planting; benches, boxes or pots; general cultural details; crown and terminal buds; feeding, its object and application; care of the buds; exhibition and judging; specimen plants, plants in pots; raising from seed and hybridizing; sports; hardy chrysanthemums; chrysanthemums for south and west; insect pests and diseases; classification and selection of varieties for special purposes; history of the chrysanthemum, etc. The book will be welcomed for the lucid, comprehensive, as well as the practical character of its contents. Handsomely illustrated. 168 pages, 5x7 inches. Price 50c postpaid.

Business holds up well. The supply is in many cases more than sufficient for requirements, but nearly all good stock is sold and the average prices are fair for the time of the year. The call from the out-of-town trade is good.

Gladioli still reign supreme as far as popularity is concerned, because they are available in larger quantities than other flowers and are of good quality. The supply is so great that it is impossible sometimes to affect clearances except at job-lot prices. Roses are meeting with a better call than a fortnight ago. The good blooms find a fairly ready market. The Beauty supply is easily adequate. Asters, when good, have been selling quickly, but the short stock does not move readily. Giganteum lilies meet with a good demand. The same is true of auratums. Some fine, hardy hydrangeas are being received by the wholesalers. These have proved to be tolerably good property.

Greenhouse Heating.

THE steadily increasing consumption of smokeless coal in other lines, especially in apartment houses in cities, probably will make it necessary for florists to pay constantly advancing prices for Pocahontas and other coals of the same class. It merely is a question of what the traffic will bear.

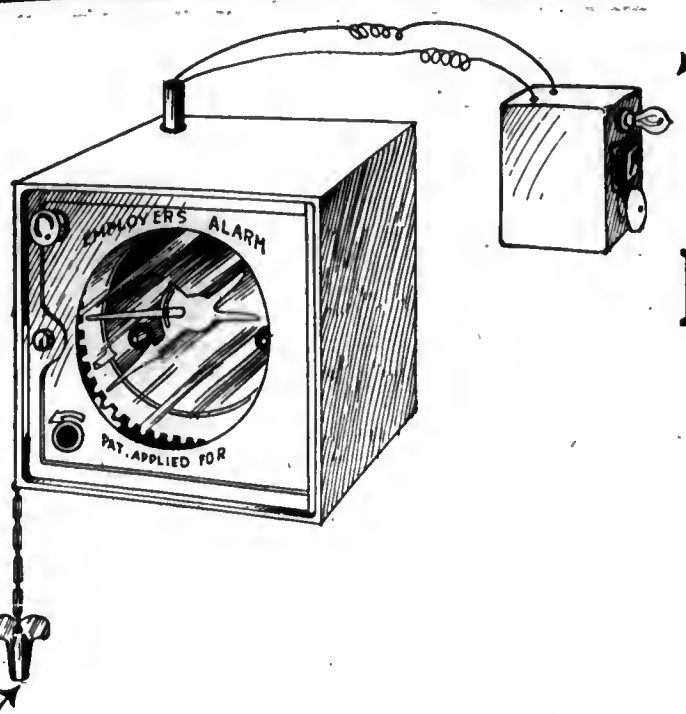
SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

ONE MASSACHUSETTS HOUSE.

My greenhouse is 27x60 feet. The flow pipe from the boiler is 2½-inch; it runs to the far end of the house, about four feet down from the ridge, and branches off in two 2-inch pipes to four 1¼-inch returns that go all around the house in two sections. Is that enough piping to heat the house to 50 degrees at night in zero weather? If not, how much more piping is needed.

S. A. W.

In order to maintain a temperature of 50 degrees in the house described, with steam heat, one 2½-inch flow pipe and eight 1¼-inch returns will be required. Of these returns, two or three pipes should be on each wall and the others distributed under the benches. Of course, all of the return pipes may be on the walls, but it will be better if one or two can be placed under each bench.



COAL AT CHICAGO.

The Franklin county operators of Illinois are discounting the shortage of water, the rush of buying orders, and the shortage of cars by advancing their prices to $1.60 a ton on lump, egg and nut, and other prices correspondingly high. All of these prices went into effect August 1. The largest companies have, in the last two months, made astounding production records and yet they have not been able to overstock the market. Some of the smaller operations have been closed down in part, but the field as a whole has been doing a tremendous business. Indiana operators have enjoyed a splendid market at home. They could have sold quite a lot of coal in Chicago had they been willing to accept the prevailing prices, but those prices have not been considered satisfactory.

The technical situation of the smokeless market has not changed appreciably in the last week. Nothing has occurred to change the tide of demand for that coal. Certain retail dealers are still short in supply, while the apartment houses are, in some anxiety, buying up coal ahead of the time when they propose to use it. This has made a strong market for mine-run coal on the basis of $1.50 at the mines.

A NEW HOUSE AND EXTENSION.

I am building another greenhouse, 25x120, alongside the present one, and wish to know how to pipe it for hot water. The boiler is an American Ideal, rated at 1,800 square feet of radiation. Would it be better to tap the other opening in the boiler or to connect the two mains? I have only one main running from the boiler at present. I have been thinking of tapping the other outlet of the boiler, running the pipe to the house and then under the ridge, using a 3-inch main, a 3-inch return to the boiler and eight 2-inch returns on the walls. Would that be enough piping to heat the house for carnations in the climate of Washington state, where the temperature seldom, if ever, drops to zero? If that would not be enough, please tell me what pipes are really needed for this new house, 25x120, and describe the best arrangement of them.

The present house is 18x80 and I am adding forty feet to the end of it. The piping in this house consists of a 3-inch main under the ridge and six 2-inch returns. I wish to heat this 40-foot extension by lengthening the pipes in the present house. I can run the main right through, but I am in doubt about the installation of the returns. I intend to use the 40-foot house mostly for potted stock and shall not grow anything in it that will need much forcing. If I bring the returns back as they are in the present house, they will block the walks in the present house. The only practicable way that I can think of is to put the returns on the walls and put another main return on the walls in the present house. W. H.

The present 3-inch main would not be able to handle the new house in addition to the old one. While a 3-inch main could be used for the new house, it will be better if three 2½-inch flows are used. One of these could be on each plate and the other under the ridge. If the 3-inch flow is used, ten 2-inch returns will be needed, but with three 2½-inch flows only eight 2-inch returns will be needed for easy heating in zero weather. If there are only one or two days during the winter when the temperature drops as low as zero, it would be possible by heavy firing to maintain the needed temperature with two less returns.

For heating the proposed extension to the present house, it is suggested that the 3-inch main be reduced to 2½-inch and extended to the farther end of the extension. Disconnect four of the 2-inch returns from the present main and extend them to the farther end of the house, and connect with the end of the 2½-inch main. The other return pipes need not be changed, and will still be connected with the end of the 3-inch flow pipe. This will give one 3-inch flow and six 2-inch returns in the present house and one 2½-inch flow and four 2-inch returns in the extension, and the latter will maintain a temperature about 10 degrees lower than is now secured. As no plan of the houses was submitted, no definite advice can be given about the exact location of the returns, but good results can be secured if they are upon the walls as suggested.

RESIDENCE AND GREENHOUSE.

Will you kindly submit the enclosed sketch to your heating expert? Can I heat the residence and conservatory if the piping is arranged as indicated in the sketch, or must I have a separate return pipe for each radiator? The boiler is in the cellar, which is seven feet deep, and the expansion tank is in the garret of the residence. W. F. H.

The sketch shows a number of radiators through which the flow pipes pass, and return pipes running from the farther radiator in each series to the boiler. While this plan of arrangement might be used when no more than two radiators are to be connected, it will be better to run a flow pipe under each series of radiators and then connect each of the radiators directly to this pipe. A return pipe should be run in the same manner and connection made with each radiator.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

The Market.

The last two weeks of July were the busiest ones the retailers have had for a long time. The sudden death of Morgan Whitney, July 18, called for the most artistic and expensive funeral work of all descriptions that some of the local florists ever had to make up,

Superior in Name

"The Superior boiler has them all beat for greenhouse heating" is what the growers all say who are using them.

Superior in Fact

The SUPERIOR STANDARD is designed specially for greenhouse work after a close study of what was needed. It is easily cleaned, although it has more flues than any other boiler, but—more flues give more heat; more flues require less fuel; the water heats quicker and hotter, because the volume of water heated by each flue is smaller.

All we ask is a chance to show you.

comprising several wagon-loads. Orchids, valley and roses were the principal flowers used. Mr. Whitney was a great lover of art and a lavish spender for flowers and flowering plants, and his untimely demise will be much felt by all his customers. The emigration of the summer travelers is at its height, and the social season here will not be reopened until October. The plant sale at the different markets does not amount to much at present.

The truckers are the busy ones now. The growers in the vicinity of New Orleans, the center of the most important vegetable growing section of America, are now preparing their land for the early planting of cabbage, turnips, mustard, etc. The main sowing month is September, and during that month more than 2,000 truckers draw upon local Enclosed find M. O. for balance due on the Boiler. I am well satisfied with the Wilks Heater; it kept an even temperature of 55° in the greenhouse when the thermometer outside registered 40° below during the last spell of cold weather.

Wilks Boilers are specially built for greenhouses.
Wilks Boilers are carefully rated.
Wilks Boilers will perfectly heat up to 3000 square feet of glass.
Wilks Boilers hold an even, continuous fire for 12 hours without attention.

seedsmen for their supply of garden seeds. Activity then sets in among the seed stores, and a few of them will be compelled to work night and day to fill their orders. The market is filled with a profusion of vegetables, selling at low prices, owing to the overproduction of many varieties. The growers had a most deplorable season last year and nearly everything grown went begging. This was occasioned by the late, open winter experienced throughout the north. The usual acreage will be planted, however, and it looks as though many thousands of acres of reclaimed land in the delta section of the state will produce vegetables also. In addition to this, many of the large sugar plantations will be forced eventually to adopt some other crop than sugar. This will all have a tendency to make this section one of the world's greatest agricultural regions, as the ideal soil, climate, etc., enables it to grow vegetables that have the preference in every market in the country.

Various Notes.

"Newsham & Scheuerman, florists, orchids, roses and violets a specialty," reads a new sign on one of the big empty stores on Carondelet street, in the main business section of the city, and in the same block as the Metairie Ridge Nursery Co. and Henry Cook. The new firm will formally open in grand style early in September, and, being known as up-to-date, enterprising florists, they are bound to make good.

Fred Dormoy is still following his hobby of hybridizing flowering shrubs, caladiums, amaryllis, etc., besides growing all kinds of conifers from seeds and cuttings. In this enterprise he has been quite successful of late, and his new Lagerstrœmia Indica, of an extremely delicate pink color and of rapid and easy growth from cuttings, is undoubtedly destined to find a profitable market. His slogan, "Be the first with your special line of plants, and you make the money," helps him considerably in selling out his stock.

Louis Reuter has for some time had full charge of the big seed department of Chris. Reuter, seedsman and shipper of all kinds of vegetables. Being wide-awake to the demands of everything

The company is capitalized at $20,000. The incorporators are Henry H. Stevens, Frederick H. Stevens, Jr., Frederick H. Stevens, Emily J. Hall, William E. Winship and Margaret C. Ladensack.

Parkersburg, W. Va.—At a sale of the business of J. W. Dudley & Sons, August 2, to close up the estate of J. W. Dudley, the property was bid in by B. J. Dudley and others for $32,350. This included the Clarksburg and Huntington stores, the greenhouses in Dudleyville and the three and one-half acres of land there, but not the Parkersburg store. All the property was owned equally by J. W. and C. P. Dudley. The latter has had charge of the business since 1893 and will now retire from the management.

The Market.

This is a low-ebb time for all florists. The heat of last week made the florist's life about as full of discomforts as would ever be found in an equatorial climate. Greenhouse men are putting their benches and glass in condition. Some are beginning to plant carnations and before many days the majority of the carnations will be in their winter abode. All vegetation outside is on the jump, with plenty of rain and hot weather.

Various Notes.

Baldwin the Florist had some excitement at his place a few days ago. A liveryman's horse took the notion to investigate the decorations in the window, and as a result the large sheet of glass was broken to "smithereens." Mr. Baldwin has built a spacious greenhouse at the rear of his store and has it planted with carnations. Mr. Wolfe, of Philadelphia, who has been with Mr. Baldwin for some months, has left his employ.

Jonathan Rodham has abandoned his greenhouse site on Oliphant road, having removed his buildings to a location near his home on Blair avenue; this change is a great convenience to him. He is cutting some carnations from plants which stand on the benches at the old site, with no glass over them. His are about the only carnations that are coming into the market from growers in this vicinity.

F. W. Mackey, who was hard hit by the hail storm in June, is reglazing his greenhouses.

The eight flower beds on the courthouse square, planted by eight different florists, are all attaining fine proportions and are quite decorative.

John Weathers has left his position as private gardener and is now in the employ of Besancon & Co.

The flower beds at Nay Aug park are looking exceptionally fine. Park Superintendent T. H. Phillips and his assistants have planned wisely in the distribution and setting of plants from their conservatory, and as a park of natural scenery Nay Aug has few equals.

B. E. Cokely, who spent six weeks in his bungalow at Herrick Center, has returned to business with renewed energy, leaving his family on the mountain side to enjoy Susquehanna county's cool breezes. G. R. C.

Bar Harbor, Me.—After their successes at the Boston show, the Mount Desert Nurseries held an exhibition of sweet peas at the store here July 23 and 24, which attracted a great deal of attention.

Show Houses Show Profits

THE first thing any kind of store owner arranges for is the biggest possible display of his goods, not only in the windows, but in the store itself. Seeing things sells things—we all know that. The man who can show his customers a variety of plants growing, in addition to the cut kinds, has a big advantage. Time and time again our customers have told us their plant trade has increased surprisingly after building a Show House. The profit on plants may not be as large as on cut flowers, but the losses are less. People will buy plants who never think of spending money for cut flowers. Those who have always bought cut flowers from you will buy plants in addition

Don't these thoughts set you thinking?

FARMERS & FLORISTS TANKAGE FERTILIZER

¶ Is acknowledged by the majority of florists and farmers of the United States to be the best balanced commercial fertilizer manufactured. It carries in its composition a percentage of the ten Basic Salts constituting soil, and it would be an impossibility to use it on any farm, field, lawn or bench without enhancing fertility and productiveness. It carries a very high percentage of the principal plant foods, as certified in its guaranteed analysis of:—Nitrogen 2.90%, Ammonia $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 4%, Phosphoric Acid 8 to 10% and Potash 3%.

¶ Our AETNA BRAND OF TANKAGE FERTILIZER is giving universal satisfaction wherever used, and as we believe in the law of live and let live, and that honesty is the best policy, we have placed this fertilizer within the reach of all growers at the low figure of $22.00 a ton, f. o. b. The Market.

The last week of July brought us the hottest weather we have had yet, but we all managed to get by. The rose market has tightened up, and the only good varieties to be had are Bride, Ivory and Golden Gate. Maryland and Killarney are out of the question.

However, there are many other flowers to choose from, as asters are getting better every day, and gladioli are arriving, good both in quality and quantity. The first part of the week brought a lot of funeral work, of which every shop got a part. Not only that, but there was not a day passed without a cluster, wreath or pillow in the day's orders.

This county made a name for itself this season among the leading wholesale houses of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and New York for having the first and best cut of asters. This name will hold good in both the city and county for years to come, as it is Lane-aster.

Various Notes.

L. S. Landis is cutting some fine asters, which he says he is shipping to Pittsburgh, Pa.

Charles Baxter and Ira Keen, of Pennock Bros., Philadelphia, spent several days here, looking over our flower shops and greenhouses.

The Keystone Nurseries are cutting some good Easter lilies.

J. F. Johnson, of Bridgeport, Pa., who makes a specialty of sweet peas and violets, is cutting some good gladioli and dahlias.

Frank L. Kohr, of Manheim pike, is still cutting a few carnations and snapdragons.

NOTE THE RINGS WHICH APPEAR AT ONE FOOT INTERVALS TO FACILITATE QUICK AND ACCURATE MEASURING

RINGMETER—The Garden Hose for FLORISTS' Use

BECAUSE:

It is made in continuous lengths of 500 feet furnished on reels—no need of thinking of wasteful short ends.

Rings of rubber appear every foot and being spaced exactly one foot apart makes it self-measuring. Just count one ring for every foot as you unwind the reel. Quick and accurate. Does away with mistakes.

The utmost care enters into the construction; only the best of materials and workmanship are used, in conjunction with the latest improved machinery.

Prices are right. RINGMETER is the Garden Hose to show you economy. Strong, durable and quality that spells long service.

Made in three sizes: ¾-inch, ⅝-inch and ½-inch.

Send today for samples and prices.

Advertising forms close TUESDAY

The latest hour at which advertisements, or changes of advertisements, can be accepted is 5 p. m. Tuesday.

El Paso, Tex.—The business conducted by Charles Anders, under the name of the Texas Floral Co., has been removed from 103 Texas street to 617 East Rio Grande.

"S-U-B-S-T-I-T-U-T-E" SPELLS "INFERIORITY"

That is a safe general rule; in the case of CYPRESS as THE Greenhouse Lumber it is an absolute truism. Small wonder that those who urge the "substitute" have but the one cry, "cheaper." But the substitute is NOT "cheaper," except as to initial cost.

The only business-like way to figure material costs in Greenhouse building is BY THE YEAR.

There's nothing consolingly "cheap" about repair and replacement bills. The truly cheapest greenhouse is the one that shows the least totals—at the end of a term of years—first cost and up-keep together.

By that rule CYPRESS for greenhouse construction has all other woods beaten at the start. It is the absolute cheapest, figured by the year of its life. If built of heart Cypress, with "Pecky" Cypress for certain parts, the wood can not be substituted by any other material ever grown or made. Talk of a "substitute" is worse than bosh. It is not quite square. If contractors would say: "We can build you a greenhouse of cheaper wood," that would do, for the so-called "substitutes" are all cheaper in first cost. BUT MORE EXPENSIVE IN THE END. Do you care? You bet you do—you're a business man as well as a flower grower. "The Building Age," August, 1912, issue, page 409, in specifications for a small greenhouse says: "These timbers should be made of Cypress, for, on account of its straight grain, strength and durability, this has been found to be THE WOOD BEST ADAPTED FOR GREENHOUSE CONSTRUCTION."

GET ACTION on our Cypress Pocket Library: the 37 booklets are absolutely free. Write for one, or a dozen. Vol. 3—(nothing but greenhouses) is the first one you want. CHASE A POSTAL AFTER IT. NOW. Then there is Vol. 4, the Barn Book, and Vol. 36, the Carpentry Book.

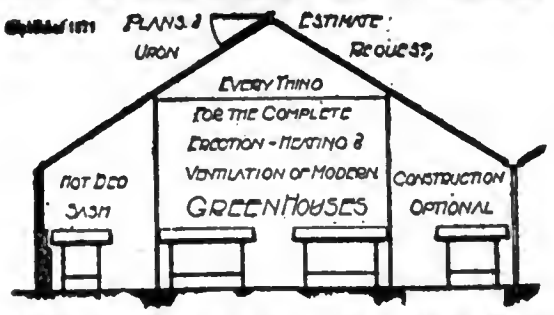
METAL-KOTE SAVES IRON

PAINT YOUR IRON GUTTERS NOW, WHILE THE WEATHER IS WARM AND DRY.

COSTS BUT LITTLE.

USE IT FOR—



Pipe Purlins
Pipe Supports Heating Pipe
Pipe Benches
Gutter Posts
Iron Framework
Iron Gutters
All Steel Work
Farm Machinery
Boilers Tanks
Wind Mills
Steel Towers
And Anything of Iron or Steel That You Want To Save

It has taken a long time to develop this preparation, and it is proving a great boon to florists. For a small sum of money you can double the life of your iron and steel work. If you can't paint it all, do a little at a time. Try out a gallon. The formula contains nothing that will injure plants. Pipe can be painted cold or warm. Coating does not hinder radiation of the heating pipe. One coat does the work. One gallon covers 500 to 600 sq. feet of surface. Ten gallons will paint a steam heating system for about 30,000 sq. feet of glass. Price for 1913, any quantity, $1.75. This special price is for first year only, to introduce this wonderful paint. TRY IT OUT FOR YOURSELF.

CINERARIA SEED
S. & W. Co.'s Giant Prize Strain

This strain of Prize Cineraria is grown for us by a famous English seed specialist. The flowers seldom measure less than 3 inches in diameter, comprising the following colors: White, rose, flesh, crimson, blue, violet, etc. The plants are of a very robust dwarf habit, which, combined with the mass of giant blooms, makes this strain exceedingly valuable.

WHICH WAY IS BEST,

Your present way of getting roses or direct from a big growing establishment like this?

Of course there are a lot of big growers you can buy direct from, but most of them also have a wholesale house; WE don't.

Last week, roses that were cut on our place Monday morning were in the hands of dealers away up north in Minnesota and down south in Georgia by next day noon, and the following morning in Fargo, North Dakota.

And they all wrote us, including Mr. Smedley, the Dakota man, that they arrived there in splendid shape.

You know that these roses must have been fresh--carefully packed--and good stock, or they would not stand shipping that distance in hot weather.

Of course most of them were Beauties, and Beauties stand shipping better than other roses.

You can buy good Beauties here to retail at one, two and three dollars a dozen.

We grow 40,000 Beauties and nearly 50,000 other roses, including plenty of the popular yellows.

Carnations and Mums, too, in season.

Try our way for this season--you will find a difference in your profits.

Notice our lower price list.

Part of Our New Houses—34 x 600 feet.

DURING the past twelve months we have built 18 large new houses, devoted to Carnations, Roses and Chrysanthemums, at Gregg's station, two miles west of Hinsdale station. This in addition to our home ranges of glass at Hinsdale gives us a very large increase of output. We have always maintained a name for the high class quality of the flowers we produce and cater especially to the shipping trade. We cut our flowers to carry well and impress on all buyers the advantage of getting their flowers direct of a large grower. We cordially invite all visiting florists to call and inspect our stock of flowers and see the new style of construction adopted in building our houses.

WHEN YOU BUY YOUR STOCK

On this market, bear in mind that if you buy of us you get the best stock that money can produce. We are ever adding to our experience of three generations of growing and wholesaling and are constantly striving to produce for your needs the highest quality of goods obtainable.

In buying direct of the grower you are assured of fresh stock at all times and at the best prices.

There are Ten Good Reasons Why the New Scarlet Bedding Geranium

"HELEN MICHELL"

Surpasses all other Bedding Geraniums in commerce at present

Reason No. 1. In brilliancy of color. There is no brighter scarlet known than is possessed by this novelty. The color is clear through with no other tint to mar the brilliant effect.

Reason No. 2. In size of bloom. The individual florets measure invariably 2½ inches across, and the entire clusters average 5½ inches in diameter, with many reaching 6 inches. This size of bloom is its natural character and is not produced by feeding or disbudding.

Reason No. 3. In number of clusters to the individual plant. Any young plant in 3½ or 4-inch pot will, when fully developed, show 3 or more gigantic flower heads with additional buds to follow; larger plants, as 6-inch pots, will often show from 5 to 7 heads; plants grown outdoors flower so freely that little foliage can be seen.

Reason No. 4. In vigor or strength. The plants from the very beginning show splendid health by a lustrous foliage and sturdy stems. At no time, though, is this robustness objectionable, as it does not lead to coarse foliage or lanky growth.

Reason No. 5. In earliness of bloom. On March 20th we had our houses photographed, showing every plant of "Helen Michell" in full bloom. These houses are kept at a temperature of 55° at night. This great early flowering feature is of an unusual importance to the commercial man, as he can clean up his houses a month before the usual time and get ready for his next crop. No more disappointment to have geraniums not in bloom in time.

Reason No. 6 In constancy of bloom. This novelty has been under our own supervision now for two consecutive seasons, and never once have the plants ceased to bloom profusely, no matter whether we had continued drought or sunshine or an abundance of rain.

Reason No. 7. In propagating qualities. On account of its easy branching habit more cuttings can be made of a single plant than from any other variety.

Reason No. 8. In its ability to retain its brilliancy of color in either rain or shine. There is no off-season with flowers. Sunshine and plenty of it is its delight. At no time are the beds more brilliant than after a continued dry hot spell, nor are rainy seasons marring to its beauty.

Reason No. 9. In not turning black after a rain. Rain never blackens or rots the flowers. The flower heads being oval in shape throw off the rain, the flower petals gradually fade and die off, thus doing away with the cleaning of the black flowers after a rain.

Reason No. 10. In its even growing habit. The plants are compact in habit and semi-dwarf, and if plants for bedding are used from the same size pot, from the very beginning the bed has the appearance of being trimmed like Coleus, as all flowers appear exactly in the same height.

NEW EXPRESS RATES MEAN SAVING FOR FLORISTS

A Study of the Interstate Commerce Commission's Recent Order Shows Many Gains for our Trade

THE express companies say they will appeal to the courts in the effort to postpone the application of the new rates ordered August 4 by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Every florist should hope to see the rates become effective October 15, in accordance with the commission's order, for a study of the document shows the florists' gain to have been ever greater than was indicated by the press dispatches sent out from Washington that were the basis for most of the express rate article in The Review last week.

The feature of the order which was not adequately covered in the dispatches summarizing it was the treatment accorded the commodities heretofore enjoying special rates. It was reported they are to be "continued." It proves to be even better than that.

New Classification.

Under the order, which will become effective October 15 unless the express companies can get a stay from the courts, there has been a complete revision of classification; a renaming in terms that anyone can understand. Three classes of matter are provided for. Class 3 consists of newspapers and a few other articles that have been carried at rates that permit the express companies to compete with the mail. Class 2 includes practically all the commodities now known as "general specials," and Class 1 includes all articles not named in the classification as coming within the other two classes.

Cut flowers are first-class and take the new merchandise rate, as they have the merchandise rate in the past. The table of rates printed in The Review last week shows that the new rates are not so materially lower than the old rates on shipments weighing 100 pounds or over, but that there is a general reduction on shipments weighing fifty pounds and a sharp reduction on lighter shipments. The rates for distances over 200 miles are reduced more in proportion than are the rates for distances less than 200 miles from point of origin of the shipment.

Second Class.

It is provided in the order that the old general specials shall be done away with; to the layman it was a meaningless and confusing term. In its place a so-called second class is created, including important trade commodities.

The rate on this new second class is not to exceed seventy-five per cent of the first class rate, with a minimum charge for ten pounds unless the first class rate for the actual weight is less.

When the express companies years ago granted a reduced rate on live plants the reduction was at first a flat twenty per cent and many florists still think of it as just that, but November 15, 1906, a change was made that scarcely anybody heard about at the time. The so-called Scale N was put into effect. Scale N did not need to be hidden, for it gave the general specials a better average rate than the old twenty-per cent reduction. It is still in force and will continue until the new order becomes effective. It provides for a definite special rate, like this: "Where the merchandise rate is $5.50 per 100 pounds the general special rate is $3.50." The table was printed in full in last week's issue of The Review.

A study of Scale N will show that the general special rate is between sixteen and two-thirds per cent and twenty-five per cent less than the merchandise rate up to where the merchandise rate exceeds $3.25 per 100 pounds. From $3.50 to $4.25 merchandise rate the special rate is twenty-seven to thirty per cent less. From $4.50 up, merchandise rate, the special rate shows reductions of from thirty-two to thirty-six per cent.

The new classification, with its arbitrary limit of rate at seventy-five per cent of the first class rate, therefore, is more favorable than the old Scale N rate is to where the first class is $3.25 per 100 pounds and less favorable where the first class rate exceeds $3.25 per 100 pounds. But taken in connection with the general reduction of the first class or merchandise rate the gain to plant shippers is important. The dozen or more comparisons of present and proposed rates shown in the table herewith, however, show that in only a few instances is authority given for an advance in rates. The commission prescribes the maximum rates; the companies can go lower if they wish.

Two Examples.

The Detroit-Chicago rates: The new order does not reduce the rate on cut flower shipments weighing 100 pounds, but it cuts the rate on plants properly packed. The old general special rate is $1 where the merchandise rate is $1.25, but the new second class rate must not exceed three-quarters of the first class rate. The result is a cut on all shipments of plants, ferns, etc., amounting to 7 cents per 100 pounds.

Take the Des Moines-Chicago rates: The new order gives the authority to advance the first class rate 5 cents on shipments weighing 100 pounds. (there is a reduction on shipments weighing less than fifty pounds), but the general special rate is $1.40 where the merchandise rate is $1.75 and three-fourths of $1.80 is $1.35, so that the new second class rate must be a reduction of 5 cents even in one of the few instances in which the express companies are given authority for an increase in the first class rate per 100 pounds.

Some Restrictions.

Here in parallel columns are the lists of the present general specials and the new second class as far as they affect florists, seedsmen and nurserymen:

As under the present express classification, the new classification contains certain restrictions on the packing of articles that are to be carried at the lower rates. In the main they follow the old phraseology, but there are important exceptions. The purpose is to insure such packing as will enable the carriers to handle the shipments without extra care. Here are the rules:

"Greens, decorative, cut—In boxes, crates or baskets so packed that they can be stowed with other freight and handled without extra care.

"Moss—Boxed, crated or baled.

"Plants, dormant—Not potted, securely packed.

"Plants, growing—Not in pots or tubs, placed in boxes the sides and ends of which are as high as or higher than the plants, and slats nailed over the top to completely protect the plants, second class; in pots or tubs with plants and receptacles crated, first class; in pots or tubs, not crated, double first class; refuse when in pots or other receptacles completely boxed.

"Christmas trees—Wrapped or bound in packages, not exceeding twelve feet long, double first class. Exceeding twelve feet long, subject to rule 18, which provides for special bulky shipments requiring other than ordinary service.

"Trees, shrubs and branches of same—Completely boxed, crated or strawed and baled and packed so that they can be stowed with other freight and handled without extra care."

Return of Empties.

A new rule is made with regard to the return of empties. The rate is not to exceed one-half the rate per 100 pounds that applies on the commodity shipped in the carriers when full, the weight to be aggregated when two or more empties are included in the shipment; minimum charge 15 cents. Cut flower baskets, boxes or crates are to be returned at a maximum charge of 10 cents each where the weight is fifteen pounds or less and 15 cents where the weight exceeds fifteen pounds. Refrigerator boxes, empty, are to be returned at 25 cents each.

A CENSUS OF GLADIOLI.

Alfred C. Hottes, who is in charge of the trial grounds of the American Gladiolus Society at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., sends The Review the following:

"In connection with the trial ground work of the American Gladiolus Society here at Ithaca, N. Y., we have recently sent out a number of questions to all commercial growers of gladioli of whom we know. These questions we have thought would cover somewhat a census of gladiolus growing, and we would like to have them put into as many hands as possible. We are sending you the questions, and wonder if you could publish them in your paper; for your paper would reach a large number of growers not members of the American Gladiolus Society. It seems important to all growers of the gladiolus that such questions as, 'What varieties do you consider synonyms?' and 'What varieties are different under the same name?' etc., should be answered. Should you print them, we wonder if you could head the questions with an appeal for anyone who has any thoughts along this line to correspond with us and discuss those questions he feels able to answer. We hope that you can coöperate with us in making this information as complete as possible."

The question blank is three typewritten sheets conveniently spaced for filling in the answers. Doubtless Mr. Hottes will send copies to any readers of The Review who are interested in the subject.

SANDS AMONG THE LILIES.

Modestly in the background of the illustration, hiding behind the products of his labor, which speak for themselves and for him, stands Murray Sands, of Jackson, Tenn. The lilies are but a part, a sample, of the stock he had at Easter. One has only to see them to know why their grower is kept busy throughout the year. To take care of his business properly, he is now building an addition to his plant, which will be used as a house for chrysanthemums. The material and plans are being furnished by the John C. Moninger Co. When this house is completed the plant will have a total of about 12,000 square feet of glass. Mr. Sands is a son of the late Judge Wm. B. Sands, of Baltimore, Md.

ENGLISH GRAPES UNDER GLASS.

Last winter I planted some exotic grapes imported from England. I pruned them back closely and am running up one cane to a vine. They have reached the top of the wires, but what I am concerned about is the lowest five or six feet of cane and the amount of growth I shall retain when pruning this fall. The thickening of the cane by growth has almost obliterated from view the eyes that are required to break next spring to become, eventually, the spurs. The leaf at the base of several of the eyes that I refer to seems to have performed its function and is turning yellow, but the lateral shoots are in good shape. Will there be any difficulty in breaking the eyes at the base end of the cane in the spring, or can I help them to swell by pinching during the rest of this season all the future growths that come away at the top end of the vines? I found it necessary to shade slightly on the south side of the house, as the vines, not being acclimated, flagged a little about the middle of each hot day. H. H

A natural mistake which you probably made in running your canes up was in not pinching them back three or four times before they reached the top of the house. After the canes had made, say, three to four feet of growth, they should have been pinched. This stopping causes the buds to plump up well; these are the buds, be it remembered, that are to produce the side laterals to carry fruit another season. After the shoot below where you pinched has made another three to four feet of growth, pinch it also and continue this to the top of the vines, whatever length they may be.

When you do not stop the canes in this way, the lower buds, even when you prune back your canes, will not break so vigorously or so evenly as when you pinch as I have suggested. Another season do this and note the difference. I would suggest not leaving over four feet of wood for the coming season. Then you can build up good canes in future years, with strong laterals. It will help a little now if you will pinch back all future growths, both at top and sides of vines. Your vines, if well ventilated and kept sufficiently moist at the root, should not have required any shading. Muscats are a little more susceptible to burning than any other varieties, and it is usually necessary to give them a little shading, not because they would wilt, but because their foliage would burn. I would advise removing all shading by the end of August. Also keep all new growths removed, so that the canes can get all possible sunlight, to make them of that nutty brown color indicative of thorough ripening. C. W.

ILLINOIS INCREASES HOLDINGS.

President Edmund J. James, of the University of Illinois, announces that the trustees of the university have purchased an estate of 320 acres at a cost of $256,000 for the purpose of enlarging and developing the horticultural interests represented in the university.

"This will make a provision for the study of horticulture, including forestry, second to none in the United States, and will surpass considerably any similar work done abroad," said President James. "It is perfectly apparent that with the rising price of Illinois farm lands a new system of culture must be introduced to make them profitable to their owners and the people of the commonwealth in general.

"More intensive methods of cultivation must be adopted. The systematic cultivation of forest trees, the development of the whole department of floriculture, which has become one of the great industries of the state of Illinois, and the adequate development of fruit growing and market gardening, call for more systematic and comprehensive attention to this subject than they have received. The provision of this added space will permit the university to undertake the development of this interest on an added scale.

"Horticulturists are fully convinced that Illinois, taken as a whole, offers as good prospects for fruit growing—apples, peaches, pears, cherries, etc.—as are to be found in any state of the Union, not even excepting the most favored regions on the Pacific coast, while opportunities for market gardening and floriculture are of course absolutely inexhaustible."

Additional Trade Exhibitors.

In addition to the list published by The Review July 31, the following exhibitors have taken large blocks of space in the trade section:

Bayersdorfer & Co., H., Philadelphia, Pa.
Deamud, J. B., Chicago, Ill.
Peters & Reed Pottery Co., South Zanesville, O.
Wright, T. H., Los Angeles, Cal.
McNeff-Swanson Co., Chicago, Ill.

Arrangements Completed.

Arrangements are now completed and the local committees deserve much praise for the creditable manner in which all details of the convention have been carried out. Indications point to a large attendance from the west and northwest. To show proper courtesy and consideration to the local societies, visitors are requested to be seated promptly at 2 p. m. in the ball-room on Tuesday, August 19, when the opening exercises will take place and Mayor Wallace G. The Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association will have permanent headquarters in the Armory, and Albert Pochelon, the hustling secretary, will be in constant attendance to enlighten those who are not already members, on the great mutual benefit derived from belonging to this branch of the S. A. F.

Applications for membership in the S. A. F. are coming in freely, and the record for new members will likely equal or exceed that of the great 1912 convention held in Chicago.

The R. E. Loeben Prizes.

R. E. Loeben, Gloversville, N. Y., has donated $50, to be used for some purpose at the S. A. F. convention and exhibition in the advancement of floriculture. The advisory committee has decided to offer this in two prizes, to be known as the R. E. Loeben prizes: First, a loving cup valued at $30, and second, a loving cup valued at $20, for the best table decoration.

The rules governing competition are as follows: Table used is to be a round table and not to exceed six feet in diameter, set for four persons; the floral arrangement only is to be judged. The exhibit must be in place not later than 12 o'clock noon of the second day, Wednesday, August 20. Entries must be made to John Young, secretary, S. A. F. Flowers are to be kept in fresh condition for the rest of the week and table and accessories to be furnished by the exhibitor.

Prizes for Sports.

C. H. Ruedlinger, chairman of the local committee on sports, has been busy securing prizes and arranging the details of the bowling tournament and the sports which will take place on the day of the outing at Tonka bay. Mr. Ruedlinger announces that he has received from Hess & Swoboda, Omaha, the interesting prize of a life membership in the S. A. F. This, to the writer, seems to be the most attractive prize ever offered at any convention.

John A. Young, Secretary.

NATIONAL GARDENERS.

A meeting of the members of the National Association of Gardeners attending the convention of the Society of American Florists, in Minneapolis, will be held in the Armory on Wednesday evening, August 20, at 7:30 o'clock, to which all gardeners are invited. There will be no routine business. The meeting is called simply to offer an opportunity to the members from the east to become acquainted with their western brethren. Following the meeting the members will adjourn to the lecture to be given by Theodore Wirth on the parks and boulevards of Minneapolis. M. C. Ebel, Sec'y.

OMAHA TO MINNEAPOLIS.

The Omaha Florists' Club hereby invites the western florists to come and join the Omaha party for the S. A. F. convention. The party will leave Omaha on Monday, August 18, at 9:05 p. m., over the Chicago & North-Western railroad, arriving at Minneapolis at 8:25 Tuesday morning.

The fare from Omaha is $16.20 for the round trip, which is no reduction from the full fare. I would advise parties outside of Omaha to ask for special rates, as Kansas City, St. Joe, Lincoln and other points have just as cheap rates as Omaha, but get your tickets to read "via Omaha, over the North-Western." Also apply to L. Henderson, the secretary, 1519 Farnam street, Omaha, for reserved berths, which are $2 for lower and $1.60 for upper.

COREOPSIS AND CORNFLOWERS.

Will you please tell us the method of handling bachelor's buttons and calliopsis for winter blooming? Are the bachelor's buttons quoted among cut flowers the double cornflowers? K. & S.

The seed of bachelor's buttons can be sown in rows under glass eighteen inches apart, either in solid beds or raised benches. The benches are preferable in midwinter, but are not so good after February. Sowings can be made about the end of August directly in the benches. Some start them in pots in frames and use them as a succession crop to chrysanthemums. A temperature of 45 to 48 degrees at night must not be exceeded. Compost suitable for chrysanthemums or roses is all right for bachelor's buttons.

The annual varieties of coreopsis, or calliopsis, such as Drummondii, Morning Star and atrosanguinea, can be planted in benches like the bachelor's buttons, but are not profitable winter bloomers. They are, however, useful for a spring crop if started in November. The diennial varieties, lanceolata and grandiflora, should be sown outside in June or July. These, if started in heat in January, either in pots or benches, give a fine crop of long-stemmed flowers in April and May.

Both double and single cornflowers are marketed as bachelor's buttons.

CANADIANS ELECT OFFICERS.

At the closing session of the sixteenth annual convention of the Canadian Horticultural Association, held last week at Peterboro, the following officers were elected:

President—H. B. Cowan, Peterboro, Ont.

First vice-president—George Hopton, Montreal.

Second vice-president—T. Adams, Toronto.

Secretary-treasurer — Julius Luck, 1018 Queens road, Montreal.

Executive committee — S. Jordan, Peterboro; T. Adams, Toronto, and G. Douglas, Toronto.

An invitation to hold next year's convention at Toronto was accepted.

LITTLE ROCK SHOWS SPEED.

In the issue of The Review for July 31, there was published a copy of the Chicago ordinance prohibiting the second use of wire work and materials of designs once placed in a cemetery. The following Tuesday, five days later, the same law was in effect in Little Rock, Ark.

Florists in many cities besides Chicago have been interested in this subject and the ordinance and its accompanying article brought it again to their attention in a crystallized form. P. M. Palez, who is alderman of the Third ward, as well as a leading florist, in Little Rock, Ark., found what he had for several years been looking for in the ordinance reprinted in The Review. His copy reached him Monday, August 4, and he was ready to act. That night he introduced a duplicate of the Chicago law into the council; it passed and was in effect next day. This surely is a record for quick legislative action. But, of course, the entire florists' trade was back of it.

MOLES IN CUCUMBER BEDS.

I noted the following inquiry from H. J. P., in a recent issue of The Review: "Moles are damaging my cucumber crop. There is not a bed in the houses which they have not undermined in every direction. In winter they brought destruction to the lettuce crop, and nothing that I could do would stop them. Traps did not do the work. Flooding the beds was without effect. Does anybody know how to make them leave the greenhouses? Your advice will be highly appreciated."

In reply to H. J. P., I would suggest the following method, which I have found to be effective: Dig some holes in the beds, each hole deep enough to allow a pail of water to be placed in it. The pails must be about half filled with water and placed with their rims a little below the surface. Dig about three or four holes in each bed. The moles will drop into the water and will drown.

CUCUMBERS ON SOLID BEDS.

I propose to devote two houses to the growing of White Spine cucumbers for the winter market. These two houses have been used for tomatoes, which have been grown on benches in one house and on solid beds in the other house. I have not found bottom heat necessary, the houses being well supplied with returns under the side plates. I shall be glad to have your advice as to whether it will do to grow these cucumbers on solid beds on the ground and whether it is necessary to put in further floor piping. In this part of Ontario we rarely get severe frost before January; during January and February the temperature may occasionally fall to 10 degrees below zero. We have found it quite easy to keep a temperature of 70 degrees without using the pipes under the benches, which are laid in one house. If we can succeed without the necessity of putting in benches it will be a great convenience. R. N. W.

There is no need to construct benches for the cucumbers. Of course, on raised benches they would probably yield somewhat better in midwinter, but few growers on a large scale plant in any other way than on the ground. If you can maintain a winter minimum of 65 degrees in zero weather, it will suffice for the cucumbers.

SEASONABLE NOTES.

The Shade on Cattleya Houses.

While we still may expect considerable warm weather, the days are shortening and the nights are preceptibly cooler. While the sunshine so far during August has been about equal to that during July, we are likely to have a good deal of warm, humid and cloudy weather before the month closes, and it behooves those who have the interests of their cattleyas at heart to see to it that the shading on the glass is not too dense. If a house looks dark inside during a cloudy day, it is a sure sign that some shade should be removed. Cattleyas in a densely shaded house will have beautiful, dark green foliage and bulbs, but they will not flower like others which have had stronger light. Those who can afford roller, or other movable shades, have a great advantage in being able to give their plants a maximum of light when it is most needed.

Cattleya flowers at this season are scarce, and retailers who may chance to get a decoration or funeral order calling for orchids will have hard work to get the needful supplies. C. Dowiana is still in flower, and there are still a few C. gigas and C. Gaskelliana. The chief standby, however, is that free-flowering little variety, C. Harrisoniæ. The flowers of this are small compared with those of many other cattleyas, but are of a charming pink color and are quite freely produced on stout scapes. It probably pays the grower for the market as well as any of the labiata section.

Holding for a Late Market.

Cattleya labiata has buds well up in the sheaths, and some few almost open. These flowers always bring an excellent price. It is the early and late ones which make the dollars. Any grower who can hold his flowers back until December, when about all the labiatas have passed, is sure to make good money. "How can we hold our plants back?" may be asked. Give an abundance of air both night and day. Never mind if the night temperature falls below 60 degrees; it will not hurt them at all, and your flowers will have all the more substance when you get them. Cattleyas should not be treated like cypripediums, dendrobiums, or even roses. It is all wrong to shut them up tightly in the afternoon after syringing overhead, to produce a "nice growing atmosphere." The top ventilators of a cattleya house should never be closed except in the winter months, and even then some bottom air should be admitted.

Watering and Feeding.

Watering should be done in the morning. Plants such as C. labiata, Trianæ, Mossiæ, Percivaliana and others, in active growth, will need a liberal supply, more than C. Gaskelliana, Dowiana and others which are just starting into growth. Feeding is a much debated question. Some recommend, others condemn it. We have seen equally good plants grown by either system. The best of all were watered with rain water caught in a large tank. This involved dipping each plant—a heavy task. This water sometimes smelled rather strongly and probably gave the plants just the little tonic they needed. Do any feeding moderately, and use weak cow or sheep manure water, or a little Bon Arbor, which is similar to the well known Cookson's formula in its effect on orchids, and do not feed cattleyas or lælias more frequently than once a fortnight.

A spraying each clear afternoon should be given the cattleyas. Give it sufficiently early so that it will dry before nightfall. Night temperatures are variable during August. As a general rule it can run from 60 to 65 degrees. Some nights it will be higher and it will do no harm if it falls to 58 degrees on cool evenings. It is not a good plan to shut the house up tightly on a cool night; leave some air on, to keep the atmosphere buoyant.

HEAD LETTUCE IN FRAMES.

I am preparing to grow head lettuce for the market, and should like to know the most economical method to employ. I may be in the business only temporarily, and it would therefore seem to be unwise to build a regular lettuce house at this time. Do you think that a hotbed would answer the purpose for winter use in this Oregon climate? Or I might use a coldframe with a couple of ¾-inch or 1-inch pipes on the sides, as I can place them on a hillside. If you think this feasible, what temperature would be best? The soil I have is a deep black loam, containing some sand, and it retains moisture to a fair degree. What commercial fertilizer should I use? What varieties of head lettuce would you recommend for market use? G. G. W.

Whether or not you can grow good head lettuce in frames in winter depends a good deal on your climate. Where the temperature will fall to zero, I would advise against starting any plantings in coldframes before February 10. Then, if you can secure some warm stable manure, mix and tramp a foot of it and cover this with seven or eight inches of good lettuce loam. After one crop is cleared, add three inches more of well decayed manure and fork it in for the succeeding crop.

You could get fairly good head lettuce in midwinter if you could provide, in addition to the warm manure, sufficient steam or hot water—the latter is preferable in frames—to keep up a winter minimum of 40 to 42 degrees, rising to 45 degrees on warm nights. By using warm manure alone you could be sure of an excellent crop until Thanksgiving. This would leave nine or ten weeks during which some fire heat would be advantageous. Your loam should be all right if it is well mixed with stable manure. The leading lettuce forcers sterilize their soil to destroy all soil pests, weeds, etc., and this also prevents a disease called leaf scald. If you use steam, I would advise you to sterilize in that way. I would not advise the use of a commercial fertilizer. If you plant in the greenhouse, allow for fully fifteen inches of soil.

A good selection from the many Tennis Ball varieties, white-seeded, is incomparable for forcing purposes. Among the best are Hittinger's Belmont, Thorburn's Glasshouse, Rawson's Hothouse and Boston Market. C. W.

OLD STOCK OF POINSETTIAS.

Early in the summer I bought a lot of old stock of poinsettias, which had been flowered last year. I put them in 6-inch pots. The plants now have half a dozen or more strong shoots on them. I want to flower these poinsettias for cutting and have been advised by one florist to leave the plants in the pots and simply plunge the pots in a bed or bench. Is this a good method? I have never seen this method used and I have had no previous experience with poinsettias. The house in which I intend to plant them is about five feet high above the middle bench. Would that be sufficient head room? W. I.

By plunging the pots and allowing the plants to root through you will get good bracts, but the plants would make much stronger growth and larger bracts if planted out in a bench in five or six inches of good soil, or even in a solid bed. A height of five feet should suffice for these poinsettias, provided they are not over two feet high now. Growth will be rapid during the next three months. The plants require a minimum temperature of 60 degrees after the bracts start to form, and until developed, after which a few degrees less heat will suffice. C. W.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—Victor Mann has started a small greenhouse business here, growing roses and carnations.

Columbus, O.—John R. Hellenthal, whose houses were damaged by the hail storm July 9, is going to use the money he has just received from the Florists' Hail Association in rebuilding three of the houses.

Butte, Mont.—The Butte Floral Co. is completing new greenhouses comprising a glass area of 40,000 square feet, and a boiler shed and service building, 35x125 feet. The officers of the company are: President, William J. Day; vice-president, Philo King, and secretary and treasurer, James H. King.

KAISERINS TURNING YELLOW.

I herewith send a rose plant and some of the soil in which it has been growing, and I shall be glad if you can tell me what has caused the leaves to turn yellow. The roses were planted in February of this year, for our supply during the summer, and they grew well till about three weeks ago; then they began to turn yellow in places. Sometimes one plant will become quite yellow all over, while the plant next to it will look perfectly healthy. The house is planted with Killarneys and Kaiserins. The Killarneys are keeping their color and doing well, but the Kaiserins are turning yellow. A whole house of them went the same way last year. I give them manure water every other week and I keep a mulch of cow manure on them; when one mulch wears away, I put on some more.

C. J. R.

The trouble in this case, in my opinion, lies entirely in the soil, which seems to be a half decayed red sandstone, without a particle of fiber in it—a soil which it would be impossible to pack solid enough to hold moisture and plant food in a bench six inches deep. Though roses may live in such soil if planted outdoors, or in solid beds under glass, they would even then hardly make a satisfactory growth or prove profitable. That one plant grows while another alongside it turns yellow may be explained by the facts that the soil is not all alike and some plants stand more than others. Judging by the sample sent, the plants have made little growth considering that they were planted in February.

If you can get some clay soil or soil from bottom land, with a fair sod on it, I would advise taking at least part of the soil out of the benches and replacing it with a compost consisting of equal parts of this new soil and of half rotted manure. Then water the new compost down well, so as to pack it as much as possible, and I think you will overcome your trouble. W. J. K.

THE ST. LOUIS FALL SHOW.

George E. Kessler, one of the most widely known landscape architects, serving the park commissioners of the largest cities in this country, is busily engaged in laying out the space in the Coliseum building in an artistic way to harmonize with the decorative scheme as a setting for the flowers. The executive committee, composed of the foremost business and financial men of St. Louis, at a meeting last week awarded the scenic contract to Toomey & Volland Scenic Co., and this calls for 1,000 feet of woodland scenery forty feet high and the cost is to be $4,000.

The St. Louis Florists' Club at the last meeting voted to offer $100 as a special prize to be announced in the regular premium list. Inquiries are coming from the best growers in the country and the management thinks the Mid-Continental flower show is now an assured success from all angles.

CHECKING ARMY WORMS.

I am sending you a few worms which are unknown to me. Will you kindly advise me how to get rid of them, as they are doing considerable damage to my ferns? W. B. W.

The larvæ are those of one of the common army worms. Arsenate of lead or one of the tobacco compounds may be used to control this pest. The arsenate of lead may be applied at the rate of two pounds to fifty gallons of water, with a little lime or soap as a sticker. Nicotine extract and the other tobacco compounds can be used according to the directions enclosed with them.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS.

The doors at which opportunity knocks are not always, nor commonly, chosen by chance. It will bring her sooner to put out guide-posts to show the way. Our Classified Ads are wonderfully successful little guide-posts. They were what this florist used to bring opportunity to his door:

Will you please discontinue our ad for mums, as we have already sold out and could have sold three or four times the amount.—R. Lutey, Ironwood, Mich., July 28, 1913.

LANCASTER, PA.

The Market.

August started in with a little encouragement, as there were three big days in the week that kept the shops busy. This, of course, was all funeral work, as that is the only thing in sight these days. Outdoor flowers are crowding the market, and one can get any variety he desires. There are gladioli, asters, snapdragons, hardy hydrangeas, hardy phloxes, tritomas, zinnias, marigolds and helianthus of every variety. Good roses are scarce, but, owing to the hot spell, there are loads of poor and open roses going to the dump every day.

Various Notes.

E. S. Rutt, Elizabethtown, Pa., was found busily engaged August 3, making a large floral shoe. The order was given by one of the large shoe factories for the funeral of an employee who was drowned. The piece was made up in attractive style, of green magnolia leaves, roses and asters.

George Goldbach had a handsome blanket to make for a funeral at Coplay, Pa. It was made up here of gladioli and shipped to the point named.

The Keystone Nurseries are cutting a large quantity of Ward roses from young plants, which are doing well. These are the first batch of Wards grown in this section.

At Barr's shop the painters are busy, both inside and outside. A number of changes have been made in the shop and workrooms, so as to be in a position to meet the coming season's demand.

The death of Francis Bachler is recorded in this week's obituary column. His death was a great shock to the trade here.

At H. A. Schroyer's shop the windows are neatly decorated with gladioli, asters, marigolds and ferns.

The Florists' Association of Lancaster county will hold its regular monthly meeting, Thursday evening, August 21. Asters and gladioli will be discussed.

Visitors: C. B. Knickman, for McHutchison & Co., New York, and H. C. Paulin, for the Rutland Fire Clay Co., Rutland, Vt. C. F. E.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

An abundance of gladioli, roses, Beauties and carnations has characterized this market for the last week. The supply has more than kept pace with the demand, and it may be safely predicted that this will be the condition for the coming week. Asters are faring better, as they are of better quality. Lilies are cleaning up every day. Gladioli of good quality are offered in lots of 1,000 at $7.50 to $15.00.

Club Picnic.

The Florists' Club's picnic was a grand success; the chairman and his committees deserve congratulations. Over 250 persons enjoyed the boat ride, athletic events and dancing; the day was delightful. The winners in the athletic events were as follows:

Hundred-yard dash, open—Andy Spitzner.
Hundred-yard dash, growers—Chas. Godwin.
Fifty-yard dash, boys—Geo. Wessenbaugh.
Fifty-yard dash, girls—Irene Smith.
Hundred-yard dash, boys—Louis Wessenbaugh.
Hundred-yard dash, girls—Jane Brooks.
Hundred-yard dash, fat men—Al Rosnosky.
Hundred-yard dash, ladies—Mrs. Coleman.
Hundred-yard dash, ladies—Jane Brooks.
Twenty-five-yard egg and spoon—Jane Brooks.
Twenty-five-yard potato race, men—Charles Gerwig.
Hop, step and jump, men—Andy Spitzner.
Running broad jump, men—Andy Spitzner.
Ball-throwing contest, men—Andy Spitzner.
Ball-throwing contest, ladies—Jane Brooks.
Shoe-string race, boys—Louis Wessenauer.
Cake walk, on boat—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gerwig.
Baseball game—Wholesalers 14, Retailers 12.

Various Notes.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. has let contracts for one house, 40x583 feet, to Lord & Burnham Co., for three soil houses to the King Construction Co. and for a Haines vacuum heating system to Fred C. Bowers, of Philadelphia. This company is now receiving bids on a large dormitory and service building for their employees.

Visitors last week included H. E.

Bates, of Lord & Burnham Co., Fred C. Bower, of Philadelphia, and R. O. King, president of the King Construction Co.

Allen Langhans has joined an automobile party from Warren, Pa., on their way north.

George McCallum has returned and is on the job again.

Howard Carney and family are enjoying their summer home at Valley camp.

Edward Weaver, of Randolph & McClements, is now on his vacation.

George Marshall leaves next week on a two weeks' fishing trip in the wilds of Ontario, Can., taking with him a yardstick and scale, as he is particular about the size and weight of his catch.

Mrs. Annie Garrity is enjoying the sea breezes at Atlantic City.

GREENWICH, CONN.

The regular monthly meeting of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society was held in Doran's hall August 8, President Robert Williamson in the chair. An interesting discussion took place on the diseases of shade trees, a subject now requiring close attention. Several new members were elected, also several applications received. The schedule for the fall show, which is to be held in Stamford November 7 and 8, is now in the committee's hands and will be out in a few days. Excellent classes are drawn up, with substantial prizes offered. The few choice exhibits at this meeting were judged as follows:

Wm. Morrow—Cultural certificate for Barbarossa and Muscat of Alexandra grapes.

Adam Paterson—Cultural certificate for Muscat of Alexandra grapes.

Thos. Ryan—Honorable mention for vase of cannas and vase of sweet peas.

Thos. Aitchison—Honorable mention for Lælio-cattleya Bletchleyensis.

James Stuart—Vote of thanks for Viola atropurpurea.

Carl Hakansen—Vote of thanks for Mrs. Francis King and Octoroon gladioli.

Anthon Peterson—Vote of thanks for vase of seedling delphiniums.

F. Lageratane—Vote of thanks for Mrs. Francis King and Attraction gladioli, Veronica spicata, Marguerite carnation and Semple's Branching aster.

P. W. Popp—Vote of thanks for montbretias and Ismene calathina.

Adam Paterson—Vote of thanks for new sunflower.

WASHINGTON-BALTIMORE PICNIC

Chesapeake Beach, Md., was last week the Mecca of the florists of Washington and Baltimore and the members of the Kallipolis Grotto, No. 15, Mystic Order of the Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, with their families and friends. Music, dances, games and the regular beach amusements made the day one to be ever remembered. As is usual, a large crowd participated in the outing and little difficulty was experienced in obtaining many entrants for each athletic event.

With the bowling tournament at Minneapolis in prospect, a great deal of interest was taken in the match between the Washington and Baltimore florists' teams, in which the former proved the winner. William H. Ernest, George C. Shaffer, George C. Dalglish, R. M. McLennan and Guy Eiker, who form the team, made a fine showing. The ladies also had an opportunity of showing their skill, and in the singles Mrs. Bauer, of Baltimore, showed championship form, while Mrs. Simmonds and Mrs. Cooke, of Washington, came out second and third, respectively.

The Baltimore florists excelled their Washington brothers in the national game of baseball, trimming them handily with a score of 4 to 1.

The amusement features in the dancing pavilion consisted of songs and dances by Miss Ida Hayes' pupils, a band concert, and songs, comic sketches, recitations, etc., by members and professionals. At the Belvedere hotel, the Washington florists were the guests of the Baltimoreans, who entertained them with a band concert between 6 and 7 p. m.

Florist members of the committees of the Kallipolis Grotto were: William F. Gude, excursion; Fred H. Kramer, vice-chairman, and George C. Shaffer, entertainment; O. A. C. Oehmler, member of committee of judges. The members of the excursion committee of the Florists' Club of Washington were: William H. Ernest, chairman; George C. Dalglish, secretary; N. S. Hammer, J. Barry, Harry L. Louis, George C. Shaffer and W. W. Kimmel. The entertainment committee of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Baltimore, in charge of the outing, were: F. C. Bauer, chairman; John Nuth and James L. Towner.

The following are the results of the various athletic events:

Fifteen-yard dash for girls under 7—Elmira McLennan, first; Helen Williams, second; Evelyn Myers, third.

Fifteen-yard dash for boys under 7—Eugene Lydanne, first; Lloyd Greble, second; Bernard Dove, third.

Twenty-five-yard dash for girls under 12—Clara Myers, first; Helen Nugent, second.

Twenty-five-yard dash for boys under 12—Grant Miller, first; Henry King, second.

Egg race for ladies—May Niswander, first; Miss W. H. Labofish, second; Mrs. B. Wilson, third.

Hundred-yard dash for men; Grotto and florists only—P. Dawick, first; C. Tolson, second.

Three-legged race for boys—Ralph Zea and William Simonds, first; Lawrence Barney and Louis Miller, second.

Fifty-yard dash for girls under 16—Rose Friedberg, first; Helen Royal, second.

Fifty-yard dash for boys under 16—Louis Millard, first; Ralph Zea, second.

Pipe race for men—E. S. Shipe, first; J. H. Faunce, second.

Fifty-yard dash for married ladies—Mrs. J. Crawford, first; Mrs. May Niswander, second.

Hundred-yard dash for boys under 16—Louis Millard, first; Ralph Zea, second.

Hundred-yard dash for florists only—Geo. C. Shaffer, first; R. L. Jenkins, second.

Fifty-yard dash for men—B. Daniel, first; Oscar B. Johnson, second.

Fifty-yard dash for girls over 16—Josephine Xanten, first; May Niswander, second.

Sack race for boys under 16—Ralph Zea first; Richard Carnago, second.

Three-legged race for men—Gene Zea and W. S. Lingebach, first; George O'Brien and George Shipe, second.

Fifty-yard dash for ladies—May Niswander, first; Alice Reid, second.

Fifty-yard sack race for men—W. S. Lingebach, first; O. B. Robinson, second.

Quoits, single—Messrs. Fritz, Kearns and Cook, of Baltimore, were the three winners.

Quoits, doubles—George C. Shaffer and George H. Cooke were the winners.

SCRANTON, PA.

Private Gardeners.

On a visit to the private gardeners north of the mountains from Scranton, I found William Ledsham busy in the Italian garden, gathering a most handsome bunch of flowers for the rooms of the home of his employer, M. B. Fuller. This place is on the top of a high hill, and the scenery from this viewpoint is most magnificent. The greenhouse is in a little valley, safely protected from the cold blasts of the wind. Mr. Ledsham, the gardener, has been at this place most of the time since it was laid out, and has had a large part in its development. The results speak with a great deal of credit, not only to his workmanship in the placing of the points of interest, but also in the setting of the shrubbery and trees of all kinds, which cover a large area. The tennis lawn is one of the most perfect I have ever seen, and, as a background to the court, there has been erected a Chinese pagoda, which, with its carvings and latticework, its sloping and wide-extended porches, makes a magnificent arrangement for a resting-place for the visitors at this summer home.

Mr. Ledsham is planning some elaborate planting of the Chinese type for this place. The Italian garden, spoken of before, is now in its glory, with most of the annuals and perennials in full bloom. From the grape arbor at the end of the garden, it has a most charming effect, as the view leads out over the Italian garden to the conservatory, which is attached to the breakfast room. The planting around the house, and the baskets on the porches, lend a cozy and restful appearance. The chrysanthemums and other plants are coming along in splendid condition, and everything bespeaks the careful direction of Mr. Ledsham.

I then rowed across the lake and took a glance at the place of C. S. Woolworth, a member of the firm of F. S. Woolworth Co. His summer residence is across the lake from Mr. Fuller's, on a hilltop. I found everything in thriving condition. His gardener, Bert Ferris, has no greenhouse, but with the aid of hotbeds has raised many annuals and perennials, and with the help of plants from the city florists has succeeded in getting his plants blooming in splendid condition. The shrubbery and flower beds are exceedingly fine.

Charles Blair's home is closed for the summer, while he is on his extended tour of the continent; nevertheless his gardener has looked after the place just as painstakingly as if Mr. Blair was at home.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The last week has been one of terrific heat and no rain. The weather bureau reported the hottest day that has been known here for over twenty-five years. Those who could get away have left the city, and business has been correspondingly slack. This has not been a hardship, however, as there has been a dearth of flowers of all kinds. Roses are beginning to arrive in moderate lots, and valley is in the usual supply, but, aside from these items, everything is scarce. Funeral work has been about all there was to do, yet most of our florists have had to hustle to get enough material to meet the demand.

Various Notes.

J. C. Corbitt has opened a retail store on Bridge avenue in charge of the wife of his grower, Mr. Postma. Both Mr. and Mrs. Postma are florists of long experience, and they should get a good business as soon as they become known. They have been doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

McIntyre Bros. have the best display of fancy caladiums we have seen for a long time. They certainly make the windows look well, now that other stock is so scarce. They have two new Ford delivery cars, with beds built to order, which they expect to put into commission in another week. This is a new feature for Nashville, and should prove a great convenience.

We paid our first visit to the new plant of Geny Bros. last week and were certainly pleased with the up-to-date appearance of things. The plant consists of fifteen houses, most of them 30x200 feet, with plenty of room outside. They have their own pumping plant, getting their supply of water from a creek that flows by the place. Everything was looking well for a good cut of flowers early in the fall. Mr. Geny uses solid beds for all of his carnations except White Wonder, and claims that he gets much better results than he can with raised benches. He says White Wonder does best on benches. He grows his peas and his roses for summer bloom in solid beds also. Everything else is grown on the usual benches. We were especially interested in a bench of Mrs. Russell roses that were growing by the side of his American Beauties. They appear to be of equally strong growth, and the color is nearly the same, though it is too early to be sure of this.

We understand that Joe Brown has decided that he will start for Colorado about August 15. He has been making a good fight against failing health, but the extreme heat has been against him.

Haury & Sons are making good progress on their two new houses, each 30x200 feet. They expect to have them done in time to get a crop of flowers for Christmas.

The Joys are cutting a good supply of roses at present. They find plenty of demand for all they can get. They say that business has been good lately.

F. B.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Not much that is encouraging can be said about the business of the last week, for it has been decidedly flat. Asters continue to be the leading flowers, and it would really seem as if every grower was this year handling them. It is too bad to see so many really fine flowers going for a mere song, or not being sold at all. In addition to Queen of the Market, some fine Comet and Astermum are coming in. Gladioli continue in unwieldy supply; even America has lost its one-time popularity and goes begging for customers.

Roses are not in much demand. Shipments are light or there would be considerable waste in them. I noticed nice flowers of Beauty, Milady, Taft, Killarney Queen, Kaiserin and Miller this week. Carnations are miserable apologies, and far inferior to asters. They can scarcely pay for express charges. There is not much call for lilies, of which there is an ample supply, or for valley. Some nice gardenias are coming in, but cattleyas are decidedly short. Sweet peas are poor. Good flowers would bring a fancy price now. Some of the double gypsophila is still coming in, also the annual variety, repens. A few dahlias are seen, but these are never in much demand here. Miscellaneous flowers are not wanted, and green supplies are dull.

Exhibition.

The exhibition at Horticultural hall, August 9 and 10, was a splendid one. Exhibits were numerous and varied, and quality excellent. Gladioli were never shown here in larger numbers, and seedlings of high grade were numerous. For twelve varieties first prize went to C. W. Browne, with grand spikes of Amaryllis, Panama, very fine; Mongolian, J. G. Clarke, Gaiety, Golden West, Faerie, George Paul, Mrs. G. W. Moulton, Hohenstauffen, Improved May and Nathalie Bourseul. Second also went to C. W. Browne, third to A. W. Preston, J. L. Smith gardener. For 100 vases arranged for effect, Mrs. Frederick Ayer, Geo. Page gardener, won with a fine display.

B. Hammond Tracy had a large and artistically arranged display, fancy baskets being used as receptacles to good advantage, and colors were harmoniously arranged. His Barbara was awarded honorable mention.

Chamberlain & Gage, South Natick, Mass., had a superb collection, many of the seedlings being fine. Extra fine were Myrtle, which will be a great commercial variety in a year or two; Mrs. M. Chamberlain and Mrs. L. Merton Gage, grand whites, ahead of Chicago White. Mrs. L. Merton Gage received honorable mention, also Gaiety.

John K. Alexander, East Bridgewater, had a fine collection of gladioli, as had the Old Town Nurseries, Mrs. C. G. Weld, W. C. Rust gardener, and other exhibitors. R. & J. Farquhar & Co. received a silver medal for Lilium Henryi. They also showed the new Lilium Sargentii. The Mount Desert Nurseries had a large display of hardy herbaceous perennials, liliums and sweet peas. The Old Town Nurseries and Eastern Nurseries also had large perennial collections. Mrs. F. Ayer had a collection of montbretias. William

GREENWICH, CONN.

The regular monthly meeting of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society was held in Doran's hall August 8, President Robert Williamson in the chair. An interesting discussion took place on the diseases of shade trees, a subject now requiring close attention. Several new members were elected, also several applications received. The schedule for the fall show, which is to be held in Stamford November 7 and 8, is now in the committee's hands and will be out in a few days. Excellent classes are drawn up, with substantial prizes offered. The few choice exhibits at this meeting were judged as follows:

Wm. Morrow, Cultural certificate for Barbarossa and Muscat of Alexandra grapes.

Adam Paterson, Cultural certificate for Muscat of Alexandra grapes.

Thos. Ryan, Honorable mention for vase of cannas and vase of sweet peas.

Thos. Aitchison, Honorable mention for Laelio cattleya Bletchleyensis.

James Stuart, Vote of thanks for Viola atro purpurea.

Carl Hakansen, Vote of thanks for Mrs. Francis King and Octoroon gladioli.

Anthon Peterson, Vote of thanks for vase of seedling delphiniums.

P. Lageratane, Vote of thanks for Mrs. Francis King and Attraction gladioli, Veronica spicata, Marguerite carnation and Semple's Branching aster.

P. W. Popp, Vote of thanks for montbretias and Ismene calathina.

Adam Paterson, Vote of thanks for new sunflower.

WASHINGTON-BALTIMORE PICNIC

Chesapeake Beach, Md., was last week the Mecca of the florists of Washington and Baltimore and the members of the Kallipolis Grotto, No. 15, Mystic Order of the Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, with their families and friends. Music, dances, games and the regular beach amusements made the day one to be ever remembered. As is usual, a large crowd participated in the outing and little difficulty was experienced in obtaining many entrants for each athletic event.

With the bowling tournament at Minneapolis in prospect, a great deal of interest was taken in the match between the Washington and Baltimore florists' teams, in which the former proved the winner. William H. Ernest, George C. Shaffer, George C. Dalglish, R. M. McLennan and Guy Eiker, who form the team, made a fine showing. The ladies also had an opportunity of showing their skill, and in the singles Mrs. Bauer, of Baltimore, showed championship form, while Mrs. Simmonds and Mrs. Cooke, of Washington, came out second and third, respectively.

The Baltimore florists excelled their Washington brothers in the national game of baseball, trimming them handily with a score of 4 to 1.

The amusement features in the dancing pavilion consisted of songs and dances by Miss Ida Hayes' pupils, a band concert, and songs, comic sketches, recitations, etc., by members and professionals. At the Belvedere hotel, the Washington florists were the guests of the Baltimoreans, who entertained them with a band concert between 6 and 7 p. m.

Florist members of the committees of the Kallipolis Grotto were: William F. Gude, excursion; Fred H. Kramer, vice-chairman, and George C. Shaffer, entertainment; O. A. C. Oehmler, member of committee of judges. The members of the excursion committee of the Florists' Club of Washington were: William H. Ernest, chairman; George C. Dalglish, secretary; N. S. Hammer, J. Barry, Harry L. Louis, George C. Shaffer and W. W. Kimmel. The entertainment committee of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Baltimore, in charge of the outing, were: F. C. Bauer, chairman; John Nuth and James L. Towner.

The following are the results of the various athletic events:

Fifteen-yard dash for girls under 7: Elmira McLennan, first; Helen Williams, second; Evelyn Myers, third.

Fifteen-yard dash for boys under 7: Eugene Lydanne, first; Lloyd Grebble, second; Bernard Dove, third.

Twenty-five-yard dash for girls under 12: Clara Myers, first; Helen Nugent, second.

Twenty-five-yard dash for boys under 12: Grant Miller, first; Henry King, second.

Egg race for ladies: May Niswander, first; Miss W. H. Labofish, second; Mrs. B. Wilson, third.

Hundred-yard dash for men; Grotto and florists only: P. Dawick, first; C. Tolson, second.

Three-legged race for boys: Ralph Zea and William Simonds, first; Lawrence Barney and Louis Miller, second.

Fifty-yard dash for girls under 16: Rose Friedberg, first; Helen Royal, second.

Fifty-yard dash for boys under 16: Louis Millard, first; Ralph Zea, second.

Pipe race for men: E. S. Shipe, first; J. H. Faunce, second.

Fifty-yard dash for married ladies: Mrs. J. Crawford, first; Mrs. May Niswander, second.

Hundred-yard dash for boys under 16: Louis Millard, first; Ralph Zea, second.

Hundred-yard dash for florists only: Geo. C. Shaffer, first; R. L. Jenkins, second.

Fifty-yard dash for men: B. Daniel, first; Oscar B. Johnson, second.

Fifty-yard dash for girls over 16: Josephine Xanten, first; May Niswander, second.

Sack race for boys under 16: Ralph Zea first, Richard Carnago, second.

Three-legged race for men: Gene Zea and W. S. Lingebach, first; George O'Brien and George Shipe, second.

Fifty-yard dash for ladies: May Niswander, first; Alice Reid, second.

Fifty-yard sack race for men: W. S. Lingebach, first; O. B. Robinson, second.

Quoits, single: Messrs. Fritz, Kearns and Cook, of Baltimore, were the three winners.

Quoits, doubles: George C. Shaffer and George H. Cooke were the winners.

SCRANTON, PA.

Private Gardeners.

On a visit to the private gardeners north of the mountains from Scranton, I found William Ledsham busy in the Italian garden, gathering a most handsome bunch of flowers for the rooms of the home of his employer, M. B. Fuller. This place is on the top of a high hill, and the scenery from this viewpoint is most magnificent. The greenhouse is in a little valley, safely protected from the cold blasts of the wind. Mr. Ledsham, the gardener, has been at this place most of the time since it was laid out, and has had a large part in its development. The results speak with a great deal of credit, not only to his workmanship in the placing of the points of interest, but also in the setting of the shrubbery and trees of all kinds, which cover a large area. The tennis lawn is one of the most perfect I have ever seen, and, as a background to the court, there has been erected a Chinese pagoda, which, with its carvings and latticework, its sloping and wide-extended porches, makes a magnificent arrangement for a resting-place for the visitors at this summer home.

Mr. Ledsham is planning some elaborate planting of the Chinese type for this place. The Italian garden, spoken of before, is now in its glory, with most of the annuals and perennials in full bloom. From the grape arbor at the end of the garden, it has a most charming effect, as the view leads out over the Italian garden to the conservatory, which is attached to the breakfast room. The planting around the house, and the baskets on the porches, lend a cozy and restful appearance. The chrysanthemums and other plants are coming along in splendid condition, and everything bespeaks the careful direction of Mr. Ledsham.

I then rowed across the lake and took a glance at the place of C. S. Woolworth, a member of the firm of F. S. Woolworth Co. His summer residence is across the lake from Mr. Fuller's, on a hilltop. I found everything in thriving condition. His gardener, Bert Ferris, has no greenhouse, but with the aid of hotbeds has raised many annuals and perennials, and with the help of plants from the city florists has succeeded in getting his plants blooming in splendid condition. The shrubbery and flower beds are exceedingly fine.

Charles Blair's home is closed for the summer, while he is on his extended tour of the continent; nevertheless his gardener has looked after the place just as painstakingly as if Mr. Blair was at home.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The last week has been one of terrific heat and no rain. The weather bureau reported the hottest day that has been known here for over twenty-five years. Those who could get away have left the city, and business has been correspondingly slack. This has not been a hardship, however, as there has been a dearth of flowers of all kinds. Roses are beginning to arrive in moderate lots, and valley is in the usual supply, but, aside from these items, everything is scarce. Funeral work has been about all there was to do, yet most of our florists have had to hustle to get enough material to meet the demand.

Various Notes.

J. C. Corbitt has opened a retail store on Bridge avenue in charge of the wife of his grower, Mr. Postma. Both Mr. and Mrs. Postma are florists of long experience, and they should get a good business as soon as they become known. They have been doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

McIntyre Bros. have the best display of fancy caladiums we have seen for a long time. They certainly make the windows look well, now that other stock is so scarce. They have two new Ford delivery cars, with beds built to order, which they expect to put into commission in another week. This is a new feature for Nashville, and should prove a great convenience.

We paid our first visit to the new plant of Geny Bros. last week and were ainly pleased with the up-to-date earance of things. The plant con- s of fifteen houses, most of them 200 feet, with plenty of room out- . They have their own pumping nt, getting their supply of water m a creek that flows by the place. rything was looking well for a good of flowers early in the fall. Mr. y uses solid beds for all of his car- ions except White Wonder, and ms that he gets much better re- ts than he can with raised benches. says White Wonder does best on ches. He grows his peas and his s for summer bloom in solid beds . Everything else is grown on the al benches. We were especially in- sted in a bench of Mrs. Russell s that were growing by the side his American Beauties. They appear be of equally strong growth, and color is nearly the same, though s too early to be sure of this.

We understand that Joe Brown has ided that he will start for Colorado out August 15. He has been making good fight against failing health, but extreme heat has been against him.

Haury & Sons are making good prog- ss on their two new houses, each 30x feet. They expect to have them me in time to get a crop of flowers r Christmas.

The Joys are cutting a good supply roses at present. They find plenty demand for all they can get. They y that business has been good lately.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Not much that is encouraging can be said about the business of the last week, for it has been decidedly flat. Asters continue to be the leading flowers, and it would really seem as if every grower was this year handling them. It is too bad to see so many really fine flowers going for a mere song, or not being sold at all. In addition to Queen of the Market, some fine Comet and Astermum are coming in. Gladioli continue in unwieldy supply; even America has lost its one-time popularity and goes begging for customers.

Roses are not in much demand. Shipments are light or there would be considerable waste in them. I noticed nice flowers of Beauty, Milady, Taft, Killarney Queen, Kaiserin and Miller this week. Carnations are miserable apologies, and far inferior to asters. They will scarcely pay for express charges.

There is not much call for lilies, of which there is an ample supply, or for valley. Some nice gardenias are coming in, but cattleyas are decidedly short. Sweet peas are poor. Good flowers would bring a fancy price now. Some fine double gypsophila is still coming in, also the annual variety, repens. A few dahlias are seen, but these are not in much demand here. Miscellaneous flowers are not wanted, and green supplies are dull.

Exhibition.

The exhibition at Horticultural hall, August 9 and 10, was a splendid one. Exhibits were numerous and varied, and quality excellent. Gladioli were never shown here in larger numbers, and seedlings of high grade were numerous. For twelve varieties first prize went to C. W. Browne, with grand vases of Amaryllis, Panama, very fine; Mongolian, J. G. Clarke, Gaiety, Golden West, Faerie, George Paul, Mrs. G. W. Moulton, Hohenstauffen, Improved May and Nathalie Boursenl. Second also went to C. W. Browne, third to A. W. Preston, J. L. Smith gardener. For 100 vases arranged for effect, Mrs. Frederick Ayer, Geo. Page gardener, won with a fine display.

B. Hammond Tracy had a large and artistically arranged display, fancy baskets being used as receptacles to good advantage, and colors were harmoniously arranged. His Barbara was awarded honorable mention.

Chamberlain & Gage, South Natick, Mass., had a superb collection, many of the seedlings being fine. Extra fine were Myrtle, which will be a great commercial variety in a year or two; Mrs. M. Chamberlain and Mrs. L. Merton Gage, grand whites, ahead of Chicago White. Mrs. L. Merton Gage received honorable mention, also Gaiety.

John K. Alexander, East Bridgewater, had a fine collection of gladioli, as had the Old Town Nurseries, Mrs. C. G. Weld, W. C. Rust gardener, and other exhibitors. R. & J. Farquhar & Co. received a silver medal for Lilium Henryi. They also showed the new Lilium Sargentii. The Mount Desert Nurseries had a large display of hardy herbaceous perennials, liliums and sweet peas. The Old Town Nurseries and Eastern Nurseries also had large perennial collections. Mrs. F. Ayer had a collection of montbretias. William

"WHO'S WHO—AND WHY"

M. C. EBEL.

COMPARATIVELY speaking, the secretary of the national organization of the "ornamental horticulturists," the private gardeners, is a newcomer in the trade. Born in Brooklyn, in 1872, as a young man M. C. Ebel engaged in the shipping business, running a line of sailing vessels to West Indian ports. Then, for a number of years, he published a financial journal. When Collier's Weekly "discovered" a certain insecticide Mr. Ebel had a vision of great possibilities and offered to assist the inventor in developing his market. Soon thereafter it became apparent that he must choose between strenuous Wall street and the simple life of Madison, N. J. Consequently, he disposed of his publication and for three years has devoted all his time to the horticultural trades, becoming a well known figure.

Whitman, M. Sullivan gardener, had gladioli and herbaceous plants. F. E. Dwyer had a nice dahlia display, the first of the season.

E. L. Lewis had a good collection of sweet peas. Mrs. J. L. Gardner, Wm. Thatcher gardener, Anthericum Brownii and other decorative plants. A. W. Preston showed sweet peas, and Mrs. E. M. Gill a general display.

Perennial phloxes were largely shown. For twelve named varieties, Eastern Nurseries, W. Whitman and F. J. Rea won in the order named, while for thirty varieties F. J. Rea led, followed by Eastern Nurseries and T. C. Thurlow.

L. W. Roso secured a certificate of merit for Canna Miss Agnes Fitzgerald. For fifty vases of asters William Whitman was first. For best collection of annuals, not less than thirty species, Mrs. J. L. Gardner led, followed by William Whitman. There were fine displays of both fruits and vegetables.

Various Notes.

The following firms and individuals contributed prizes for the successful picnic of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club: Lord & Burnham Co., Wilfrid Wheeler, Duncan Finlayson, Kenneth Finlayson, F. E. Palmer, Frederic J. Rea, A. H. Hews & Co., B. Hammond Tracy, J. Breck & Sons, W. W. Edgar Co., Wm. Downs, W. N. Craig, Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co., Peter Fisher, M. A. Patten, Thomas Roland, T. J. Grey Co., H. M. Robinson & Co., Penn the Florist, Boston Cut Flower Co., John P. Shea, Boston Plate & Window Glass Co., Henry W. Clark, and R. & J. Farquhar & Co.

The garden committee of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society went to Bar Harbor, Me., August 3, and visited the Mount Desert Nurseries, owned by Geo. B. Dorr, where A. E. Thatcher, formerly of Boston, is manager. Hardy herbaceous plants here were superb, as were many annuals. Phloxes, pentstemons, antirrhinums and sweet peas were grand. The private estate of Mrs. J. J. Kennedy, W. T. Burton superintendent, was inspected, the Italian garden being specially admired; also the Japanese garden of Dr. Robert Abbe, and the gardens of Henry L. Eno and George Bowdoin. The committee returned August 5 after a delightful outing.

S. J. Goddard's carnations are looking extra well and are all housed. He and Miss Helen Goddard are going to the Minneapolis convention.

In H. R. Comley's window on Park street, August 9, I noticed among other plants well flowered billbergias, gloxinias and celosias, also passifloras, fancy caladiums and white Scotch heather, of which latter Mr. Comley claims to be the only Boston importer.

David J. Quinn, of Coolidge's Corner, whose store was gutted by fire last January, will reopen there in September, and has the good will of a large number in the trade.

Names got mixed last week in two news items relating to two estimable Natick young men and I am glad to make the amende honorable to the same. Frank Wheeler, while headed that way, is still single and starts for Panama August 15, and will go to Rio de Janeiro. Geo. P. Barr is married and spent a delightful honeymoon at Orchard Beach, Me. He may visit Panama, but not this season.

F. H. Houghton reports his volume of July business as fully double that of a year ago. He likes Gladiolus Dawn much better than America, not only on account of its color, but also its keeping qualities.

Robert Montgomery, of Natick, has been enjoying a few weeks' vacation at his summer cottage, Bastins Island, Me. N. F. Comley has spent a vacation at the same place.

Anderson Bros., of Woburn, are marketing quantities of Astermums of grand quality on 24-inch stems.

M. H. Hambro, of H. M. Robinson & Co., is receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, after seventeen years of married life. He has two girls, but the advent of a son and heir gives him great pride.

John Hirsch is filling J. M. Cohen's place as salesman at the Boston Cooperative Market during the latter's absence on his vacation, and does his work well. He is preparing for his marriage in September.

W. S. Grassie, of Waverley, is strong on asters now at the Boston Flower Exchange.

John Barry, of Greenwood, has the sympathy of many friends in the death of his wife, August 7. Interment was August 10 and many in the trade attended. The floral designs were numerous and included one from the Boston Flower Exchange, where Mr. Barry is a stallholder.

David Welch, lately home from his tenth European trip, is enthusiastic over it, and it is delightful to hear him recount his experiences. P. Welch, who has been at Old Orchard Beach, Me., will go to Minneapolis.

J. Seymour, of Carbone's, leaves this week on a trip to Germany in the interest of his firm. Frank Rupert, of the same firm, is spending his vacation at Hough's Neck, Mass.

The New England Florists' Supply Co. has comfortable and convenient quarters at 276 Devonshire street. August 11 quantities of hardy ferns, laurel and other greens and miscellaneous supplies were on hand, and towards the end of the week things will be quite shipshape. The members of the firm are hustling for business and should make good.

George Hamer, the popular assistant manager of the Boston Flower Exchange, is enjoying a vacation at Rochester, Niagara and other attractive points.

Leonard Cousins, of Concord Junction, who was badly hurt when his auto was wrecked near Marlboro a few weeks ago, is still in the hospital, but improving. Charles Oberlander, who was a victim of the same accident, is able to be around, but has lost his hearing on one side.

I am glad to report Mrs. William Nicholson, of Framingham, who has been quite critically ill, as now convalescing nicely.

Joseph Ruane, of Waltham, has a fine new Velie delivery car.

The Boston delegation, which leaves August 15 for Minneapolis, is less numerous than had been hoped for, but all who are going anticipate a delightful trip.

James Sullivan, of Waltham, left last week on his Stanley steamer car to attend the Shriners' convention in Denver.

The garden committee of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society visited B. Hammond Tracy's gladiolus farms at Wenham, Mass., August 11, and found them in good condition. August 13 the same committee visited the well-kept estate of Oliver Ames, North Easton, where Edward Parker is superintendent, and spent a most enjoyable afternoon.

A. Leuthy, of Roslindale, who has been away on his annual European trip in quest of azaleas, palms and other plants, is expected home this week.

Fred E. Palmer, of Brookline, has a batch of 1,500 as fine cyclamen in 5-inch and 6-inch pots as I have seen this season.

William R. Nicholson, of Framingham, has a large part of his carnations housed. He plants a little over 30,000, and his stock has this year made fine growth in the field.

W. H. Elliott is cutting some good roses, including American Beauty, Ward, Christie Miller, Kaiserin and Taft.

Both the wholesale flower markets are preparing for their annual auction sale of stalls, to take place in three weeks' time.

H. M. Robinson & Co. experienced good business in July and anticipate active fall trade.

Visitors: M. J. Pope, Naugatuck, Conn.; R. P. Benedict, Syracuse, N. Y.; A. E. Thatcher, Bar Harbor, Me.

W. N. Craig.

William C. Bowditch, of Roxbury, has secured a judgment of $1,800 against the city of Boston and the Brookline Gas Light Co., as a result of a suit brought by him in the Superior court. This amount is for damage done to the plants and flowers in his greenhouses at 25 Georgia street, when gas escaped from the broken service pipe of a gas lamp opposite.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Normal conditions prevail in this market, with just enough funeral work to keep things from becoming entirely dormant. Asters and gladioli form the principal stock at present, with roses and a few carnations.

Various Notes.

Frank McCarthy, with T. O'Connor, returned last week from his vacation, which he spent at Washington, D. C.

Robert E. Burns, of the Burke & Burns Co., left last week, accompanied by Mrs. Burns, for a ten days' automobile trip through the New England states and Canada.

Henry Patri, with Johnston Bros., has returned from a two weeks' vacation passed at Newport and Block Island.

J. A. Budlong & Son Co., at Auburn is shipping between 20,000 and 30,000 roses to the Boston and New York markets, which bring from 1 cent to 15 cents each.

Joseph E. Koppelman has just registered a new twenty-three horse-power Ford automobile with the state board of public roads.

Thomas Galligan, head of the designing department of T. O'Connor, is at Block Island for his annual vacation.

Robert Johnston, of Johnston Bros., has been on the sick list the last week, suffering from stomach trouble.

Julius Cohen, bookkeeper for W. S. Pino, is taking his two weeks' vacation at Newport and vicinity.

George McWilliam, gardener for G. M. Whitin, at Whitinsville, was operated on, August 7, at the New England Baptist hospital, at Roxbury, Mass., for appendicitis. He is reported as being comfortable.

Edward Brooke, of T. J. Johnston & Co., spent a part of last week at Revere Beach, Mass., making the trip by automobile.

The range of greenhouses on Smith street belonging to John A. Macrae is being repaired and repainted. Mr. Macrae and his wife are at Bar Harbor, Me., for a couple of weeks.

Thomas Curley and his wife left August 9 for a two weeks' stay at Concord, N. H.

Albert Holscher expects to make his first cut of chrysanthemums about September 1.

James B. Canning is completely renovating his range of houses on Smith street and rearranging the piping.

John C. Caswell, with the W. E. Barrett Co., has returned from his vacation, which he spent at Marblehead, Mass.

The trade in this city received a visit last week from a representative of the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia.

Alexander Macrae, of F. Macrae's Sons, returned the first of last week from an extended trip through Nova Scotia.

The Richardson & Boynton Co., of New York, manufacturers of steam and hot water boilers, furnaces, etc., has established its New England headquarters here on Washington street, with Leslie P. Haskins as manager.

N. L. Boyce, representing the D. Landreth Seed Co., of Bristol, Pa., called on the seed trade in this city last week.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

"Nothing new" is the universal greeting one receives in both the wholesale and retail sections. It is the old, old story, repeated every year, but this year breaking all records. Nevertheless, the Sunday closing movement has practically been abandoned. A few of the wholesale houses, however, are maintaining their decision to test the innovation until September. The possibility of all joining in the scheme profitably has been demonstrated. Only a few thought otherwise, and doubtless next season everyone will join hands in this desirable midsummer concession to their employees and themselves.

There seems to be little improvement yet in the general quality of cut flower shipments. A few selected American Beauties have reached 25 cents. There are not many to select from, and few go above 10 cents. Some fine Double White Killarney bring good prices. Shawyer sells at from 10 cents down and is growing in popularity. A few of last year's novelties are holding their own, but the bulk of all rose arrivals is far below the grade of honorable mention. However, the tendency of quality will be upward from now on, and it will not be long before the turn of the tide. The same may be expected of carnations. There are hardly any salable ones arriving at present, with no apparent demand.

Most of the asters are valueless and move with difficulty; many of them move to the discard. The few which are first-class and new varieties sell readily, but the quantity of these is limited. The gladiolus flood is at its height and only the choice varieties command over 50 cents per hundred. Many exhibits are seen of the new and named kinds in the seedsmen's windows. The retail windows everywhere are making gladioli the basis of decorative display, but with that their mission seems to be ended.

Both valley and lilies are commanding better appreciation and prices are hardening. Sweet peas are improving in quality. Orchids are scarce and prices higher, as was anticipated. But the uplift of the whole market will not arrive noticeably before September.

Various Notes.

The initial meeting of the coming season of the New York Florists' Club will take place Monday, September 8. This will be convention night, and those privileged to visit Minneapolis are hereby reminded that they must come primed with memories of the Twin Cities and prepared to unfold them to their less fortunate brethren, who are unable to take the long journey. There will be exhibits of seasonable flowers and a pleasant reunion of the members, that should assure a large attendance.

The members of the Boddington staff will complete their holidays next week. Mr. Boddington still is with his family in New England. Mr. Bunyard will enjoy a well earned rest after the S. A. F. convention.

The Stumpp & Walter Co. has had an attractive display of new and named gladioli in the show window during the week. Their new store will have its handsome front completed and the immense plate glass windows in place in another week. Work on the five floors, basement and sub-basement is progressing rapidly, and it is hoped to have everything complete for occupancy early in September.

The new store of Burnett Bros., on Chambers street, is already partly stocked, and removals continue daily. The firm expects to announce its opening about the end of August.

Robert MacNiff was in the city August 7, and left again for the mountains, where he and his family are spending the summer.

Charles Schenck, of Traendly & Schenck, has returned from his vacation in the Catskills.

Mr. Hanfling, of Russin & Hanfling, returned from Europe last week on the Imperator, after a twelve weeks' purchasing trip, that included nearly a dozen countries. He says the firm's importations will be double last year's, with some wonderful novelties among them, sufficient to fill their large new headquarters, now near completion. Louis Hanfling, city salesman for the firm, left August 9 for a two weeks' vacation in the Catskills.

Matthew Sampson, Jr., manager of Noe's wholesale department in the Coogan building, is spending his vacation at Cuddebackville, in the Catskills. Louis A. Miller, of the same firm, has returned from his two weeks' holiday.

John Kral, foreman for Moore, Hentz & Nash, is back from his annual cruise on the sound with his family.

Mrs. Paul Meconi is again at the helm in the newly arranged store in the Coogan building. Mr. Meconi has more than doubled his window space, and will have new office facilities and an up-to-date place in every respect.

The Henry M. Robinson Co. will move to the new store, at 55 West Twenty-sixth street, on the street level, which they declare will be "the finest equipped store in the wholesale business." This firm does a large out-of-town shipping business. Manager Glass is enjoying his holiday in the mountains and at the seashore, from which Samuel Salsberg has just returned.

The new store of the Growers' Cut Flower Co., at 129 West Twenty-eighth street, is almost ready for occupancy, and before the end of the month J. J. Coan and his staff will be on deck in one of the largest and most modern establishments in the wholesale cut flower business.

The Greater New York Fair and Exposition at Yonkers is now under full headway. Stove and greenhouse plants constitute the horticultural exhibit from August 9 to 15. This will be the best week for the florists and many are visiting it. The grounds may be reached readily by taking the subway to Two Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and the trolley to the exhibition gates. Scott Bros., of Elmsford, N. Y., Bobbink & Atkins and the Julius Roehrs Co., of Rutherford, N. J., are the leading evergreen exhibitors.

The convention is now the talk of the town. Next week a complete list of the fortunate ones who go will be provided by Secretary De Forest, whose plea for a big representation from New York is a hard one to resist. There will be a large crowd from the metropolis and vicinity.

Geo. M. Cosh, manager of the Brazos Greenhouses, at Houston, Tex., has just completed a month's holiday in New York state, and was a visitor at the outing of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society.

Anton Schultheis and family are summering as usual at Rockaway and on the sound.

J. K. Allen is visiting his Long Island and New Jersey growers this week. He continues his Sunday closing until September.

Emil Schloss, of Schloss Bros., will have his usual exhibit at the convention.

This is a good time to visit the grand display of John Lewis Childs, at Flowerfield, L. I., where a welcome is always assured by I. S. Hendrickson, the manager.

Mrs. Charles Millang and family are summering in the White mountains.

Carl Elliott, of W. Elliott & Sons, is enjoying his vacation at Atlantic City.

Geo. E. Bennett, of Flatbush, and his family are at Sacket lake, N. Y., for the summer.

Miss Mabel E. Conkling, bookkeeper for H. E. Froment, has returned from her four weeks' vacation. H. E. Froment left August 8 for the Adirondacks. Phil Ditzenberger, of this firm, also has returned from his vacation.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

NEXT week the convention, the big event in the trade year.

THE Minneapolis newspapers are giving the S. A. F. convention good publicity.

NOT a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

THE extreme heat and long continued drought in the central west have destroyed large quantities of florists' stock in the fields. Carnation plants will sell well in the west in the next few weeks.

WM. C. GLOECKNER, of Albany, N. Y., who is in such close touch with Representative Ten Eyck that it is said the two were the influence that got the tariff bill phrased to trade liking, has written his friend that the increased weight limit for parcel post shipments, effective August 15, is in favor of florists, also that a still further step to the advantage of this trade would be increasing the limit of size to about 100 inches instead of seventy-two inches as at present.

C. W. JOHNSON, secretary of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, has mailed to members the pamphlet issued annually by the organization, together with the preliminary premium list for the Chicago exhibition in November. The pamphlet contains the proceedings of the meeting at New York last November, a tabular report of the work of the society's examining committees, which was recorded in The Review from week to week at the time; lists of American and foreign varieties disseminated in 1912, and a list of the ninety-three members.

SOME growers still are planting chrysanthemums, while others already are beginning to cut. It's a big trade now.

MINNEAPOLIS is a summer resort city of many attractions. An attendance of the ladies greater than in any recent year is expected at next week's convention.

GLADIOLUS SOCIETY OF OHIO.

The gladiolus growers of Ohio, of whom there are quite a number, have organized a nice little society for the purpose of fostering the interest in the flower and will hold their first annual show August 15, at 5709 Euclid avenue, Cleveland. There is a comprehensive premium list, with several special prizes offered by novelty raisers. The exhibition committee consists of H. J. Alford, Garrettsville; R. E. Huntington, Painesville, and Mrs. A. H. Austin, Wayland. W. C. Werner, of Painesville, will be the judge. The officers of the society are as follows: President, C. Betscher, of Canal Dover; vice-president, Mrs. A. H. Austin, of Wayland; secretary and treasurer, Wilbur A. Christy, of Warren.

MY! BUT THIS IS STRONG!

At the risk of arousing the jealousy of Mr. Hearst, Mr. Munsey, Mr. Curtis and others who lay claim to the preeminence in the publishing field, The Review presents the following as the unsolicited opinion of one who speaks from more or less experience:

I think The Review is the Greatest Paper on Earth and a sure money-getter for its advertisers.—H. O. Meikel, Frankfort, Ind., August 5, 1913.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

The demand let down appreciably August 9 and in the days immediately following, but prior to that there was a rather brisk market, with a good demand clearing the tables of almost everything except the lower grades of stock. Not only were roses in demand, but even in the face of the hottest weather of the summer all other flowers moved along in good shape. The good asters have brought excellent returns in the face of a glut of poor stock. Among the logical reasons for the heavy out-of-town demand was the continued drought through the central and western states, which, in connection with the high temperature, caused considerable damage to the outdoor crops. With the usual summer supply cut off, the out-of-town buyers had to turn to the Chicago market. Carnations are almost out of the question at present, with roses, asters, gladioli and lilies about the only flowers worthy of consideration.

Beauties are fairly plentiful, but are well cleaned up each day. They carry good buds, as a rule, and in foliage they are all that anyone could desire. The longer grades are least plentiful. The Killarneys and Maryland are in larger supply than the other tea roses and those possessing quality have been bringing the growers excellent returns for this time of the year. In the yellows there is also a good supply, especially of Sunburst, and with increased popularity they move well. Milady and Russell sell on sight. So many growers now are cutting the first crop of the season that there is a glut of short, weak roses and only extremely low

WE WANT TO HEAR FROM BUYERS OF

ROSES

Largest, Most Complete and Highest Quality Stock in the West.

THE steady average high quality of our roses has been the talk of the Chicago market (and of the out-of-town buyers) for years, but we never have been so well fixed as we shall be in the approaching season. Already we have a splendid cut. The crop is heavy and the stock fine; plenty of medium to long roses, the scarce kind. Note we have a full line, the varieties that every retailer needs in quantity: Milady, Sunburst, Ward, Bulgarie, Radiance, Killarney and White Killarney.

BEAUTIES

We are headquarters for Beauties in the middle west. We aim to be able to supply our friends who wholesale cut flowers, but of course our Retailer customers have first call. We aim always to have Beauties in the icebox awaiting your wire, but there is no doubt of our ability to supply anything you want in Beauties if we have your order early in the day. This season we have the cut from 170,000 Beauty plants. Not much danger of our running short, is there?

FANCY DAISIES

Now that daisies are practically out of the market, buyers will be glad to know that we have a crop that is first-class in every particular. It is not Shasta, but a seedling raised by one of our own growers, so near like Shasta that few will note the difference in the flower.

FANCY ASTERS

There are simply oceans of cheap asters, but not very many strictly fancy ones. We can supply the cheap kind, too, if you want them, but what we specially want to call your attention to is our supply of strictly fancy, long-stemmed high grade asters in three colors, white, pink and lavender. Nobody can complain of the quality of these.

GLADIOLI

We can supply America, Augusta and King, the three best sellers, in any quantity.

FANCY VALLEY

You can depend upon us at all times for valley. If you run short, a wire to Amling will bring the valley you need.

EASTER LILIES

We can supply fine Easter Lilies in large quantity every day in the year. A specially good crop now on.

Florists' Supplies

OUR STOCK IS UP-TO-DATE IN EVERY RESPECT

We want to emphasize the fact that our stock of Florists' Supplies is such as to require the attention of every man who is trying to make each dollar do its full duty. We are buying in such large quantities that many articles we can sell for what smaller dealers pay—and on no article whatever in the whole list of Florists' Supplies can we be undersold by anyone who fills orders with goods of equal quality. Our line is absolutely complete. We have everything, including many articles not to be had elsewhere.

prices can be had for these, especially as the supply of good roses increases every day.

Asters are being shipped in large quantities in spite of the unfavorable weather conditions that prevailed up to August 10, but the greater part of them are of poor quality. They receive little attention from the buyers unless they show good stem and flowers. Those that lack in quality can hardly be moved at any price. The same is true of the gladioli, which are a drug at present. It appears to be about the height of the season. It is a notable feature that the enormous receipts consist almost exclusively of the best named varieties, but the prices that have to be accepted to secure a clean-up are the prices that formerly prevailed for mixtures. Easter lilies appear to be more plentiful than heretofore and there are large quantities of both rubrum and auratum lilies on the market. With increased supplies of roses, asters and gladioli, the lilies do not attract any unusual amount of attention, although they show good quality. Valley is in good supply but, while there is no heavy demand, there is no oversupply. Cattleyas are scarce and the demand is stronger. Daisies are no longer seen in quantity. Sweet peas are not abundant; there are scarcely any good ones. It certainly has been a bad season for the growers of outdoor peas. There is nothing new in the green goods situation.

yard, one block west of his present location, and has erected there a store and show house that are models for durability, convenience and attractiveness. The foundation and floor are concrete; the exterior walls of the store, aside from the large area of plate glass, are also concrete, molded in a neat design; the partitions and the greenhouse walls are tile. The greenhouse materials were furnished by the A. Dietsch Co. The front show window, with its imposing row of large round pillars, extends for sixty feet on Normal boulevard. The building is back about fifty feet from Sixty-third street, but is plainly visible from that thoroughfare. The Sixty-third street frontage, though also included in Mr. Walther's lease, is occupied by a brick building which is used at present as a grocery store, and Mr. Walther will retain the grocer as a tenant—or subtenant, to be precise—for a time, at least.

Club Meeting.

With the business of the evening interspersed between selections by Creatore's famous band, like a stack of wheatcakes and maple syrup, the Chicago Florists' Club held a most pleasant meeting at Sans Souci August 7, as the guests of O. J. Friedman, a club member who is part owner of the park. When the band struck up President French declared a recess; when the music stopped, business was resumed. About forty were present.

F. J. Rose and Ben Grupe were elected to membership and the application of James Morton was received. The resignation of M. H. Mann, of Zech & Mann, was accepted.

C. W. Johnson presented the matter of the club's participation with the Horticultural Society in entertaining the Chrysanthemum Society of America in November and a donation of $100 was made to the premium list. Also, $50 was voted to the transportation committee for stocking a buffet car for the trip to the Minneapolis convention. T. E. Waters reported all arrangements complete for the club's picnic at Ehrhardt's grove, Park Ridge, Sunday, August 31.

The report of Treasurer Winterson, who was not present, read by the methodical secretary, Ed C. Toepel, showed $113 in the checking account and $639 on interest.

A vote of thanks was given Robert

Mr. Retailer,
Anywhere, United States or Canada:

Getting "lined up" for the Convention? Well, before you go, don't forget to leave a standing order with us for your store supply. A choice lot of our fine Asters, including the celebrated Astermums, fancy Gladioli (all named varieties), Beauties and all the leading varieties of Summer Tea Roses in good supply. Hand, of the George Wittbold Co., for roses and gladioli, and to the J. B. Deamud Co., for a gladiolus named Myrtle, on the table; also to Mr. Friedman for his hospitality.

Among those present were E. O. Orpet and John Tiplady, Lake Forest, and F. F. Scheel, Schermerville.

Various Notes.

C. D. Bradbury, of the Bradbury Co., Boston, was in town last week. The gentleman claims that his company has registered as a trade mark with the secretary of state the names Table Christmas Tree, Little Christmas Tree, Baby Christmas Tree, etc., so that no one else has the right to use these names in Illinois. Asked if he had any court decisions as to the validity of his trade-mark registration he said that it had not been tested in a Christmas tree case but that many other similar cases had been decided in favor of the parties owning the trade marks.

August Poehlmann can tell his friends at the convention a few things about the joys of automobiles. His trip to Delavan, Wis., for the week end had a number of features that were not down on the program. Among other things he rescued a lady and two children from the chilly depths of Lake Delavan, when a horse took fright at his car and bolted into the water. Assisted by his son Roland and brother Adolph, who was following in his machine, Mr. Poehlmann waded in up to his shoulders and carried the occupants of the buggy to dry land. The horse got into deeper water and Mr. Poehlmann swam out and piloted him to shore. The drive home in the darkness and in wet clothing was accomplished after they had lost the road and had driven around in a circle for three hours near McHenry, Ill. Adolph Poehlmann also got lost and the climax of his experiences came with a blow-out. He then remembered that his tools had been loaned to Brother August. August F. Poehlmann and Adolph H. Poehlmann, together with their families, started August 14 for Minneapolis via automobile.

Ed Hauswirth is with Kee & Chappel until he can find an opening in the retail end of the flower business.

The Cushman Gladiolus Co., Sylvania, O., within the last few days has become a heavy shipper of gladioli to this market.

Frank M. Johnson and several salesmen for the A. L. Randall Co. will go to Minneapolis Sunday night, August 17.

Bert Cole, who handles the Beauties for the E. C. Amling Co., says there is a good call for Beauties, but that for every man who will take 100 just as they run, twenty will ask for a selected dozen of a specified length.

Joseph Winken will invest $2,000 in a new Moninger house at 7504 Ridge avenue.

The Meredith Flower & Vegetable Co., Libertyville, has certified to the secretary of state an increase in its capital stock from $35,000 to $100,000.

A. T. Pyfer, of the Chicago Carnation Co., has more than doubled his office space.

John Zech will remain on the job at the store, which does not please the bowlers one bit, for they had been figuring on his help in lifting the bowling championship that Cleveland annexed last year. Mrs. A. Zech also will take the trip.

E. B. Washburn, who has returned from Pasadena, Cal., has been a daily visitor to the downtown store of Bassett & Washburn, but is giving most of his time to the new plant at Greggs Station. Eighteen new houses have been completed in his absence and twenty more are under way. Talking of the way the grounds around the Horticultural building at the Panama-Pacific exposition are shaping up, C. L. Washburn says it gives promise of being the best outdoor exhibit of them all. The spot picked out is well adapted for the purpose and the background of hills will set off the plantings to the best advantage.

The Right Display Is the Big Secret of Success In Your Business

Maybe you've never looked at this Refrigerator question in its true light. Getting the right flowers is only half the battle. Selling is your big proposition.

A McCray Refrigerator

will play a vitally important part in getting your flowers into your customers' hands and getting their money into your cash drawer. Hundreds of florists have found this out to their steadily growing profit. They've found that in addition to saving them big money, the McCray has boomed business with a rush—by keeping the flowers in the beauty and freshness of perfect condition—and by displaying them with the very limit of attractiveness.

Write for our Catalogue No. 73, which gives all the facts—lots of useful information which you should have whether you're in the market now or not.

Alexander McConnell of New York City, whose refrigerator is shown in the cut, writes us as follows:

"The refrigerator you installed in our place of business has been very satisfactory in every particular. The flowers retain their freshness and color. The refrigerator is ventilated in so satisfactory a manner that the glass is never covered with moisture; consequently the stock can be inspected without opening the doors. The box is also economical in its requirement of ice."

the local wholesaler is having an exceedingly fine trip through the west. Denver, Colorado Springs, Glenn Springs and Salt Lake City have been visited and at present the wonders of Yellowstone park are being viewed. Miss Gunterberg will reach Minneapolis in time for the convention.

Miss Schafer, of Bassett & Washburn's office staff, is back after two weeks' rest and Miss Harper started August 11 on a lake trip of the same duration.

A new begonia, which will be on exhibition at the convention. is on display in the street window of A. Henderson & Co. It is called the Begonia Lloydi and is grown by John R. Clark, gardener for George F. Getz, Holland, Mich. The variety is taller and more free in bloom than the ordinary tuberous-rooted begonia. Its height is about the same as a fuchsia. A. Miller has returned from Union Pier, Mich., where he spent last week.

Charles Erne says the work of getting the general line of supplies in shape is so heavy that he hardly expects to get away for the convention, although he may be able to put in a couple of days there. The firm is well satisfied with the way the supply end has picked up.

A. A. Lavaque, of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., is at Denver this week with the famous drill team of Englewood Commandery, Knights Templar.

The Eastern Market.

The crying need of the market is for good asters. There are lots of asters coming in that are worthless; nobody wants them; it is just a waste of time growing, cutting, shipping and trying to sell such stock. The evil is so serious that the aster growers must meet it squarely, and meet it now, or they will have all their work in future for nothing. There is a splendid demand for good asters, but the wholesaler who sends out poor stock will lose his business. Neither the wholesaler nor the retailer can afford to do this. Can the grower?

The market is in rather poor shape this week. More good asters are needed and, at times, more cattleyas, of course to a limited extent, for the quantity of cattleyas required is as compared to the quantity of asters about as one to 100. There are so few cattleyas that it is difficult to scrape up enough for orders. The rose market has been grievously overstocked. The poor roses suffer most. The supply of gladioli is falling off, likewise the demand for them. Easter lilies continue good property. Valley is rather quiet. There is little doing in carnations. A few gardenias are seen. Take it all in all, the market is fair for mid-August, but the supply is too large.

The National Flower Show.

When the August meeting of the Florists' Club had disposed of routine business and the transportation plans for reaching Minneapolis had been explained by the chairman and by the secretary, the serious work of the evening commenced. This was the question of whether Philadelphia should or should not ask the Society of American Florists for the right to hold the next National Flower Show. It soon became apparent that conditions were less favorable than in June. The attendance was small; those who were really in earnest about holding the show here were few indeed; a hall in the central part of the city had proved difficult to obtain. Under these conditions there was nothing left for the club to do but to lay the whole matter on the table for the present. There is a strong feeling in favor of holding the show here. This feeling can be ripened into successful achievement if properly fostered, but the obstacles are serious and it will require the concerted effort of a body of earnest men to overcome them.

At Minneapolis

We will have on display at the Convention a splendid line of novelties —Ribbons in many new patterns and Florists' Supplies—in all a most attractive exhibit which you cannot afford to miss.

Mr. Fancourt will gladly welcome all visitors and would be glad to have them make our exhibit their headquarters at any and all times while attending the Convention.

NEW INDOOR WHITE CARNATIONS, LONG STEMS AND EVERYTHING IN CUT FLOWERS

WE CLOSE AT 5 P. M.

THE PHILADELPHIA CUT FLOWER CO., 1517 Sansom St., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

A special meeting was called for August 12 to hear the report of the committee sent to see whether Saengerfest hall, Broad street and Allegheny avenue, is suitable for the show. It was voted then to ask the National Flower Show committee to recommend that the S. A. F. hold the next national exhibition in Philadelphia. Wm. Tricker made an informal address.

What the Craigs Are Doing.

The erection of the large addition to the plant of the Robert Craig Co., at Norwood, Pa., last summer has given opportunity for these able growers to show what they can do. Their first aim has been to develop the production of flowering plants suitable for the two great Christian holidays, Easter and Christmas, and incidentally of the foliage plants best suited to go with them. Their second aim has been the development of the croton and of the dracæna.

The crotons have responded wonderfully to the fine Lord & Burnham houses and to the even finer cultural skill lavished upon them. They propagate with the ease of the geranium; they grow with the vigor of a weed; they color with the tints of the rainbow. Given these facts, it is not difficult to fancy crotons a little better than have ever before been produced. This is unvarnished truth; such a wealth of croton color has never been seen on one place before. There are whole blocks of a single variety colored with dazzling brilliancy; there are varieties that have been considered so scarce that many a horticulturist has shown a single specimen with pride. There are broad-leaved varieties and the variety with narrow leaves, so favored by our English cousins. The vigor of growth becomes apparent when the size of a plant in a 4-inch pot, for instance, is contrasted with the size of plants usually seen in 4-inch; the grower would wonder whether it would be too hard to produce such plants in a reasonable time. In other words, the croton standard has been raised. The specimen crotons are beautiful. They are made up like our kentias and arecas, with a strong plant in the center and a number of those sturdy, well feathered 4-inch plants around it; the effect is striking.

It is Norwood's ambition to place the dracæna standard as far in the van as the standard of the croton. To this end a collection of some twenty of the newer and of the scarcer varieties have been added to the standards; to these, seedlings are being added. To further this ambition, tables of young plants have been planted out expressly for stock purposes. Valuable varieties are sacrificed in order to produce perfect young plants. The idea is that the time has come when this country should produce its own dracænas of the higher grades—plants that have not suffered from a long ocean voyage in early infancy, but can be delivered in perfect condition and with undimin-

NOTICE!

August 12th, 1913.

The House of Michell extends a cordial invitation to all florists in the trade to attend a Special Inspection Trip to their experimental garden at Andalusia on Wednesday, Aug. 27th.

For the accommodation of the guests, a special train has been chartered which leaves Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, at 11:15 a.m. on said date.

Those who wish to attend should promptly notify the Henry F. Michell Co., 518 Market St, and receive a recognition tag, so that they can be easily recognized by the reception committee when they arrive at the station.

Refreshments will be served at the gardens, and the return will be between 4 and 5 o'clock, so as to give all those who attend plenty of time to spend the evening in town.

Yours very truly,

ished vigor. The work with the dracænas has gone far enough to pass the first discouragements and fill the workers with hope that their ambition will be speedily realized. The quality of the dracænas now in medium-sized pots is excellent. Already they are here and there showing signs of that bright color that gladdens the heart of the grower two months hence. They have substance, those dracænas, in many of the novelties equal to the standard, and their habit of growth is pleasing. A dozen dracænas, in a dozen good varieties—that is what Norwood is preparing to offer. Is not that a rarity?

Among the ferns, Nephrolepis Smithii is being grown in quantities as a most desirable fern for hampers and baskets. It is graceful, compact and lasting; added to these virtues is the negative one of not decaying in the center. N. Smithii can be produced in fine shape in 4-inch pots. All the leading members of the Boston family are grown in sizes ranging from 2-inch to 11-inch. Even Teddy, Jr., who means to give N. Scottii a run for first place in the compact class, is there.

The cyclamens being prepared for December are doing wonders at Norwood. The picked plants are already in 7-inch pots, looking remarkably well. There is a little wrinkle in these cyclamen houses whereby a piece of iron pipe, attached to a rope and pulley, rolls and unrolls tobacco cloth on the ridge pole of the roof in almost no time—a big stride forward over the old slat-covered houses.

There are two houses of fine arecas in 8-inch and 10-inch that evidence culture. They are especially intended to fill the want that so often exists in the late fall. Begonias, both Lorraine and Cincinnati, are in the knee-breeches stage. The most interesting member of the family is the little ever-bloomer of Vernon type and Lorraine freedom that is now so popular.

Euphorbia Poinsettia is still another plant that is bent on record-breaking at Norwood. There are so many of them already that their number is whispered, lest its size appall. They root readily here. They fill a real need at Christmas, a need which it is clear will be filled this season.

The fields near by are filled with roses; on one side the 2-year-olds mainly intended for next Easter and next spring; on the other the yearlings for the season after.

This is one of a series of paid ads that Penn the Florist, of Boston, is publishing weekly, alternating in the four florists' papers, to become better acquainted with the Florists of the country. These ads have been published daily in the different Boston papers. Any florists desiring to use same in their home towns may do so without further consent. These ads have been the means of establishing our present great volume of business.

Various Notes.

A series of terrific storms visited this city on the evening of August 10. The worst sufferer was August Doemling, of Lansdowne, who lost one-half of his new house, 100x300, which had just been completed. Mr. Doemling also suffered slight damage to one of his older houses. This was most unfortunate. George Burton, of Wyndmoor, had his new brick stack badly damaged. George E. Campbell, of Flourtown, suffered a slight loss when his dwelling was struck by lightning. Other growers experienced minor losses.

W. E. McKissick has resigned his position as manager of the Washington branch of the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co.

The annual meeting of the Dingee & Conard Co. was held at West Grove, Pa., July 20. A most satisfactory year is reported. The sixth of the new steel and concrete greenhouses, about 30x250, built to replace those lost in the fire a year and a half ago, is nearing completion. The following officers were re

CINCINNATI.

The Gateway to the South.

During last week business showed a decided falling off. The opening day of this week was a poor one for a Monday. There was really no active demand for any one flower and some of the best of stock failed to clean up. Cut flower receipts of all seasonable kinds are increasing daily. Quite a few good early asters are coming in from out of town. The good stock has been meeting with fair request. The market is crowded with gladioli. Only the best sell at all well. Other stock must be sacrificed in order to move it. Rose receipts, too, are larger. The best have been cleaning up, but there are many consecutive days when they fail to do so. The call for good Beauties is excellent. The supply of giganteum lilies is adequate, but much larger cuts are promised by the growers for the next fortnight. Auratum lilies have been proving fairly good property. Other offerings are hardy hydrangeas, phlox, Golden Glow and the like. The green goods market shows an ample supply in most lines. Smilax, however, is on the short side.

Various Notes.

T. Ben George, Miss Edith Kyrk and A. Heckman are the rival entrants for prizes at the floral exhibition at the Carthage fair this week. All are making extensive preparations and the rivalry between them is keen.

C. E. Critchell has received new wild smilax. The crates arrived in splendid condition.

The Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange has been getting in some excellent giganteum lilies from Wm. Schumann.

L. H. Kyrk has been getting in some excellent Kaiserin and My Maryland from S. Frank & Sons, Portland, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Fries are at home after their journey through the west. Their trip included Yellowstone park.

P. J. Olinger reports a good call for American Beauties.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Conger are back from their visit in Wichita, Kan.

Visitors: E. Hyatt, with Stuart & Haugh, Anderson, Ind.; M. Reukauf, with H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia; Sam Seligman, with Wertheimer Bros., New York. C. H. H.

EIGHT PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists — those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists — has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

The Market.

For the last fifteen days the weather here has been dry and hot, with an average temperature of 88.9 degrees for each twenty-four hours. Everything that cannot be reached by a hose is burning up. Even the foliage of large shade trees is turning yellow for the lack of rain. Asters, gladioli and all flowers out in the open are practically ruined and the retailers are depending on eastern stock. Roses are as good as could be expected and sell well; the only complaint is that most of them are short-stemmed. The extremely hot weather is affecting all stock that is being shipped in here. Funeral and hospital work is about all that is being done at present and is as much as can be expected at this time of year.

Various Notes.

James Payne is building two greenhouses, each 30x50. One of the houses will be used as a display room for pot plants.

H. Kusik & Co. say the stock that is consigned to them from the north is much better than it was two weeks ago.

A petition for the organization of a florists' club is in the hands of Fred Fromhold, of the Rock Flower Co. Over thirty signatures are attached to it and

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. is cutting some extra good stock for this time of the year.

Arthur Newell was busy all the week on funeral work. He says he finds it difficult to procure enough good stock, but in the last week he has received some fine asters from the Chicago market.

The Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. has been busy all the week with funeral work. At present the firm can hardly get enough stock from its greenhouses at Pleasant Hill.

The Alpha Floral Co. reports a heavy business in out-of-town funeral work for the last week.

W. J. Barnes will build a cold storage place under his show room, for smilax and greens, making it possible for him to keep smilax at all times.

long, hot, dry spell having caused outdoor stock to deteriorate. Prices continue as they have been for the last two weeks. Retail florists say there is nothing of any importance going on and the only business done is funeral work. As to cut stock at the wholesale markets, we can say that there now are plenty of roses, some extra long and of good quality, but the greater part short and poor. Carnations have shortened up considerably of late and the few that come in are extremely poor. Asters are better and all the houses can supply any number in all colors. There were quite a few Easter lilies, offered at $10 per hundred for extra fine quality. Single everblooming tuberoses are beginning to come in heavily and quite a stock of them can be looked for from now on. Gladioli are still crowding the market and consignments are seldom cleaned up at any time.

There is a good call for smilax, but the market has none. Fancy ferns and asparagus had an extra good call last week. Prices remain as reported in the last issue.

bers, who greatly enjoyed the proceedings. President Fred H. Weber presided, with all the other officers present.

Wm. Ossick, chairman of the trustees, gave a report of the costs and expenditures of the recent picnic, and a vote of thanks was extended the trustees for the success of the outing. The flower show committee reported that the $2,000 fund was progressing nicely and that nearly $1,500 had been subscribed. Frank Robinson, who will manage the show, spoke of the progress made. After Mr. Robinson's remarks, it was voted to offer $100 in prizes for the show in the name of the St. Louis Florists' Club. The trustees are to act as a committee to confer with the St. Louis pageant committee.

Applications for membership were received from Ernest Strehle, superintendent of parks; John Moriz, foreman of Forrest park greenhouses; Domic Bova, Max L. Pelletier and John Nyflot. Those elected to membership were Frank M. Robinson and Wm. Bouche.

Edwin Denker, state vice-president of the S. A. F., reported that everything was in readiness for the trip to Minneapolis and that about thirty-two from St. Louis would make the trip, including a number of ladies.

The result of the election was as follows: President, Walter J. Pilcher; vice-president, Adolph Jaenicke; secretary, J. J. Beneke; treasurer, William C. Smith; trustee for three years, Frank Windler. The other two trustees, Wm. Ossick and John Connon, hold over.

Treasurer Smith's report showed a good balance. There was some discussion of questions handed to the secretary. Adolph Jaenicke will read a paper on "Gasing Against White Fly" at the September meeting of the club. This should prove interesting, as the request came from several growers.

The rest of the evening was taken up with a general talk on S. A. F. convention and flower show matters. The conventionists all leave here Thursday morning, August 14, on the steamer Quincy and arrive on Monday, August 17, at St. Paul, proceeding thence to the convention city.

The next meeting of the club will be held Thursday, September 11, when the installation of officers will take place.

Various Notes.

Miss Ella Weber, bookkeeper for F. C. Weber, left August 10 for a ten days' vacation trip to Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Prof. H. C. Irish, member of the Missouri State Board of Horticulture, left August 7 for the southwestern part of the state to attend the meeting of the board and look over the peach crop.

Frank M. Robinson, who will manage the St. Louis Mid-continental Flower Show, says he will be at the S. A. F. convention to meet exhibitors. Mr. Robinson is a hustler and if a flower show can be made a success in St. Louis, he is the man to do it.

George Waldbart left August 9 for New York, whence he sailed August 12 for Germany, to visit relations. Mr. Waldbart says he will return the later part of September.

Henry Emmunds, of Belleville, Ill., says that he will name his new yellow canna sport from King Humbert, Queen Helen and is preparing to send a big bunch of blooms to the S. A. F. convention next week.

Wm. Winter, of Kirkwood, was married at Clayton, Wednesday, August 6, his bride being a Miss Schilling. Mr. Winter attended the County Growers' Club meeting the same night and received hearty congratulations from his many friends.

Mrs. Hugo Gross, of Kirkwood, visited friends and relatives in Iowa and Wisconsin last week. She reports a most enjoyable trip.

The stork made its appearance at the home of R. J. Windler August 6 and presented the happy father with a fine baby boy. Mrs. Windler is the daughter of Adam Zender, of Chicago.

John Milhaupt, a retired florist, and John Mackle, a florist at 4328 Arco avenue, had a narrow escape from death last week, when a horse they were driving took fright at an automobile. The wagon was overturned and both men were taken out unconscious, but were soon revived and taken to their homes in a badly shaken-up condition.

The County Growers' Club held an interesting meeting August 6, at the Eleven Mile house. All the officers and twenty-seven members were present. There was a lot of business to transact, the main thing being the St. Louis flower show. Treasurer Pilcher circulated a paper and quite a sum was subscribed. Four applications were received. After the adjournment refreshments were served with compliments of

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, C. C. Massie, Minneapolis; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

NEW YORK seedsmen are over the resting spell and are now working overtime to complete the fall shipments of bulbs.

THE fall bulb books have in many instances been delayed this season, but most of them now are in the mails, if not in buyers' hands.

LEM W. BOWEN, of D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, is reported by L. Daehnfeldt, Odense, as recently visiting seed growers in Denmark.

"WHEAT and winter turf oats are both of unusual quality this season," says a report from Nashville, Tenn. "Winter barley is not quite so good."

THE Cherry Seed Co. will open a store at 127 North Main street, Rockford, Ill., September 1. The head of the new company was formerly with H. W. Buckbee, of that city.

A NEW seed house has been established in Columbus, Ga., by J. C. Smith, formerly of Jackson, Miss., and will be known as the Smith Seed Co., dealing at both wholesale and retail in field, garden and flower seeds.

A BUILDING permit has been issued to the Albert Dickinson Seed Co., Chicago, for a three-story brick warehouse at Thirty-fifth street and California avenue, which is to cost $60,000. This is another step in the company's extensive building program.

ACCORDING to last week's government crop report the corn in Nebraska showed a condition of only sixty-seven per cent August 1, as against ninety-one per cent July 1. Wm. Emerson, of Waterloo, in The Review for July 31, stated that sixty-eight pieces inspected between July 15 and 26, aggregating 2,435 acres, showed an average condition better than ninety-one per cent.

THE United States Civil Service Commission has announced an open competitive examination for laboratory aid in horticulture, for men only, August 20, 1913, to fill a vacancy in the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., at $720 a year. The duties of this position will be to assist in taking field notes on varieties of vegetables and field crops.

HARRISII SHIPMENTS.

The boats from Bermuda which reached New York August 4 and 7 brought further shipments of Harrisii bulbs, consigned as follows:

SEED PROSPECTS IN HOLLAND.

The heavy storms and persistent rains in the autumn of 1912 were extremely unfavorable for the seed crops in Holland, according to the report of Sluis & Groot, of Enkhuizen. As a result the sowing could not be done in time, and in some cases the area already sown was spoiled by rain. Important acreages were lost of turnips, celery, parsley and winter radish. Fair crops are expected of cabbage, parsley and peas, and the general outlook is good for Brussel's sprouts, cauliflower, radish, spinach and parsnip, although the area planted of most of these is not quite so large as usual.

The crop of flower seeds is late on account of the unfavorable weather, but looks satisfactory and, with warm weather, should be a good one in many varieties. The conditions have caused poor development of antirrhinum, lobelia and some others. The crop of primula and myosotis will not be heavy and that of other biennial flower seeds will be about normal, although a great deal depends upon the weather from now on.

SEEDS AND THE PARCEL POST.

The Review has received the following interesting communication from R. F. Lyon, manager of the mail order department of H. G. Hastings & Co., Atlanta, Ga.:

"In The Review for August 7, under the heading 'Seed Trade News,' appears the following item:

"'The modifications of the parcel post regulations apply to seeds, but the rate remains 1 cent for each two ounces, regardless of distance. To those whose business largely is within a 150-mile radius the new regulations make it more desirable than ever that seeds, plants and bulbs be included with other merchandise at the zone rates.'

"We think possibly you might be interested in an experiment we made with our mail one day last week. For one day's mailing we marked down the amount of postage which the present seed rate amounts to, and we also marked the amount that the postage would amount to under the zone system, using the rates effective August 15. We had the following number of packages under the different zones:

Zone.	Packages.
First and second	123
Third	203
Fourth	251
Fifth	37
Total	614

"Under the zone rate the postage on these packages would have amounted to $64.04. The seed rate on these same packages was $52.58, making a saving of the seed rate over the zone of $11.46, which you will note amounts to nearly twenty-two per cent.

"We do not question the fact that the zone rates of postage would be a benefit on the larger packages in the near zones, but as the test mailing that we have reference to is a fair average of our mail, you can easily see that if seeds were put under the zone rates, as they will be after August 15, there would be a material increase in the expense of mailing the packages. This is undoubtedly brought about by the fact that so many packages weigh less than one pound. If there were some provision made for packages weighing less than one pound to take the ounce rate and packages weighing one pound and over to take the pound rate, it may be that the zone system could be used to advantage.

"We think that the seed trade, as a whole, is opposed to any change in the present rates until the zone rates are lowered to such an extent that the cost will not be any higher than the present rate on an average."

This is an extremely illuminating showing and it would pay all seedsmen who receive criticisms of the present postal arrangements to prepare a similar record of their own mailings. The Review will be glad to receive

NORWOOD, (Near Cincinnati) OHIO

WE were surprised last week to see our place used by the LORD & BUR every day with the houses in all details ever since their completion. q have in the houses erected for us by LORD & BURNHAM the very best t and we cordially invite you to call any time, we are employing many new meth on CROTONS, DRACAENAS, CYCLAMEN and FERNS; in fact we will have a c LOOK US UP,

CROTONS

"Craig's Crotons are best known and known to be best." The Croton with its highly colored foliage is indispensable during fall and winter. We have the largest and most complete collection of Crotons in the world, carrying at the present time for fall sales over 100,000 plants in over 400 varieties, all of the very highest quality and brilliantly colored.

2½-inch pots, strong plants, $20 per 100; $175 per 1000.
4-inch pots, strong plants, $30 per 100; $275 per 1000.
5-inch pots, strong plants, $50, $75 and $100 per 100.
6-inch pots, strong plants, $12, $15, $18 and $24 per doz.
7-inch pots, strong plants, $24, $30 and $36 per doz.
8-inch pots, made up beautiful plants, $24, $30 and $36 per doz.
10-inch plants, made up beautiful plants, $5, $6 and $7.50 each.
12-inch and 14-inch tubs, made up beautiful plants, $10, $15 and $20 each.

Every retail store and grower should feature Crotons this fall and winter. We know our stock will please you and your customers.

Croton Punctata.

One of the finest and most satisfactory varieties for basket work and centers of ferneries.
2½-inch pots, $8 per 100; $75 per 1000.
3-inch pots, $20 per 100; $150 per 1000.
4-inch pots, $25 per 100; $225 per 1000.
8-inch pots, made up, $18 and $24 per doz.

Croton Norwood Beauty.

This variety is one of the best of our seedlings, raised three years ago, and we are now in a position to offer same in quantity and at very reasonable prices. This variety has an oak shaped leaf and is brilliantly colored red, yellow and orange.
4-inch pots, heavy, $50 per 100.
6-inch pots, heavy, $18 per doz.

CROTONS (Narrow Leaf Types).

Delicatissima, Golden Thread and Florence.

These varieties are indispensable for table decorations and we predict a great future for them, as nothing surpasses them for use in artistic arrangement.
4-inch pots, $30 per 100.
5-inch pots, $50 and $75 per 100.
6-inch pots, $12, $15 and $18 per doz.

New Seedling Varieties.

Our new Seedling Crotons, some of which we disseminated in June, 1911, are varieties that should be in every grower's and private person's collection. They are far superior to many of the older varieties of Crotons and the types range from narrow to very large leaf. We particularly call your attention to our set of thirteen, named after the "Thirteen Original States," which have won highest honor wherever shown.
4-inch pots, strong plants, $3 each, $30 per doz., $200 per 100.
6-inch and 7-inch pots, larger plants, $3.50, $4 and $5 each.

Croton Leaves and Sprays.

Cut Croton leaves and sprays have been supplied by us in the past few years to some of the leading retail florists, who have featured them in mantel, table and funeral work. They are also especially attractive to use with Chrysanthemums. Cut Crotons will last in a cool place from three to four weeks. We can supply them every day in the year, very highly colored sprays, at 25c, 35c and 50c. Cut leaves, $3 and $5 per 100.

When you have orders for funeral or table work "out of the ordinary," order "Craig's Cut Crotons."

DRACAENAS

There is no variety of foliage plants as attractive as the highly colored Dracaena. The small and medium sizes can be used to great advantage in making up the popular Christmas baskets, while the large specimens have always been in great demand for decorative purposes. We are now growing more Dracaenas, in greater variety, than any firm in this country.

Dracaena Fragrans.

Plain green leaf.
6-inch pots, $6 and $9 per doz.
8-inch tubs, $18 per doz.

Dracaena Massangeana.

The variety with the golden stripe down the center of the leaf. This handsome plant is the best of all Dracaenas for the house. We have an exceptionally large stock, well colored, and of the very highest quality.
4-inch pots, $7.50 per doz.; $50 per 100.
6-inch pots, $15 and $18 per doz.
8-inch pots, $2, $2.50 and $3 each.
10-inch pots, $3.50, $4 and $5 each.

Dracaena Lord Wolseley.

One of the very best varieties for Christmas, being bright red in color.
2-inch pots, $12 per 100.
3-inch pots, very heavy, $25 per 100.
4-inch pots, very heavy, $35 per 100.
5-inch pots, very heavy, $7.50 and $9 per doz.
6-inch pots, very heavy, $12 and $15 per doz.

Dracaena Terminalis.

Exceptionally well colored.
4-inch pots, strong plants, $30 and $35 per 100
5-inch pots, strong plants, $50 and $75 per 100.
6-inch pots, extra strong, $12 and $15 per doz.

We would suggest ordering the above early, as the demand is always great.

Dracaena Godseffiana.

Green and white leaf, very hardy, fine for Baskets.
2¼-inch pots, $10 per 100.
3-inch pots, $15 per 100.
4-inch pots, $25 per 100.

Dracaena Mandaiana.

Large bright red leaf, beautifully colored.
3-inch pots, $25 per 100.
4-inch pots, $35 per 100.
5-inch pots, $75 per 100.
6-inch pots, $12 and $15 per doz.

Dracaena De Smetiana.

This is one of the most desirable of the broad leaf varieties; a strong, vigorous grower, with bold, dark green foliage which becomes beautifully suffused and variegated. Our stock is exceptionally fine this fall.
4-inch pots, 50c each.
5-inch pots, 75c and $1 each.
6-inch pots, $1.25 and $1.50 each.

Dracaena Bronze Beauty.

This variety was offered three years ago with Dracaena Mandaiana by the introducer, Wm. A. Manda, and is the strongest growing Dracaena we have. Although not as highly colored as Dracaena De Smetiana, we have found it wonderfully durable as a house plant. We offer splendid specimens.
2½-inch pots, $12 per 100.
4-inch pots, $35 per 100.
5-inch pots, $50 per 100.
6-inch pots, $9 and $12 per doz.
Larger specimens, $1.50, $2, $2.50 and $3 each.

Dracaena Baptistii.

Long, broad foliage, cream, red and orange.
6-inch pots, $1, $1.25 and $1.50 each.

Dracaena Amabilis.

Green and pinkish white, very fine.
3-inch pots, $35 per 100.
4-inch pots, $50 per 100.
5-inch pots, $9 per doz.
6-inch pots, $12, $15 and $18 per doz.

Dracaena Sanderiana.

Small light green leaves edged with creamy white, fine for center of fern dishes or basket work.
2½-inch pots, $15 per 100.

Dracaena Stricta Grandis.

Carmine red leaves.
3-inch pots, $35 per 100.
4-inch pots, $50 per 100.

A Grand New Dwarf Fern, "Teddy Jr."

"TEDDY JUNIOR," the Fern for Every Household—It is a sport from the now famous Roosevelt Fern, and while its habit of growth is to produce a shorter frond, it retains all the valuable characteristics of the parent plant. The fronds are broad and beautifully tapered from base to tip; they droop just enough to make a shapely, graceful plant, permitting it to finish with a fine full center and perfect symmetrical spread. The pinnae are distinctly undulated, giving the fronds an attractive wavy appearance, which adds materially to their charming decorative effect, and thin, scraggy foliage is never seen in this variety. "Teddy" will produce about four times more fronds than any other Fern ever introduced, finishing with fifty to sixty fronds in a four-inch pot, while twelve to fifteen is the average number other varieties will produce in the same size pot. It is such a compact, vigorous grower that it will thrive under most adverse conditions, making an exceptionally rapid growth and producing a plant of rare beauty and perfection in the average dwelling house without special care or attention. Owing to its habit of producing the great quantity of massive foliage in small pots, this Fern makes the finest pedestal plant ever produced, and will prove indispensable for decorating dining room or library tables and numerous other places in the home where limited space will not permit using large pots or varieties with longer fronds. As a table decoration, fern growers can appreciate the commercial value of a dwarf variety that will produce forty to fifty fronds twelve to fifteen inches long in a four-inch pot. Such plants could readily be disposed of and every grower can produce them from "Teddy Junior" with as little care and expense as they can grow other varieties. Fine young plants from 2¼-inch pots, 40 cents each; $3.50 per dozen; $25.00 per hundred; $200.00 per thousand.

Nephrolepis Giatrasii.

Sport of Neph. Bostoniensis. This variety is beautiful in a small plant and will prove a valuable addition as a small fern for pans, etc.
8-inch pots, $15 and $18 per doz.

Nephrolepis Robusta.

Place orders at once for Neph. Robusta (new), the Silver Medal fern at the National Flower Show, winning over all competition. We claim this variety to be the finest of all the crested Nephrolepis, being exceptionally fine in large sizes. It is the strongest grower of all Nephrolepis ferns, never reverts and every plant is symmetrical and salable in all sizes. Delivery August and September, 1913.
Strong plants, 2¼-inch pots, $20 per 100; $150 per 1000.
Strong plants, 4-inch pots, $50 per 100; $400 per 1000.

Nephrolepis Tuberosa Plumosa.

This beautiful fern is quite distinct from all of the other varieties of the Boston Fern in so much that it has been raised from the Japan species Nephrolepis Tuberosa, which type is much hardier than the Exaltata. The fronds are long and narrow, the pinnules beautiful plumose, which are of light color, giving the fronds a beautiful effect on account of the two distinct shades, as well as its graceful waviness, and will be found a great and distinct addition to collection ferns.
2¼-inch pots, $15 per 100; $140 per 1000.
4-inch pots, $25 per 100; $225 per 1000.

Nephrolepis Bostoniensis Harrisii.

A dwarf type of the Nephrolepis Harrisii and excellent in all sizes from 4-inch plants up.
2¼-inch pots, $6 per 100; $50 per 1000.
4-inch pots, $20 per 100; $180 per 1000.
6-inch pots, $6 per doz.; $45 per 100.
8-inch pots, $12 and $15 per doz.

Asparagus Plumosus Nanus.

3-inch pots, $7 per 100; $65 per 1000.
4-inch pots, $12 per 100; $110 per 1000.

Asparagus Hatcheri.

As a grower Asparagus Hatcheri is coming up to all predictions made for it a year ago. It will make more green to the square foot than any variety grown. Its dainty foliage and lasting qualities make it a general favorite.
4-inch pots, heavy, $12 per 100.

Adiantum Hybridum.

The best variety for either a pot plant or for cut fronds.
3-inch pots, heavy, $10 per 100; $90 per 1000.
4-inch pots, heavy, $20 per 100; $180 per 1000.
6-inch pots, heavy, $6 per doz; $45 per 100.
8-inch pots, $12 per doz.; $90 per 100.
11-inch tubs, $24 per doz.

Cyclamen.

This has been one of our specialties for over twenty years. This year we grew upwards of 80,000 plants. In all of our experience we have never seen a finer lot of plants. We are growing our stock in new houses; they are absolutely clean and perfect in every way, and not to be compared with weakly, drawn stock offered at less money.
4-inch pots, $25 per 100; $225 per 1000.
5-inch pots, $50 per 100; $450 per 1000.
6-inch pots, $75 per 100; $100 per 1000.
7-inch pots, $150 per 100.
This will be profitable to anyone buying now.

SEED CROPS IN GERMANY.

It has been generally understood that the German seed growers were this year enjoying as favorable conditions as prevail anywhere in the world, and much better than the California growers have to contend with. But late reports from Erfurt indicate that some uneasiness is being occasioned by the continued overcast skies; the growers appear to be getting nervous while waiting for the sun to come out and mature the crops.

The season started early, but is now at least a fortnight late. While there was little heat and almost no rain up to well into July, the seasonal average of precipitation was maintained by the continuous rains that came in the latter part of July. Growth with most crops is robust, but warm, bright summer weather is badly needed to induce a timely maturity.

It is said that parsley is in splendid shape, while carrot and parsnip also are in flourishing condition. Neither radish nor lettuce is giving exceptional promise, but both nevertheless are good. Turnip promises an average crop. Cabbage, cauliflower and the other members of the brassica family are all that could be expected, indicating full crops. Beet stands fairly well. Onion is in fine shape. Peas

Ayres' Winter-flowering Sweet Pea Seeds

"America's Perfection Strain"

THEY ASSURE A CROP FROM THANKSGIVING DAY ON

That we have attained Perfection in the following varieties of Sweet Peas is best shown from the fact that so many of the florists in America and Europe are our customers.

WILLIAM L. ROCK PERFECTION SPENCER—One of our most highly prized and beautiful originations although it is not yet fully fixed. The ground color is pure white with a very distinct margin of rose-pink. The stems are long and carry from three to four fine flowers. Oz., $2.00.

Ayres' American Beauty Perfection. A Winner. You know what an American Beauty shade will do for your bank account during the winter months. This is truly a gem, and everyone raves over it. Oz., 50c; ¼ lb., $1.50; lb., $5.00.

Bloomhurst Spencer Orchid Mixture. While this mixture contains Spencer Winter bloomers, we wish our customers to know that there will no doubt be the Grandiflora and Unwin type among them, due to the fact that many Spencers sport back. However, the colors are all very beautiful, and they are immense in size. We do not feel that it is yet time for the Spencers to supersede the beautiful Grandifloras and Unwin Winter-Flowering varieties from the fact that the latter are much superior as shippers, keepers and trueness to color. 1 oz., $1.50; ¼ lb., $5.00.

Ayres' Christmas Pink Perfection. One of the earliest and most profitable Sweet Peas. 1 oz., 15c; ¼ lb., 50c; lb., $1.50.

Ayres' Christmas White Perfection. The same clear pure white as the Perfection carnation. Blooms along with its companion Christmas Pink; very prolific. 1 oz., 15c; ¼ lb., 50c; lb., $1.50.

Ayres' Christmas Blue Perfection. In a great many cases we have known this beautiful violet shade to away oversell Sweet Violets. You should not fail to include this in your order. 1 oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.50.

Ayres' Thanksgiving White, Watchung or Snowbird. The earliest white under cultivation. An extraordinarily prolific variety. Being black seeded it is easier started than any other white. 1 oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Ayres' Angelino Perfection. Self pink. 1 oz., 35c; ¼ lb., $1.00; lb., $3.00.

Wallacea Perfection. A very large lavender, similar to Mrs. Alex. Wallace, except much larger. 1 oz., 40c; ¼ lb., $1.50; lb., $4.50.

Mrs. E. Wilde Perfection. Excellent dark pink or Am. Beauty shade. Oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Mrs. F. J. Dolansky Perfection. Beautiful day-break or shell pink. Oz., 35c; ¼ lb., $1.00; lb., $3.00.

Mrs. J. F. Hannan Perfection. Carmine. Oz., 30c; ¼ lb., $1.00; lb., $2.50.

Mrs. C. H. Totty Perfection. Sky blue. Oz., 30c; ¼ lb., $1.00; lb., $2.25.

Christmas Meteor Perfection. A good red. Oz., 30c; ¼ lb., $1.00; lb., $2.50.

Ayres' Mrs. Wm. Sim Perfection. This is without doubt the most valuable of the commercial varieties, owing to its unusually long stems and beautiful coloring. No florist should be without this. Oz., 30c; ¼ lb., $1.00; lb., $2.25.

Florence Denzer Perfection. An old standby; pure white. Oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.00.

Pink Beauty Perfection. A very large open flower, rose-pink. Oz., 50c; ¼ lb., $1.50; lb., $4.50.

Le Marquis Perfection. Navy blue. Oz., 25c; ¼ lb., 75c; lb., $2.50.

Canary Perfection. A good yellow and a prolific bloomer. Oz., 30c; ¼ lb., $1.00; lb., $2.50.

Zvolanek's Pink. Good flower, soft pink. Oz., 50c; ¼ lb., $1.75.

Governor Fort. Oz., 50c; ¼ lb., $1.75.

Jack Hunter. An exceptionally good yellow. Lb., $2.50.

August is the time of sowing for the biggest results from SILVER PINK SNAPDRAGON from seed. Seed for the accompanying picture was sown August 18. By sowing at once a full crop can be had at Easter, which will continue until July, being heaviest at Memorial Day, when this picture was taken. We have said that there was nothing in sight but blossoms and dollars, and it is a fact. Silver Pink from seed is easy to grow and anyone can do as well by following directions. Whether you grow Snapdragons from seed or cuttings, they should be timed to flower with as little pinching as possible. Plants produced ahead of time and held back by pinching lose vitality and often throw blind shoots. By sowing seed now and pinching once you will have fine, stocky plants, ready for the bench in November. Our free cultural directions cover all of the necessary points for success with Silver Pink from seed.

You will note how successful many of our patrons have been. Gude Bros., Washington, D. C., with their six acres of glass and the highest class trade in the country, say it is the best they have seen. C. L. Howe, Dover, N. H., with his acres of glass and chain of stores, says it is fine and that he never had so many snapdragon blossoms. Mr. J. Geo. Jurgens, for Arthur Cockcroft, Northport, N. Y., who does an immense wholesale business, says it is the only one to grow, and that Silver Pink will GO IT ALONE with them this year. Many more strong letters could be given but further proof is not necessary. These are wide-awake florists who do business for profit. What is profitable and good for the big growers is as good or better for the smaller grower with retail trade, where a steady supply of blossoms is required. You can cut and cut from a bed of seedling Silver Pink and each cut will make more blossoms. But sow seed at once for best results.

Price of seed, $1.00 per pkt.; 3 pkts., $2.50; 7 pkts., $5.00, by mail. Cash, please. Plants sold out until October.

Quite a few shrewd florists are buying the larger amount of seed and will market their surplus plants.

G. S. RAMSBURG, Somersworth, N. H.

look like an average yield, but the wet weather has not helped them and the crop could under no circumstances make up any shortage elsewhere.

Sweet peas promise fairly well, but the weather also has been against them and the shortage reported from California can not be relieved from German crops. Ten weeks' stocks are likely to turn out short of the requirements and conditions are such that the growers fear the proportion of doubles will be reduced. The perennial plants are in flower later than usual and the annuals are growing vigorously. The weather is in favor of planting of biennials, but settled, bright weather is needed for almost all crops.

CLEVELAND, O.

The Market.

Gladioli are holding full sway at this writing, with asters a close second. Some fine America, Augusta and other popular sorts are seen. The new crop carnations are in, but not in quantity. Giganteum lilies are fine and sold well up to the glut of gladioli, which has first call. Business is light, few buying more than just enough to see them through the day.

Various Notes.

Visitors: J. Mueller, with Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J.; Mr. Heacock, of Jos. Heacock Co., Wyncote, Pa.; I. Rosnosky, with H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia; W. E. Cook, with Stumpp & Walter Co., New York, and Mr. Green, with H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia.

Harry B. Jones, of the Jones-Russell Co., has returned from a pleasant visit with his friend, Geo. Wiegand, of Indianapolis.

The Ohio Gladiolus Society will hold its exhibition Friday, August 15, at 5907 Euclid avenue.

The Cleveland Plant & Flower Co. is the name of the new wholesale house to open soon. A. B. Barber, formerly of the Jones-Russell Co., is to be manager. They intend to carry a complete line of supplies as well as all kinds of potted plants in their season. Cut flowers, of course, will be the mainstay seeds are all grown by myself and are offered in the following mixtures and separate colors:

KENILWORTH STRAIN—The flowers are of perfect form and substance: many of the immense flowers are from 3½ to 4 inches; it is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings, rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures.

KENILWORTH SHOW—An extra fine strain of large flowers; the immense flowers are of circular form and great substance; a beautiful collection of colors and markings.

KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE—Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower or for exhibition purposes, for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 7 or 8 inches long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well.

MASTERPIECE—A remarkable type; the curled, wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance, its large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stem.

ORCHID FLOWERED, Mixed—A dwarf free bloomer with a range of delicate colors that do not exist in any other pansies, a remarkable combination of light rose, shell pink, blush mauve, fawn, light brown, orange and chamois.

NEW SEED NOW READY

All sorts and mixtures, except the new Pansy Princess, 1000 seeds, 25c; 5000 seeds, $1.00; ¼-oz., $1.25; 1 oz., $5.00

PRINCESS

The New Upright Pansy

This strain is entirely distinct from all others. It is absolutely compact, upright growing, and extremely weather-proof, enduring many storms without damage to its flower. The flowers are mostly blotched and frilled like the Masterpiece, of good form and heavy, velvety texture, on heavy stems carried well above the foliage. Attractive by the brilliancy of its colors.

Packet of 1000 seeds, 75 cents; 300 seeds, 25 cents.

NEWPORT, R. I.

The Market.

The numerous social functions among the fashionable set during the last few weeks have made business for the florists unusually brisk, while the decorators have had their hands full. Prices range well, with the usual scale here. Orchids and lilies of the valley appear to be more than usually plentiful.

Various Notes.

One of the most unique decorations seen at Newport in several years was that for the Mother Goose, or fairy tales ball, at Crossways, the summer home of Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, and was done by Ralph Armstrong. In connection with this function, a dinner was given at Rosecliffe by Mrs. Herrmann Oelrichs, where the elaborate table decorations were by Wadley & Smythe.

C. A. Schulz is planning to erect a handsome residence on the Bruen estate, which he purchased last fall.

F. W. Smythe, of Wadley & Smythe, has purchased the Chase farm, consisting of about seventy-five acres, at Middletown, for nursery purposes.

James F. Barclay reports great returns from 12,000 square feet of his glass. When near the close of harvesting an immense crop of sweet peas, with such stems and flowers that they brought double price, he put in potted plants of Comet tomatoes close to the roots of the peas. In two weeks from the time the last peas were cut and the vines were removed, he began picking tomatoes and the crop appeared like magic. He is selling them for 12 cents per pound in 100-pound lots.

Thos. L. Brown is putting in a system of irrigation for outside intensive growing in beds. These beds are laid out six feet wide, with 3-foot walks, and will be treated as though covered with glass.

BODDINGTON'S GIGANTIC PANSIES

can be produced only from the giant strains. Our CHALLENGE PANSY seed contains only the giant self-colors, the giant striped and variegated and the giant blotched, etc., all carefully mixed in proportion. You could not buy better seed if you paid $100.00 per ounce. Our Challenge Pansy seed during the past season gave unprecedented satisfaction, and every order booked last year was duplicated and increased this year. All the testimonials received mentioned specially the high grade of flowers—color, form and size of the individual blossoms. This year, by adding improved types, intending customers can absolutely rely on a duplication of this season's success with increased satisfaction. Our "mark" for this strain is "Challenge," and it is all the word denotes.

Pansy—Boddington's "Challenge"—All Giants

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Albany, Ore.—Ben Bartcher is organizing an association for the improvement and beautification of the cemetery here and in time expects to secure the assistance of a landscape gardener in the work. At present he will carry on the work himself. Mr. Bartcher is also planning the erection of several greenhouses and upon their completion will grow flowers for the local trade.

Colma, Cal.—S. Rosaia Co., which has violet farms at Colma, South City and Halfmoon Bay, has contracted with some of the largest violet growers on the Pacific coast to handle the coming season's crop. Among those contracted with are George Lagarmisaino & Co., Colma; Rosaia Bros., of South San Francisco, and R. Lavazzolo & Co., of Halfmoon Bay. Silvio Rosaia is known among his friends as the violet king of California.

San Gabriel, Cal.—Rudolph Fisher, originator of Freesia Purity, is building ten greenhouses, doubling his area. His experience in the last two seasons, in which frost played havoc with his crops even though in protected situations, has convinced him that it is safest to grow freesia bulbs under glass even in "the land of sunshine." He has a number of novelties that he says he never will risk in the open. They include freesias in such colors as pink, lavender, red and yellow.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Market.

Business is the same as reported last week; there is little call for stock. Asters are becoming more plentiful, but there is not as yet a surplus of them. Sweet peas are not good and prove poor keepers. Auratum and rubrum lilies are plentiful, and, although not in much demand, make a good appearance in the windows. Carnations are scarce and of poor quality. Gladioli are unusually fine and sell well, considering the demand. Orchids and valley are scarce and not in much demand. Several elaborate weddings have been booked for September, calling for considerable choice stock. The first mums of the reason were displayed last week.

Various Notes.

H. E. Weed, of the Beaverton Nursery Co., entertained the members of the Florists' Club, August 3. While the attendance was disappointing, those who attended had an enjoyable time. Refreshments were served in elegant style. The phenomenal growth of the place was surprising to all.

A. B. Cherry, of the La Grande Seed & Floral Co., at La Grande, Ore., was in town last week, buying stock and material, as he is making many improvements at his place and adding about 5,000 feet of glass to his range.

Frank Chervenka has returned from his vacation of several weeks in California.

Auguste Nonin, of Paris, and J. L. Legendre, of Orleans, France, have been touring the west on a pleasure trip. Mr. Nonin was called home by his government from here to serve in the standing army.

Julius Broetje has a fine crop of water lilies, which is being readily disposed of on the local market.

W. C. Hoffman is the possessor of a new Studebaker car.

R. L. Scott left last week for California with a full line of Lion & Co. samples. He reports business quite satisfactory on his northern trip.

J. R. Fotheringham dropped in unheralded from the south. He reports business extremely satisfactory.

L. H. Forshaw, of Pendleton, Ore., is on an extensive eastern trip.

E. R. C.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Business is running along on about an even keel. There is no great rush at any time; yet, for the season, trade is quite satisfactory. The gladiolus still holds the field as a showy, useful flower. Dahlias are becoming more plentiful; there are some magnificent delphiniums and the odor of the pretty Belladonna lily is plainly noticeable in all the stores. Indoor carnations are a vanishing quantity and the few that do come in have little advantage over the outdoor stock, which is in the "also ran" class. Roses are coming freely from young stock, Sunburst being among the most popular.

At the Pasadena Picnic.

Sunday, August 3, will long be remembered by the boys of Pasadena and Los Angeles. The occasion was the annual picnic of the Pasadena Horticultural Society, to which the L. A. brethren were invited. The special train from Pasadena got away in good time. While personally I can not vouch for it, a charming young lady, well known in the trade, is authority for the statement that President McGilvray was kept busy quite a long time sewing the ribbons on the shirt waists and dresses worn on the occasion by the Pasadena sisters. As a friend of his said, "You gotta hand it to Jim." President Winsel, of the L. A. Horticultural Society, took down about twenty members and friends in his new auto delivery car and gave all a sumptuous lunch, which made Billy Felgate say, "You gotta hand it to him too."

The tug of war was one of the most popular events. The Pasadena line-up consisted of Messrs. James and Alec McGilvray, Feldman, Watson, Hutchison, McFarlane, Clemence and Kirby. On the Los Angeles end of the rope were Messrs. Winsel, Richards, Felgate, Charles, Gilbert, Allis, Luc and Kuntz. They say the only reason Pasadena lost was that Rob McKenzie was not on that side—a base libel, according to Mr. Felgate, who offered to pull them to Sierra Madre.

The fat men's race created some enthusiasm; so, also, did the ladies' races, in which Miss Sadie Thomas and the Misses Morris took part, the younger Miss Morris winning somewhat easily. All went swimmingly—some went swimming when the pace was too hot ashore—and there was not a single discordant note in the whole day's proceedings. All decided that the Pasadena boys had "done themselves proud" and deserved the heartiest thanks of the sister city.

Various Notes.

Eldred's Flower Shop must be forging ahead. At any rate, Mr. Eldred is, in his new Studebaker 30.

W. Armacost & Co. have completed and planted the new greenhouses, as mentioned recently, and have started on another house, 27x185. A consignment of orchids from the Freeman Orchid Co., Fall River, Mass., has been put in, besides a number of other novelties in the plant line.

Frank Lichtenberg is highly pleased with the way things are coming in his new store and says that, notwithstanding the disturbance consequent on removal, the trade has been better than for the same period last year. His location on Sixth street takes a lot of the auto traffic from the Westlake park district.

F. Sperry, of the Los Angeles Flower Market, was on duty alone for several days last week, C. Morton's tooth having eventually made him lay off for a time. Business kept up at its usual clip.

The usual monthly meeting of the Los Angeles Horticultural Society was held August 5, at Kruckeberg's hall, but the attendance was small. Arrangements were made for all that could do so to attend the joint meeting of the Arboricultural Society at Pasadena, September 3 and 4.

C. Gutting, of the Superior Nursery Co., left August 8 for a deer hunting trip. Stock looks fine at the greenhouses and trade is good.

Dieterich & Turner continue to send out large consignments of young rose stock, and, to judge by the bunch of men and boys at work in the packing shed recently, no one would imagine it was so late in the season. On looking through the young stock, I found the popular kinds in the finest of health and I have never seen plants made from young stock so quickly as at this famous place this season. Killarney Queen is magnificent, both in foliage and flower, the color being such as to delight a connoisseur. Milady is a good grower. Sunburst is perfect in every way. Taft has only one fault here, according to Mr. Turner, and that is there is not enough of it. About the new ones coming along, emanating from the home place, I can say nothing as yet, but there is more than one surprise in store. J. Dieterich and family left here for a trip to San Diego, August 2. Mr. Dieterich is apparently quite at home in the management of his Henderson car.

Albert Knopf, of the Redondo Floral Co., returned to work August 1, and as he came in Brother Borden had his Studebaker tuned up ready for the trip to San Juan Capistrano and other points. Business keeps up at the store.

a good showing of flowers. Chrysanthemums of the early yellow varieties are coming into town in fairly large quantities, but they are not moving as rapidly as they will when they become cheaper. Dahlias are good, and such varieties as Thompson and Minnie Burgle have ready sale. Gladioli are past their prime, but there is still a good demand for America and Augusta. These cost the retailers from $2 to $3 per hundred. Roses are generally poor, and it will be several weeks before we can get any good stock. Valley is not so plentiful as it has been and is well cleaned up. Japanese lilies are good sellers, and none of them has gone to waste so far this season. Trade is quiet, but the prospects are for an early increase.

Various Notes.

The Pacific Coast Horticultural Society held its regular meeting on the evening of August 2. Thomas Monroe exhibited some of the finest single seedling dahlias ever shown here.

Tassano Bros., of Los Angeles, have opened a branch store in Oakland, and are supplying the retailers in that town with green goods.

A visit to the nurseries established for the growing of young stock for the coming Pan-American exposition shows hundreds of thousands of evergreens and bedding stock all in the best possible condition. John McLaren is at the head of the department attending to this branch of the work.

The picnic of the Retail Florists' Association at Giant Canyon, Sunday, August 3, was the most successful ever held. All the stores closed for the day, and practically all the retailers, growers and their employees availed themselves of the outing.

Mrs. Ellen Sessions, aunt of Kate O. and Frank Sessions, of San Diego, was buried in this city August 9. The interment was in Cypress Lawn cemetery.

G.

W. A. Seeger, manager of the Mullanphy Flower Co., of St. Louis, Mo., was in town last week.

A TRAILING COLEUS.

Referring to an inquiry in The Review of June 24, page 56, under the heading of "Coleus for Hanging Baskets," we wish to say that we have been growing a weeping coleus for the last few years, under the name of Cecil Brown, and listed it in our 1913 catalogue. It is free growing, of weeping habit, has small foliage, yellow and pink center, bordered with maroon and green. It is said to be an old English variety. We picked it up from a neighbor and know nothing of its origin. Under separate cover we are mailing you a plant, and if we are mistaken as to its name or identity we shall be pleased to be corrected.

R. V. J. & S.

The plant arrived in good condition. This certainly seems to be a true trailing or creeping coleus and should be useful for baskets, vases and window boxes. I had not come across it before.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

WISCONSIN has appropriated $3,000 with which the state nursery department is to make investigations to ascertain methods of eradicating the grasshopper and white grub worm.

THE organization of the nurserymen of the state of Illinois is being discussed. One meeting has been held, but it brought out an inadequate attendance, although many wrote that they were in sympathy with the project.

BUSINESS has been so heavy with the Gardner Nursery Co., of Osage, Ia., that two new tracts of land have been purchased to increase the capacity of the concern. Thirty-eight acres are planted solidly to the new ever-bearing strawberries.

THE hot weather, the hottest in twenty-five years, has been damaging everything outdoors in Tennessee. A correspondent from Nashville writes: "Outdoor stock could not look much worse and live. Many of the spring-set trees and much of the shrubbery are dying, especially where there is no opportunity to water."

IN Idaho, where several inspection cases of note have originated, there are now fifty-four nurserymen to 123 two years ago. The state inspector, John U. McPherson, who made this statement at the nurserymen's convention at Payette, at the same time advocated the payment of the expense of nursery inspection by the state, just as in the case of orchard inspection.

THE Georgia State Horticultural Society will hold its annual meeting at Clayton, August 19 and 20. The officers of the organization are as follows: President, R. C. Berckmans, of the Fruitland Nurseries, Augusta; vice-president, B. W. Hunt, of Eatonton; secretary, Dr. T. H. McHatton, professor of horticulture at the State Agricultural College, and J. B. Wright, of Cairo.

EMPHASIZING QUALITY.

A retail nurseryman who grows good stock finds it unnecessary to meet price competition; there are plenty of people who will pay fair prices for good stock. All that is necessary is to emphasize quality in the advertising, and see that the stock makes good on the claims.

The following is reprinted from a card that is enclosed with all mail quotations:

A FEW QUESTIONS AND FACTS.

How do you buy your shrubs?
Do you think only of the height and price?
Or do you pay more attention to the root system and top development?
Do you plant three shrubs where one would produce the effect?
If we could show you that the preliminary work of planting and the maintenance after planting could be cut down two-thirds, would you buy of us?
Note the following:
Our shrubs are grown in light, rich loam.
They are planted in rows over three feet apart, and in the row are given a chance for full top development.
The shrubs have been transplanted and the root systems pruned by hand, not machine pruned as they stand in the ground.
Our shrubs require more space by two-thirds than the ordinary shrubs.
Therefore, one shrub will do more good at less cost than three ordinary shrubs.
Our prices are not as low as the majority of dealers', but we think that the above explanation will justify in your minds the added cost.
Our trees are given as much care and attention in growing as our shrubs.
Give us a trial and see for yourself.
Do you ever have occasion to consult with a landscape gardener?
If so, our landscape department is at your service.
Send in your list of wants.

REGULATING THE SUPPLY.

In discussing nursery conditions in the northwest at the Idaho nurserymen's convention recently, Albert Brownell, of Portland, quoted from a tabulated statement made from the reports of ten of the leading nurserymen of Oregon and Washington, who, Mr. Brownell estimates, produce ninety per cent of the nursery stock grown in those states. The names of these firms are not made public, but their sales for the last year and the amount of stock growing during this season appear in carefully tabulated form. To illustrate, of a certain variety of apple, a stated number of thousands of trees were sold during the year 1912, which was the best guide to be had of the wants of the public for the current year. In some items the statistics show a larger quantity of stock in process of production than would be indicated as desired by the purchasing public.

These tables give the number of grafts planted, the number of stocks budded and growing, the number of stocks planted to be budded, and so on through the various departments of stock grown. This summary, carefully studied, enables the nurseryman at this time to remodel his budding list, to increase on varieties most desired, and to cut out or check varieties in less demand. These tables are prepared by the secretary of the association, and are then available to the firms that exchange this information. This concert of action should be extremely helpful in guarding against overproduction.

BLIGHT ON MAPLES.

Enclosed you will find some maple leaves that are blighted, and also some leaves from the same tree which show no sign of the disease. Will you kindly give us some information about the trouble? A. F. K. C.

The blight on your maples does not appear to me to be really serious. The cause is probably some climatic condition peculiarly favorable to the development of the disease, and it may not trouble you another season. Spraying with Bordeaux mixture is the best preventive for these fungoid diseases. An application should be given before any of the trouble appears another year.

The State Fair.

C. H. Vick, of Rochester, superintendent of the floral department of the state fair to be held here September 8 to 13, is a busy man these days, making preparations for the coming show, which he intends shall eclipse all previous ones. Floral hall will be made a veritable beauty spot, as part of the building will be laid out as a flower garden with turfed lawns, flower beds, walks and trellises covered with vines, etc.

Lord & Burnham will erect a greenhouse, 40x60 feet, complete with boiler and pipes, and the benches will be filled with a splendid collection of plants. This of itself will prove a great drawing card. A fine band will be in attendance each day, and it goes without saying that Floral hall will be the Mecca for all visitors.

The premium list this year calls for nearly $3,000 for plants, designs and cut flowers, which should insure a large entry list. Mr. Vick's ability as an organizer is well known. This year he has chosen Henry Youell, financial secretary of the American Gladiolus Society, as his assistant. Premium lists may be had free by addressing A. E. Brown, secretary New York State Fair, Syracuse, N. Y. Entries close August 30.

As it is difficult to obtain accommodation at the hotels during fair week, Mr. Youell will gladly recommend respectable and reasonable places to those who will write him at his address, 538 Cedar street, Syracuse, N. Y.

The Best That The Future Has To Offer

IT IS our custom to handle only varieties we believe to be worthy of a place in the best commercial establishments. The new Roses we have offered in past seasons have made a reputation for themselves and the character of stock we have sent out has made an enviable reputation for our firm. ¶ We offer Killarney Brilliant in the belief that it is the coming standard of perfection. We have arranged with the originators for eyes for grafting purposes. We can supply any quantity you may require.

Killarney Brilliant

A sport from Killarney, grown in the open ground in England. Killarney was introduced in 1898, and since then there have been so many sports that Killarney has developed into a type rather than a variety. Messrs. Alexander Dickson & Sons, the original introducers, are to be congratulated, sixteen years after the advent of Killarney, in giving us now this distinct novelty which is undoubtedly the best of all varieties of this type.

Killarney Brilliant has the same habit of growth and the same freedom of bloom as its parent, while the flower is twice as large, having 25 to 40 full-sized petals. It will be as useful for Summer blooming as for Winter forcing. The color is a very brilliant pink and varies like Killarney; in bright weather it is almost crimson, and in dull weather, when Killarney is so pale, it is as bright as Killarney at its best. The sale of Killarney Brilliant a year before its introduction has been larger than that of any other Rose ever sent out in this country.

Grafted Plants, 75c each; $7.50 per dozen; $35 00 per 100; $300.00 per 1000.

New Carnation Gloria

(H. W. Field and A. N. Pierson, Inc.)

In offering this new Carnation to the trade, we offer what we believe to be a paying commercial variety; strong in growth, making a quantity of flowering shoots rather than wonderful length of individual stems. In color, the brightest pink we have ever seen in a carnation, and a color that will sell, which, combined with good calyx, fair-sized bloom and great production, makes this an attractive proposition to a man who knows Carnations.

Rooted Cuttings for December, $12.00 per 100 $100.00 per 1000.

Enchantress Supreme

As the best of the Enchantress family it needs no description. An improvement in color, in form of flower on a race of Carnations that have stood the test of time. We have a large stock.

Rooted Cuttings for December and later, $6.00 per 100; $50.00 per 1000.

Business is quiet, as is usual for August. Funeral work is about the only thing doing. Outdoor flowers of quality are scarce just now, owing to the long dry spell. In roses, Maryland, Taft and Double White Killarney are the most sought after at present.

Various Notes.

Louis Barton, of Elmwood, is cutting fine Taft. His other roses are coming along nicely, after having just been pruned.

George G. McClunie reports business for July double that of last year.

Page Potter, of the Bon Ton Flower Shop, has returned after visiting in Vermont.

Your Kind Attention, Please

On your way to or from Minneapolis, why not stop off at Detroit and see our new Seedling Carnation PHILADELPHIA growing?

When we say that Philadelphia is one of the finest Carnations ever introduced, and the strongest grower of them all, we mean it.

Now, all we want you to do, is to see and judge the variety for yourself.

We invite you cordially to stop off at Detroit. Messrs. Fred Breitmeyer, of the Breitmeyer Floral Co., Mt. Clemens, Mich., and R. M. Rahaley, of the Michigan Cut Flower Exchange, Detroit, our partners in the Philadelphia Carnation Seedling, will be on hand to receive you and to show you the Philadelphia in all stages of growth.

POINSETTIAS

We have reduced the propagation of this plant to a science. We root them as sure as you do a coleus cutting, and in large quantity. That makes it easy for us to give you plants that are right. We are now shipping as fine young plants as you ever laid eyes on. Sturdy, short stuff that will start right off and finish up with the highest quality.

Plant now for large bracts for cutting. Let us also book your order now for what you will need later on to plant in pans.

From 2½-inch pots, at $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000

No need to pack Poinsettias in paper pots if they are well rooted.

We are growing all our Kentias above 6-inch size in neat Cedar Tubs, made especially for us, with electric wire hoops, painted green. These tubs cost several times the price of pots, but we sell the plants at the same price as though grown in pots. The buyer has the advantage of receiving his plants without breakage of pots and in handsome tubs in which they have become well established and in which they will continue to do better than in pots.

When in Philadelphia be sure to look us up.

We are easily reached—only 25 minutes from Reading Terminal, 12th and Market Streets, Philadelphia. We have fine train service—fifty trains each way every week day—so you can suit your own convenience, both going and coming. When you will see our palms of all sizes, from 2½-inch pots to 12-inch tubs. We are strong on Decorative Palms, in 7-inch, 9-inch and 12-inch tubs (made-up or single plants), which we can supply in any quantity. All our Palms are home-grown (not an imported plant on the place) and well established in the tubs. They are strong and healthy.

With increased glass devoted to Palms, our stock is much larger than ever before and never in better condition.

JOSEPH HEACOCK CO., Wyncote, Pa., Railway Station, Jenkintown.

DETROIT.

The Market.

Last week was, without any doubt, the dullest of the season, but as August is usually dull, perhaps last week was the crisis and things will pick up from now on. Roses are plentiful and it is no trouble at all to fill orders for any color. Asters are arriving in large quantities; the one complaint is with reference to their color, most of them being purple, while there is a shortage of light pink and white. Gladioli are also plentiful.

Various Notes.

Charles Plumb is adding another house to his already large range of glass. This latest house is 22x150 at present, but later another 110 feet will be added. Eventually Mr. Plumb intends to rearrange his whole range and this house is the beginning of a new plan he has in mind. The new house will be devoted to carnations.

B. Schroeter is rebuilding three houses and erecting a new stack for the rear range. Hugo Schroeter is spending a week at home, digging in the garden.

Henry Rahaley and J. E. Carey, of Mount Clemens, spent August 7 fishing in the North Channel. Mr. Carey is not only an expert rose grower, but can handle his launch like an old sea captain.

Another employee has been added to the staff of the Detroit Cut Flower Supply House. This time it is a wee bit of a girl, who arrived at the home of Hubert Pearce, the proprietor, last week.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Various Notes.

Oliver Steinkamp has returned from a short vacation at Cedar Point and Put-in Bay.

The regular monthly meeting of the Indiana State Florists' Association was held in the wholesale rooms of the Smith & Young Co., Tuesday night, August 5, with a fair attendance. President Coles presided at the meeting and some business was transacted. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Indianapolis, Thursday, September 11, which is the big day at the state fair. The dues of the Marion county members were reduced from $3 to $2 per year.

Adam Heim, representing the Carnation Support Co., of Connersville, Ind., called on the growers last week, showing the new carnation support, which made quite an impression wherever it was shown.

Fred Kiel, with the Smith & Young Co., was away on his vacation last week.

Harry Jones, of the Jones-Russell Co., of Cleveland, spent last week with George Wiegand.

The store room of Bertermann Bros. Co. is being redecorated. It is to be done in white this time. H. L. W.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—A. W. Moore recently spent a week end fishing at Ricketts and met with such success that on his return he invited a number of his friends to a dinner of brook trout.

FIELD-GROWN PLANTS
READY NOW.

We do a very large business each season on carnation cuttings and field-grown plants because we never ship out stock we would not be willing to plant on our own benches. The field-grown plants are ready. This is not surplus stock, left after selecting the stock for our own use, but is stock grown especially for sale to the trade. If we did not know it was good stock, strong, stocky, well branched, and free from disease, we should not offer it for sale. Last year's customers will be back—and this is an invitation to those who have not yet bought here to order of us this year. Immediate shipment.

PEONIES.

"PEONIES FOR PLEASURE."
This book of "Peonies for Pleasure" gives information on peony history, soil and plants to use, how and when to plant, fertilizers and how to apply, and describes the most extensive planting of really valuable peonies ever gathered together under the sun; describes old and new as well as the plebeian and aristocrat of the peony family. If you want information on the plant that stands next to the rose in beauty, that is practically known to the amateur as simply a red, white and pink peony, then send for "Peonies for Pleasure."
We also issue a special wholesale price list of peonies for fall sales, 1913. Send for both of these booklets.

Greenhouse Heating.

THE annual production of smokeless coals is around 17,000,000 tons. It is a little below the average this year, but it looks as though there should be enough so all florists can get some.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

TWO MISSOURI HOUSES.

I am building two greenhouses, each 30x60 feet and eleven feet high to the ridge. Each house has one glass gable and the sides are all glass. They will be heated by hot water. Will you kindly give me an idea as to the piping needed for these houses, to maintain a temperature of 50 degrees when the outside temperature is 15 degrees below zero?

J. J. G.

The question does not state the amount of glass in the side walls, but it is presumed that the amount in each wall is about four feet. In that case, each of the houses described can be heated to 50 degrees by using three 2½-inch flow pipes and fifteen 2-inch returns. Suspend one of the flow pipes about two feet below the ridge and place one upon each wall plate. Four of the returns may be placed upon each wall and the others may be distributed under the benches. If the glass in each wall is more or less than four feet, use one return more or less for each foot of glass more or less than four.

THE COAL MARKETS.

"It seems like repeating an old story to say that the eastern coal trade is being influenced by labor and car shortages and that this condition threatens to grow worse rather than better," says last week's Black Diamond, "but even though it is an old story, it is a true story just now and any man who buys coal wants to take it seriously into consideration."

It is apparent that demand for anthracite is picking up a little. The retail dealers do not profess to like the advance in price due to the imposition of the Pennsylvania tonnage tax, but finding that rebellion against it is useless, they have about decided to pay it and transfer it on to their customers.

Smokeless mine-run is still in extraordinarily strong demand, and, in fact, there is already beginning to appear the possibility of a decided shortage during the next four months. Some pretty good sized contracts for smokeless coal are still to be closed and retail dealers within the last week are making inquiry for sources of supply, but the sales agents after putting the matter up to the mines have not been able to make any definite promises of delivery. This applies not only to the smokeless coals of West Virginia, but to the low volatile coals of central Pennsylvania. This means that smokeless coal is holding

PIPING IN NORTH DAKOTA.

I am in need of a little information regarding the piping of my new greenhouse, which is to be heated by steam. I already have one house, 29x150, piped for steam, and the new house will join the present house on the south side, with no wall between them. The new house will run east and west and will contain four benches. It will be 29x75 and sixteen feet high in the center. The side walls will be seven feet high and will consist of three feet of cypress and four feet of glass. The outside temperature sometimes drops to 40 degrees below zero.

I also want some information with reference to the returning of the condensation. The boiler is set two feet too high to permit the returning of the condensation by gravity and I want a sure way to get it back, so as not to have trouble in midwinter. What kind of trap would you suggest?

G. E. V.

To heat a greenhouse 29x75 feet, with four feet of glass in each side wall, by means of steam, when the outside temperature is 40 degrees below zero, will require about 800 square feet of radiating surface if 60 degrees is desired. This can be secured by running a 2½-inch main under the ridge to the farther end of the house and with it supplying twenty 1¼-inch returns. If a temperature of 50 degrees will answer, the flow pipe may be 2½-inch and only fourteen 1¼-inch returns will be needed.

There are several excellent steam traps on the market and any of those advertised in The Review will give satisfaction. Without knowing just how the benches are arranged, no definite plan for locating the returns can be suggested, but about one-third of them may be placed on each wall and the remainder under the benches.

YOKING TWO BOILERS.

Will you kindly give me some information on the connecting of two horizontal steam boilers, each of which has a capacity of 100 horse-power? I wish to be able to use them either as a battery or separately. I should like to know whether they must be placed on the same level and how the water connection should be made so as to keep the water line the same. On account of limited space, I want to have them rest on the same central wall. Can that be done? We are using a return trap. Would it answer for both boilers?

H. F. C.

If the boilers are of similar construction they can be set at the same height, but if one is of greater diameter than the other care should be taken to set them so that the desired water levels in the two boilers will have the same elevation. There is no reason why a single wall will not answer between the boilers. The boilers can then be yoked together so that either one or both can be used. One trap will serve for the two boilers, using it to return the water to a feed tank with which the boilers should be connected.

PIPING A PARTITIONED HOUSE.

Will you kindly inform me how to heat a greenhouse of the following description with hot water? The house is three-quarter-span and is 18x70. It is twelve feet high to the ridge and has a 4-foot wall on the south and a 6-foot wall on the north. The office is at the east end and the boiler is at the west end. There is a glass partition through the center and I wish to heat the east end to 60 degrees and the west end to 50 degrees. The office is not heated from the greenhouse. Kindly give the size and number of pipes and their arrangement. As it will be extremely inconvenient to place the boiler in a cellar, can I place it on a level and use a mercury generator? If so, please estimate the piping accordingly. In this part of North Dakota the outside temperature sometimes drops to 40 degrees below zero.

M. B.

To heat the house described, under the severe conditions, it will be well to run a 3-inch pipe about two feet below the ridge, and with a slight fall, to the farther end of the house, and connect it with eight 2-inch pipes to be carried under the middle benches back to the boiler. Then run a 2-inch flow pipe on each wall plate and carry back three 2-inch returns on each wall, or under each side bench, as far as the partition, from which point a 2-inch return on each side of the house should run to the boiler.

TO THE MAN WHO NEEDS A BOILER

The customer's interest first—is the basis of the Kroeschell standard, and this principle makes the Kroeschell policy the most liberal of all in the greenhouse boiler business.

The great variety of boilers that we make places us in a commanding position. We make every type of boiler that is used, from the smallest house heater to the largest water tube steam boiler (600 horsepower). For the above reason we can furnish the most efficient boiler unit in every case.

It is the Kroeschell principle to supply only that type of boiler which is best suited to the conditions and under no circumstances do we take any other stand.

WHEN YOU BUY—GET A KROESCHELL
"THE BOILER OF UNEQUALED FUEL ECONOMY"

Every boiler made at our works is of the highest standard. Material—governed by Kroeschell specifications—the best that money and brains can produce. Workmanship—the kind that is an inspiration to all other boiler makers. Boiler efficiency—determined by actual test under working conditions. Boiler ratings—honest and true blue—guarantee actual working capacities.

Probably you have wondered why the Kroeschell Greenhouse Boiler is not sold by any of the greenhouse construction companies. In justice to all concerned we feel it is our duty to state that the Kroeschell Boiler is never sold by any one but—The KROESCHELL BROS. CO.—We have no agents, and as our prices are based on sales direct from factory to user, we do not quote anyone dealing in boilers special resale prices. Our stand in this matter has brought out a lot of competition; nevertheless, the great efficiency of the Kroeschell Greenhouse Boiler cannot be disputed, and in spite of the keen competition the Kroeschell Greenhouse Boiler is heating more glass than any other make—"DO NOT GET CHEATED OUT OF THE KROESCHELL BUT PLACE YOUR ORDER DIRECT AT ONCE."

Get the Kroeschell First

Several years ago Mr. Ponting corresponded with us in regard to the Kroeschell Hot Water Boiler, but was persuaded to install two sectional cast iron boilers which were claimed to be superior to the Kroeschell.

In the meantime we placed a number of Kroeschell Boilers in the immediate vicinity of Mr. Ponting, and he could not help but notice their great efficiency, and last year, while at the convention, he placed his order for his first Kroeschell. The following letter speaks for itself:

"We like the Kroeschell Boiler very much. It gives entire satisfaction, and it is so easy to fire. I will trade you the two cast iron sectional boilers for another like the Kroeschell I have."

July 16, 1913, Cleveland, Ohio. (Signed) FRED PONTING.

Kroeschell Replaces Cast Iron

In 1912 our cast iron sectional boiler cracked in one section and we ordered a No. 3½ Kroeschell Boiler by telegraph. This boiler is heating 10,200 sq. ft. of glass, besides the office and potting shed, and you will note this is 1,200 ft. more than its rating. We have no trouble to maintain proper temperatures at any time and the boiler has given perfect satisfaction.

With the Kroeschell we have added one more house, but have not used any more coal than with the cast iron boiler and 3,000 ft. less to heat. One cast iron break-down was enough for us, for we have found it pays to get the best—the Kroeschell.

(Signed) MICHLER BROS. CO.
July 17, 1913, Lexington, Ky.

Kroeschell Replaces 3 Cast Iron Boilers

The No. 6 Kroeschell which we purchased some years ago is heating 18,000 sq. ft. of glass, and we should judge that it would take care of 5,000 or 6,000 ft. more easily.

Our houses require a temperature of 50 to 52 degrees at night, and we certainly do not have the least trouble to keep temperatures in the coldest weather. We do not have to fire our boiler as often as our brother florists who are using different makes. The Kroeschell has replaced three cast iron sectional boilers, and it certainly has given entire satisfaction.

It only takes a few words to express the good quality of your boilers and they are as follows: "Of all firms handling boilers and advertising them truthfully, the party buying a boiler would have to get the Kroeschell, as you are certainly advertising nothing but facts."

(Signed) ALEXANDER A. LAUB.

This will give one 3-inch pipe and twelve 2-inch pipes in the east end of the house, where a temperature of 50 degrees is desired, and sixteen 2-inch pipes, in addition to the 3-inch flow, in the west end of the house, to furnish a temperature of 60 degrees.

Arranged in this way, and with the lowest part of the returns above the level of the grate, a good circulation can be secured without using a mercury generator, or if a generator is attached the return pipes used as heating coils might be 1½-inch.

SIZE OF SMOKESTACK.

How high a brick smokestack, and of what diameter, would be required for two tubular boilers, one of them seventy-five horse-power and the other thirty horse-power? How many brick would be needed for such a stack?

J. H. T.

The higher a chimney, the smaller may be its area. Thus, while a chimney twenty-four inches in diameter inside would answer if it were sixty feet high, a chimney thirty inches in diameter and only forty feet high would give about the same results. To build either chimney in a durable manner would require about 1,000 fire brick and 10,000 common brick. Care should be taken to place it on a firm foundation. This should be not less than six feet square and of a depth according to the character of the subsoil.

The Market.

The market is brighter than it was a week ago, and business people seem more encouraged. Several notable weddings have taken place during the week, and the work has been divided up evenly among our tradespeople. Funerals have called for their part of the business, and brought an extra heavy demand for roses, valley and other choice flowers. A good shipment of Indiana roses came into the commission house during the week and was quickly disposed of. American Beauties are good and prices are firm. Double White Killarney roses are also arriving in better condition, and good shipments of Maryland, Mrs. Taft, Bride and Bridesmaid all point to the decided and favorable change in weather from the extreme heat of a week ago.

Sweet peas are improving in quality and length of stem, but carnations of good quality are hard to find. As a result of the dry weather, asters are small and inferior, and only on plots where water systems are used can good, large blossoms be found. There is a good supply of Easter lilies on hand, but there has been a slight falling off in valley. The supply of gladioli is large, with

MINNEAPOLIS.

Club Meeting.

The last meeting of the Minneapolis Florists' Club, held August 6 in the store of Rice Bros., was attended by forty members, with President Desmond in the chair. Two new members were elected, making the total membership seventy-nine.

Theodore Wirth, in reporting for the Convention Association of Minneapolis, stated that the preparations for the reception and entertainment of visitors were comprehensive, well planned and well executed and could not fail to result satisfactorily if the chairmen of the committees would only attend to their part of the details, as they undoubtedly would, by seeing that the work was properly distributed among the members of the committees.

John Young, superintendent of the trade exhibition, was present and did some effective work in inducing members of the local club to join the national society.

George Asmus, of Chicago, who is a member of the advisory board, spoke in terms of high praise of the outdoor plant exhibition on the convention grounds. He also made some encouraging and helpful remarks with reference to the work of the committees.

John Rovik displayed the merits of the new baseball suits of the Minneapolis Florists' Club by appearing at the meeting completely attired in one of the suits, and was greeted with vigorous applause that expressed high approval.

Richard E. Loeben, of Gloversville, N. Y., made a donation of $50, to be expended in connection with the convention in such manner as the advisory board might consider most conducive to the advancement of floriculture.

It was stated that the Western Union Telegraph Co. would establish an office at the convention hall, so that all incoming messages to convention attendants would be delivered promptly.

Superior in Name—

"The Superior boiler has them all beat for greenhouse heating"

is what the growers all say who are using them.

Superior in Fact

The SUPERIOR STANDARD is designed specially for greenhouse work after a close study of what was needed. It is easily cleaned, although it has more flues than any other boiler, but—more flues give more heat; more flues require less fuel; the water heats quicker and hotter, because the volume of water heated by each flue is smaller.

All we ask is a chance to show you.

The Market.

There have been a large number of funerals lately, and the demand for flowers of all kinds has been heavy. There are not many outdoor flowers that are good, as the long dry spell ruined almost everything. Asters are almost a failure; neither gladioli nor outdoor roses are of much account. The florists have to depend mainly on indoor stock.

Various Notes.

Julius Niednagel & Sons are having good business. Their roses are coming along well and will soon be producing heavily. The carnations are all planted and looking well.

C. L. Niednagel's roses are in fine growth, especially the Beauties, which are unusually good.

The Wm. Blackman Floral Co. is cutting large quantities of roses every day and using all of them. They report a heavy trade for every day lately. Business this year is better than that of any summer they have experienced.

Mrs. M. L. Doerr, formerly of Mt. Vernon, Ind., has purchased Benjamin Kramer's store on Eighth street. She has repainted the interior and has a neat place. She says business is good, and is looking forward to a busy time as soon as fall comes. She has placed a few window boxes and two bay trees in front, and keeps ferns and other plants in the show window. She knows the business and should succeed in her new location.

Benjamin Kramer and his wife, who have been away visiting different places, have returned home.

J. C. Elspermann has had an immense lot of funeral work for several weeks, and has had to buy heavily.

Henry Seymour has all of his carnations and mums planted, and they are in good shape.

Karl Zeidler is busy getting things in shape for the fall season.

Royston & Fenton are still cutting quite heavily from some old Ivory plants, which have been kept going all summer.

Miss Nellie Goodge is not well and is unable to attend to business properly. Her stock of plants is looking well.

L. & B. Practical Practice

ADVICE is one thing. Counsel quite another For instance:

You fully make up your mind you are going to do a certain thing a certain way. Then you go over to your neighbor and ask his advice. You ask it—not because you really want advice, but—because you think he will agree with you, and it's pleasant to be agreed with. Whether he agreed or not, you wouldn't take his advice.

But when it comes to counsel—that's different. You go to a man whom you know knows more about the question in hand than you do. You consider his considerations seriously. You shape your actions accordingly.

Advice, then, would seem like sort of jollying one along.

Counsel is the good, solid, dependable opinions that are based on time-tried experience.

If you have a greenhouse problem that you want counsel on, we will be glad to hear from you.

Such counsel will be decidedly impersonal, and based entirely on a knowledge gained by a half-century's planning, designing, manufacturing, equipping and building greenhouses.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

The Market.

Conditions have changed considerably since last report, for there has been some rain to help plants and flowers. Flowers are plentiful, with the exception of sweet peas, which are not only scarce but small and short-stemmed. Gladioli are coming into the market in good condition now and they are quite plentiful. America is the favorite and brings the highest price. Garden flowers, such as gaillardias, larkspurs, centaureas and snapdragons, are still in demand. Carnations at last show the effects of the hot weather, for they are small, poor in color and sleepy-looking. The price, however, is still high. Asters are quite plentiful, and they are good in quality too. The summer flower buyers steer clear of the early fall flowers, nevertheless, for they seem to hasten the coming of autumn, which many of us would be pleased to hold back as long as possible. Roses of all kinds are good, but small. Milady is a splendid summer rose and the outdoor Taft roses are also fine.

Various Notes.

John Morse has returned from his vacation.

Len Morgan is sending in some superfine America gladioli from Agawam.

Walter Nelson has returned from Block Island, where he had spent about a week.

George A. Bailey, for many years with M. Aitken, passed away August 8, after an illness of a few weeks. He was faithful in his many duties and will be missed by all who knew him.

William Furnace has been running M. Aitken's Ford delivery auto during the absence of Walter Nelson.

Miss Ella May Mansfield has returned from Bridgeport, Conn., where she had been spending a week.

M. Aitken has an attractive summer window display. It consists of a rockery, well covered with green moss. Here and there are cibotium ferns, palms and maidenhair ferns, with an occasional clump of yellow daisies, lavender centaureas and cornflowers. Gypsophilas and tritomas add to the effectiveness of the setting and pink gladioli form the background.

Mr. Osterman, of Osterman & Steele, is away on his vacation.

Meacham & Hassell have a neat window display of pottery and plants. Carl Meacham has returned from Yonkers, N. Y.

Among recent visitors was Mr. Kurth, of Reed & Keller, New York city.

James Bruce and David Blackie, of New Haven, Conn., spent a recent Saturday and Sunday here, inspecting the parks, etc. They were royally entertained by John Donaldson. E. C. A.

Let us send you a private exhibit of our special florist's hose

Instead of seeking to take some of your precious time at the Convention or adding to the numerous samples which will doubtless be pressed upon you, we ask the privilege of sending you by mail, samples of our two brands of florist's hose.

Your careful examination will convince you that they are worth trying. Try them and you'll find they save you money and give a more satisfactory service than any other hose you have ever used.

Goodrich Hose

AKRON: Braided fabric non-kink. Lengths up to 500 feet. Good quality throughout and built in every way for the hard service in a Greenhouse.

FLORIST: Wrapped duck construction. Extra heavy cover, strong duck and superior friction. A distinctive florist's hose—in a class by itself.

Send for your private exhibit today

The Market.

Trade was unusually heavy last week, with stock more plentiful. Roses are still holding their own, in spite of the extremely hot weather, and they bid fair to keep up in good shape till the coming of the new crops, which are looking fine. A few growers are already cutting from the new stock. Funeral work has been the main business. Gladioli have been plentiful and in good demand, and large quantities have been used for funerals. Asters are scarce and such blooms as arrive are mostly small and inferior. Some of the later ones promise to be better, but up to this time they have been almost a total failure.

Carnations are coming on nicely. Most of the planting is done and in some cases a few flowers are being cut from the new stock. The new crop will certainly be welcomed when it really comes, as the public seems to be lost completely without carnations and the retailer has to explain many times a day why he has none. In many cases the customers will accept nothing else. Sweet peas are about done for; a few are to be seen, but the quality is so poor that it does not pay to handle them. Lilies have been in great demand; they are used about as fast as they come and are highly satisfactory stock to handle during this hot weather. There is a good demand for ferns.

Various Notes.

The Columbus Floral Co. is cutting a few carnations and they are in great demand. The firm is rapidly getting things in good shape again after the hail storm.

The Riverside Floral Co. is well established in its new location and will be able to take care of its patrons in a much more satisfactory manner than before, as the former quarters were too cramped.

The Fifth Avenue Floral Co. has everything in fine condition, with all the carnations benched and the mums looking extra well. The firm is cutting quite a few roses.

The Munk Floral Co. is handling some good roses, which find ready sale.

E. Metzmaier, J. R. Hellenthal, C. A. Roth and the Cottage Rose Gardens, all sufferers from the hail storm, report good progress in making repairs.

Fred Brownwell, of the Livingston Seed Co., is off on his vacation.

Sam Graff is in Chicago, on business and pleasure bent.

L. Woodrow took a few days off and took a little trip up the lakes.

Guy Woodrow is able to be at his post part of the time, but is still far from well. J. M.

Utica, N. Y.—C. F. Baker & Son have secured a permit to erect a hollow tile florists' shop at their present location, at 59 and 61 Cornelia street.

RINGMETER—The Garden Hose for FLORISTS' Use

BECAUSE:

It is made in continuous lengths of 500 feet furnished on reels—no need of thinking of wasteful short ends.

Rings of rubber appear every foot and being spaced exactly one foot apart makes it self-measuring. Just count one ring for every foot as you unwind the reel. Quick and accurate. Does away with mistakes.

The utmost care enters into the construction; only the best of materials and workmanship are used, in conjunction with the latest improved machinery.

Prices are right. RINGMETER is the Garden Hose to show you economy. Strong, durable and quality that spells long service.

Made in three sizes: ¾-inch, ⅝-inch and ½-inch.

THE WOOD that LASTS shall be FIRST with Good Nurserymen who also are Good BUSINESSMEN.

CYPRESS is the one Greenhouse wood that is too busy on the job of LASTING to do any rotting and "stinking." It is hardly worth while to say that it is "THE eternal standard of Greenhouse Wood"—as everybody knows it in the profession and outside the profession of greenhousemen. Even contractors who use a cheaper "substitute" (because it is "cheaper")—they also know there is no wood grown that will really "substitute" for CYPRESS in greenhouse construction. The word "substitute" is a synonym for "inferior." The character of CYPRESS for ENDURANCE is as old as the human race; it is no new discovery. CYPRESS was the "gopher wood" of the Bible; the mummies of ancient Egypt were encased in Cypress caskets more than 5000 years ago, and the caskets are sound today. The ancients called it the "wood eternal." It is just that.

But there's no use to talk about it, everybody KNOWS what CYPRESS is for greenhouse work. The proposition resolves itself to this; AND NOTHING ELSE:—

IF YOU WANT A "CHEAP" GREENHOUSE, ONE THAT WILL SMELL OF ROTTING WOOD AND WHOSE REPAIRS WILL EAT HOLES IN YOUR BANK ACCOUNT, HAVE IT BUILT OF A "SUBSTITUTE" FOR CYPRESS; IF YOU WANT A GOOD GREENHOUSE, ONE THAT WILL LAST AND SAVE YOU EXASPERATING REPAIR AND REPLACEMENT BILLS, HAVE NOTHING OF WOOD IN IT BUT CLEAR, HEART CYPRESS. ("Pecky" for the benches, "clear" for the balance of the job, from sills to sash.)

Make yourself free with our Cypress Pocket Library, it was printed for you. Vol. 1 treats of Cypress in general, including the report of the U. S. Govt. on the uses to which the wood is adapted. Vol. 3 is entitled "The Only Greenhouse Wood;" and Vol. 2 (almost ready) is very interesting to the profession, for it treats of "Pecky" Cypress, the kind so much used for benches and standards. They are free for the asking; get busy and ask. Vol. 4 is the Barn Book; Vol. 37 is the new Silo Book.

CINERARIA SEED

S. & W. Co.'s Giant Prize Strain

This strain of Prize Cineraria is grown for us by a famous English seed specialist. The flowers seldom measure less than 3 inches in diameter, comprising the following colors: White, rose, flesh, crimson, blue, violet, etc. The plants are of a very robust dwarf habit, which, combined with the mass of giant blooms, makes this strain exceedingly valuable.

The Convention Opened Our Fall Campaign

CONVENTION VISITORS who inspected the National line of floral textiles were impressed by the infinite variety of new creations. Although seemingly impossible to create improvements upon past seasons, the art of designer and weaver again came to the front with productions of rare originality and merit. In spite of labor disturbances which seriously interfered with silk manufacturing during the past few months, by Herculean efforts we have surmounted all obstacles and present to the Florists of America a line of textiles of which we are proud.

Among our novelties which we predict will be the season's leaders, are the following:—

WERTHEIMER Ribbon Edge Maline
This is the first time a Maline has ever been produced with ribbon edges, the result of years of experimenting.

Silverine Lattice Ribbon
Autumn Leaf Chiffon
Natural Leaf Chiffon
Tutone Lace Chiffon
Anti-Tarnish Silver Gauze Ribbon
Sunray Corsage Ribbon
Tinsel Stripe Netting
Hand Craft Gauze Ribbons and other Novelties in profusion.

Our line, as usual, sets the pace for the market.

SELLING BEAUTIES

at $1.00, $2.00, $3.00 per dozen

Will be a big advertisement for your business. Most people do not know it is possible to get Beauties for any such price. The word American Beauty makes them think ten or twenty dollars per dozen.

Push Beauties now at the above prices, and you will be surprised how you can build up your business in the dull season.

If you will notice carefully our low price list you will see you can sell them at these prices and double your money. Then too, there is practically no loss when you get them direct from a big growing establishment like this, for the entire process of handling is so different.

Cut early in the morning and immediately put in a large cooling room at a temperature of 45 degrees, and packed direct from that room to you, with but the one handling. It means a big difference in the way they keep and ship.

We have all the other kinds of Roses too, and sell them at attractive prices.

We grow 40,000 Beauties and over 50,000 other roses, being especially strong on the popular yellow roses—Sunburst, Ward, Fire Flame.

Now is the time to make a buying connection that will mean more profit the coming season.

RELIABILITY

THIS is one of the most important items for a buyer to consider. We make a specialty of the shipping trade and grow all the flowers we sell. Our stock is cut especially tight, carefully chilled and hardened and brought in from our greenhouses from two to four times per day. We have been catering over twenty years to the shipping trade and our customers know when they send us an order they will receive their goods just as ordered and in first-class condition. We have two large greenhouse plants close to the city and planted with the finest Beauties, Roses, Carnations, Lilies, Sweet Peas and Asparagus.

IMPROVE YOUR STORE

There is nothing so essential as an up-to-date display Refrigerator. It's one of the main factors in the present day merchandising of flowers. The new Buchbinder models have a mark of distinction that cannot be found in any other make. A new one will save ice bills too.

MANUFACTURERS FLORIST REFRIGERATORS

The Right Display is the Big Secret of Success in Your Business

Maybe you've never looked at this Refrigerator question in its true light. Getting the right flowers is only half the battle. Selling is your big proposition.

A McCray Refrigerator

will play a vitally important part in getting your flowers into your customers' hands and getting their money into your cash drawer. Hundreds of florists have found this out to their steadily growing profit. They've found that in addition to saving them big money, the McCray has boomed business with a rush—by keeping the flowers in the beauty and freshness of perfect condition—and by displaying them with the very limit of attractiveness.

Write for our Catalogue No. 73, which gives all the facts—lots of useful information which you should have whether you're in the market now or not.

Alexander McConnell of New York City, whose refrigerator is shown in the cut, writes us as follows:

"The refrigerator you installed in our place of business has been very satisfactory in every particular. The flowers retain their freshness and color. The refrigerator is ventilated in so satisfactory a manner that the glass is never covered with moisture; consequently the stock can be inspected without opening the doors. The box is also economical in its requirement of ice."

The Cheapest Wagon You Can Buy!

The Armleder Wagon will cost you a few dollars more when you buy it. When you figure the cost of service per year, the Armleder is the cheaper.

Here is a sample of the letters we get every day—
This wagon has been in use for thirteen years and is still good for service:

The O. Armleder Co., Cincinnati, O. Auburn, Ill., May 23, 1913.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your letter of the 20th in regard to when we are going to buy a wagon, will say that we will not buy this year, but chances are good in the spring, and you rest assured that when we buy it will be an Armleder, as we have one that we have run for 13 years, and have never had tires on the front wheels set yet.

Yours truly,

THE MINNEAPOLIS CONVENTION

TWENTY-NINTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS BREAKS ALL RECORDS.

THE NEXT MEETING WILL BE HELD AT BOSTON.

OFFICERS FOR 1914:

President, THEODORE WIRTH, of Minneapolis.
Vice-president, PATRICK WELCH, of Boston.
Secretary, JOHN YOUNG, of New York, N. Y.
Treasurer, WM. F. KASTING, of Buffalo, N. Y.

WELCOME! Society of American Florists! It took 20,000 alternantheras to spell out the words in letters four feet high across the armory lawn at Minneapolis, but there were 20,000 other Welcomes for the S. A. F. this week. The national organization has had many a cordial greeting in the years it has been making its peripatetic way back and forth across the country, but it never was more warmly received than has been the case this week. And it is one absolute, dead, moral certainty that no uninvited guest ever was more hospitably received.

The work the Minneapolis florists have done is something wonderful. Not one detail of the arrangements has been overlooked. Nothing that any larger city ever did has been omitted. And the garden that first greets the view of the visitor has created a veritable sensation. It was the work of Theodore Wirth, backed by the park facilities, and Mr. Wirth, it will be remembered, recently wrote a public letter from which it appeared that he was not at all satisfied with the results. The Review at the time said that the showing would look much better to the trade than it did to the man responsible for it, and, in fact, it is the hit of the convention. All the adjectives in a big, fat dictionary have been used in praising the brilliant show and the almost perfect grounds. It will be a rash man who will undertake to go this garden one better.

The attendance at this convention of course is not up to last year; it couldn't possibly be at a city 400 miles north of the main traveled east and west lines; but it is an attendance that will do the S. A. F. a lot of good. While some of the old faces are missing and the attendance from the extreme east is light, the florists of the great stretch of rich country between Lake Michigan and the mountains have turned out almost to a man. For the great majority of them it is their first convention. But it won't be their last. Most of them will be ready for a longer trip next year.

The trade's display naturally suffered in size from the same cause that cut down the eastern attendance, but it is a general remark that at no previous convention has there been such a generally high average grade of stock shown. There is not a great deal that is really new, but there is a great deal that is really fine.

The Opening Ceremonies.

In spite of the fact that the number of visitors is less than in recent years, the attendance at the opening session was several times as large as last year at Chicago. It shows one of the advantages of meeting in a city where there are not too many distractions.

When Wm. Desmond, president of the Minneapolis Florists' Club, called the convention to order there were on the stage all the officers of the society and all the directors but one, together with nine past presidents. No better showing than that ever was made. Mr. Desmond spoke briefly for his club and introduced Vice-president Wirth to preside. Mr. Wirth was received with great applause. He said he had dreamed of having the S. A. F. at Minneapolis some day, but had not dared to hope that the dream would come true for years. The formal address of welcome was by Mayor Wallace G. Nye, who not only paid the society the compliment of being present in person but made one of the finest talks the organization ever has listened to. He won the attention of his audience at the start by saying that this was the first convention he could remember that not only had asked nothing of the city, that not only had brought its own interests, but had brought entertainment and instruction for the public of Minneapolis.

Patrick Welch.

(Vice-president-elect of the Society of American Florists.)

Before he closed he took occasion to attest to the worth of Mr. Wirth in a way that brought hearty applause.

W. F. Gude, of Washington, D. C., was introduced to reply to the Mayor. He told several stories to illustrate the civic pride of the Minneapolis people and said that when he first heard them he considered them jokes but that now he thought they rather understated the attractive features of the city. He closed with an appreciation of the garden exhibit.

The Routine Business.

The president, when the felicitous preliminaries were concluded, set a precedent that is to be commended to all future incumbents of the office. He read the annual message slowly and distinctly, and it took him just six minutes! Some of his predecessors have talked three-quarters of an hour when they had the similar opportunity, but no more to say. The document was referred to a committee consisting of C. H. Totty, S. D. Dysinger, A. T. De La Mare, George Asmus and Philip Breitmeyer to report on the recommendations.

The routine work then was quickly disposed of. Secretary Young and Treasurer Kasting read their annual reports, which showed the society to be in flourishing condition. The vice-presidents' reports were presented and ordered printed. Mr. Gude said he had several matters he would like to get cleared up and presented reports as Washington representative, as chairman of the committee on a memorial to W. R. Smith, as chairman of the committee on a national rose garden and as chairman of the committee on tariff. He was given a rising vote of thanks for his work. The Smith memorial and rose garden committees were continued.

Supplementing his report on the tariff, Mr. Gude said that in the senate August 16 Senator Poindexter, of Washington, had held up the paragraph of the tariff bill that covers bulbs, his objection being to the clause regarding hyacinth bulbs. Quite an animated discussion ensued. The president spoke of the keen interest of Winfried Rolker, one of the members of the tariff committee, who was in Europe at the time the bill was being written. W. F. Kasting said the reason the trade has so much difficulty in getting things put through the way we want them is that florists take so little interest in politics. He recommended electing a member of the trade to congress, an Illinois man, perhaps, and suggested helping along the secretary of the Illinois State Florists' Association, J. F. Ammann, of Edwardsville. He also commended Mr. Gude for his ability to get to the right people. E. G. Hill spoke on the excellent financial condition of the society and it was on his suggestion that everybody stood up to thank Mr. Gude, the motion having been made by Mr. Ebel, seconded by Mr. Munson.

Boston Next Year.

The nomination of next meeting place being in order, the Boston delegation marshaled their forces. They evidently expected a sharp fight and had prepared their case to win over any possible opposition. To begin with, the chair read an invitation from the governor of Massachusetts. Then the secretary was handed one from the mayor of Boston, which he read. This was followed by a letter from the Chamber of Commerce. Then Eber Holmes read a letter from the Boston Gardeners' and Florists' Club. Then James B. Shea, superintendent of parks, spoke as the mayor's personal representative. W. P. Rich, secretary of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, spoke for that organization. P. Welch followed with a plea as representing the commercial interests. Naturally by that time half a dozen men were trying to wedge in a motion to make it unanimous. Finally, between Messrs. Ebel, Kasting, Hill and Bunyard the motion got to the house and it was carried enthusiastically. The battle was won. Boston next.

Report on President's Address.

The committee to which the president's address had been referred made the following report:

The suggestions regarding using the energies of the state vice-presidents to better advantage being good, the committee thought this could best be done through the organization of state florists' societies, or state federations where a number of florists' clubs already exist or are formed within a state. The committee recommended that $25 be placed at the disposal of each state vice-president to be used for exploitation and organization work, the secretary to keep an accurate record of the results secured, to be available to the president from year to year.

It was recommended, inasmuch as the conservative element always has predominated in the board of directors and its acts are only as the result of careful thought and for the general good, that the members should give full consideration to the recommendations of the directors.

The committee found that the outdoor exhibition was one of the most attractive features that ever had been seen at an S. A. F. convention and recommended that it be continued whenever possible.

Inasmuch as so large a proportion of the society's work relates in some manner to affairs at the national capital, the committee recommended that the Washington representative of the society be invited to participate in the meetings of the board of directors and that he be made the same mileage allowance as is made to directors.

The recommendations were concurred in by unanimous vote.

Nomination of Officers.

The by-laws of the society require that the place of meeting be determined on the first day, the officers nominated on the second day and the election by ballot to occur on the third day. The second stage of the proceedings developed into a veritable love feast and obviated the long and arduous task of polling the membership, for everything was unanimous. The slate nominated was as follows:

For president—Theodore Wirth, of Minneapolis, nominated by W. F. Kasting, seconded by Harry A. Bunyard and M. C. Ebel.

For vice-president—Patrick Welch, of Boston, nominated by George Asmus, seconded by James B. Shea, W. W. Coles and I. C. Bertermann.

The Water Garden of Henry A. Dreer, Philadelphia, at the Minneapolis Convention.

For secretary—John Young, of New York, to succeed himself, nominated by R. Vincent, Jr., seconded by W. W. Coles and W. H. Siebrecht.

For treasurer—W. F. Kasting, of Buffalo, to succeed himself, nominated by I. C. Bertermann, seconded by Philip Breitmeyer.

The election could not be concluded until the next day, when a unanimous ballot was cast.

Miscellaneous Business.

Secretary Young read voluminous minutes of the several meetings of the board of directors. It showed where the real work of the society is done, but the minutes were received without comment.

A report of the committee on flood relief work, Messrs. Evans, Hill and Poehlmann, was presented. The committee was discharged with a vote of thanks.

A telegram was read from Dan MacRorie, of San Francisco, representing the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society, sending greetings and renewing the invitation to meet at the Panama-Pacific exposition in 1915. The chair explained that action could not be taken at this time and the matter was laid on the table.

Wallace R. Pierson presented a report for the publicity committee, explaining that it never had been possible to do anything more than encourage local and individual effort. The committee recommended that the national committee of florists' clubs' representatives be continued and asked to prepare a plan for establishing a publicity bureau. Mr. Pierson asked that his own committee be discharged.

J. C. Bertermann said that the Telegraph Delivery Association has added forty members to the S. A. F. in the last year and made a plea for greater representation for the association in the society's management and program. Philip Breitmeyer followed with an argument why the S. A. F. should seek ways of pushing the retailers' organization, and George Asmus pointed out that the F. T. D. is the only one of the special societies that makes membership in the S. A. F. a qualification for those who wish to join the special organization; he urged this as a paramount reason why the S. A. F. should stand back of the F. T. D. and further its interests as its own. No action was taken.

National Flower Show.

Charles H. Totty, chairman of the National Flower Show committee, presented a detailed report of the New York exhibition, which had returned the guarantors ten per cent on their money and left a profit of $1,500.72 to go into the S. A. F. show fund. The report was accepted, with a rising vote of thanks to the committee.

A discussion followed, all laudatory of the work of the committee and with only minor criticisms of the show itself and of the handling of its infinite details.

On behalf of the Florists' Club of Philadelphia, Adolph Farenwald invited the S. A. F. to hold the next National Flower Show in Philadelphia in 1916. The invitation was referred to the show committee with power to act.

The Judges' Reports.

The following awards were made, for novelties:

F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y., honorable mention for Nephrolepis Elmsfordi.

The Carnation Support Co., Connersville, Ind., honorable mention for carnation support.

E. Allan Peirce, Waltham, Mass., certificate of merit for paper pots.

Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia, highly commended for Nephrolepis robusta.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, certificate of merit for tropical South American humming bird; highly commended for prepared burrs for wreaths.

Lion & Co., New York, certificate of merit for Brazilian humming bird.

M. Rice & Co., Philadelphia, highly commended for blooming bromus for decorative work; highly commended for red cattails.

Schloss Bros., New York, highly commended for flower velvet ribbon; highly commended for velvet corsage tie.

H. G. Dreyer & Son, Cleveland, highly commended for adjustable candelabra; highly commended for corner ladder.

Wertheimer Bros., New York, highly commended for silver lattice ribbon; highly commended for anti-tarnish silver gauze ribbon; highly commended for iridescent decorated ribbon.

Peters & Reed Pottery Co., South Zanesville, O., highly commended for decorative line of Moss-Aztec ware.

The Dinner Tables.

A novelty for an August convention was a competition in decorating dinner tables. A gentleman who wanted to help along the local interest offered some good cash prizes. Four retailers competed. The judges' report, presented by D. A. Robertson, of Chicago, gave first prize to the Yerxa Grocery Co., second to L. S. Donaldson Co.

Affiliation.

The session of Thursday morning was devoted to the address of Adolph Farenwald and a general discussion of the subject of affiliation. In the end the matter was referred to the board of directors, with a request for an early report.

THE PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION.

The annual reception to the president was marred to some extent by the rain that fell intermittently all day Tuesday, August 19, and which settled into a steady fall as evening approached, but as a majority of the members were domiciled at the Radisson hotel, where the function was held, the not large Gold room was well filled. In the receiving line were S. A. Jamieson, then the president, Mrs. C. H. Maynard, the vice-president, Mrs. Wirth, ex-President Vincent, Mrs. Vincent, E. G. Hill, Miss Matilda Meinhardt, J. A. Peterson and Mrs. Peterson. The affair was informal. Music and light refreshments were provided and dancing followed.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURES.

The large attendance in the big ballroom at the armory Wednesday evening, August 20, was a tribute to the work done by Theodore Wirth, for he was the speaker of the evening. His subject was "The Parks and Boulevards of Minneapolis," illustrated by a large number of handsome colored lantern slides. The pictures showed the great improvements that have been achieved since the park board undertook the present program of development, and, great as has been the progress made, the audience was led to believe that even finer things lie in the future.

For the closing session of the convention Leonard Barron, of Garden City, Long Island, is on the program for a stereopticon lecture entitled "Glimpses of American Gardens."

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

[The following is the address of President J. K. M. L. Farquhar, read before the Society of American Florists, in convention at Minneapolis, August 19 to 23, 1913.]

Never has it fallen to the lot of a president to make his convention address under such favorable conditions as exist in our society at this, our twenty-ninth annual meeting.

Since we last met, we have progressed and increased our influence to such a degree that a review of the year's proceedings might well be devoted to laudation rather than to suggestion or criticism.

We did well in deliberately deciding upon beautiful Minneapolis for our meeting this year. The wisdom of the selection is already manifest; nor did we choose Minneapolis alone, but the Twin Cities, which are one in horticultural spirit, one in effort for a successful convention and one in welcoming us to their midst. Yonder river does not divide the twins; they are linked beyond its waters.

A Busy Year.

Since our Chicago convention the society has been unusually active. The great success of the New York flower show was accomplished only by the untiring work of your officers in coöperation with those of the New York Florists' Club and other local organizations. Especially must I commend tho zeal and work of Charles H. Totty.

Meanwhile our vice-president, Theodore Wirth, has been busy with his outdoor garden exhibit in connection with this convention, a feature but once before attempted and then on a comparatively small scale.

W. F. Gude, our Washington representative, as chairman of the committee on tariff and legislation, has done much to secure satisfactory action on the classification of horticultural imports in the new tariff.

Officers.

Our by-laws wisely provide that several of our committees shall change gradually, as in the case of executive and National Flower Show committees. I am opposed to spasmodic changes, and I believe that our state vice-presidents, where they have been active in promoting the interests of the society, might well be reappointed by incoming presidents, as has been done not infrequently.

State Vice-Presidents.

A former state vice-president recently asked me, "What besides making a report of trade conditions in his state is there for a state vice-president to do?" I replied that at present the society did not seem to be making all the use it could make of its state vice-presidents. I think that the annual reports, the submission of which is in some instances neglected, are but a small part of the work these officers might do.

I am convinced that great good would result if the vice-president of each state would consider the S. A. F. members therein as constituting a society of themselves under his or her charge; and if he or she would call these members together once or twice each year, matters affecting their interests could be discussed and acted upon. Then, through the secretary and executive committee, the full support of the society could be accorded to the members of any state, when in need of its helpful influence.

Such state meetings might be held in connection with any important flower show, or other horticultural meeting in a leading town, under the direction of our state vice-president.

Headquarters in Washington.

Attention has been frequently called to our obligation, under our charter, to establish a permanent domicile in Washington.

In a few years it will be necessary for us to petition Congress for permission to hold property beyond the present limit of our charter, which is $50,000. We should at once begin to make good our delinquency in having failed up to the present time to establish our office in Washington, and, having done so, we shall be in better standing when we ask Congress to permit us to hold property up to ten or twenty times our present limit—a round million would be none too much.

Parcel Post.

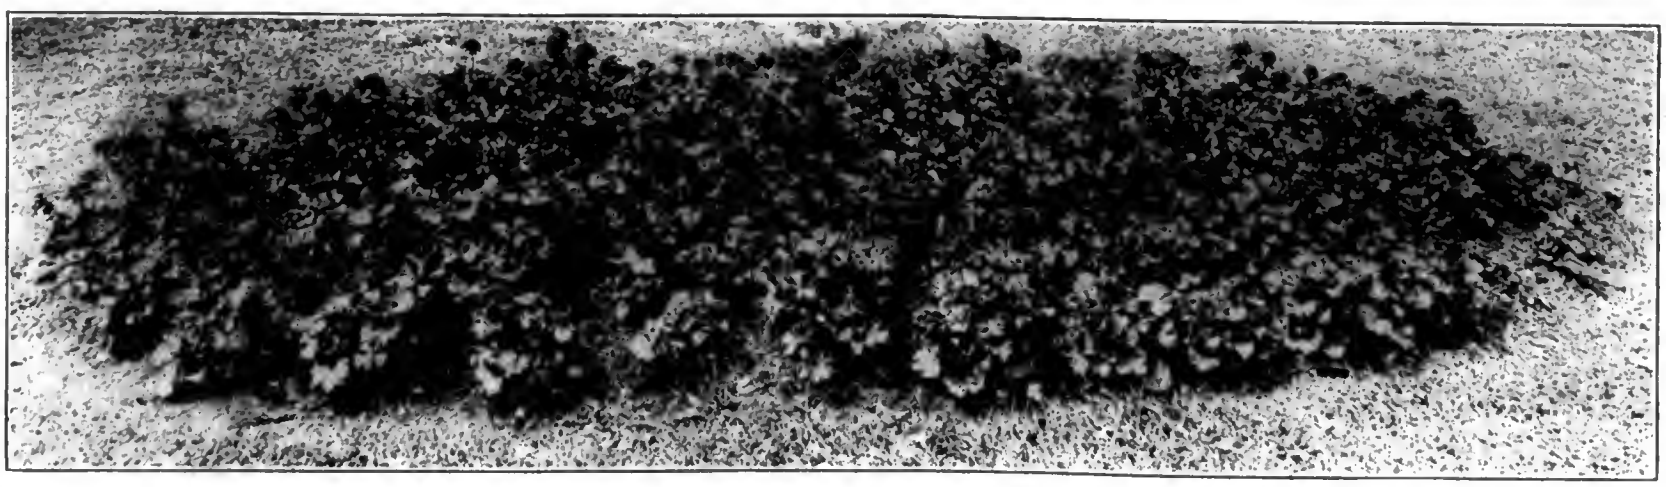
The recent raising of the parcel post limit to twenty pounds weight by the postmaster-general is a step in the right direction. It is to be hoped that soon the horticultural interests will be able to obtain a better rate than the present one of 8 cents per pound for their products.

The Executive Board.

The work of the executive board is much more arduous than many members of the society realize. The board has an intimate knowledge of the affairs of our organization, a knowledge and insight not possessed by the majority of our members. At times the recommendations of this board, which actually controls our doings for fifty-one weeks of the year, have not seemed to receive the responsive approbation and support of the society which their importance would have appeared to justify. I feel that the suggestions of this board should receive more thoughtful consideration.

Congratulation.

In conclusion, fellow members, let me say that notwithstanding the few suggestions I have made, the burden of my message to you this morning is congratulation.



Our society has grown—grown numerically—grown in financial strength—grown in influence and power as an organization helpful to its members in the trade. It has grown as a factor in promoting horticulture and the love of flowers among all classes of our people.

Your officers, your vice-president, your secretary, your treasurer, your executive committee, your National Flower Show committee and your other officers and committees, have done their work faithfully and well, and for the remarkable physical and material growth of our society, which their various reports will disclose, there is but one comment—congratulation. And for your wisdom in choosing them, as well as for having so wisely selected this city for our present convention, you, fellow members, have my heartiest congratulations.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

[The following is the report of John Young, Secretary of the S. A. F., presented at the Minneapolis convention, August 19, 1913.]

The secretary's financial report will show the affairs of the society to be in a healthy condition. Undoubtedly the vote of the Chicago convention to meet in Minneapolis was a wise one. The florists' interests are increasing rapidly in the west and northwest, and the meeting in this city will give those interested in the florists' trade an opportunity to become members, to visit the convention and to see and learn what the Society of American Florists is doing for them. The number of new members taken in at this time is gratifying. While it is to be regretted that the receipts from the trade exhibition are not as large as they were at the last convention—the receipts this year are a little less than $4,000—still the exhibition is a comprehensive one. There are over sixty firms represented and, as the expenses have been kept down wherever possible, there will be a substantial balance to turn into the treasury.

The outdoor planting exhibition, which was under the able supervision of Vice-President Theo. Wirth, speaks for itself. It is many years since anything of the kind has been attempted by our society and the results obtained are highly satisfactory, and have been the cause of much favorable comment. While this outdoor planting exhibition did not receive the support it deserved, still there are thirty-two leading firms represented. It is understood that these outdoor planting exhibitions will be continued in the cities where future conventions are held, and should be the source of some revenue to the society, in addition to their educational features.

Membership.

From January 1, 1913, to August 9, 1913, there have been added to the membership list the names of 125 annual members and 25 life members. August 9, 1913, the list of those in good standing was as follows: Pioneer members, 28; life members, 352; annual members, 923; total, 1,303. In addition to these, there are the following whose assessments are in arrears: 1911 assessment, 66; 1911-12 assessment, 129; 191 assessment, 311; total in arrears, 506 This makes a total membership of ,810; 27 of these are active lady mem bers.

So it can be seen that the membership of the society is gradually increasing. Many of those owing back dues have paid up since this report was made up, and several will pay during the convention week. Many new names have been added and I have every confidence that at the end of the year 1913 this society will have a list of 2,000 members in good standing. The trade at large, through the wide publicity given the society by the trade press and other channels, are awakening and see the benefits of joining the society, and it should be only a short time before this society will have a list of members such as the organizers hoped and looked forward to.

The following have sent in one or more names for membership since the last convention:

Florists' Tel. Del.	26	Theo. Wirth	3
P. Welch	2	C. N. Ruedlinger	5
S. S. Pennock	1	H. E. Philpott	5

THE OUTDOOR EXHIBITS

The outdoor display which is the special feature of this year's S. A. F. convention is the idea of Theodore Wirth and to him, also, must credit be given for its execution in a manner that gives a setting of color far finer than anything that most of the visitors had anticipated. Mr. Wirth himself was disappointed at the way the trade responded to the invitation to supply stock, and it is true that perhaps the greater part of the display is made by local people merely for the purpose of helping the thing along, but the fact is that the whole thing makes a showing that not only is above criticism, but which merits much praise. The park board, for which Mr. Wirth is superintendent, offered to supply the labor of planting the garden, caring for the stock, digging and returning to the owners in the fall. That sounds like enough, but in fact the park people, infected by Mr. Wirth's enthusiasm, have done far more than that; they have contributed a large part of the stock that was used. For instance, along the parking at the front of the armory are 100 varieties of cannas flowered in tubs and the tubs plunged to the rims in the sod. All are in full flower. Much stock also has been provided to fill other gaps and to Mr. Wirth and his department much credit is due. Everyone remarks the splendid condition of the grounds and stock. Under Mr. Wirth Louis Boeglin, the head gardener for the park system, has had a large force of men at work whenever labor was needed. A heavy storm Sunday night threatened disaster, but all traces of damage were removed before Monday's sun went down.

The Display From a Distance.

To Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, credit must be given for the most comprehensive display in the outdoor exhibition, and to this concern the point of vantage was given—a large aquatic garden in the center. The center of the pond is occupied by papyrus, with Acorus Japonicus variegatus to add color. The edge of the pool is covered with Lysimachia nummularia. In the open water between are nymphæas in variety. Some of them are: Marliacea rosea, Gladstoniana, Aurora, William Doogue, Helen Fowler, Gloriosa, tuberosa Richardsoni, alba candidissima, Jas. Brydon, Pygmæa, rubra punctata, odorata sulphurea, Chromatella, Lucida and Marliacea. Two large oval beds are planted with cannas, Hungaria, pink, in one, and Gustav Gumpper, yellow, in the other. Still another round bed contains Pennisetum macrocarpum atrosanguineum, purple feather grass. The whole south end of the garden is devoted to Dreer's perennials, over 100 varieties. The park employees say many of the varieties are not hardy in Minneapolis and that it is the most comprehensive collection ever seen in the northwest. It is just a little early for them to be at their best. Still another Dreer exhibit, and one that attracts an unusual amount of attention, is the Cardinal Climber, shown on trellis and arbor. The intense color of the not large flowers contrasts vividly with the deep green foliage. A memorandum of this goes into most of the notebooks.

The Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., is represented by three extremely fine beds of cannas. The forward bed has Wyoming in the center, with Meteor outside, edged with Minnehaha. The beds at the sides are planted with mixed varieties, the one at the right containing Conowingo, Jennie Walls Fahnline, Kate F. Deemer, Mrs. A. F. Conard, Niagara, Wabash, West Grove, Rosea Gigantea, Juanita and Betsy Ross. The bed on the left has Olympic, Beacon, Gladioflora, Mont Blanc Improved, Wawa, Jupiter, Gladiator, California, Venus, Loveliness and Panama. Meteor and Mrs. Conard attract special attention.

Two splendid beds represented Arthur T. Boddington, New York. The long, deep border of Gladiolus America would be difficult to beat, the plants being in full bloom, right in their prime, with the maximum number of flowers open. The other exhibit was a big round bed of Canna King Humbert.

The H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, sent stock for two large oval beds, one of which attracted especial attention for the reason that it contained nothing but the new dwarf red geranium, Helen Michell, which is to be distributed in the trade next season. It was a mass of color, the blooms having stood the recent showers well. The other Michell bed was planted with King Humbert canna.

Winterson's Seed Store, Chicago, was represented by a bed of King Humbert canna that is entitled to special mention because it was located a little to one side, in front of the armory but beyond the entrance, where some of the visitors may have missed it.

From Floral Park, N. Y., John Lewis Childs sent stock for a big round bed of Canna Wyoming, but his special exhibit was of gladioli, planted each variety in a row across a long border. The varieties included: America, N. D. Childs, Panama, Fire King, Safrano, Alaska, Contrast, Burnham, Aline, Bucher, Primulinus hybrid, Dawnray, Rosy Spray, Portland, Niagara, Silver Sheen, Blanche, Wild Rose, Sulphur King, Nezinscott, Attraction, Melrose and Scribe.

From Wooster, O., F. H. De Witt & Co., a new exhibitor at S. A. F. conventions, sent stock for a long bed, one end of which was filled with Ruby red geraniums and the other with two varieties of pelargonium, Easter Greeting and Wurtembergia.

As representing R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., White Marsh, Md., was a bed of the comparatively new red geranium, Scarlet Bedder.

From Wm. Tricker, Arlington, N. J., stock of two novelties had been received, used in a round bed, the center of which was Lythrum roseum, Perry's variety, bordered with Vinca minor aurea, the hardy golden myrtle.

Arthur Cowee, Berlin, N. Y., shared with another gladiolus exhibitor one of the largest beds on the grounds, filling his end with the new white variety, Peace, which towered strikingly above its neighbors, Augusta and Chicago White.

Thomas Meehan & Sons, Dresher, Pa., show evergreens in larger sizes than any of the other exhibitors. The list includes juniperus, picea, thuya, abies and tsuga, a total of forty-four varieties.

W. F. Kasting Co., Buffalo, and the Erie Floral Co., Erie, Pa., had two large and striking beds of Canna Mrs. W. F. Kasting, red, one bordered with the lower growing Alphonse Bouvier and the other with the red pennisetum.

The La Crosse Floral Co., La Crosse, Wis., had two handsome beds, one of King Humbert cannas, the rich color set off by adjoining plantings of the park board's asters, and a bed of Scarlet Bedder geranium, red, bordered with Mme. Buchner, white.

W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., has a bed containing Papaver altiacum, Festuca glauca, Begonia Christmas Red, Arenantherum bulbosum, aucubas, golden privet, boxwood in various shapes, retinosporas, juniperus, abies and acers in variety.

A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, were represented by a bed of variegated double petunias that were a mass of bloom, and which therefore suffered somewhat in the heavy storm that drenched the garden Sunday night, but they recovered nicely.

Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, was represented by four well located beds. A long border was planted with gladioli, labeled Miss Frances King, America, Kunderdi hybrid, Chicago and Augusta. In front of this were three excellent large beds of cannas. The varieties Julius Koch and Prince Wied were in beds by themselves, but the bed of David Harum was bordered with The Express.

The largest outdoor display in point of ground covered is that of Farquhar & Co., Boston. One wide border extends along the entire west side, filled with perennials with some of the park board's asters, some dahlias and edged with Viola cornuta atropurpurea. In front of this is a bed the entire width of the garden filled with mixed gladioli. In front of this are two oval beds of cannas, Souvenir de Mme. Hardy in one and Beauty Poitevine, according to the label, on the other.

The Local Exhibits.

While the local exhibits were, perhaps, largely called in to save the garden from presenting a half-filled appearance, still they must not be considered any the less interesting from that fact. There were no great number of novelties among the garden exhibits of the outside florists and the local people stood well on the comparison of stock. Not only was it a credit to them, but it must be a splendid advertisement and one that will bring them many dollars in the course of time. Every plant was carefully labeled and the public was admitted to the garden, not only this week but all summer.

The park board contributed an immense quantity of stock. In addition to the 100 tubs of cannas on the street front, there was a splendid bed of geraniums, including many hundreds of plants of La Favorite, Jean Oberle, Col. Thomas, Dagata, Mrs. E. G. Hill, Anatole Roseleur, Scarlet Bedder and Berthe de Presilly. There also was a big collection of evergreens and a dozen or more smaller beds, placed where they would do the most good.

Aside from the park board C. N. Ruedlinger, Minneapolis, is the largest exhibitor among the local people who have space in the garden. One of his exhibits is a long bed containing thirty varieties of hybrid perpetual and hybrid tea roses that are making a considerable show considering the date. He also occupies a long border at the east side of the grounds with a collection of such shrubs and perennials as have been found best adapted for landscape work in Minneapolis.

Holm & Olson, St. Paul, have a large display of nursery stock occupying the greater part of the north side of the garden. There are a number of evergreens, but the bulk of the display is of such deciduous shrubs as have been found hardy in Minnesota.

John Hawkins, of the Rose Hill Nurseries, Minneapolis, has one bed devoted entirely to evergreens, principally juniperus, picea, pinus and thuya, and also has a border of deciduous stock with a few evergreens worked in among the shrubs.

L. L. May & Co., Mayfield Nurseries, St. Paul, have a large display of evergreens, including many varieties of abies, pinus, picea, thuya and juniperus.

G. Malmquist, Minneapolis, is the exhibitor of Petunia Rosamond, a bed of which makes an attractive showing.

L. S. Donaldson Co., Minneapolis, has two long parallel beds of the stock ordinarily used for lawns, vases and boxes and has the firm name in letters three feet high, worked out in two colors of alternanthera.

Merriam Park Floral Co., Minneapolis, has two beds of red geraniums, one of Enerich and the other Alphonse Ricard.

Northrup, King & Co., Minneapolis, have a long bed of the standard varieties of gladioli, in which the park people have planted asters to heighten the color effect.

Miss H. B. Whitted, Minneapolis, is represented by some excellent lawn vases and by a long bed of begonias, petunias, etc., in which the name of the exhibitor is spelled out in alternanthera carpet bedding.

Will Bros., Minneapolis, have an attractive bed of petunias and lilies.

Nagel's Greenhouses, Minneapolis, are represented by a bed of the pink geranium, Gloire de France.

BOWLING.

Twenty-eight ladies participated in the bowling contest Thursday morning, August 21. The winners and scores were: Mrs. McKellar, Chicago, 309; Mrs. Desmond, Minneapolis, 234; Mrs. Traendly, New York, 223; Mrs. Pollworth, Milwaukee, 200; Mrs. Manda, South Orange, 198; Mrs. Rasmussen, New Albany, 187; Mrs. Asmus, Chicago, 185; Mrs. Quick, Baltimore, 182; Mrs. Smith, Cleveland, 181; Mrs. Gude, Washington, 169.

The men's individuals were run off in the afternoon. The inter-city team tournament followed late in the day.

THE TRADE'S DISPLAY

Not a Record for Size.

The indoor display is excellent. It was found possible to keep it all in the main floor of the armory, without using the annex, and the show always gives best satisfaction, both to exhibitors and visitors, when it is all in one room. While this show is far from a record-breaker for size, it is well arranged and appears to offer a complete line of stock for the inspection of the buyers. The sale of indoor space has given just half the income that was obtained at Chicago last year, but the expenses also are cut in half, so the result to the society is about the same. The exhibitors, with a brief note on the specialties of each, are as follows:

Advance Co., Richmond, Ind.

Four ventilating machines were included in the small space of this exhibit, two of the Big Advance, one machine for operating side sash and a Little Wonder, shown on a rafter bracket, for top sash. There also was a large line of greenhouse fittings. J. E. Jones was in charge, assisted by his son, R. E. Jones.

American Importing Co., Chicago.

Gold letters and script words were the special feature of this exhibit, but a line of imported artificial flowers was so natural as to command attention. Japanese baskets, cycas leaves, prepared adiantum and ruscus in several colors also were shown. F. Gerome, president of the company, was in charge.

Aphine Mfg. Co., Madison, N. J.

The full line of fungicides and insecticides made by this company were shown, including Alpine, Sealine, Fungine, Vermine and Nikotiana. M. C. Ebel was in charge.

A. A. Arnold, Chicago.

This line of cut flower boxes consists of fifty-six different sizes, made up in eight colors. A new thing was a box for baskets of cut flowers or plants. A new line has Easter lilies, orchids, roses, etc., printed on the covers in natural colors. Another novelty is a holly decorated Christmas box. S. Freund was in charge.

C. D. Ball, Holmesburg, Pa.

The exhibit consisted only of kentias, arecas and Phœnix Roebelenii, the two former being mostly made-up plants, as it has been found that the better class of trade, using these for decorations, prefers the made-up stock to the single specimens of equal height. C. D. Ball, Jr., was in charge.

H. F. Baker, Minneapolis.

For C. Keur & Sons, Hillegom, Holland, this exhibitor staged forty-four baskets of Dutch bulbs, principally hyacinths and tulips.

L. Ball, Wyomissing, Pa.

Lemuel Ball specialized growing only a few varieties of plants and the estate is continuing along the same lines, so that this exhibit contained only three things, kentias, pandanus and cocos, though these were in several sizes. J. W. Wade was in charge.

W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago.

This was a comprehensive display and included almost everything a florist would be likely to want: seed cabinets, bouquet green, Christmas trees, insecticides, raffia, pots, plant stakes, hose, Brink's sprayer, a full line of fall bulbs, Harrisii, freesias, cold storage giganteums and Chinese sacred lilies, the only ones in the hall. Arnold Ringier had as his assistant W. M. Reid.

Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia.

This was a large display of a general line of florists' supplies. Among the new things were imported humming birds. A line of poinsettia and holly decorated baskets was a novelty. Two-toned crepe paper was shown with both edges curled. Twenty-five different styles of wreaths of prepared foliage were shown. To take the place of immortelles, wreaths, stars, balls and crosses of frieze were offered. Steel gray was a new color in Porto Rican mats. Inexpensive reed baskets were made over glass vases. A new color in basket finish was a green bronze, used on any reed or willow basket. The royal vase holder for a 10-inch vase for window decoration was an invention of Sidney Bayersdorfer, who was in charge of the exhibit, assisted by I. M. Bayersdorfer, Martin Reukauf and S. D. Green.

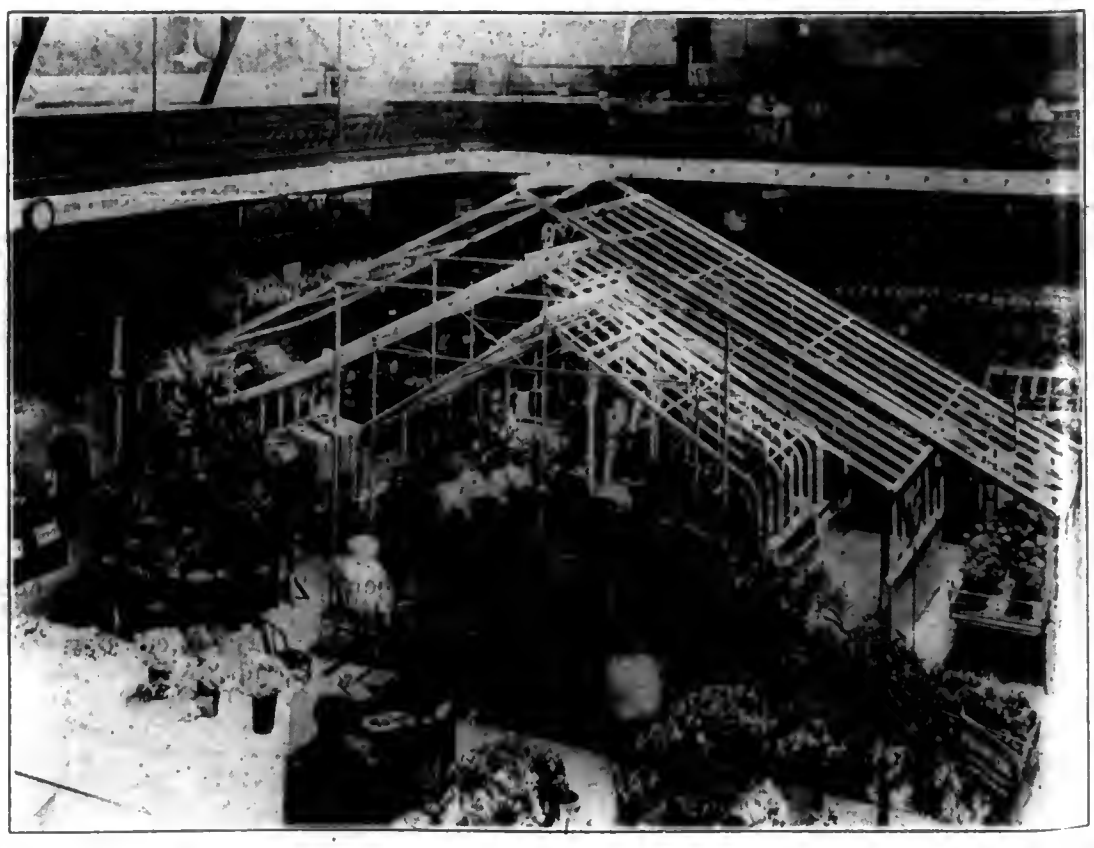
Bidwell & Fobes, Kinsman, O.

This concern took over the gladiolus business, as well as the property of the late Frank Banning. The exhibit consisted principally of Panama, Niagara and America, although King, Gertrude, Augusta and Princeps were shown in the collection of cut spikes. L. G. Bidwell was in charge.

Carnation Support Co., Connersville, Ind.

The exhibit consisted of a section of greenhouse bench with wiring to support roses and carnations: the self-tying rose stake and the continuous self-tying carnation support. Adam Heim, the inventor, was in charge.

John Lewis Childs, Floral Park, N. Y.



When cut spikes of gladioli travel from Long Island to Minneapolis in condition to exhibit, it certainly proves the flower to be a shipper.. The varieties shown were Safrano, Alaska, Contrast, Panama, Niagara, Negerfurst, American, Aline, Norman D. Childs, Taconic, King, Sulphur King, Princeps and I. S. Hendrickson. A few spikes of Badenia, a German variety, showed it to be possibly the best lavender to date. The display was in charge of I. S. Hendrickson.

Coldwell Lawn Mower Co., Newburg, N. Y.

The exhibit consisted of lawn mowers propelled by power furnished by man, mule or motor. G. A. Metcalfe was in charge.

Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

The department of plant pathology sent Roy C. Faulwetter with an exhibit to show the nature of the commoner diseases of florists' plants and the methods of control. There was a large screen carrying glass covered mounts of diseased specimens, also a table of fungicides, etc. Methods of soil sterilization were illustrated.

The Lord & Burnham Exhibit at the Minneapolis Convention.

A General View of the Southwest Section of the Trade's Display at Minneapolis This Week.

Arthur Cowee, Berlin, N. Y.

There were fifty named varieties of cut gladioli in this exhibit, besides a number of seedlings, several of which are in course of preparation for the market. Among the new ones were Silver Star, pinkish white; Peach Blossom, the color that the name implies; Dominion, vivid scarlet; Excelsa, salmon pink; London, lavender pink, and Lavendula, lavender. Of course Peace and War were prominent. Mr. Cowee had as his assistants, as usual, Misses Aleda and Bessie Chandler.

Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia.

This exhibitor showed a sign stating that the display of crotons was taken from a stock of 85,000 plants in over 400 varieties. Forty varieties were shown, from tiny plants up to specimens four feet high and three feet in diameter. The place of honor was given to Norwood Beauty, which can be described as a red Craigii. A seedling named on the spot was Mrs. C. G. Goodrich, so called for the wife of the Minneapolis traction magnate. Another new one is a sport from Lonsdale. Mrs. H. B. May also is new. Other scarce varieties included were Mrs. J. W. Pepper, Superbum, Rubraellum, Brilliantissimum, Chantelerii major and Fascination. About all the progeny of the Boston fern were shown, including Teddy, Jr., and Robusta, the latter to be disseminated this season. In dracænas fifteen varieties were staged, and it was said that the Massangeanas shown in 4-inch pots, standing fifteen inches high, all now are home propagated. Ficus Craigii was labeled as an improved elastica. Of course Ficus pandurata was included. There were arecas, kentias, Asplenium nidus avis, variegated pineapple and many other decorated plants. The flowering section was represented by cyclamens and Begonia Gloire de Chatelaine. W. P. Craig and Duncan Macaw were in charge.

Detroit Flower Pot Co., Detroit.

The exhibit consisted of the generally used sizes of red pots, including the round bottom style; also bulb pans and azalea pots. Harry Balsley was in charge, as usual.

Henry A. Dreer, Philadelphia.

Twenty-five varieties of crotons in from 4-inch to 8-inch pots were included in this display. The kentias were in from 6-inch pots to 14-inch tubs, the arecas in from 6-inch to 10-inch, the Phœnix Roebelenii in from 4-inch to 10-inch and the Cocos Weddelliana from 2½-inch to 8-inch pots. Cibotium Schiedei was shown in one size only, 8-inch. The groups also included araucarias, aspidistras, pandanus, ficus, bird's-nest ferns, livistonas and a general line of decorative plants. Of course the Peerless glazing point. J. J. Karins, J. J. Goudy and J. E. Ruppert were in charge.

H. G. Dreyer & Son, Cleveland.

The line of Perfection decorative plant stands and attachments, first shown at Chicago last year, this season has been added to by the invention of a folding screen to be covered with smilax, oak sprays or cut flowers for use as a background. Another new article is the so-called Perfection Tuscan column, so made that the top can be changed for various uses. R. H. Dreyer was in charge.

Farquhar & Co., Boston.

This exhibit consisted of a table of Dutch bulbs, mostly the larger sizes, in charge of Frank Murray.

Willis E. Fryer, Mantorville, Minn.

This exhibit consisted of a large display of cut spikes of gladioli, pictures of peony fields, etc., but was not in place until after the closing of this report.

Joseph Heacock Co., Wyncote, Pa.

The display included cibotiums, arecas, phœnix and cocos, but the principal feature was large kentias. Most of the plants were from eight to ten feet tall. The stock was finely finished and of a character to uphold the reputation of Philadelphia as a plant growing section. James Heacock and Theo. Schoeber were in charge.

A. Henderson & Co., Chicago.

A line of fall bulbs was shown, also ferns for dishes both in flats and pots, and the Teddy, Jr., type of nephrolepis in 6-inch pots. A Miller and Guy Reburn were in charge.

Holton & Hunkel Co., Milwaukee.

There were seven varieties of crotons in this exhibit, also kentias, ficus, aucubas, aspidistras, pandanus, Boston ferns, Asparagus plumosus, Sprengeri, dracœnas, araucarias, cocos and rubbers. The only flowering plant was Begonia Gloire de Cincinnati. The stock was all of the commercial sizes that are sold in largest quantity. G. W. Holton was in charge.

Hitchings & Co., New York.

The exhibit consisted of twenty-four splendid framed photographs of private and commercial ranges the company has erected in various parts of the country, together with business literature. John N. McArthur, heating engineer of the concern, was in charge.

Hummel & Downing Co., Milwaukee.

Florists' boxes are a difficult line to stage attractively, but this exhibitor showed a great variety of folding cut flower and design boxes in a large variety of colors and sizes in a way to make a most pleasing booth. Flower decorations in colors were a feature of the line. The exhibit included corsage boxes, also corrugated fiber board shipping boxes. J. D. Christiansen was in charge.

Ionia Pottery Co., Ionia, Mich.

The exhibit consisted of a line of red pots in all sizes from 1-inch to 16-inch, lawn vases, porch pots and wire hanging baskets. H. E. Kidder and George Dysinger were in charge.

Jackson & Perkons Co., Newark, N. Y.

Two novelties were included in this exhibit, American pot-grown lilacs for forcing and American grown Deutzia gracilis. Hydrangea Otaksa was shown in tree form and field grown roses were shown in variety. C. G. Perkins was in charge.

Knight & Struck Co., New York.

Ten varieties of ericas were shown in this exhibit, but only two could be had in bloom at this date, Erica gracilis and and E. gracilis nivalis, white. A comparatively new thing, of which there is little stock, is Chionia exifera, with small bright pink flowers. Geo. F. Struck was in charge.

H. W. Koerner, Milwaukee.

Thirty varieties of cut gladioli were shown, all seedlings of the originator's own raising. A feature was made of American Wonder, described as a lavender America; also of Twilight Chief, light salmon pink. These two Mr. Koerner thinks are the best work he has done at raising new varieties.

Lord & Burnham Co., New York.

The Chicago office and Des Plaines factory of this concern had the only boiler in the exhibition this year, a Burnham sectional. Three greenhouse sections were erected, one within the other. The exhibit was spanned by a section of a 40-foot iron frame house that embodied a new ice-clearing side sash. Inside this big house was a section of a 28-foot pipe frame house, and within this a section of a curved eve iron frame house. A large number of the special parts employed in the company's various styles of construction were included. Both the self-oiling and the rack and pinion ventilating machines were shown. Pipe frame benches in the houses were filled with blooming plants. Many photographs were shown. George Sykes was in charge.

Lion & Co., New York.

In addition to the staple lines as included in the salesmen's samples, this booth featured Brazilian humming birds. The ribbon novelties shown included bullion glace corsage ribbon, bullion gauze netting, fast edge hold-up chiffon, fast edge colored chiffon, all-over silk waterproof lace and the colonial velvet corsage shield. M. Alexander and M. Le Vine were in charge.

W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.

In this exhibit was Nephrolepis tuberosa plumosa, resembling the exaltata type but raised from the Japanese species, said to possess great hardiness. Of course Polypodium Mandaianum was a conspicuous feature. Begonia Christmas Red was in bloom. Anthericum Mandaianum, Asparagus elongatus and a large variety of fancy foliage plants were shown, also ferns, dracænas, palms and cattleyas. Robert Karlstrom was in charge.

L. L. May & Co., St. Paul.

This exhibit consisted of twenty-eight named varieties of gladioli, cut spikes of popular commercial sorts. G. A. Colberg was in charge.

McNeff-Swenson Co., Chicago.

Hilmer V. Swenson was in charge of this exhibit, which consisted of advertising literature for florists.

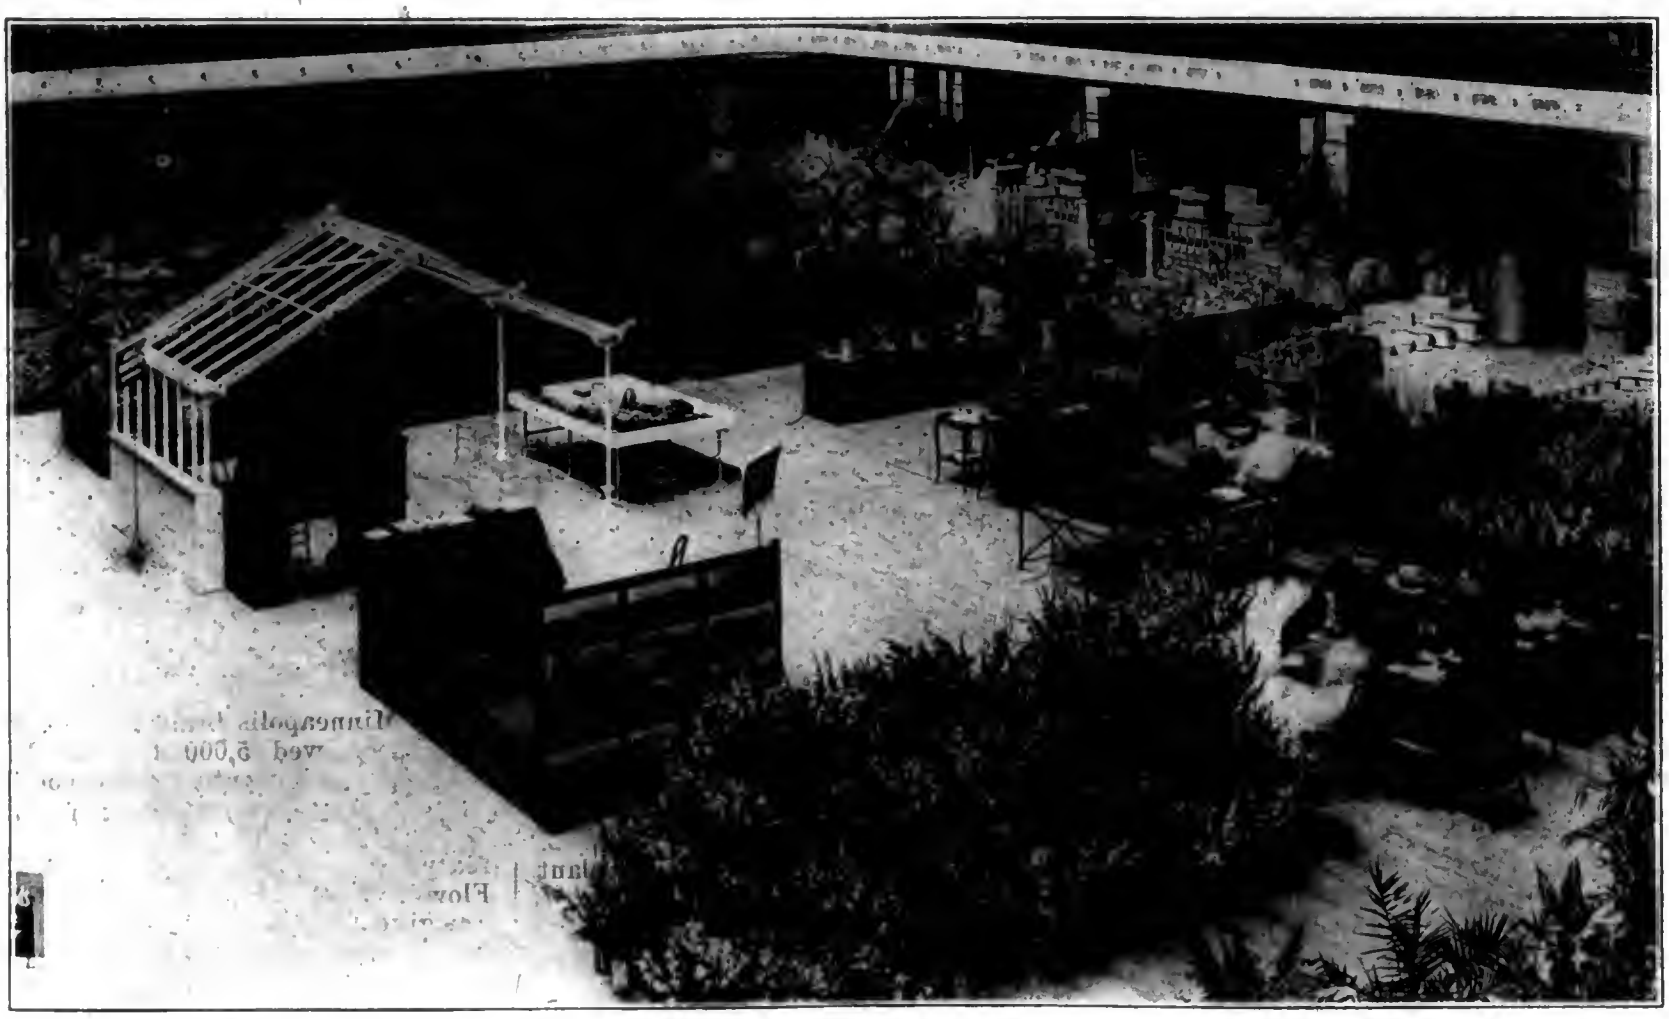
H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia.

The indoor display this year consisted entirely of bulbs, the line including French and Dutch hyacinths and narcissi, candidum lilies, tulips, Harrisii, freesias, gladioli and cold storage giganteums. I. Rosnosky was in charge.

Minnesota Glazing Co., Minneapolis.

The full name of this exhibitor is the Minnesota Weatherproof Calking & Glazing Co. The exhibit consisted of liquid glazing putty for greenhouses and hotbeds.

John C. Moninger Co., Chicago.



A section of a steel frame greenhouse was set up, showing the various features of this type of construction, also an iron-frame bench on which were displayed details of all the other types of houses, with samples of paint, putty, etc. E. F. Kurowski and P. L. McKee were in charge. A Moninger-Furman sectional cast-iron boiler was added to the exhibit on the second day.

E. Allan Peirce, Waltham, Mass.

This was a new waterproof paper pot conforming to the inside measurements of the standard adopted by the S. A. F. in 1890, made of a special long fibered paper manufactured especially for this purpose and used by the exhibitor in his own business for some time before he decided to put it on the market. Mr. Peirce was on the ground in person.

Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia.

The special feature of this display was new ribbons to match the Mrs. Russell, Fire Flame and Taft roses. An autumn foliage effect was shown in ten different combinations of color. There was a general line of ribbons, chiffons, corsage ties and pins. How the demands of the trade have influenced ribbons is shown by the fact that a popular silk ribbon that originally was made in half a dozen colors now is offered in twenty-seven colors in the No. 150 width. E. J. Fancourt was in charge.

A General View of the Northeast Section of the Trade's Display at Minneapolis This Week.

A General View of the Northwest Section of the Trade's Display at Minneapolis This Week.

Perkins, King & Co., West Mentor, O.

There were three varieties of gladioli, cut spikes, in this exhibit, America, Niagara and Panama, the stock having been secured when the estate of the late Frank Banning was disposed of. L. A. Perkins and H. C. King were in charge.

Peters & Reed, Senior, Zanesville, O.

The special feature of this display of pottery was a new line called Moss-Aztec ware, from its color and design. Red pots for florists were shown in all sizes from 1-inch to 16-inch, also a similar line in Italian and Egyptian designs. W. B. Ruggles was in charge.

J. A. Peterson & Sons, Cincinnati.

The plants in this exhibit all were of specimen size. Only a few plants of each variety were shown, but each was finely finished and the group was a large one. Dracæna Victoria was the striking features, with Pandanus Veitchii, Boston ferns, Adiantum Farleyense and Asplenium Nidus-Avis all claiming their share of attention. Mr. Peterson was on the ground in person.

F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y.

The plant section, except for a few crotons, was made up exclusively of the nephrolepis family, including Elegantissima compacta, Elegantissima improved, Harrisii, Magnifica, Superbissima, Muscosa, the dwarf Boston and an unnamed seedling, an upright grower that is expected to dispel the idea that the crested ferns are not hardy. The bulb display included tulips, hyacinths, Harrisii, Formosa and freesias. J. R. Fotheringham and Theo. Trevillian were in charge.

Pink Wonder Color Co., Chicago.

J. B. Deamud, under the above name, is exploiting a coloring material in powder form to be used in turning white flowers pink. W. L. Sullivan was in charge.

Poehlmann Bros. Co., Morton Grove, Ill.

Some heavy kentias were included in this display, and sizes ranging from 4-inch up to made-up plants in 12-inch tubs. Other decorative plants shown included ficus Asplenium Nidus-Avis, Phœnix Roebelenii, aspidistras, pandanus, araucarias in three varieties, Boston and Whitmani ferns and ferns for dishes. The blooming stock included Lorraine, Cincinnati and Gloire de Chatelaine begonias and cyclamen. Christmas peppers represented the group of berried plants. The stock was mostly of the size and character most salable at this season. C. G. Anderson was in charge.

C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee.

Three departments of this concern were represented. The plant end of the concern showed cyclamens, table ferns, Bostons, palms in all the commercial varieties and sizes, araucarias, aspidistras, etc. The supply department showed a large line of samples, from ribbons and chiffons to pots and plant tubs, including prepared foliage, thread, chenille, boxes, sprayers, knives, insecticides, etc. The bulb department had lilies in several varieties and a line of hyacinths, tulips, narcissi, etc. C. C. Pollworth was in charge, assisted by P. W. Weil.

Quaker City Machine Co., Richmond, Ind.

This exhibit consisted of several styles of the Challenge ventilating machine, for roof and side sash, and a large line of greenhouse fittings, all nicely gilded. J. A. Evans was in charge.

Raedlein Basket Co., Chicago.

There were 200 baskets in this exhibit, no two alike, and one of them, a metal-lined antique finish Beauty or chrysanthemum vase, stood five feet high. Practically every finish known to the basket-makers' art was shown. The baskets are nearly all made in the company's factories in Germany, imported in the natural state to save duty and stained in the factory at Chicago. Curt Kindler was in charge, assisted by Theo. R. Schlessinger.

A. L. Randall Co., Chicago.

No merchandise was shown, the space being fitted up with desks and chairs for the reception and comfort of guests. F. M. Johnson was in charge, assisted by four of the company's salesmen. A bale of sphagnum moss kept a salesman busy and some kumquat trees loaded with green fruit attracted much attention.

Revere Rubber Co., Boston.

The Minneapolis branch house of this concern showed 5,000 feet of Revere hose and in the center of the booth had the same monster reel with the miniature garden in the interior that was a feature of the exhibit at the National Flower Show in New York. A pennant was given as a souvenir. C. A. Bornarth was in charge.

M. Rice Co., Philadelphia.

A new article in this display was a galvanized iron vase in green enamel and shaped like the fiber vases, with curved tops. The ribbon section included a new gold and violet combination in corsage widths. Among the novelties were prepared bromus grass, with artificial flowers in five colors and cattails prepared in the solid Christmas red. The ruscus and ilex wreaths showed an advance in quality over previous seasons. A large variety of new shapes and colors in baskets were shown, including a table centerpiece intended to hold plants or flowers in the back, with a tall vase for cut flowers rising from the center. Straw hats in several flower colors were offered for use in table decorations and for pot covers for the Christmas and Easter plants. Rolled top crepe paper was shown in two-tone color combinations. A puzzle was given as a souvenir. F. J. Farney and Robert Shoch were in charge.

Schloss Bros., New York.

The usual line of ribbons, chiffons, corsage ties and bouquet holders was shown, but special emphasis was placed on a set of novelties. These included a bouquet holder with velvet ribbon shower attached; a Dresden velvet ribbon in the bolt and also made up in corsage ties; a gauze and velvet combination corsage tie; a faille ribbon with horsehair edges; silver and gold chiffons in new designs; new patterns in lace-edged chiffon, and new colors in glace satin and taffeta ribbons. Emil Schloss was in charge, assisted by John Bubach.

Sefton Mfg. Co., Chicago.

This display consisted of a large line of cut flower and design boxes. Since last year's convention a line of clay coated boxes has been added. A novelty was a corrugated fiber board plant box so constructed that it holds the plant safely even if the box is turned upside down. This concern was a pioneer in the manufacture of fiber board boxes for florists and the so-called Ferres box for shipping with ice was shown half full of water to prove its imperviousness. J. P. Brunt and C. C. Brockmeyer were in charge.

S. S. Skidelsky & Co., Philadelphia.

This exhibit consisted of about ten pot-grown plants of the new pink carnation, Philadelphia, in various stages of growth, showing the character of the variety in excellent shape. In charge of S. S. Skidelsky, Robert Rahaley and Fred Breitmeyer.

E. E. Stewart, Brooklyn, Mich.

In this display of cut spikes of gladioli were eighty varieties, about one-half of them the standard commercial sorts and half seedlings of the exhibitor's own raising. Of these one was christened Minneapolis, in honor of the convention. It is pink variegated. Michigan, cherry red, has been seen before. Mr. Stewart features Fairy Queen, or Mrs. James Lancashire, salmon pink, which he thinks will become the leader in its color.

Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O.

The exhibit included field-grown roses in variety and a general line of greenhouse stock in the commercial sizes and for growing on, such as ardisias, dish ferns, araucarias, the Boston fern and its sports, Pandanus Veitchii, adiantums and palms in variety. S. R. Welch was in charge.

Taylor Specialty Co., Battle Creek.

An electrical device for accelerating the flow of water in greenhouse heating pipes was shown. It is called the Taylar syphon heat circulator and a patent has been applied for. A. H. Beach was in charge.

G. E. Travis Co., Henry, Ill.

The exhibit consisted of the Travis rocker grate for greenhouse boilers. C. D. Marshall was in charge.

Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago.

The plant exhibit included palms, crotons, ferns, rubbers and the new dwarf rose, Erna Terschendorf. In the supply section there was the Binks sprayer, Scollay's sprinkler and Electric hose. The bulb display included a full line of French and Dutch stock, Harrisii, freesias and cold storage giganteums. A table of gladioli included Europa and Chicago White, the former the best white to date. H. Cheeseman, Ed. Goldstein and Robert Newcomb were in charge.

James Vick's Sons, Rochester, N. Y.

This exhibitor is known in the trade as probably the largest grower of aster seeds in America and the originator of some of the most widely grown varieties. The exhibit consisted of several vases each of sixteen varieties, most of them originated on the Rochester seed farm. C. H. Vick was in charge.

R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., White Marsh, Md.

The exhibit consisted of an electric projecting machine showing colored pictures of geraniums, about 100 different slides. In charge of Richard A. Vincent.

Wertheimer Bros., New York.

This exhibit was confined almost exclusively to novelties this time, the general line being shown only by salesmen's samples. The newer articles included silverine lattice ribbon, autumn leaf chiffon, natural leaf chiffon, Tutone lace chiffon, antitarnish silver gauze ribbon, Sunray corsage ribbon, tinsel stripe netting and hand-craft gauze netting. The new idea bouquet holder is a lace holder without the handle. A new corsage pin had a flower inside the glass head. The certificates won at previous conventions were on display, framed. A pocket pencil was the 1913 souvenir. S. B. Wertheimer was assisted by Sam Seligman and Rupert Hall.

Wilcox & Sons, Council Bluffs.

No exhibit, in the ordinary sense, was made, but a booth was furnished and decorated with palms and ferns for the reception of friends. Roy Wilcox was in charge, assisted by his brothers.

Wright Alarm Co., Los Angeles, Cal.

T. H. Wright, Los Angeles, lost $3,000 one night because his greenhouse employees were playing cards instead of making their usual rounds. So he proceeded to invent an apparatus that would ring a bell if a watchman was late on his rounds, giving notice before the damage was done instead of after. This was the device shown in several styles in this exhibit. It is not a temperature alarm, but a guard against the night crew failing in their duty.

O. F. Zurn Co., Philadelphia.

This exhibit consisted of a shading preparation called Shaderine, with demonstrations of its effectiveness. W. K. H. Henszey was in charge.

REPORT OF TARIFF COMMITTEE.

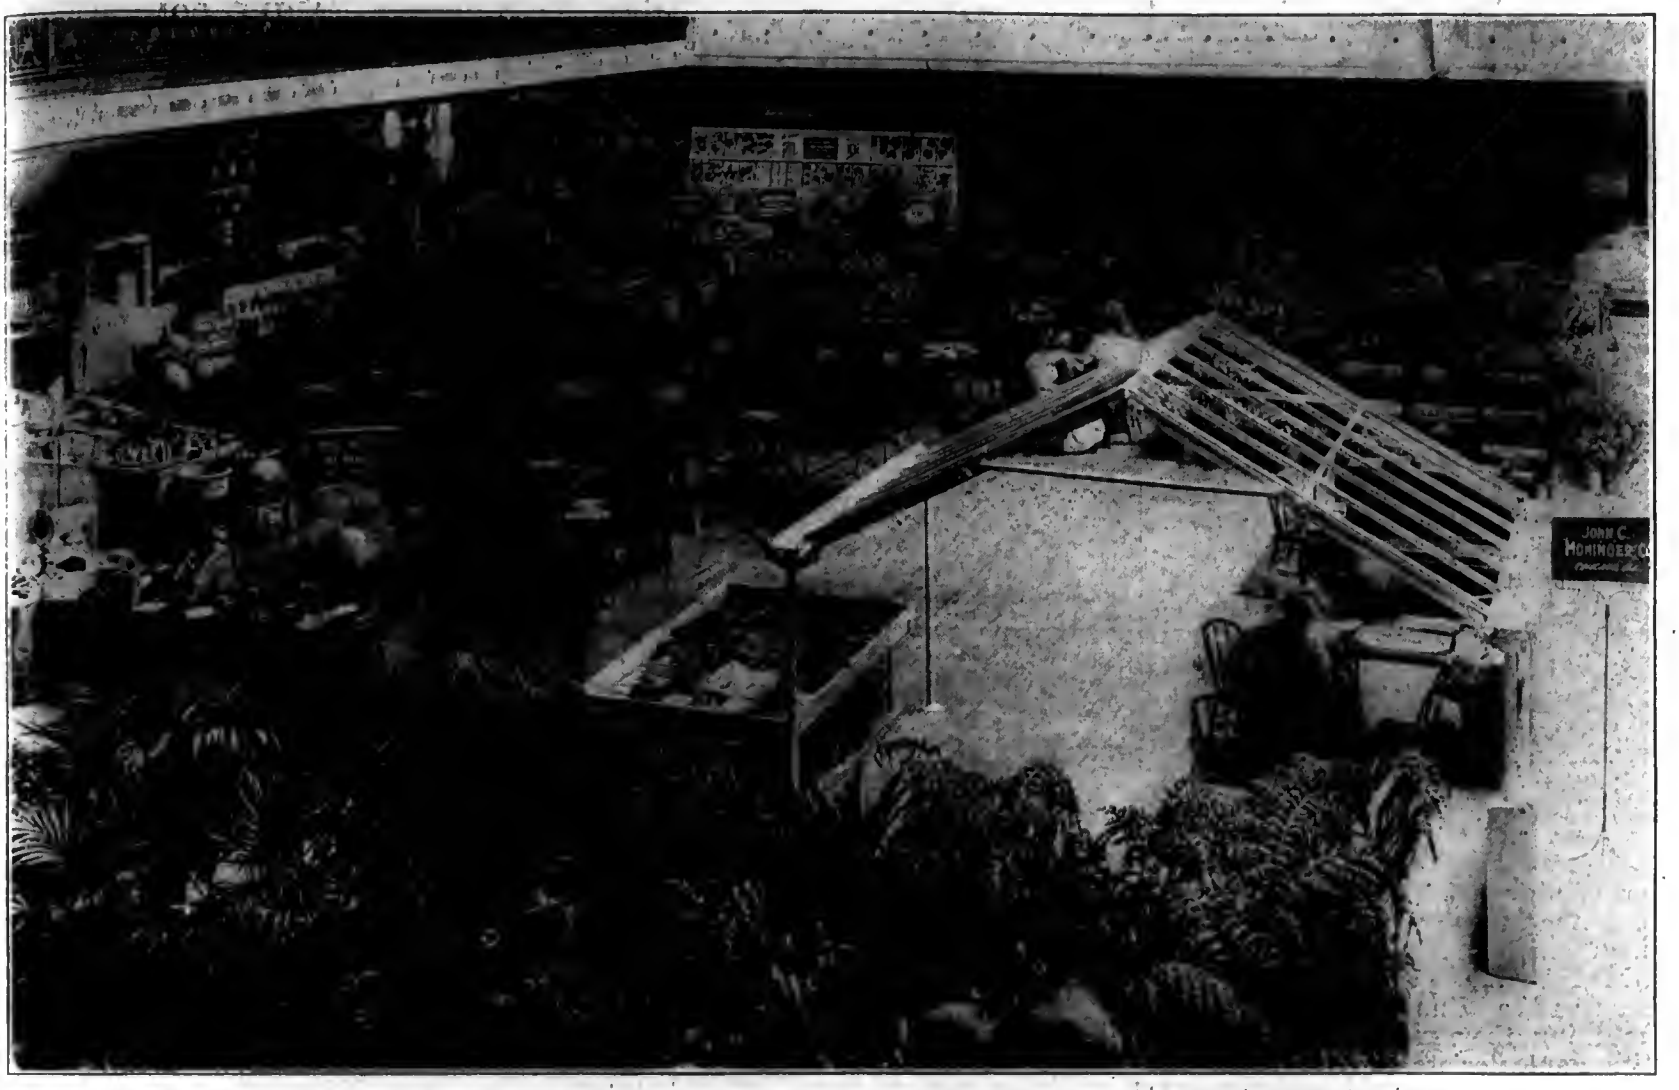
[The following is the report by Wm. F. Gude, chairman of the tariff and legislative committee, as presented at the Minneapolis convention, August 20, 1913.]

The tariff is always such a debatable question that no two florists, no two representatives and no two senators ever agree as to what the duty on a certain item should be. So, when we tried first to feel the pulse of the trade, we soon found that it would be inadvisable to work toward making duty changes, but, as the former tariff acts have contained so many absurdities and incorrect classifications, we decided to concentrate our energies toward having the rates clearly defined, so that one florist would not be required to pay twenty-five per cent duty while another florist in a different state got the same stock at fifteen per cent, or free of duty.

While it is necessary that the import duties upon florists' and nursery stock be large enough to furnish the proper amount of protection to American growers, it is of still greater importance that the rate of duty be clearly defined—and the same at all ports of entry.

A Letter to the Trade.

Early in April, the committee sent out the following letter, which was published in all the trade papers. Strange to say, there was hardly anyone heard from throughout the length and breadth of the United States, which led your committee to believe that, on the whole, the florists must be fairly well satisfied with conditions as they were.



April 16, 1913.

To all florists and horticulturists who have any suggestions to make as to what legislation, if any, they would like in the present tariff bill now before Congress: They should send in suggestions at once, if they have not already done so, to the chairman of the tariff committee of the S. A. F., Wm. F. Gude, 1214 F street, Washington, D. C., who is anxious and willing to do what he can to further the interests of the florists and horticulturists and members of the kindred organizations, but the members of the committee are at a loss what action to take until they can hear from the parties who would like the tariff raised or lowered on certain goods, as the case may be.

Errors in the Tariff Bill.

The tariff bill as reported out of the ways and means committee was full of absurdities, ambiguities and incorrect classifications; had it become a law as it then read, it would have involved the same amount of fraud, vexatious uncertainty and legal expense as in former tariffs. The same stock was dutiable at twenty-five per cent and twelve per cent; other stock was dutiable at $1 per thousand, also free. Hyacinth bulbs were rated as clumps. Greenhouse stock was dutiable at twenty-five per cent in Section 215, and at fifteen per cent in Section 216, while evergreen seedlings were rated free of duty, but no definition was made as to what evergreen seedlings really were.

To correct these absurdities and errors, we introduced in Congress eight amendments to the tariff bill, and while our friends were telling us we could not get them through, we had them passed by the Congressional committee in charge of Schedule G. When the corrected bill was printed, we found that four of our amendments had been mutilated in Congress, but we later had those four amendments corrected in the Senate committee, and the bill, containing our eight amendments, is likely to become a law in the near future.

Amendments to Tariff Bill.

These are the amendments:

No. 1. Section 215—The words "and all other decorative or greenhouse plants" are omitted. This will make orchids, palms, Azalea Indica and cut flowers dutiable at twenty-five per cent ad valorem, and all other greenhouse or nursery stock, not otherwise stated, at fifteen per cent ad valorem under Section 216. It will avoid disputes as to what is greenhouse stock or nursery stock.

No. 2. Section 215—The word "bulbs" is added after "hyacinths," dutiable at $2.50 per thousand bulbs.

No. 3. Section 215—The word "herbaceous" is prefixed to "peony." Some peonies, as Pæonia Moutan, are grafted shrubs and not bulbs and are dutiable at fifteen per cent ad valorem under Section 216, instead of $10 per thousand under Section 215.

No. 4. Section 215—Changed so as to read "all other roots, rootstocks, corms and tubers." This will aid in exact classification and avoid expensive disputes.
